* UMASS/AMHERST * * 312066 0333 3146 7

LIBRARY
M-S ANTHENS MASS.

HE AMERICAN FLORIST

America is "the Prow of the Messel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 5, 1898.

No. 505.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Copyright 1897, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, 324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.

Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from the trade.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

OFFICERS—WM. F. GUDE, Washington, D. C; president; A. DONAGHUE, Omaha, Nob., vice-president; W. J. STEWART, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass., secretary; H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer. 'The fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Omaha, Neb., August, 1838.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Chicago. February 17 and 18, 1898. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

Propagation of junious tillians to the second	- 11
Good market primulas (illus.)	i 1
Paris. Flower show preliminary premium lists	7.1
Plower show preliminary premium lists	7.1
Cattleya Triana, Lilian Ames Chatman (illus.)
Cattleya Itiana, milan vines charman	7.1
(11108.)	- 11
Carnation notes . Dutch nurseries (2 illus.)	71
Dutch purseries (2 illus.)	7.1
More about the blue margnerite	71
Boston	7.1
Boston.	71
New York	71
Philadelphia	71
Philadelphia Death of Mrs. Josephine Krick (portrait)	- ()
Toronto	71
Potash in the soil	7.1
Community inspection of nursery stock	7.1
Death of Mrs. Josephine Krick (parisar) Teronto . Potash in the soil Government inspection of nursery stock . Canadian horticultural association .	7.1
Carnation society convention	- 1
Carnation society convention	- 11
Japanese lily bulbs Crotons and agalyphas	- ()
Crotons and acalyphas
Rochester, N. Y. Sterilizing soil for destroying cel worms	- 75
Starilizing soil for destroying cel worms	7.3
Chinese	71
Chicago Chrysanthemums in low greenhouses	-
Chrysanthemums in low greenhouses	- 1
Cincinnati	1.7
Buffalo	- 0
Unt flower price lists received	- 7
Montreal	. 11
The good trade	71
Chrysanthemuns in low greenhouses Cincinnati Buffalo Cut flower price lists received Montreal The seed trade Ex-Secretary Morton on free seed distribution Newport, R. I. Floral belts Uttribute	1.75
EX-Secretary mortion on the second of the	7.
Newport, R. L	:
Floral belts	- 1-
Pittsburg
St. Paul	. :
Pittsburg. St. Paul St. Paul Indianapolis. Syracuse, N. Y. Chester county carmathon society.	. 11
Syraguso X V	. 77
After the county community society	1:
Carnation and violet cuttings	13
Cleveland. Park visits Buffalo. Conservatory notes.	- 11
Park visits Buffalo	- 11
Conservatory notes,	. 7
American grown bulbs
Williambarro Pa	- :
Wilkesbarre, Pa	- 11
Leaky gas mains	1
Helpful reminders	- 1
W. manuston Manus	2
What to do now
Samothing worth trying	, î
COMPUTED BUILD OF STREET

PATERSON, N. J.—Byron Halsted of New Brunswick will lecture before the Paterson Florists' Club on February 16, 1898

POT DAHLIA

Propagation of Dahlias.

Dahlias are propagated in several ways, by seed to secure new varieties, and by grafting, division of roots and cuttings, to reproduce and increase existing varie-

Raising new varieties from seed is per-haps the most interesting branch of dahlia culture. However, as it is so uncertain, and as the seedlings do not average up to the same standard as named varieties, thaffords greater pleasure than profit. The seeds if sown in the greenhouse in March, potted off and planted out in May, will bloom the same season. The seed can also be sown in a mild hotbed or manie

Grafting is another method of increasing varieties that is more interesting than remunerative. It is an excellent method for the amateur, where a new or rare variety is a poor propagator. Take a small or medium sized vigorous tuber and a young shoot of the variety you wish to graft. Cut the base of the shoot to wedge form, but with one side of the wedge thicker than the other, and an eye on the thick side, then cut the tuber to corresponding shape, but a trifle smaller, so as to slip in and make a good joint, pot off and place in a warm shaded place. If care and skill are used every graft should We usually graft a few each year grow. as a euriosities for our friends.

Division of roots is the simplest way of increasing a variety. It is best to have the eyes started slightly although an experienced person can readily distinguish the perfectly dormant eyes. eyes are on thecrown to which the tubers are attached, and not on the tubers, hence in dividing, care must be taken that a portion of the crown containing at least one eye remains attached to each tuber or clump of tubers. This is the original method of propagation, and still used almost exclusively by amateurs and many florists.

Propagation by cuttings is now mostly used by all who grow dahlias in any quantity. When this method is used too much stress cannot be laid upon the necessity of securing good healthy stock, free from disease, and true to name. This is at once apparent, for if the stock is weak or diseased the plants will lack strength, with a greater percentage of losses. That the stock must be true to name is of the greatest importance. Suppose you purchase ten roots of Nymphæa and one should be Oban. Oban propa-gates twice as fast as Nymphæa and out of 100 plants you would have a mixture of twenty Oban and eighty Nymphwa. If the variety was Frank Smith, and one Bird of Passage was mixed in, the result would be still more disastrous, as the latter makes five cuttings to one of the former. Having secured your stock it should be planted in rich soil in a greenhouse bench, with a night temperature of about 50 ; 45 is better than 55° if you are not in a hurry and want strong plants, but of course 60° night temperature can be used if you are in a hurry, although at the cost of vigor. Just barely cover the roots in planting. When the cuttings have made two to three pairs of leaves cut them off—some prefer sprouting—taking care that they are cut at the base of two eyes, and placed in sand in the cutting or propagating bench, with bottom heat of 55 to 60. They will root more quickly in greater heat, but will not be so strong. The length of time required in rooting depends on condition and size of cutting and the variety, and varies from ten days to four weeks, although the attention given has a great deal to do with it. The sooner the cuttings are potted off after being rooted the better, in fact we are so careful that the cuttings are all in the proper condition when struck that we pot off in about two weeks, whether they are rooted or not. Unless they have received some check, they are by that time either just rooting or ready to break.

The lower the plants are grown the better they will be; 45° to 50° is warm enough at night, although, thanks to a rugged constitution, a vigorous strong growing variety will stand anything from 34 to 100. The size of the pots does not matter, but it is better to use 2-inch and then shift up for strong plants.

Dahlia plants can be planted as soon as danger of frost is over, and the roots about two weeks earlier; which, in the vicinity of Philadelphia and New York, is about the first of May for plants and is about the mass ... middle of April for roots. S. K. Peacock.

Good Market Primulas.

The illustration shows section of a house of primulas at the place of the well known Chicago florist, Mr. A. McAdams, Most of the plants are in Linch pots, and some of them measure twenty inches across, carrying from one to six clusters of flowers. There is considerable variation in the foliage, and some of the fernleaved varieties are strikingly handsome. The flowers also vary very much, some fifteen distinct shades being represented. The blooms are of good substance, and measure from two to two and one-half inches in diameter.

The foreman, Mr. Joseph Reeves, has been at work on the strain for some time, selecting and improving the stock every year. He saves all the seed required for his own use from late sown plants, which bloom when the days are brighter, in March and April. These plants are grown on a north shelf quite close to the Seeds for the salable stock are sown during the first two weeks of June in flats containing leaf mold, and the seedlings are grown in this medium till they are finally shifted into tin or 5-in pots, when a stiff rose soil, with a good proportion of cow manure, is used, sifting the same to get rid of the very fine earth and removing all the coarse lumpy material.

The plants are shaded until September, and bloom from the holidays onward through January and the greater part of February. This treatment evidently suits them, and they appear to be of good size for commercial purposes.

Paris.

The first meeting of the National Horticultural Society was held vesterday, but having been devoted to the election of the officers it presented but little interest for the American reader. The attendance was small and only a few things were staged.

In the floricultural division the most noteworthy exhibit was some very large sized bracts of the crimson as also of a new yellowish white poinsettia shown by Mr. Pfatzer, the successful chrysanthe-mum and forced fruit grower, who exhibited a pinkish bracted poinsettia a few weeks ago. Mr. Pfatzer carried off a firstclass certificate for his exhibit.

Mr. Dugourd, the hellebore specialist, was awarded a second-class certificate for a collection of Christmas roses.

There were some fine plants of Cypripedium insigne Chantini, Cypripedium Niobe, Cypripedium Leeanum superbum (very fine), Odontoglossum Mirandum and Odontoglossum Andersonianum.

In the fruit section some splendid specimens of pears and apples were exhibited by Mr. Tassy.

In the vegetable division some good short roots of the Chinese yam were shown by Mr. Chappelier, who for ten years has been trying to obtain by sowing a much shorter yam which might be grown in shallower soils. The same party also exhibited a few roots of the Stachys Floridiana, which in appearance are not unlike a big white caterpillar, and of the well known Stachys suberifera.

A stroll through our largest flower market, the Quai aux fleurs, brings us in contact with the following pot plants:

١	zal	egi	٧.	W		rı	h	ť	ro	m	١.											10e	to	40	IXI
(':	cm	011	13	-																		$\mu_k.$		1	(KI
t i	hei	Fil	tı t	h	п	٠,	t '	`lı	P	ir	i,											Mies
١,	me	ra	ru	1																		10e	* 1		30
0	LTI	131	ю	'n	-				,									,		. ,		200	1.6		30
C.	vel	:11	ie	n			٠.							ď		٠,	٠.	٠.	٠.	Ċ		0%0	1.5		80
E	1111	di.	ČΠ	'n	п	Ü	1 r	o	110	a.	ľί	11	n		Ċ	·						396	* 1	1.5	HE rie																					Hie			40
H	e-[]	eb	or	ŭ,	4	ηi	12	e j	г													200			10
н	ob	40	.1	ha	Į,	ot	ii	٠,	ι.						٠,							300	• •		111
	111+																					()Se			20
	om																					D5e	٠.		111
ĥ	nai	nte	di	li	١.	ĺΙı	111	11	п	111	αi	11	111	11	ı.							fil)e		11	001
	the																					gne	1.		117
T.	riii	rg.	lar		cì	11 1	\	0	ď	ti	١.				i	Ĺ						$\mu_{h}.$			50
İŧ	ho	do	le	m	d	rii.	n.							•	ď		Ţ.	Ċ	Ċ	Ċ	Ĭ.	10c	* 4	- 1	00

ij	p:	,			,									30e 118e 15e		10 40
ij	p:	,			,									. 1	146	18 ₀ - 1 150 - 11

At the cut flower market of the Halles Centrales we find at present the following flowers:

HOWEIS.
Acacia (Mimosa) per Kilog from $	20 to $ 40	1
Anemones per 100 bunches "	1 00 " 4 0	d
Margnerites per 100 bunches "	1 00 " 3 0
Wallflowers common per 100 bunches.	1.00 " 2.0	Ó
" (selected from Paris). , .	12 11 2	Ġ
Lily of the Valley	15 " 3
Carnation, Marguerite, per doz	04 " 1	4
fancy " "	04 " 1 04 " 1	1
Eucalyptus globulus, per bunch	50	:
Ennatorium o o	10 5
Hyacinthus albulus " "	01 '' 0	S
Iris pumila corulea " "	05 1	ł
Narcissus per 100 bunches	1 00 " 3 0	ľ
Orange flowers per 100 bads	10  4	ľ
Rosa Ulrich Brunner per doz	20 8	(
22 Madaine Falcot 22 22	05 " 2	Į
 Mille, Marie Van Houtte per doz. 	20 11 4
" Marechal Niel " "	60  2 0
" Papa Gentier " "	20 '' 6	(
" Paul Nabonnand " "	15 '' 4
Paul Nevron (from Paris) per doz	60 5 0
" Safrano	01 0
" extra fine " "	15 " 2	•
" Sonvenir de la Malmaison " "	35 " 8
* La France 5 6	80 * 2 0
Ranunculus per bunch	03  - 0
Mignonette per 100 bunches	1 00 " 3 0
Forced Lilac (from Paris) per bunch	40  8
Snowballs	-40 ⋯ €
Violets large bunches	40  2 €	H
" medium sized bunches	40 11 2 6
" small bunches	60 9 1 (H
All those out flowers some	from th

All these cut flowers come from the Riviera or Southern France with the extion of the Cheiranthus Cheiri, lily of the valley, forced lilae and roses Paul Neyron. Cut flowers, in consequence of the rainy weather prevailing in the South of France, are plentiful on our markets and very cheap.

Up to the present time we have had very dull, hazy weather with very little frost, a state of things much dishked by our growers, who usually have to pay for it in March or April in the shape of distressing frosts. FRENCHEE.

January 14, 1898.

Flower Show Preliminary Premium Lists.

THE CHICAGO POINT OF VIEW.

That premium list from which the largest percentage of premiums offered is won, is, as a rule, the best premium list. This is subject to some modifications and exceptions, but in general governs the compiling of the list of the Chicago Horti-cultural Society. The premiums are offered to be competed for and won, and any which fail to draw out a competition are considered mistakes. The percentage of premiums won to those offered has gradually risen from below 70 to above 90.

The conditions in every city are different, and a list which will be a success in one city will be a failure in another. A careful study of the conditions existing in the territory tributary to Chicago is made. Any changes which indicate a possibility of drawing out exhibits in new lines is promptly recognized by new premiums

CATTLEYA TRIANÆ, LILIAN AMES CHATMAN.

As there are comparatively few extensive private establishments in or near Chicago, it is necessary to look to the commercial men, largely as exhibitors. Many of them are young men lately started in business, with limited capital and unable to go to the expense of preparing exhibits when the ultimate reward is principally glory. They want cash, and in consequence liberal premiums must be offered.

The work on this year's list began with last fall's show. A careful examination of the entries for the different premiums was made. Suggestions were invited from exhibitors and visitors. The officers and many of the members were constantly on the lookout for "weak spots" and new features. There are now in the hands of the secretary a large number of suggestions. Such as are feasible are embodied in the new list, others which are valuable but not practicable at the present time are carried over for next year. Such premiums as draw a large number of exhibits can safely be somewhat reduced in amount while others which do not draw sufficiently well, or in which the exhibits prove especially attractive are increased. Expenses are heavy and economy is necessary notwithstanding the large membership and liberal donations from members to the premium fund. A rental charge of nearly $1,000 for five days is a heavy one, especially as the halls heretofore used are so wretchedly inadequate that many other expenses are more than doubled in consequence.

It is not to be understood that the society at any time loses sight of the main object for which all such societies exist, that is, the encouragement of new productions and new methods. This is held steadily in view. It is not thought, however, that the keeping of dead premiums on the list does any good in this direction. The impossible of last year, however, becomes the possible of this year, and each year sees new features added to the list and drawing good competions, which if attempted a year or two sooner would have been failures.

Two classes of premiums are always offered, one class specifying artistic arrangement as the principal requirement, the other looking only to an exhibit of cultural skill. When best twelve blooms are specified they are judged solely as to the quality of the flower, stem and foliage. The question of artin staging or arranging is not considered, unless two exhibits are tied as to quality. When an arrangement for effect is specified, the quality of bloom is given less prominence and the skill in arranging practically decides the competition

Scales of points are adopted and published in the list and while the point system is a perennial subject for discussion and has been from a time to which the memory of man runneth not back, the fact that it is continued here indicates that it has worked satisfactorily.

W. N. R.

Cattleya Tríanae, Lilian Ames Chatman.

This lovely form of Cattleya Triana was one of a lot imported direct from Colombia and purchased by Oakes Ames, North Easton, Mass., sixteen months ago. Mr. Ames' gardener, Carl Blomberg, exhibited it, a small plant bearing two blooms, before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on January 15, 1898, and received a silver medal for it. The flower is pure white, except for a light purple rose blotch and orange yellow veining in the throat. As shown in the illustration, the petals are broad and erested, boldly recurving and the throat is very long and broad.

Carnations.

NOTES ON NEW VARIETIES.

Now is the time to see carnations at their best. The mid-winter crop of flowers were produced at the expense of the growth made out of doors; and taking into account the cheek consequent upon planting, and deficient sunlight, this crop is not as good as that made when the plants have thoroughly filled the new soil with roots and become in a condition to take nourishment. It is from this new growth that we get our exhibition blooms. From all that I can learn the forthcoming exhibition in Chicago will bring together the finest lot of flowers ever seen anywhere.

There is a vast difference between the old time varieties and the new ones, especially since disbudding has become universal. The standard set is high, but not too high. Ten years ago we did not have a variety which could produce flowers with a stem two feet long, and flowers measuring three inches across. We now have a score or more, in fact searcely any others are acceptable. Some one says, "There are too many seedlings," and that we cannot keep up with them, but we must. The florist who does not is left behind. Even if no advancement resulted, deterioration would follow so quickly, that new blood would become necessary to keep up the standard. Mr. Hill says rightly "Keep on raising seedlings." Once Grace Wilder was peerless, but in time this grand flower had to give place to William Scott, and now we have evidence that the days of the invincible Scott are numbereil. However, we borrow no trouble as mightier ones stand ready. Mrs. Fisher has had its day, even in the East, though it will be grown as a summer variety for some time, and for short stemmed flowers it has no equal in productiveness among its color. Lizzie Me-Gowan is secure where it succeeds. Flora-Hill is grand, but lacks a trifle in stiffness early in the season. We are pleased with Freedom, though aware of its lack of petalage. It is pure in color, healthy and productive. Its habit is stiff, wiry, scarcely needing support. Thave it crossed with William Scott, and have used its pollen upon Mrs. Bradt. I further intended the reverse cross, but have not succeeded in obtaining pollen.

The composition of the soil is a factor in the cultivation of carnations which is not sufficiently taken into account, though it has been the experience of all that the same conditions of soil, and even thermal conditions, do not do for all, and no variety known to be good under certain treatment should be condemned because it will not bend to ours. Rather we should endeavor to find what its special wants are, and meet them. I need not go through the list of varieties which succeed here and tail there, such instances are in the minds of all growers. But just one: Our success with Ferdinand Mangold has occasioned surprise, and some acquaintances who have condemned it will now try to grow it as we do, in a light soil, also kept on the dry side. These thoughts came to me when considering the chances of our obtaining a good *carlet-one which will stand in the position William Scott has among pink flowered varieties. We have Jubilee, but it is not everybody's carnation, though undoubtedly grand where it succeeds, with no fault but one. Then we have Portia, which we shall not discard yet awhile and Hector has many admirers.

Hereabouts we have two looking for tayor "Roo Ton" and "Wellesley". The former I have not had the pleasure of seeing in growth. As shown at the New England Florists. Cornation meeting it was decidedly superior as an exhibition variety. For what reason I do not know Tailby's 'Wellesley' did not look its best Ennicipate however, that the last named will make a splendid roord as it has every good quality to commend it. has an excellent constitution, juic in color and tree beyond comparison. It is the result of a double cross Porting Horence, and progeny v. E. G. Hill Hisher's "Morning Star" is a very pretty white, and extremely floriferous, though not large in size. Mrs. Thos. Lawson, Peter Fisher's new salmon rose is the ideal of a careful and experienced hybridist. In spite of its free blooming qualities, it is safe to say "Nivea" will not stay with us long. Its ungainly habit alone condemns it. Those who practice summer culture indoors might give it a trial. C. A. Dana is a charming shade of delicate rose, but altogether too inconstant to become profitable. The same may be said of White Scott, while Edith Foster is spoken of highly. Mrs. Bradt gets nothing but praise. It is a hold and well-contrasted flower, not with faint pencilings, but bright lines. Scarlet sports of it have appeared in several places. If they could be held true, they would be valuable. Victor is fine, just a deeply tinted Daybreak. Thos. Cartledge though not new is becoming popular. Mr. Nicholson of Framingham, Mass., speaks very highly of Abundance, which has been condemned in some quarters for lack of stem. There can be no complaint on this score, as we saw it with him. Eldorado is unequaled so far among yellows, but subject to rust. Mr. Nicholson has Gold Nugget on trial, which promises to be fine. The flower and stem'is all that could be wished.

T. D. H. many claim that it does not pay to take so much trouble with the plants; but it will be found in most eases that these little things become vital points where it is desired to keep any plant up to the standard.

Why is it that with some growers we find the varieties, Daybreak and Wm. Scott in perfect health and scarcely a rogue among them, while with others the same stock contains quite a large percentage of unhealthy plants, producing inferior flowers, all the plants coming originally from the same source? There must be neglect somewhere, and it is not always in the soil. In the varieties Mayor Pingree and Flora Hill I have also noticed a number of the plants showing "the yellows," and every flower either malformed or of poor color. The two latter varieties have proven here to be remarkable improvements in their respective colors. Nearly all the yellow varieties sent out have been, at some time or other, under my earc, and I have seen none to approach Pingree as it is treated at this place. It will take a fine yellow to beat this variety when it is well done, and it is of the easiest culture and free from rust. The same may be said of Flora Hill which, though a little weak of stem, is far ahead of any white variety grown

WHERE THE DUTCH RAISE PLANTS.

Carnation Notes.

Too much care cannot be exercised in the selection of material for cuttings, especially with the variety Jubilee. number of the plants produce nothing but single flowers all through the season, while in others the blooms come strenky or of a poor color. It is so much labor lost and good room wasted to propagate from stock of this character. I have not come across any variety that has the appearance of deteriorating more quickly than Jubilee if not handled properly. It is therefore a good scheme to have a few labels handy with which to mark the rogues as soon as they show themselves, and then they may be readily distinguished from the good stock in taking the cuttings. These apparently trilling matters are sometimes passed over by the growers as of little importance, and in this section so far. My experience with Mayor Pingree is that it requires a tolerably stift but porous soil, delights in ample watering, and requires a night temperature of about 55°.

Sharp watch should now be kept on the green fly, which multiplies rapidly if not repeatedly checked. This insect is not repeatedly checked. This insect is very hard to dislodge when it once gets down into the young growth.

Dutch Nurseries.

Two weeks ago we published an abstract of a lecture on Holland," delivered bef "Horticulture in delivered before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society by Mr. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston. Through this gentleman's kindness we are enabled to reproduce in this issue some pictures of unrecries in that country. The Dutch nurseries have long been famous, and those of our readers who handle imported stock will doubtless be interested in the source of a large proportion of it.

More About the Blue Marguerite.

This ever-cheerful little plant, Agathæa cælestis, the subject of a sketch in a recent number of the AMERICAN FLORIST seems to have fallen into undeserved obscurity of late years. It has never been so well known among florists as its merits would warrant, but it was highly prized among private gardeners some few years back.

It presents many claims for popularity with the discriminating floral fraternity, among which are its charming color, its long and wiry stems, and pre-eminently its free and continuous flowering habit, blooming as it does, the whole year round. The ideal temperature for winter flowering is from 55° to 58°. The material used for potting should be on the light rather than the heavy and retentive side to accomplish which there is nothing better than a liberal use of leaf mold. Cuttings put in the sand bed in the latter part of February or early March and carefully attended to, ought to be large enough by late fall to occupy at their final potting a 6 or 7-inch pot, in which sizes they look best for decorative or gift plant purposes.

It may be interesting to state that in the south of France the blue daisy grows outdoors all the year round and attains a height of four feet and an equal width; the native florists shear it over even in early spring in the same manner as the Hollanders do with azaleas.

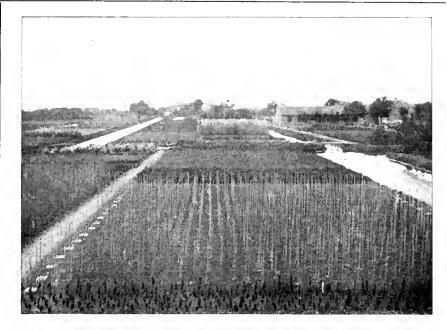

K. F.

Boston.

BOSTON HAS A BLIZZARD.—TRADE CONDITIONS IMPROVING.—DEMAND FOR AMERICAN REAUTY CANNOT BE ACCOMMODATED.
—FINE PRIMULA OBCONICA PLANTS.—MR.
DOOGUE'S LATEST TROUBLE.—A GOOD SCARLET CARNATION.—LOCAL NOTES.

Boston's sensation, at present, is a blizzard; a fairly vigorous one, too, according to our thinking. We have heard considerable about these functions elsewhere and have sometimes felt a little jealous of those localities where blizzards are made while you wait, but now we have one of our own and it occupies our attention to the exclusion of everything else, flower business included. As these notes are being penned the railroads are buried deep in snow and whether they will ever reach Chicago is very doubtful. Trolley, telegraph and telephone wires are down and the flowers, if there are any on the bushes, will stay there for today, at least, as there is no way to get them to market, but this is no great privation since the flower buyers are in the same predicament and cannot get to market either, and flowers without buyers are as impotent as buyers without flowers

All this comes at an inopportune time, for a most agreeable activity has been developed during the past few days, a sort of reminiscence of the good old times when the buyer was the suppliant and the grower or wholesaler could afford to stand his ground, and under average conditions the good thing might reasonably be expected to continue until Lent should come in. It is noticeable, however, that the demand, while red-hot on certain specialties, is rather weak outside of those lines, so although the telegraph boys have resumed their long-neglected route among the wholesale establishments and the retailers have adopted for the time being a bearing of humility that is very becoming to them, yet a box of nice violets or lily of the valley is surveyed with exasperating indifference. It is not lily of the valley or violets they are seeking. American Beauty—that's what they want; American Beauty—that's what they cannot get, particularly the long-stemmed top grades. The poorer grades are accepted of necessity, but with very wry faces and very pertinent allusions to the ossified condition of the wholesalers' conscience. In passing, it is proper to note the bright color and general high quality of the Bridesmaids now coming to this market. This is a rose that seems to grow better every year; no retrogression about the Bridesmaid.

THE CANALS OF A DUTCH NURSERY.

A dozen pots of Primula obconica from John Barr, gardener to Mrs. B. P. Cheney, were the objects of much admiration at Horticultural Hall last Saturday. The individual blooms were of unusual size and fullness and the range of tints was remarkable. There are few prettier table plants than Primula obconica when well grown and it is to be regretted that an unreasonable prejudice as to its poisonous properties should have made it an outcast.

There has been a renewal of the controversy, which comes up annually in some form, as to the ability and fitness for his position of Superintendent Doogne of the Public Garden. The present cause is the action of Mayor Quincy in nominating C. E. Stratton of the Boston Park commission to serve as superintendent without pay. This is equivalent to giving the Park commission full control of all public squares, but is not regarded as meaning that Mr. Doogue is to be dispensed with or his salary reduced. Confirmation of the mayor's action by the aldermen is necessary and is not regarded as probable.

One of the most prominent of recent carnation introductions is Wellesley raised by J. Tailby & Son. It is just the color that all have been wishing for, a brilliant scarlet, vigorous and handsome and has had a thorough four years' test.

The firm of Magee & Tiernan, Chelsea, has been dissolved by mutual consent, and the business will be continued by J. E. Tiernan at the old stand.

E. Tiernan at the old stand.
Frank M. Bartram of Parry, N. J.,

delivered an interesting lecture on "Nuts, and nut culture," before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on January 29.

A meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club was to have been held on Tuesday evening, February 1, but the blizzard interposed an effectual veto.

John Devine, John Dunbar and W. A. Bock each had one house crushed in by weight of snow. The whole establishment of M. J. Aylward was ruined, and it will take seventy-five boxes of glass to repair the damage at Waban conservatories.

A few members of the "Old Guard" spent a pleasant evening at Mr. Edgar's on February 2.

Reports are coming in of many greenhouses more or less damaged by heavy weight of snow.

Visiting Boston: J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, Ont.

New York.

MORE SATISFACTORY MARKET CONDITIONS.
—COLORED ROSES, FANCY CARNATIONS,
ETC., IN BRISK DEMAND.—WHITE FLOWERS LESS DESIRABLE PROPERTY.—STORMY WEATHER SHORTENS RECEIPTS.—A SMALL DELEGATION FOR THE CARNATION MEETING.

Present market conditions offer the rare opportunity to write a favorable Seldom does it happen that the report. Seldom does it happen that the demand is so assertive and the good stock finds so ready and willing a market with no surplus left to cut down the dealers returns or embarrass the prospects of the next day's receipts. It cannot be said truthfully, however, that this fairly satisfactory condition is the result of a largely increased consumption of flowers; rather is it due to the heavy storms and howling weather that we have been treated to recently, which has reduced the production and which cannot be depended on for any permanency. It is also a fact that business is particularly good only in spots; while the bustle is encouraging, and the aggregate value of sales is most gratifying yet the proceeds will go mainly to the growers of American Beauty, Meteor and Bridesmaid roses, and that part of the sales book devoted to the Brides and white flowers in general presents a strong resemblance to the pages of the past month. Excepting in the case of the limited quantity of extra fancy lily of the valley coming in this flower continues to drag badly. Violets are infull supply and only superb blooms can be expected to touch the dollar mark. Carnations, fancy grades go lively; inferior grades move slowly. Tulips steady. Heavy receipts of vellow narcissuses in the various market sorts have been coming in and prices are off, especially on large lots when the dealer is fortunate enough to find an opening for such. Smilax shortening up in quantity and prices better. Asparagus not up to the mark in quality.

The representation from this vicinity going to the carnation meeting in Chicago is not likely to be large; very few can be found who express an intention to go, but many there are who say they "wish they could."

Club dinner tickets for February 26 are selling well.

Johnnie Weir has been celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedding this week. Johnnie never does things by halves, especially where his better half is interested, and the host of friends who attended the function are recovering

Philadelphia.

STOCK SHORT. - MEETING OF THE FLORISTS' CLUB.-PAPER ON POT PLANTS FOR THE HOLIDAYS. --- ANOTHER CHEAP PARM SALE.

We notice that accounts of the weather in last week's columns from the various horticultural centers all agree; twas bad everywhere, and as misery loves company we are in a measure satisfied. The thermometer registered six above zero this (Wednesday) morning, but as the day was bright and clear the effect on stock will be good.

Flowers, particulary roses, are still scarce, and prices remain about the same as last week. There seem to be no hybrids to help out, as was the case in former seasons. Hybrid forcing has of late years been such risky business that most growers have given it up entirely or grow but few.

Bulbous stock is now quite plentiful. Double dattodils are to be had in quantity at $5 per hundred. Harris is sending some nice Golden Spur, which sell well at Tulips are quite equal to the demand at $1 The carnation crop has shortened up a bit, and there is a good demand for all that comes in at $1.50 to $2.50 for the best, a few extras bringing $3.

Victor is showing up in grand style, and will be planted largely next season. Grace Wilder was queen of the pinks for a long time, conquering many "just as good or better," Linds that tried to de-throne her, hually Wm. Scott succeeded to the kingdom, and has reigned triumphant ever since. It looks now, however, as if the victor had come. We are sorry tor William, but every dog has his day, and his memory will ever remain the levely pank that he was.

Violets seem quite abundant and the price has weakened a bit, $1 is now high, and the quality must be good (that is for our standard here to command it.

Rod Ersenhart of double violet tame. says, in speaking of the Klondike (growers let their name's run in that direction occasionally) that he would rather stay home and gross violets than go up there. and dig for gold. We have thought as much for a long time. There are others besides. Mr. Lisenhart, who have little Klondikes of their own, and don't want anything better. Among the beauty. growers it is said the dirt pays out very rich, as neigh as $100 to $200 being realized from the first early morning gleanings

The February meeting of the Florists' Club was not very well attended. There was quite a nice show of carnations, some promising seedlings being among them. C. M. Fick has a fine large white, some of the flowers being three and one-half inches in diameter; it has a fine long heavy stem and appears to be a good thing. Another beautifully fringed white is very pleasing. A full fringed Daybreak pink named Laura E. Doty promises well.

John Kulins, of Fifth and Tabor streets, had a few seedlings, the best being a fine flower a few shades darker than Daybreak; this looked well.

Mand Adams, a fine large, long stiff stemmed flower of a pleasing salmon scarlet, as it appeared at night, attracted much attention; it is apparently a comer.

A vase of Evelina by R. Witterstactter, of Cincinnati, was in good form, having earried the long distance well.

F. Doerner & Sons Co. sent a vase of White Cloud, which is a fine flower and received considerable attention.

The next meeting of the club has for its central issue, "The Lily, Its Disease and What are We Going to Do About It?" Mr. Harris is to open the subject, which by all concerned, from seedsmen who supply the bulbs to growers and retail men, is considered of vital importance. Mr. Harris stated that he had thrown out about half the bulbs started and expected to have to throw out about half of those he had left. The disease develops as the bulbs grow, and is much more prevalent this year than ever before. Lilies may sell for more than 10 cents a flower the coming Easter.

The ladies' reception of the club is blossoming out into a grand affair, and promises to be the swell event of the season among the eraft.

John Westcott's paper, the event of the meeting, was read by Mr. Rust; it was on pot plants for the Christmas holidays, and contained a very complete list. It was directed to be published, and he received the thanks of the elub.

Another cheap palm sale is soon to take place at Wanamaker's. A nice areca in a 6-inch pot, or rather three plants to a pot, fifteen leaves three feet high, eighteen months old, has been offered there for 40 cents. We believe they are to offer a jardiniere and plant together for $1. If this pays the grower there must be money in palms at twice this figure, the regular wholesale price

Death of Mrs. Josephine Krick.

Mrs. Josephine Krick, widow of George Krick, died January 30, of pneumonia, after a short illness. Mrs. Krick was an old settler in Chicago, having come here with her husband over thirty five years ago. Mr. Krick was engaged in landscape gardening for a number of years; he executed several large contracts, one of which was furnishing trees for Lincoln Park. Soon after the war Mr. Krick built greenhouses on Division street, and started in the florist business. After building the greenhouses his time became so taken up with other business that he could not attend to them. He gave them, together with the florist business to his wife, who managed it for over twenty years with remarkable skill and shrewd-

In October, 1871, she had the green houses on Division Street, and also on some land which she had bought on Dearborn avenue. The great fire of that year swept everything away. The greenhouses on Dearborn avenue were rebuilt before winter set in. In the spring of 1873 Mrs. Krick had a small conservatory about 10x14 feet built near the corner of Randolph and State streets, where Central Music Hall now stands and started to build up a retail trade in the central part of the city. Mrs. Krick conducted this business for over eighteen years, devoting her whole time to it. This business has been on practically the same spot for over twenty-five years. While the music hall was being built, temporary quarters were secured in one of the stores a few doors south; as soon as the building was completed it was moved back to the place where it was first started.

THE LATE, MRS JOSEPHINE KRICK.

About six years ago Andrew Miller secured an interest in the business and assumed the management, the name being changed to the Central Floral Co. Three years ago Mrs. Krick disposed of her remaining interest in the business.

An amendment to the law was passed at the session of the local legislature just closed, empowering park officials to trim or remove trees on the streets of the city, with or without the consent of persons opposite whose property said trees may be standing. As most of the trees on the streets of this city have been planted by the property owners, and have been earefully watched and tended in some cases for many years, it is to be feared that some friction will result when the woodman with his axe begins removing what he may consider objectionable trees. It is a question with two sides.

Mn wy kee.—The announcement in the last issue of the American Florist, of the coming marriage of Mary A. Me-Kenney to F. B. Davis, of Milwankee, was without due anthority. There was also a misrepresentation of business facts in stating that Mr. Davis was employed as cashier by Miss McKenney. Miss Me-Kenney has for more than a year been associated with Mr. Davis as a partner in the business which has been conducted under the firm name of M. A. McKenney & Co. C. B. WHITNALL.

The American Florist

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Ag $1.00 per inch. Cash with Order No Special Position Guaranteed. Discounts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

The Advertising Department of the AMERICAN FLORIST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in wares pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted. Advertisements must reach us by Weitnesday to secure insertion in the issue for the following Saturday. Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

Potash in the Soil.

An article in the last issue of the AMERI-CAN FLORIST suggests the use of muriate of potash in place of wood ashes on account of its cheapness, considering the amount of potash it contains. Muriate of potash is nearly one-half potash, while wood ashes ordinarily contain considerably less than 10%.

The florist should be cautious in the use of this chemical in place of wood ashes. Even for farm crops the muriatic acid which it contains, when set free by decomposition, has in some cases, been found injurious. The element of cheapness, within reasonable limits, is of very little importance to the florist, when compared with safety and availability. Wood ashes are a safe furtilizer and are no experiment, while we believe the other has not been so carefully tested on roses, carnations, etc., under glass as to render it safe for general use,

Wood ashes contain a large proportion of lime in a very available form, and a small percentage of phosphorus also. Phosphorus is necessary for all crops, and lime is of especial value in many soils.

In using wood ashes it should be borne in mind that any substance containing lime in an active form will, if mixed with ground bone, set the ammonia in the latter free, to escape as a gas and be lost. Nitrogen is an element of ammonia and the most costly of the essential ingredients of fertilizers.

A prominent firm has recently advised a mixture of wood ashes and bone meal as a top dressing for lawns. What a sad waste of a large part of the most valuable element in the bone!

A LATE REPORT of the Department of Agriculture places the amount paid out in salaries by this department at $1,867,-980 per annum. Recent agitation shows what the seedsmen get in benefits from this vast sum. Nursery interests receive some attention, but where do the florists come in? A careful perusal of the last annual report of the secretary fails to answer the question. If there is one office boy out of this array of employes whose time is devoted exclusively to floricul-tural matters, the fact is not made prominent. Perhaps the War Department has charge of this branch. The Washington florists may be able to tell us.

Government Inspection of Nursery Stock.

A bill has lately been introduced into the United States Senate providing for the inspection of nursery stock. Section three, of the bill reads as follows:

That all trees, plants, shrubs, vines and buds, commonly known as nursery stock, grown within the United States, may become subjects of interstate commerce under the rules and regulations as hereinafter provided. The Secretary of Agriculture shall cause to be inspected by a qualified entomologist all trees, plants, shrubs, vines and buds, known as nursery stock, which are subjects of interstate commerce, and which are about to be transported from one State or Territory or the District of Columbia into another State or Territory or the District of Columbia. This examination shall be made prior to September first of each year, in the manner provided for and prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture; and if such nursery stock is found to be apparently free from dangerously injurious insects or diseases, the certificate of the officer making such examination and finding shall be issued to the owner or owners of such nursery stock, a copy of which certificate shall be attached to and accompany each carload, box, bale or package, and when so attached and accompanying shall operate to release all such nursery stock from further inspection, quarantine, or restriction in interstate commerce.

The bill further prohibits the interstate transportation (by mail or otherwise) of any uninspected stock.

The question of certificates and legislative action looking to the compulsory inspection of such stock has been very carefully considered by Mr. John B. Smith in a recent bulletin of the New Jersey Experiment Station. Mr. Smith

Jersey Experiment Station. Mr. Smith says:

* certificates are liable to be misused, and that no examination of a nursery can be sufficiently thorough to make it safe to say that any particular scale or plant disease is not present.

In one case at least infested stock has been sent to Ohio from New Jersey, bearing my certificate. The stock was such as was not grown in the nursery from which it was sent, and I have reason to believe that my certificate was put on everything sent out from that nursery, no matter where grown or whether seen by me of not.

Let us look at the matter a little closer, and see what giving a certificate of actual freedom involves. In one nursery in New Jersey there are to-day something like 2,500,000 peach trees, of which 750,000 are ready for sale this year. Several other nurseries have from 250,000 to 500,000 trees ready for sale. Plant a conscientions entomologist is a block of 500,000 trees, and require him to certify that no San Jose scale is present. Assume that he will have examined 600 trees in one day, and will require over 800 working days before heem say that no San Jose scale is present. Compel him to certify also to yellows, rosette and other dangerous insects and plant diseases, and the absurdity becomes the greater.

I have little sympathy with the effort to control insects by law because experience has shown that unless legislation has public opinion behind it little benefit will be derived.

Mr. Smith's bulletin is a complete demonstration of the absurdity, almost

Mr. Smith's bulletin is a complete demonstration of the absurdity, almost criminal, of this bill. It would seem that about the only results would be the spending of a large number of Uncle Sam's dollars in order to hamper and harass the trade, without the slightest possible chance of checking the spread of fungus or parasitic diseases.

The bill as presented is so loosely drawn as to be of no value in any event. It does not provide for the inspection of a whole nursery, but only of such stock in the nursery as is "about to be transported, etc.," and that, prior to September first of each year. In a nutshell it provides for inspection which does not inspect. Perhaps, however, we have mistaken the true intent of the bill and that it is only designed to nullify some of the noxious state regulations lately passed. If that is the case, it is a poor way of attaining a good object.

Canadian Horticultural Association.

A meeting is called for February 10, at 9:30 a. m. in St. George's Hall, Elm street, Toronto, Ont., for the following objects: 1. The completion of the organization of an association of Canadian florists, horticulturists and gardeners. The adoption of the proposed constitution and by-laws. 3. The election of officers and the executive committee for the year 1898. 4. The incorporation of said association. The officers pro tem are Wm. Gammage, London, president: J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, treasurer; and Hugh C. McLean, St. Thomas, secretary. A large attendance is earnestly requested.

Carnation Society Convention.

Mr. P. J. Hauswirth, 318 Wabash avenue, chairman of the committee of arrangements for the American Carnation Society Convention, will have rooms at the hotel reserved for those requesting it. He asks that correspondents be particular to say whether American or European plan is desired, and if the latter what priced rooms.

The reduced rates on American plan are $3 per day (with meals) on the European plan (no meals) the rates are from $1.50 per day upwards. It is desired that as many as possible stop at the Auditorium. The hotel is one of the finest in the land; very low rates have been granted; the halls for meetings and exhibitions have been given free, all of which favors should be considered.

Japanese Lily Bulbs.

Ed. Am. Florist:-We read a notice in your last number under the heading, "Disease of Japanese Lily Bulbs," and would like to say a word or two about this subject, because we believe we know a little more about it than anybody else.

Our Mr. Bunzo Suzuki bought a lot of Harrisii bulbs three years ago to have them tried in Japan. Being well aware that part of the Bermuda bulbs are affected by disease, strict orders were given to our Yokohama house to destroy every plant that should show the slightest sign of disease, but to our great surprise every plant looked as healthy as our own Japanese longiflorum stock. This year we exported the first thousand hulbs to the United States, and they are forced by two expert growers who report that the plants are looking very fine and healthy, decidedly just as well as the best Bermuda. There is no fear that the Bermuda disease might be disseminated in Japan, and no sign of such a disease was ever seen in Japan.

As this question was brought up in your paper we would be much obliged would you kindly rectify the above mentioned notice. Suzuki & Iida.

Crotons and Acalyphas. BEST BEDDING VARIETIES.

"Croton Crank" wishes us to name the five best crotons, and the five best acalyphas for bedding.

1 know of no better crotons for bedding than Baron James Rothschild, Queen Victoria, Andreanum, Day Spring, Weismanii.

Acalyphas: Macafeeana, Marginata, Mosaica, Obovata, Triumphant, the latter is probably the best of the lot, especially in the matter of rich coloring.

ROBT, CRAIG.

GALT, ONT .- The annual meeting of the Galt Horticultural Society was held recently. The officers report excellent conditions. There are 116 members. following officers were elected: President, H. Spencer Howard; first vice-president, John Wells; second vice-president, Jesse Welland; secretary, Mr. Colvin; treasurer, R. Baird.

Elmira, N. Y.—A call has been sent out for a meeting looking to the organization of a horticultural society. Prospects seem good for a flower show this fall.

Springfield, Mass.-W. F. Gale has been appointed city forester by Mayor Dickinson

Rochester, N. Y.

The attendance at the annual convention of the Western New York Horticul-tural Society on January 26 and 27 was considerably larger than at any time durits forty-three years of existence. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity with interested listeners from all parts of the state, when President W. C. Barry opened the morning session on the first day, calling the meeting to order in a brief manner. His regular annual address was entirely omitted this year, because there was too much business on hand. All the speakers were prominent and experienced men in horticultural affairs, among them being Director I. P. Roberts, Entomologist M. V. Slingerland, Prof. Duggar, plant pathologist, and Mr. Surface, all from Cornell University. Ithaca, tace, all from Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. The Geneva experiment station was represented by Director W. H. Jordan, entomologist V. H. Lowe, chemist L. L. Van Slyke; the horticulturalists S. A. Beach, W. Paddock and C. P. Close and Mr. W. P. Barnes, head man of their greenhouse department. Prof. W. B. Alwood of the Virginia experiment station, read the first paper, "Results of two years experiments with San Jose scale." "Facts about the enemies of fruit trees," was the next treatise read by Prof. Slingerland, who also gave us a unique lecture on "Bugs, from a bug standpoint" in the evening. "Our public schools and horticulture" was the theme of George T. Powell from Glient, N. V. "The Pan-American exposition on Cayuga Island in 1809," by R. C. Hill. "The removal of various institutions to the country and preparing the inmates for rural occupations, rather than to keep them in the cities," was advocated was advocated by Mr. Van Deman in a lengthy speech. The second day's session was opened with a talk on "Plant food" by Dr. L. L. Van Slyke; Mr. W. T. Mann of Barkers, N. Y., followed on "Experiments with various fertilizers;" Director W. H. Jordan spoke on food values of fruits and Director I. P. Roberts closed the forenoon session with "Questioning the soil." Informal discussions were now indulged in while the fruit exhibits were examined in the adjoining room, where the tables were loaded with most attractive specimen fruits ingreat variety. Most of these came from the Geneva experiment station and the Ellwanger & Barry nurseries. A very large collection of apples, 185 varieties, were exhibited by the Geneva people, and Messrs. Ellwanger & Barry made a most creditable display with finest winter pears, apples and a large collection of grapes in excellent state of preservation. Mrs P. Barry also showed six varieties or hothouse grapes, grown in her private vmery. The bunches were extra large and well formed and not a damaged or decayed berry could be found in them. The afternoon session was made interesting by talls on "Plant diseases" by W. Paddock the report on "Vegetables" by Mr. 1. Franke, Frondequoit, N. Y., and a carefully prepared paper, read by Mr. John Daubar of our parts, on "Ornamental trees and shrubs," which was listened to with greatest attentiveness and highly approvated by all nurserymen in the audience. Mr. Van Deman, of Virginia, gave us hints on 'How to treat an old orchard", Mr. Paddock startled the hearers by stating that some more new plant. diseases had been discovered in the past year and that not much is known about them as set, nor has any remedy been found for the prevention of ravages enused. by these new pests. The contents of the question box were now discussed, one slip after another came out and it was late when the huge congregation dispersed for another year, all being well pleased with what knowledge they had gained by attending the meeting of the J. B. K. old society.

Greenville, O.—James Frost lost nearly 800 square feet of glass on Janu-ary 25 by hail. Insured in the Florists' Hail Association.

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE.

Advertisements under this head will be inserted at the rate of 10 cents a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accompany order. Plant advs. not admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the AMERICAN FLORIST for the year 1838 will receive on request, a coopon for one five line want "adv." free, to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED-By a first-classrose grower: 15 years' experience. Good references. Address D W, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By a competent store man, Slate with Freidman; reference given by Chicago wholesale florists. R.A., care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By an A No. 1 manager of wholesale or retail store; twelve years' experience in prominent cities. Correspondence solicited G, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By experienced gardener and florist (Scotch) to take full charge of private place; best of references married, age 3: W S, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By A·1 general cuttlower grower; good decorntor. Recommendations furnished; German Americaa; 30 years old. Address V(G), care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED - By nn experienced gardener and florist, to take charge of private or commercial place; age 38, married. Best of references. CHICAGO care American Florist.

SITI'ATION WANTED-By first-class rose, carna-tion and violet grower, married, no children; reference given. Address TRE MUNCIE FLORAL CO., Muncie, Ind.

O'ITUATION WANTED—By young man to learn the florist trade; sober and reliable; state terms. Address W. C. GREGORY. Box 22, Markham P. O., Ontarlo, Caoada.

SITUATION WANTED — a competent seedsman wants situation with a reliable seed house; can speak Dutch, German or English; correspondence solicited.

II. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED -As foremen in large cut flower establishment by an Al rose grower, 24 years' experience; 12 years as foremen in large places. Best references. Address GROWER, care American Florist.

STITIATION WANTED By practical fierlst of 17 years experience, good cut flower grower, roses, carnations, etc. Competent to take charge; would work on shares. Reference and bond given. Address Reliable, care American Florist.

STUATION WANTED By single man, see 25, as accord man or to take charge of small place; good grower of cut flowers and bedding plants, steady and reliable; disengaged March Ist. Address R. L. care American Florist, Chicago.

DITUATION WANTED—As foremin by practical florist and grower; specialty No. 1 roses, carnations, minus, violets, general stock, etc. Now disengaged, age 38. Best references. Address W.H., care 164 E. Main St., Alliance, Oldo.

OPPLATION WANTED By florist and gardener, Derivate or commercial; good grower of roses, carnations, violets, mums and general stock; also all kitchen garden grapuries, etc. Address GAN, care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED As foremen with some refined party by a practical grower of roses, carmations violets, minus, palms, terms and general stock, foreign of bulbs, a life abgerlence; references of K. Address FOREMAN, care American Florist.

OTTLATION WANTED—As first-class florist, young of German: understands thoroughly krowing of cut flowers, all kinds of general stock, good hand at carpet bedding formeral dedgins, 12 years experience, and can furnish host of reference; would like to make a change this spring, good place and wages expected.

J. B., care American Florist.

STITUATION WANTED As foreman in cut flower establishment, mostly roses and carnations: must be up to date in conveniences, by all round man, sin gie Aberlean nins years' experience; don't use to larce of drink, west preferred, good wages nepeted. Referencess 240 Cottage Grove Ave., Des Moines Ia, OTITATION WANTED. As foreman or manager in a large commercial place by a Brate-has grower of roses carinations mains and general stock. His caperience, matricel, age 3c, has been foreman in large establishments for the past ten years, only reliable parties who wish a first-class man meed answer, best of refers nees. Address.

HOSE GROWER, care American Florist

WANTED—Catalogues of rose growers. Address
DAVID MCGEORGE, Galt, Ont., Canada

WANTED-Catalogues of the trade.
EDWARD MULICK, Grand Rapids, Mich.

WANTED-The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amsger. Address L. Jensen, South Butte, Mont.

 $\begin{array}{c} W^{\rm ANTED-Al\ grower\ of\ cut\ tlowers\ and\ general} \\ {\rm stock.\ In\ writing\ please\ state\ experience,\ wages} \\ {\rm expected\ and\ references:\ no\ drinklog\ men\ need\ apply.} \\ Y^{\rm ORK},\ \ {\rm care\ American\ Florist.} \end{array}$

WANTED-A competent man for cot flower de-partment and making up floral designs and bou quet work; also one that understands decorating and general greenhouse work. Apply CHARLESTON GREENHOUSES, 309 Meetlog St., Charleston, S. C.

WANTED-Foreman on commercial place, Callfornia; must be experienced in handling men; with unquestionable knowledge of propagating and growing, both inside and out: competent to take charge. Good habits and best of references. Address CARNATION, care American Florist, WANTED-Young man thoroughly experienced in the best class of retail florist business; most be first-class in window, table and wedding decoration, nlso design work—Apply with references, ability, etc., stating wages expected. J. H. DUNLOP, 445 Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

FOR SALE—One Alaska refrigerator in first-class condition.

JOHN H. ORTH & CO., McKeesport, Pa.

POR SALE—Retail florist store, stock and fixtures—established trade, good location—on account of health, at a sacrifice.

OBN, 642 Marshall St., Philadelphia.

FOR RENT-Seven greenhouses, stocked: dwelling and land, steam best; convenient for Baltimore wholesale market, and fair local trade. Address MARYLANO, care American Florist.

FOR SALE-Greenhouse plant of 5,000 feet of glass in Jamestown, N. D; price $1,500; ½ cash, belance may be paid in cut flowers. Address W. W. SEEKINS, 221 E 3rd St., Deluth, Minn.

FOR RENT-Greenhouse. 6.000 feet of glass on Main street; street cars pass the door; store and dweling house connected with same place. 835 per month.
P. N. SOETGA, 1822 Cedar Ave., Cleveland, O.

P. N. SOETGA, 102 Cedar Arts. Control of the Post of glass in a rapidly growing western city of 40,000 people; hundreds of towns and villages with no greenhouses in surrounding country; greenhouses are well built, well stocked and have the largest trade here, which can be greatly extended; owner has other business that requires all his attention. Nowhere in America is there as better chance for a floriest with a little money than here. For full particulars address. "BUSINESS," care American Florist.

FOR SALE

or rent with privilege of buying—established green-house property coosisting of four houses shout 100x25 feet each; boiler house and pack rooms; 12-room mod-ern dwelling, two acres isnat; 10 miles from Philadel-phia, near R. R. station, stemm heat; splendid chance founds the state.

PIPE WANTED.

Second-hand Hitchings' or Wenthered's cast 4-inch pipe, 2,000 feet (or any part thereof). Give CASH price f. u, b.

J C. Statlon A, 79 Pine St., New Haven, Conn.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good investment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health

For particulars ELLIS & POLLWORTH, write Milwaukee, Wis.

Valuable Greenhouses FOR SALE

A Rare Opportunity-Seven Greenhouses in St. Louis County with or without stock, for sale cheap. Owner has other interests requiring all his attention. A bargain. For further particulars address

E. H. MICHEL.

Cure of St. Louis Cut Flower Co. .

1620 Olive St., - ST. LOUIS, 110.

Sterilizing Soil for Destroying Eel Worms.

Western Reserve asks how I construct my apparatus for this. In the first place the size of the boiler must be governed by the size of the compost heap, but it will be economy to have a boiler of ample size, as it is absolutely necessary to maintain 45 to 50 pounds pressure for 1½ to 2 hours at a time. Presuming that W. R. has 150 to 200 loads of compost to steam, I should advise him to have a boiler of at least 25 horse power with a liberal sized smoke-stack to cause a good draft. Set this low enough in the ground (covered in) to ensure all the condensed water returning freely to the boiler. This being done then proceed to build the bins to hold the soil; these should be about 12 note the soft, these should be about 12 inches deep and 3 to $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet wide and 12 to 16 feet long. The sides can be of heavy planks full width without a joint. Set posts solidly in the ground at about $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 feet apart in a straight line facing toward the inside; to these posts securely nail the heavy planks, keeping the tops level. The center row of posts should be faced evenly on both sides. This allows the planks to be nailed on both sides of Two bins are necessary. When the bins are all completed (these should be under a shed with plenty of head room above for sned with picity of head room above for free working space); level the bottom soil off quite even, but with a slight dip from one side to the other of not more than one inch. This done you are ready for the pipes, which are best made of one-inch with holes on their sides in about every third pipe at 15 to 18 inches apart. The pipes at the bottom of each bin are virtually a coil, but should be made with manifolds at each end and each pipe must be of just even length so that when completed and in position it practically fills the bottom of the bin excepting about two inches at either end to allow for expansion.

The steam must enter from the boiler at the highest side and the last pipe on the lower side should form a return for condensed water to the boiler. This pipe will of course be connected with the manifold at the farther end of the bin only. Each bin should be fitted up alike and the object of every third pipe being drilled with very small holes, not over 1-16 of an inch, is to admit of steam direct escaping into the compost.

When these details are complete, run your main flow steam pipe high enough above the boiler to prevent water driving through it over to the center. Opposite the division of the two bins put a tee with nipples and two stop-cocks, one for each bin. From this connect with the head of each of the two manifolds, and where the returns leave the bin they should have stops also, running the two into one and return direct to boiler, leaving a drop directly under the boiler to form a trap. Of course air-cocks will be needed also on each manifold at the highest point. This completes the arrange-ment so far as boiler and piping, but provision must be made to cover the bin as nearly air tight as possible when filled with soil, which cooks best if fairly moist. When the first bin is filled nearly level full turn on the steam with a pressure of not less than 50 pounds and maintain it for at least 11 hours. Meantime fill the other bin and get it all ready, and by the time the first is thoroughly cooked the second will be ready to have the steam turned into it. Then uncover the first, empty it. 1 would not advise you to attempt to stand on the soil or you may have to dance a lively jig. Thus you can fill, cook and empty five or six bins per day, but it would be useless to attempt it unless you maintain a full head of steam, at least 45 to 50 pounds pressure, as these extremely minute animals are very tenacious of life. By the best authorities it is proven that nothing short of 225° will kill them when protected in the soil, and to make sure work 235° of heat is necessary; rather warm treatment, but absolutely necessary. John N. May.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Fred Haupt has made an assignment. The trouble is due to Mr. Haupt having become security for his brother, as his own business has been in good shape.

CANNAS NEW AMERICAN Finest in the World Our Novelties for 1898

		r 100
DUKE OF MARLBORO, darkest crimson	$30	0.00
DUCHESS OF MARLBORO, only pure pink	30	00 (6
TOPAZ, only absolutely large pure yellow.	50	00.4
LORRAINE, pink, edged white, fine	30	0.00
MAIDENS BLUSH, delicate flesh color	15	5 00
GOLDEN PEARL, yellow, nearly double,	30	9,00
CUBA, finest and largest gilt edged	40	0.00
GLORIOSA, very dwarf, March delivery	1:	2.50
PHILADELPHIA, glowing crimson	13	5 00
CHAMPION, largest, glowing searlet $5
KLONDIKE, only large pure orange $2
Send for complete list of 50 novelties standard varieties at lowest prices.

OUR CANNAS IN FRANCE.

OUR CANNAS III.

To Messrs A. Blanc & Co.
Your new cannas of last year kave me much satisfaction. Please seed me a complete set of your neweltles for ISS as soon as ready Also 12
Glant Crimson. etc. Signed CH MOL/N,
Lyon. France, Jan. 3, ISS

ASPARAGUS SPRENGERI

Fine plants in 6-Inch pots, ready for 8-inch $5 per 12.

Veltch's Hybrids. $4 per 12; Equestra, $4 per 100; Formosissima, $3 per 100.

CALLAS
Spotted Lenf, $3: Black, $5: Yellow, $30: all per 100. Golden, $2 each.

II pilzes ont of 22 at the last Dahiia exhibition. First prize Dahiia, Gul T EDGE, $15 per 100 Send for special list

Per 100 Per 1000

A. BLANC & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

	1 61 100 1 61 1000
7-9 inch
9-11 inch	5.00 45,00
I II IIII DUDDUM
LILIUM RUBRUM (S	peciosum)
7-9 inch	4,75 40.00
9-11 inch	6.75 60.00
LILIUM ALBUM (Spec	iosum)
7-9 inch	6 50 55,00
9-11 inch
BEGONIAS TUBI	EROUS
KOO.	1 40 111
Single, separate color
Double, " "	9.00
WILLDED OCES
TUBEROSES
	J • • • •
True Excelsior Pearl.
"Hallock strain" First	size 1.00 7.50
OL OVINIAG
GLOXINIAS \dots Per do	z., 85c; per 100, $5.00
CALADIUMS
	3 31 3 24 00
Fancy leaved choice	bulbs, per doz., $1.7a;
per 100, $12.00.
CALADIUM ESCULEI	NTUM
Cured and sound bu

GLADIOLUS XXX Florists Mixture

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE NEW YORK

| Shoots | Doz. | 100 | 5 to 7 inches in circumference | $ 40 | $2.50 | 7 to 9 to 12 | 1.00 | 6.50 |

50c per 100 less on 7-9 inch and 9-12 inch sizes if shipped from New York.

14 Barclay St.

CHICAGO 84-86 Randolph St.

Boston Florist Letter Co.

FLORISTS' LETTERS. 11/2 IN. LETTERS

This wooden box nleely stained and var-nished, 18x30x12 made in two sections, one for each size letter, given away with first order of 500 letters.

Block Letters, 1 ½ or 2-inch size, per 100, $2.00. Script Letters $1. Fastener with each letter or word. Used by leading fortsts everywhere and for sale by all wholesale florists and supply dealers.

N. F. McCARTHY, Treas, and Manager, 84 Hawley St., BOSTON, MASS.

John Conley & Son,

Manufacturers of

TIN FOIL

2 AND 4 DOMINICK STREET,

New York.

STEMS DUST

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

Chicago. New York,

FAXON'S "WHITE PANSIES.

The hest mixture in cultivation, flowers very large, thick and velvety; of superb colors and markings. The perfection of form and texture.

In Trade Packets at $1.00 each. M. B. FAXON,

Lock Box 1528. 528. BOSTON, MASS. Correspondence solicited.

Pansies Worth Raising

GODD PLANTS, $2.50 per 1000, or $1.50 per 500. LARGE PLANTS, $4.00 per 1000, or $2.50 per 500. BLOOMING PLANTS, $1.50 per 100. SEED, as usual. CASH WITH ORDER.

C. SOLTAU & CO., Ave., JERSEY CITY, N. J. 199 Grant Ave.,

..PANSIES..

200,000 in cold frames of the Jennings finest size, ready to bloom, $5.00 per 1000; extra medium size for cold frames, $4.00 per 1000. Extra 75c per 100 by mail.

...SEED...

of the finest strain, $1.00 per pkt. of 3000 seed; $6.00 per conce;

Cash with order. E. B. JENNINCS, Lock Box 254. Southport Grower of the finest Pansles.

Southport, Conn.

STANDARD GANNAS

			STRON	G	ĸо	OT	ж.
	500	Mme. C	rozy	٠.						 $3,10
	300	Alphons	ie Bou	viei	٠					 . 370
	300	Florence	e Vaug	(ha:	n.,				٠.	 . 5,00
	500	J. D. Ca	rpos							 . 5,00
	1,911	Ch Hen	derson							 . 3,00
	1966	Paul Ma	arquan	٤						 , 3,00
		Stella
Cash	with	rorder.		ΕF	IN:	ST	M	A	٩G	Quincy,	IIIs

Everybody is more pleased if you say "saw your ad, in the American Florist" when writing.

Chicago.

The shortage of good Brides and Bridesmaids still continues. First-class long stemmed Beauties are scarce, but good short stemmed Beauties are plenty, and bring only about the price asked for Maids or Meteors. Tulips are very much improved in quality, and are quite plenty; fancy pink sells well, other colors very slow. Dutch hyacinths are on the mar-ket in all colors. We now have a full line of all bulb stock and unless an outside market can be found for it, the prospect is that it will be sent in faster than it can be disposed of.

Retailers report trade quiet. The very cold weather we have experienced for the past three or four days has had a very depressing effect upon the retail trade, especially in plants.

W. E. Lynch had on exhibition this week a vase of nearly pure white earna-tions, a sport from Tidal Wave, that is without doubt a good carnation; if the sport has the constitution and productive qualities of the parent plant it will find a place in the market. It was grown by Otto Hansen, of Galewood, Ill.

Mr. Arnold Ringer returned last Sunday from a trip through the East; he reports business good, and prospects very encouraging. Trade has been good very encouraging. this winter, and prices better than they this winter, and prices better than they have been for the past three years.

Mr. Ellis, of Ellis & Pollworth, of Millwaukee, visited Chicago this week.

It is reported that F. J. Foster, of the Krebs Floral Co., St. Louis, has severed his connection with that firm.

G. Il Pieger, of Fermiont Price Co.

G. H. Pieser, of Kennicott Bros. Co., will start on a trip through the South, February 10.

The greenhouse of Pelke & Mueller, of Wilmette. Ill., eaught fire Wednesday night about seven o'clock. Felke & Mueller have between forty and fifty thousand feet of glass. The boiler shed and over one-half of the houses were totally destroyed, together with all the stock in the part which was not burned. It is impos sible to estimate the damage done to the heating plant. Mr. Mueller, Sr., was badly burned about the face and eyes, and it was feared at the time fatally injured. He is somewhat easier this morning, and it is hoped he will recover, though it is doubtful if he regains his sight. The loss is estimated at about $20,000 on the greenhouses and stock. No insurance.

Chrysanthemums in Low Greenhouses.

In answer to "Subscriber," I would advise him to build a bench on the ground rather than plant chrysanthemums in the solid hed. One is then better able to control the root action and keep them dwarf, which seems to be an important point with him. As there is a great difference in the height of the several varieties it would be well to consult some rehable catalogue and plant only the varieties of distart habit

The difference between crown and for mind bud is the crown bud is the first one to make it appearance indicomes sometimes in July or August and is of lit tle value. It should be rubbed out, allowing one of the shoots, which comes by its side to grow on, which in time will then another bad surrounded with a number of other hads, the mean one being the terminal and in the trace the best one to who that your flower

Tor Subscriber who has such little headroom to grow his plants I would advise planting fine struck outlings

C W John ces

Jadoo Fibre and Jadoo Liquid

are to-day being sold by the leading SEED HOUSES and are used by prominent GROWERS and FLORISTS.

You Cannot Afford to Grow

Plants Without Them

19999955666

Send for particulars and be convinced

The ____ American Jadoo Co.

815 FAIRMOUNT AVE.

...PHILADELPHIA. PA.

ESTABLISHED EMIL STEFFENS.

18 66 SUCC. N. STEFFENS.

HAMMOND'S TOBACCO

OLD TOWN FARM GREENHOUSES

THE OLD ORIGINAL.

TOR SARGEANIX ATWOOD STS

HARTFORD, CONN., Jan. 25, 1818.

Hammond's Paint & Sing Shot Works, Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Gonts | sorid check for amount of enclosed fill, and think I shall need more of the Tobacco Extract for in the trill | $\mathbb{T} \times \text{PAYARACT I EVER HAD} \text{ bell teeme}

b) Irelyth at once as we love two houses longing for a dose. Yours truly, GEO S OSHORN,

SOLD BY WHOLESALE SEEDSMEN.

WHOLE ROOTS.

line collection of varieties including Wm. Agoew, Nymphaca, John Bragg, Oban, Zulu, Beauty of Brentwood, etc., etc. Our selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $50,00. Purchaser's selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $60.00.

Wm. H. Moon Co.

tdenwood Aurseries

MORRISVILLE, Bucks Co , PA. Seed Stores and Flower Stores

> Can profitably handle our Packages of Plant Food. Attractive, take little 🛰 💸 shelf room. Valuable 🤜 booklet free. Good profits.

The WALKER FERTILIZER CO. Clilton Springs, N. Y.

Cincinnati.

Business the past week was but moderate, nothing of importance having occurred here of late with the exception of some large funerals. The scarcity of roses reported last week still continues. Carnations are in good demand and prices stiffened up a little the last of the week.

George and Allen are still in the lead with valley, which finds a ready sale. This same firm is bringing in some good Keizerskroon and La Reine tulips. Mr. J. A. Peterson has a grand display in his store window. The background in one of the windows is azalea intermixed with camellia, the front arrangements consist of several specimen plants of cattleyas and adiantums.

A special meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society was called for Saturday, February 5, to make final arrangements in regards to the Chicago carnation convention. It is to be hoped that a good delegation will attend. All florists of neighboring towns interested, may apply to H. Schwarz, Price Hill, Cincinnati, for particulars.

A little stranger made its appearance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gillett on Thursday, January 27. Ed. was all smiles at his place of business and said "its a girl"; mother and baby are doing well. Recent visitors: Messrs. J. M. Gasser, of Cleveland and W. G. Matthews, of Dayton, Ohio.

H. Schwarz.

Buffalo.

There seems to be only the same old story to tell in regard to business. It has had its usual ups and downs—mostly downs. No startling events have occurred to act as a boom.

some talk is heard in regard to a flower show for next fall. There is a small amount in the treasury of the Florists' Club that might be devoted to such a purpose, and as "The first duty of the majority is to reduce the surplus" the club will probably vote to hold a show.

Rumors are affoat to the effect that there is to be an uptown movement on the part of some of our store men. It is reported that Scott has already secured a store in a good location above Chippewa street. His old familiar store has long been too small for the business and the move has been expected. Who next?

Travelers have been rather scarce during the week. Those noted were Messrs. S. Skidelski, W. J. Boas and Max Beatus.

Du Quoin, ILL.—The Du Quoin Floral Co. have started in business with one plant house 18x50, heated by hot water. They will build rose and carnation houses in the spring. The company is F. W. Gross and J. W. Canaga.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Edward Mulich, florist, has started in business at the corner of Fish and Cleveland avenues.

Cut Flower Price Lists Received.

We are in receipt of cutflower price lists from the following firms: W. A. McFadden, Cincinnati; Holton & Hunkel Milwaukee; W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

FLORISTS' MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE ASS'N

Application Blanks and Prospectus Ready....
Write now. Delays are dangerous.

W. J. VESEY, Sec'y, - Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Wholesale Flower Markets

	CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.
Roses	Beauty select
reoper	" medlum
4.6	Brides 5 00@ 7 00
	Bridesmaids 5 00@ 7.00
4.6	Meteora 6.00@ 8.00
	Perlea 4 00@ 5 00
arna	itiona
	fancy 3.00@ 4 00
alle	y 3 00
loma	na
Brei	86116 4 00
	dils 5.00 ts ts
llo.	10.00
ı li n	a x itum 1 00
	agua 50.00
080	St. Louis, Feb. 3.
OSE	1, Beautlea
44	Meteors
14	Perlea
4.5	Wootton 4.00@ 5.00
41	La France
4.6	Kalserine 4.00@10.00
4.6	Carnot 6 (00@12 00
rna	tions 2.00@ 4.00
iole	te Celifornie : 30m 56
	aingle
alle	v 3.00.å: 4.00
arr	sil10.00@12.50
ılla	8 8 00@12 50
ulip	8. 2.00 & 3.40 88ua, Romana 2 50@ 3.00 x 12.50 & 15.00
arci	seua, Romana
mus	X
	BUFFALO, Feb. 3.
coses	Beautlea
	Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors 6 00@12 00
	Perles 4.00@ 6.00
	Niphetoa 4.00@ 6.00 Kalserin, Mermeta. 6.00@12.00 ations extra aiu	ordinary
alle	y
	ta ina
mile	.811
dla	tum
	MILWAUKEE, Feb. 3.
2000	Rannty 15 00@40 00
robe.	Beanty
44	Perle 3 00@ 6.00
	Meteora. Bellea 4 00@ 8 00
arn	itiona
	ts
	ma . 2 (X) (a), 3 (X)
Valle	v 3.00@ 4.00
ree	las 2 00@ 3.00
Calla	a. Harriaii
3molla	x10.00@12 50

ROSES, CARNATIONS, AND ALL KINOS OF SEASONABLE FLOWERS IN STOCK.

WM. F. KASTING COMMISSION FLORIST....

495 Washington St., Buffalo, N. Y.
Also Dealer in Florists' Supplies and Wire Designs

W. A. MCFADDEN,

NEAVE BUILDING, CINCINNATI.

Producers and Shippers of every description of High Class Floral Supplies.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS. JARDINIERE FERNS.

Quotations issued weekly, forwarded on request.

Say "saw your ad, in the Florist" when you write advertisers.

C. A. KUEHN, Wholesale Florist,

1122 PINE STREET,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

TA complete line of Wire Designs.

MOUND CITY CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED

Special attention given to shipping orders

1322 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

C. W. WORSERERERER ST. LOUIS, MO. FLOWERSWHOLESALE....

.....ROSES, and a full line.

Headquarters for the South West.....

When writing mention American Florist

ST. LOUIS CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists

E. H. MICHEL

1620 Olive St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

HOLTON & HUNKEL CO.

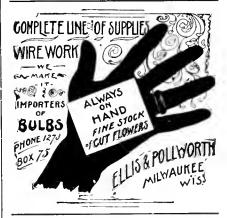

SUCCESSORS TO

The Wisconsin Flower Exchange.
Fresh Cut Flowers, Florists' Supplies
Manufacturers of WIRE DESIGNS

Consignments Solicited.

Phone Main 874.

457 Milwaukee St., MILWAUKEE.

Asparagus Plumosus Nanus.

Strings 8 to 10 feet long, 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

THE "OLD RELIABLE" FOR

WHOLESALE

FLOWERS

Hunt's Flowers Go Everywhere

76 Wabash Ave.. CHICAGO.

REINBERG BROS. WHOLESALE GROWERS OF CUT FLOWERS.

500,000 FEET OF CLASS.
We can fil all orders on short notice with all leading varieties of Roses and Carnations.
We ARE Headquarters for fine AMERICAN BEAUTIES Give us a trial and convince yourself. Salesroom, 51 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

W. E. LYNCH, Consignments Solicited.

All Florists' Supplies.

19 & 21 RANDOLPH STREET, Fine Stock a Specialty. CHICAGO.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson

WHOLESALE_

FLORISTS SUPPLIES FLORISTS SEEDS SPRING BULBS

All the leading varieties in Carnation Rooted Cuttings

Cut Flowers

Best varieties of Young Roses in 2½-in, Pots.
Fine well cured Pearl Tuberose Bulbs, per 1000. $7.50
Extra fine mixed Gladioli Bulbs, per 1000. 12.50
Fine mixed Gladioli Bulbs, per 1000. 7.50 SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

45-47-49 Wabash Ave., Chicago. Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson.

Wholesale Flower Markets

CHICAGO, Fe	D. 1.
Roses, Beauties per doz.	2.00@5.00
" Brides
" Meteors, Bridesmald, K	aiserin 4,00 🖂 8.00
" Perle. Gontlers	3,00@ 5,00
" La France, Testout	5 000/10 00
arnations, common	1.00km 2 00
" fancy	2.00@ 5.00
dolets
Varcissus. Romans
Iarrish, Callas
alley
Calips	1.00c/ 5.00
on sion	2,00a 3 0d
iyacinths
Adlantum
milax
Asparagus

Always mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers.

MIND FLORISTS SUPPLIES. WIRE WORK A SPECIALTY, 88 WABASHAVE. CHICAGO.

A. L. RANDALL 🏖

Wholesale Florist

DON'T FORGET that we are at the old number, 126 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Write for special quotations on large orders

E. C. AMLING, WHOLESALE

51 WABASH AVENUE.

Consignments Solicited. CHICA
Prompt attention to shipping orders. CHICAGO.

Bassett & Washburn,

CROWERS and WHOLESALE DEALERS in

88 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO. HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

WINTER & GLOVER,

21 Randolph St., CHICAGO.

GRADE LU

PACKED RIGHT,

so they will reach you in just as good condition as they reach us.

WIRE DESIGNS: A Full Line. Write ue for our Illustrated Catalogue.

Mention American Floriet.

mention the American Flor-Always mention the American Fior ist when you order stock,

Wholesale Florists

III West 30th Street, NEW YORK. Consignments Solicited. Telephone, 260 38th St.

Illinois Cut Flower Co

51 and 53 Wabash Ave., J. B. DEAMUD, Mgr. CHICAGO.

CHOICE CUT FLOWERS.

Roses in variety.

Carnations ...IN THIS MARKET. GENERAL LINE OF SHIPPING FLOWERS.

* * WILD SMILAX. * *

A. G. Prince & Co. WHOLESALE

AND FLORISTS' SUPPLIES.

88 & 90 Wabsah Avenue. elephone Main 3208.

CHICAGO.

Prompt Attention to all Orders

ROGERS PARK FLORAL CO..

Wholesale Growers of

FLOWERS.

51 WABASH AVENUE,

-CHICAGO.

HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

tolding Boxes and Wax Paper

The Aull Bros. Paper & Box Go.

www.DHO.VTON, OHIO.www.

The American Horist Company's of HORISTS. NI RSI RYMI N and SLLDSMEN of the United States and Canada is now undergoing a thorough revision, and the sixth edition will be ready early in 1898.

MacDONALD & McMANUS

Supply Orchids every day.

Only House in New York handling Extra Fancy Stock for Special Occasions.

Telephone 2778--38th Street.

寒 50 West 30th Street, NEW YORK CITY.

FRED. EHRET.

No. 1403 Fairmount Avenue.

Telephone, Long Distance.

PHILADELPHIA.

CONSIGN TO

BUY FROM

M. A. HART.

Commission Dealer Cut Flowers.

113 WEST 30TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE BEST MARKET IN NEW YORK.

TRAENDLY & SCHENCK. Wholesale Florists.

Control the stock of many celebrated growers and are prepared to quote prices on First Grade Cut Flowera. All varieties.

38 West 28th St., and Cut Flower Exchange, Tel. 961 18th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

Wholesale Flower Markets

NEW YORK, Feb 2.

HEW TORK, PGO 2.
Roses, Beauty,	5 00@65.00
" Br.des. Bridesmaid	3 00% 10 00
" Testout, Carnot. Meteor	4 00@ 12 00
" Morgan, Cusin	2.10 a 5.00
	1.00@ 2.00
	2 50cm 4.00
Valley
Mignonette	2 10000 6 60
Violets	.40 4 1.00
Harrisii	8.00@10.00
	1.50@ 3 00
	8.00 a 10.00
Cattleyas
Daffodiis, Jonquils.	1 0000 30 10
	1.00 (0.00)
Boston, Feb. 2.
Roses. Beauties	0.00 $%$ 75.00
" Perie, Niphetos	$2\ 00@\ 4\ 00$
" Bride, Bridesmaid, Morgans	4 00@ 12.00
" Carnot Meteor	6.00@12.00
Carnations, ordinary	1.00 @ 2 00
" fancy	2.00@ 3.00
	3.00(a) 4.00
Violets	.35@ .75
Hyacinths, Narcissus, Freesia	.75@ 2.00
Tuilps	3.00@ 4 00
	210015
PHILADELPHIA Feb. 2.
Roses, Beauties, per dozen3 00@8.00	7 00 0 10 00
" Teas, firsts	7.00310 00
Beiect
Carnations
Valley	3 00ta 4.00
Violets
Narcissus	2.50kg 3.00
Hyacintbs
Harrisil	0 00@ 12 00
	4.00@ 5 00
Tulips	4.00

John I. Raynor,

49 WEST 28th STREET.

NEW YORK.

SPECIAL EXTRA STOCK OF

AM. BEAUTY, METEOR, BRIDESMAID, BRIDE.

Record Breaking Carnations ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

American Beautv

and all other choice Roses in unexcelled quality.

Carnations, Mignonette, Cattleya end Valley.

THOS. YOUNG, Jr., 3 W. 28th St., NEW YORK, 43 W. 28TH ST.,

WALTER F. SHERIDAN, WHOLESALE

ORIST.

39 West 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Roses shipped to all points. Price list on application.

Growers ose

Will find a good market and good returns for their stock at....

JULIUS LANG'S

53 W. 30th Street, - NEW YORK.

Edward C. Horan. 34 W. 29th Street, NEW YORK,

WHOLESALE • FLORIST.

Careful Shipping to all parts of the country.
Price list on application.

9 Chapman Place, 15 Province Street, BOSTON, MASS. BROS., PROPRIETORS.

ned separate space in our market. We guarantee payment for all Flowers sold. Sales reported weekly; payments monthly, or oftener if required.

THE NEW ENGLAND HEADQUARTERS FOR THE BEST GRADE OF FLOWERS AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

J. K. ALLEN. Wholesale Florist,

57 West 28th Street, NEW YORK, near 6th Ave. Elevated R. R.

BEAUTIES AND VIOLETS, SPECIALTIES.

Consignments Solicited.

JAMES M. KING

Commission Dealer in

Good Money for your Flowers. Gooe Flowers for your Money. 49 WEST 29TH ST., NE TELEPHONE 1675 38th St. NEW YORK.

THE NEW YORK CUT FLOWER CO.

119 and 121 West 23d Street, 112 and 114 West 24th Street,

Telephone 733-18th.

NEW YORK.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED. Specia Attention Given to Shipping Orders.

GEORGE A. SUTHERLAND, Cut Flowers & Florists' Supplies WHOLESALE.

67 Bromfield St.,

BOSTON, MASS.

JUDDERS IN

Wholesale Florists ALWAYS ON HAND: CARNATIONS,

BRIDESMAIDS

Horticuliaral Auctioneers. 84 HAWLEY STREET, - BOSTON.

VIN & CO.

Wholesale Florists -

AND DEALERS IN ALL

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES. 4 Ordway Place, BOSTON, MASS. Cut Flower Consignments Solicited. Best market.

JOHN YOUNG, ROSES, CARNATIONS, VALLEY

and all other choice cut flower stock.

NEW YORK. 51 W. 28th Street. Price list on application.

FRANK MILLANG, CUT FLOWERS.

WHOLESALE COMMISSION,

408 E. 34th Street,

Cut Flower Exchange.

NEW YORK,

WM. C. SMITH. Wholesale Florist.

40 So. 16th St., PHILADELPHIA.

Consignments Solicited. Special attention given to shipping orders

Long Distance Telephone 5008 A.

KENNICOTT BROS. CO.

WHOLESALE CUT FLOWERS

And Florists' Supplies

Jobbers in all kinds ofdesirable

88 WABASH AVENUE, CHICAGO, ILL.

Long Distance Telephone Express 466....

ROOMS 22 and 23

Florists' Supplies

It is not what you pay for the extra select stock & but what the extra select stock pays you.

Bear in mind that the best is the most economical.

It pays to trade at headquarters and the greatest house in America.

WE WILL HANDLE THE ENTIRE OUTPUT OF THE KLEHM NURSERIES.

70,000 Novelty Tulips

This is a sure seller; once you try it you will never be without them You can order them from any broker as we sell to them all. Price

PRICE LIST SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

P. AND D. AT COST.	Per 100
Am, Beauties, medium,
Am. Beauties, fancy, fair length	35,00
Beauties, long	50 (0
Meteors, extra select	$7 to 9
Brides, Maids, extra select	$7 to 9
Meteors, Bride, Maid, good average,	#4 to 6
Perles, extra select	$4.10 6

	Per 100
Duese cur calcution
Roses, our selection
Callas, Harrisii	12½ to 15
Romans, Narcissus	$2 to 4
Adiantum	$1 to 1 25
Asparagusper s	tring, 50c to 65c
Calax	$1.50 per M.
Common Ferns
Common 1 erus 500 sold a	it 1000 rates, ter 100

Violets	$1 to 1.25
Valley, our specialty—the best	$2 to 4.00
Smilax, fine	$10 to 12½
Carnations, extra select,	$2.00
Carnations, white	$2 to 3
Carnations, good average stock.	11/2c to 2
Carnations, our selection	$1.00

Growers wishing to consign flowers to Chicago Market consult us before shipping elsewhere.

THIS YEAR'S CUSTOMERS MUST BE OURS NEXT YEAR.

FINEST VALLEY THAT GROWS!

Asparagus Always on Hand.
All Flowers in Season at Lowest Market Rates.
Stors open until 6:30 P. M. week days, until Noon
Sundays and Holidays.
We always ship estra select or high-grade goods unless otherwise ordered.

THE VALUES WE GIVE ARE OUR BEST ADVERTISEMENTS....

Montreal.

A VISIT TO LACHINE. - MEETING OF THE CLUB.—ELECTION OF OFFICERS —BAN-QUET .- SILVER CUP PRESENTED TO GEO. ROBINSON.

Your correspondent took advantage of a fine day last week and drove out to Lachine to visit a couple of our large florists' establishments which are situated n this fast growing town. Mr. Colin Campbell's place was the first visited. We were fortunate in finding the proprietor at home, and were shown through his extensive establishment by that gentleman. Mr. Campbell grows almost everything required for his retail store on St. Catherine street in the city, and contrary to the usual condition of things where such a variety of lines are attempted, everything is in good condition. A large house which was full of chrysanthenums a couple of months ago is now planted with sweet peas; these were transplanted from the seed boxes in rows about eighteen inches apart, and the plants about nine inches apart in the rows with a string to each to the roof.

A house of Asparagus plumosus was exceptionally good, also a house of smilax; a house of palms and ferns looked well. A large house full of azaleas, primulas, cyclamens, Harrisii and longiflorum lilies, etc., was well worth seeing.

Mr. Joseph Bennett's place was next visited, the proprietor had just left for the city, but we were very courteously taken through the place by Mr. Smith, the foreman. Everything was found in apple pie order as usual, in fact the neatness and order all over the establishment was and order an over the establishment was very marked, reflecting great credit on proprietor and employes, the motto here is "A place for everything, and everything in its place." This establishment like Mr. Campbell's is devoted to growing everything required for Mr. Bennett's store on St. Catherine street. St. Catherine street.

Two houses are devoted to roses, all of which look remarkably well, the principal varieties noticed were Meteor, Sunset, Bridesmaid, Bride, Morgan and Beauty; Morgan being exceptionally fine, and apparently quite "at home" under the treatment it receives. A couple of houses of carnations are equally good, Albertini, Scott and Daybreak in pink are very strong and producing large quantities of bloom now; McGowan is the principal white, and is also very strong; in red Garfield, Jubilee and Meteor are perfect. No rust was noticed. A large stock of palms grown from seed, in the various stages from the seed box to the large decorative plant was noticed. A specialty is made of small ferns of which several thousand are grown annually from spores. A bed of sweet peas was noticed which ought to be blooming well for Easter.

The Montreal Gardeners' and Florists' Club held their annual election of others last night, President Walsh presided; there were about fifty members present.

Mr. Walsh positively declined nomination, as he had served two years, and there being an unwritten law that the same man must not occupy the position for more that period. Mr. Alfred C. Wilshire was nominated and elected by acclamation. Mr. George Robinson was re-elected first vice-president and W. Whiting re-elected second vice-president; for treasurer, Mr. Walter Wilshire was elected to replace his brother, Alfred C., who had occupied that position for about four years. Mr. Fred. Bennett was re-elected secretary and Wm. Harobin his assistant.

BEAVER.

Palmer's Hot Bed Mats FROST PROOF

WILL not harbor mice or vermin. Easily handled. Dry out quickly after rain. Have now been in practical use three years. Cost less than old-fashioned straw mats and entirely take their place.

MADE IN FOLLOWING GRADES:

No. 1—Buriap Cloth, filled with combination wool and quilted, seams 3 inches a part and edges firmly bound.

Size 40x76 inches, 50 cents each. 76x76 ... 75

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 12 cents per running foot. ×

No. 2—Duck Cloth outside, filled and quilted same as No. 1.
Size 40x76 inches, $0.75 cach.
76x76 ... 1.00 ...
Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 16 cents per running foot.

No. 3—Waterproof, made of oil duck, filled and quilted same as Nos. 1 and 2.
Size 40x76 inches, $1.00 each. 1.25 to $1.25 to $1.25 to $1.50 each. 1.10 Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 20 cents per running foot. That these mats are a much needed improvement over anything heretofore used for the same purpose, is demonstrated by the large demand and many testimonials from prominent men in the trade. Everyone using Hot Bed Mats should give them a trial.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

QUILTED HORSE BLANKETS the Cheapest, Warmest and Strongest in the World ... WE ALSO MAKE

The R. T. Palmer Co.

113 Worth Street, NEW YORK.

Address all correspondence to The R. T. Palmer Co., New London, Conn. Agents wanted—pay good commission.

H. BAYERSDORFER & CO.'S

Seasonable Specialties:

CYCAS WREATHS.

MOSS WREATHS.

FERNERIES AND JARDINIERES:

Norman Style in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Tuscan, in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Milan, in Sprays.

OUR LEADING NOVELTY:

LACE VIOLET HANDKERCHIEFS.

Wheat Sheaves and Immortelles.

The largest and best stock in America.

New Catalogue of all FLORISTS' SUPPLIES on application. IF For the trade only.

H. BAYERSDORFER & GO..

50, 52, 54 and 56 N. 4th St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Mention American Florist.

FANCY

DAGGER

Do not order any ferns unless you are willing to pay this price as my stock is very limited and I have hardly enough now to carry my old stand-by

L. B. BRAGUE, Hinsdale, Mass.

FOR SALE CHEAP.

GLASS for Greenhouses, Conservatories, Hot-back, etc. Also Hotbed Sashes and Mats. Paints, Oils, etc. THE REED GLASS & PAINT CO., 456 W. Broadway, NEW YORK.

Never Fail to say "saw your ad. in the Florist,"

THE SEED TRADE.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

JEROME B. RICE, Pres. F. B. CLARK, 1st Vice-Pres. S. F. WILLARD, Wethersfield, Conn., Sec'y and Treas

DES MOINES, IA.—The Iowa Seed Coreport as follows: "We to-night figured up the number of retail mail orders received and are surprised to find that we have received 60° more orders than during January, 1896, and 89° more than during January, 1897. Catalogue was mailed about the same time as previous ears, and we know no reason for the change except that there is a better feeling among the people, and believe that it augurs well for a profitable season.

It is reported that the Department of Agriculture has given the Henry Phillips Seed and Implement Co. a supplementary order amounting to about $15,000. This expenditure in connection with some foreign purchases is understood to exhaust this year's appropriation.

Continued drouth and cold weather discourages the California seed growers.

Ex-Secretary Morton on Free Seed Distribution.

Under the old system all the dead, ungerminative refuse of the seed dealers of the country was sold to the Department, and there packed and labeled at an expense generally equal to, and often more than, the cost of the seed.

Under the new method the seedsman who has the contract must put his own name on each packet. That fixes the responsibility for the quality sent out. Moreover, under the new system there is scientific and vigorous inspection by a seed expert of the Department, by which the germinative and pure quality of the seed is determined. Under the old way the there was no scientific inspection.

But the old way and the new way are bad ways. There is no reason why the Government should distribute new or old varieties of vegetable and flower seeds gratuitously among the people any more than there is reason for its sending gifts of the eggs of improved poultry, or dona-tions of bulls, hoars, and stallions among the farmers of the United States. The practice is an outrage upon those who raise seed to sell. It is an outrage for the Government, under any sort of an administration, to put public funds into seed gratuities which are to be distributed m competition with the legitimate producers and dealers in the same article. But it is particularly, glaringly gro-tesquely inconsistent for a party which preaches protection against the import cronced the products of "pauper labor," and which under the great revenuerei dering brigley Bill, puts a big duty on foreign garden seeds, flower seeds, and bulss bied in agrorance from the pauper he ds of Europe to back with the National Treesur, the indiscriminate dis tribution of seed, without price, seeds congressional, seeds Departmental, in competition with seeds for side by honest, hard working sood producers and dealers, who are not bacigners, but crizens of the braich States who reintant industry' usks to protection a copy from competition with the direction of aputridipaternalism. Agricultural Adverting

Lessons With Plants.

Through the courte is at A.C. McClurg & Co., of Chicago, we have received a copy of this new botanical work by Prof. L. II. Bailey. The author departs somewhat from the beaten track, and supplies a series of interesting studies of plants Such topics as "twigs and buds," "leaves and foliage," "flowers," "fructification," "propagation" and "behaviors and habits" are discussed entertainingly and and flowers, well and profusely illustrated. accurately.

Catalogues Received.

Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia, Pa., garden calender; Ellwanger & Barry, Rochester, N. Y., trees, shrubs and fruits; Spaulding Nursery & Orchard Co., Spaulding, Ill., trees, shrubs and fruits; Storrs & III., trees, shrubs and fruits; Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O., seeds and plants; W. B. Cole, Painesville, O., fruits and flowers; Jno. D. Imlay, Zanesville, O., seeds and plants; Nanz & Neuner, Louisville, Ky., seeds and plants; John A. Bruce & Co., Hamilton, Can., seeds; Luther Burbank, Santa Rosa, Cal., fruits and flowers: Lewis Roesch Fredonia N and flowers; Lewis Roesch, Fredonia, N. And Howels, Lewis Rosein, Fredoma, R. Y., trees, shrubs and fruits; Schlegel & Fottler, Boston, Mass., seeds, plants and bulbs; Dwight Seed Co., Reading, Pa., garden and farm annual; Wm. C. Babcoek, Bridgman, Mich., fruits and plants; S. D. Woodruff & Sons, Orange, Coun., S. D. Woodrin & Sons, Orange, Cond., San Seeds; Sunset Seed & Plant Co., San Francisco, Cal., seeds; The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., seeds and plants; Wm. Baylor, Hartland, Cork, Preland, seeds; J. Lambert & Sons, Trier, Prussia, seeds; W. F. Allen, Jr., Salisbury, Md., fruits; Reasoner Bros., Oneco, Florida, plants, trees and shrubs, wholesale and retail; Sander & Co., St. Albans, England, florists' orchids; George C. Watson, Philadelphia, Pa., bulbs and roots, wholesale; The Morris Floral Co., Morris, Ill., plants, wholesale; W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., seeds, wholesale; F. Dorner & Sons Co., La-fayette, Ind., plants; E. G. Hill & Co., Kichmond, Ind., plants; Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, Pa., plants. 65.

E. F. C. YOUNG, Pres. V. P. SNYDER, VIce-Pres. JOS. D. REDLE, Secy. R. S. FOWLER, Treas. S. M. PEASE, Gen'l Mgr.

The Cleveland Seed Co.

Contract Growers of

Peas Beans

and General

JOBBERS IN SEEDS.

Cape Vincent, N. Y.

RAFFIA New consignment just arrived by Str. Maine. Having purchased on a very tavorable stock quickly, make the following special low quotations for prompt orders:

Grafting Wax

Irowbridge's celebrated Grafting
Wax, the genuine article, 1 lb. bars at 19c; ½ lb. bars at 20c; ½ lb. bars at 21c per pound. Rebates: 10 lb.
lots, 5 per cent; 25 lb. lots, 10 per cent; 50 lb. lots, 15 per cent; 100 lb.
lots, 20 per cent lots, 20 per cent

G. C. WATSON,

Juniper, below Walnut, - PHILADELPHIA.

BURPEE'S SEEDS PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Price List for Florists and Market Gardeners.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON CO.

Importers and Exporters of

Seeds, Bulbs & Plants,

501 TO 503 W. 13TH ST.,
NEW YORK CITY.
Send for quotations on all Florists' Bulb Stock.

J. L. SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., NEW YORK CITY.

Made from VIRGIN NIGHT SOIL by steam pro-cess — NOT Adulterated. Complete Fertilizer. Soluble, quick in action. Combines all the Elements for Nutrition of Plants. Pleasant to handle.

STANDARD FERTILIZER CO. Inc. PHILADELPHIA. IB22 Filbert Street.

PLEASE mention the AMERICAN FLORIST every time you write to an advertiser.

Newport, R. I.

Upon invitation of the Newport Horticultural Society, a large audience assembled on the 26th inst., at the society's hall to listen to a lecture delivered by Prof. H. J. Wheeler, Ph. D., of the Rhode Island Agricultural Station. The subject was upon the purpose of ascertaining the needs of particular soils, special manurial requirements of certain plants, investigations as to the substitution of soda for potash, and the action of lime upon the growth of various plants. Stercopticon views, showing experiments of the action of lime on crops, went to prove that lime was a benefit to most crops, while a few derived little benefit, and to a small percentage its use was injurious.

Prof. Wheeler advised the examination of land as to its requirements of fertilizers and lime, as land that has become acid or sour will be benefited by applying lime; and to test the acidity of land, place a piece of litmus paper into a piece of damp soil; if the paper turns red the soil is acid. Another test would be to stir some soil and a quantity of water in two glasses; let the water settle, and pour some ammonia in one glass; if it settles clear the soil is not sour, and needs no lime. He also gave much information as to fertilizers

After the lecture a vote of thanks was given Prof. Wheeler, and a short business meeting was held, when it was voted to give a ball on February 17, and an entertainment committee, consisting of Arthur Griffin, Robert Laurie, John Allan, Joseph Gibson and J. J. Butler were appointed to arrange for same.

for certain soils.

The society will shortly issue its schedule for a chrysanthemum exhibition.

J. J. BUTLER.

Floral Belts.

One of the latest Paris fashions in re-lation to the use of flowers for personal adornment, says the *Gardeners' Maga*adornment, says the Gardeners' Magazine, is the wearing of belts of flowers. The majority of the French ladies prefer belts made of Parma or Neapolitan violets, small roses, or pansies. The belt is completely covered with the flowers, which are seven thicky together in which are sewn thickly together on a plain band of silk elastic, great care being taken to use the finest silk of exactly the same shade as the flowers chosen.

LE ROY, ILL.-L. A. Rike & Son, florists, will build another house 16x64.

THE ALBERT DICKINSON CO. RASS SEEDS

Parks, Tennis Courts, Lawns, &c. In facey I and 2 pound packages and bulk SPECIAL PRICES TO THE TRADE.

CHICAGO, ILL.

SEEDS LAWN GRASS $12.00 per 100 lbs. Finest Quality Ever Offered (Retails (a 30c. lb.)

J. CHAS. McCULLOUGH, SEEDSMAN, RECLEANER AND JOBBER GRASS SEEDS North-East Second & Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, O. Seud for Illustrated Catalogues.

Please mention the American Florist

of Canna roots, all in per-fect condition, strong roots, two and three eyes; strictly true to name and unmixed.

	1(3)	1000
65	Alex Billard $ 3.50
165	Alphonse Bouvier 2 50	$20,00
1/20	Alsace (Blanc's Wh) 5 (0)
4 100	Aml Picton 2 50
	Austrla 3.00	25,00
	Capt P. de Suzzoni 3 (0)
174	Ch. Henderson 1 25	10,00
1	Chlcago 3 50
Section 1999	Chevaller Besson 2 (0)	15.00
alas alles	Cat H. de Cholsenl 2 (0)	15.00
1.050 20.00	Egandale	2.7.2
	Florence Vaughan 2 50	20.00
	F. P. Pierson 3.10	4 0.,
Orlolo	10 00
	5 00
Paul Bruan	t 2 00	15.00
		20 00
Paul Marqu		217 (87
Pres Carno
		20.00
		20.00
		07.00
	(S 4.00)	35.00
wm. Elliott	2 50	15 00
Mixed Tal	1 Growing 2.00	15.40

5 PER CENT. DISCOUNT FOR CASH WITH ORDER.

THE LOVETT COMPANY, Little Silver, N. J.

JOSEPH BRECK & SONS, CORP'N.

Peas, Beans and Sweet Gorn

GARDEN SEEDS

Wholesale Catalogue Now Ready

_OF ALL KINDS

18 N. Clark St., CHICAGO.

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

$4.00 per 100. * These are large, extra fine 🛰 Bulbs, English strain.

LILIUM SPECIOSUM RUBRUM, $3.50 per 100 LILIUM SPECIOSUM ALBUM, $4.50 per 100

Fine Nursery Stock such as Rhododendrons. L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Branch of The Horticultural Co., Boskoop, Holland.

NEW . GIANT . ESCHSCHOLTZIAS,

"THE GOLDEN WEST."

New Giant Fancy Cosmos, six splendid varieties, separate, $1 o.c.; Giant Cosmos, splendid mixed, 65c o.c.; Calliopsis "California Sanbeams," $1 o.c. Special rates given on Cosmos in quantity; Apple Geranium, fresh, $1 per 1000 seeds; New Large Flowering Zonale Geranium, $2.50 o.c.; Ipomaa, "Heavenly Blue," $1 o.c., $12 lb.; Laurustinus grandillora, $1 o.c.; Zinnias, "New Curled and Crested," 50c o.c.; $5 lb.; Nassturtium Good Venture, Mixture, 60c lb.; $8 per 15 lbs.; Seaforthia elegant (Palm) 40c per 100 seeds, $3 per 1000 seeds. Send for trade list of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs and Cacti.
MRS. THEOLOGIA B. SHEPHERD.

MRS. THEOOOSIA B. SHEPHERD, Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal.

Always mention American Florist.

TOKIO NURSERY CO.

Headquarters lor JAPAN LILIES, CYCAS REVOLUTA, PLANTS, SEEDS,

Write for Catalogue.

Tokio Nursery Co., KOMAGOME. TOKIO, JAPAN.

Cable Address "NURSERY CO. TOKIO"

Florists, Seedsmen and

ARE ALL REPRESENTED IN THE DIRECTORY

Send us your business card, and have your name in the sixth edition. AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, 324 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

Do Not Buy Carnation Cuttings

At a less price than it costs to grow them and expect good stock. Our prices are as low as good stock can be sold for,

White Cloud Gold Nugget Empress Mrs. Frances Joost Wellesly Conch Shell Psyche	$ 2 00 10 00 75 00	per	100
Painted Lady
Daybreak $2,10 per 110;	≰t8 00	per	100
Jubilee 3 50 per 100	30 00	per	1000
Eldorado	$ 2.00	Dar	100
Meteor			1000
Bridesmaia	15.00	f.e.	1000

FLORA HILL	$ 5.00	per	100
	40.00	per	1000
Nivea	$ 3.00	per	100
	25.00	per	1000

Alaska Scott McGowan	$ 1.50 per 12.00 per	100 1000
Triumph	$ 2.50 per 20.00 per	100 1000

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass.

Send your name and address and receive illi-trated and descriptive price list of Evelina.

Is the grandest mid-winter carnation extant. This is the unanimous opinion of all who have seen it growing and predict for it a grand future. A Surpasses Wm. Scott.

R. WITTERSTAETTER, Sedamsville, O.

Pittsburg.

TRADE QUIET.-MEETING OF THE PITTS BURG AND ALLEGHENY CLUB. - ANTON KRUT OPENS A NEW STORE.-BLIZZARD.

The trade hereabouts remains in the same comparatively quiet state that it has been in since the holiday rush; some of the firms have had a pretty good trade in the social function line, but taken as a whole, business has been only fair. Stock is of good quality and plenty, with the exception of roses.

The Pittsburg and Allegheny Florists' and Gardeners' Club held their regular meeting on the night of January 27 with a fair attendance. The election of officers for this year resulted as follows: President E. C. Reineman; vice-president, George Osterle; treasurer, James Semple; secretary, T. P. Langhans; assistant sec-retary, E. C. Ludwig; executive committec. Gustave Ludwig, Theodore F. Beckert, P. S. Randolph. The annual dues were reduced to $2, and a committee of five were appointed consisting of P. S. Randolph, Fred. Burki, John Bader, T. P. Laughans and President Reineman, to arrange to have something to present at the meetings that will be entertaining or instructive to the members so as to revive the waning interest, make the club what it ought to be Fa real, live club—and which there is no good reason why it ought not to be. The committee is a good one, and it is hoped will be successful.

Anton Krut who has recently opened a florist's store on the South Side, was elected a member. Mr Chas, T. Subart of the East End exhibited a very fare collection of the carnation Evelina, gr. win b. F. Witterstactter, Sedamsville, Ohmo. and Messis. Langhans & Co., a Ohnor and Messis Langhains & Con, a collection constrting of Victor, Chas, A Dance. Here of HT and Jubilee from Ed., to Ford Physiologian both collections de technical techniques of the control of the

Kathleen Pantlind

Price $1.50 per 12; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

Premium-5 Red Wave with every 100 Kathleen Pantlind.

HOPP & LEMKE,

Saturday.

Paul P. O., E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

FIREFLY

A RUST PROOF CARNATION FOR BUSINESS.

Is a much more substantial flower than Daybreak; color a shade or two darker and entirely rust proof. Uan be seen at Vaughan. McKeller & Winterson's every Wednesday and Saturday.

Bright seariet and POSITIVELY RUST PROOF. As productive as Scott. Rooted Cuttings Feb. 15th, $10 per 100, $75 per 1000. Send for descriptive list of Firefly and lifteen other novelties of '98, fifteen varieties of '97 and older standard sorts.

GRAND MAVEN. MICH. GEO. HANCOCK & SON.

When writing mention the American Florist.

NATHAN SMITH & SON

Wholesale Florists

Specialties & ADRIAN, MICH.

CHRYSANTEMUMS CARNATIONS .4.4.4 AND VIOLETS.

· · · CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED · ·

50,000 Flat-Grown GARNATIONS

	STR	ONC S	тоск.	per 100	per 1000
Daybreak				$2.00	$15 00
Scott				2 00	15 00
Rose Queen.				2 00	15 00
Tidat wave.				1.50	12.00
Portla.				1.50	12.00
Rob Roy (ne	w 1			10.00
Jubilen
Snow Queen
Silver Spray				1.50	12.00
L. Mctlowan				1.50	12.00
Eldorado. M
Flora Hill .
Triumph, Ar
Pluto, new.

Cash with order. HENRY A NIEMEYER, Erie, Pa-

NOW OR NEVER

Is your chance for getting your name and address into the 1898 Directory. Do not be too late. In addition to the arrangement of names by States and Towns, a complete alphabetical list of all names will appear. If you know a man s name and have leagetten his address, you can thus readily find it. This is an entirely new feature and will double the value of the book.

SPLCIAL LETORTS are being put forth to make the New Directory (sixth editioni complete and reliable in every particular. Florists, Surserymen and seedsmen are all represented. Write for advertising rates,

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY,

321 DEARBORN STREET, CHICAGO.

St. Paul.

GOOD WEATHER BUT STOCK SHORT.-LOOK OUT FOR THE PALM SWINDLER. - BEAU-TIES A FAILURE.

The weather for January was the finest on record for the florist.

Flowers, however, are not abundant and the demand has exceeded the supply for several weeks. Roses are all off crop, and while the plants are vigorous and thrifty and are making plenty of new growth the crowning glory of that growth, good blooms, are not yet apparent. Roses of all kinds are in good demand, the greatest call being for Meteors and Brides. Bridesmaid sells well the year round, and taking everything into consideration, is the most popular and profitable pink rose grown in this fellow who was reported at Buffalo and Montreal, was here about ten days since, and obtained $60 worth of choice plants from Aug. Vogt.

vicinity.

The palm swindler, evidently the same

C. A. Smith, of Minneapolis, has a range of well appointed houses, devoted principally to roses and carnations. He grows the old time favorite Bennett to perfection on stems of good length along with a bench of choice Woottons in the same house. His Brides, Bridesmaids and Testout are also remarkably clean and strong and promise an abundant cut in the near future. Mr. Smith bought quite heavily of Belle Siebrecht the year of its introduction, and has grown it with varying success ever since. With him, as with others, its fault is its weak stem. Just at present Mr. Smith's house of Marie Louise violets would be hard to beat.

At John Vasatka's the usual quantity of geraniums and other choice bedding stock was seen. Mr. Vasatka has made a specialty of growing this class of stock years, and knows just how to do it.

Mendenhall's orchids are the finest and largest collection in a commercial place in the northwest. His main stock consists of Cattleya labiata and Trianæ, with a good assortment of choice dendrobes, lælias, eælogynes, etc. His extensive range of houses is well filled with a general line of stock.

A. Hartman's houses are well filled with choice stock. Mr. Hartman is just recovering from an attack of appendicitis. His able foreman, Mr. Hall, has kept things booming just the same.

E. Nagel & Co. report increased sales and a general improvement in the cut flower business all along the line.

A visit to the greenhouses of Carlsen & Lauritsen, located at Como Park, shows a decided improvement since the change of ownership. This is the establishment formerly owned and operated by C. I. Warren, who left here some two years since. The property passed into the hands of the mortgagee who sold it last summer. A violet house has been added and a new boiler pit and a new boiler put in. The place is devoted principally to roses which are looking very fine.

The query how to grow good Beauties in mid-winter in this latitude is still going round for an answer. The best growers here are unable to cope with the question. Heretofore the poor success could be attributed to dark, cold weather, but this season with bright, sunny days and mild temperatures, the Beauty acts just the same, and puts forth as many bull headed flowers as usual. As many people prefer this rose at $1 each, when $2 per dozen would be considered high for good teas, there is a Klondike in store for the grower who succeeds in producing good blooms all the season through.

E. F. Lemke's range of houses is filled with the usual amount of good salable stock, his main crop being roses. He plants both in solid beds and benches, and grows as good stock in one place as in another. His carnations of the Silver Spray variety are poor and played out. This once popular variety seems to have rapidly degenerated into a mere scrub

FELIX.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.-Mr. Daniel Casey, gardeuer at the state greenhouses, has a number of very promising carnation seedlings. One of them, a red named Mrs. Lou V. Stevens, he thinks is especially good, and expects to put it on the market after further careful test.

Now or Never

Is your chance for getting your name and address into the 1898 Directory. Do not be too late. In addition to the arrangement of names by States and Towns, a complete alphabetical list of all names will appear. If you know a man's name and have forgotten his address, you can thus readily find it. This is an entirely new feature, and will double the value of the book. SPECIAL EFFORTS are being put forth to make the New Directory (sixth edition) complete and reliable in every particular. Florists, Nurserymen and Seedsmen are all represented. Write for advertising rates.

for advertising rates

American Florist Company,

324 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

DREER'S

"SPECIAL OFFER" OF EASTER 🗷 🥦

AZALEA

We are carrying in stock an immense quantity of Azaleas for Easter forcing: the plants are in good condition and finely set with buds; the varieties we offer are only the best commercial sorts.

As these plants can be more safely shipped when in bud, we wish to impress the importance of early orders. We will not be responsible for injuries arising from late shipments when the buds are developed.

Size in parts, rice leastly growns

Size in parts, rice leastly growns

Size in 10 to 12 $5 00 $40 00

 5-iu. pots, nice bushy crowns.
 10 to 12

 6
 12 to 15

WE CAN FURNISH THE FOLLOWING VARIETIES ALL GRAND

SPECIMEN PLANTS

BERNHARDT ANDREAS	ALBA, 20-inch	-diameter	CTOWNS							- %≋ on eacin
4.4	 30	••	4.5							10,00 **
A. BORSIG,	36		+4							10.00 **
DEUTSCHE PERLE,	20	+4	9.6							2.00 **
DR. D. MOORE,	54	4.5	4.9							3.00 **
EMPRESS OF INDIA,	18	4.5	* *							2.00 %
PUNCTULATA,	26	+4								3.00
SIMON MARDNER,	18		4.9							2,50
VERVÆNEANA,	18		**
MME. VAN DER CRUYZI	EN	16-inc	h at $1.	00; 18	-incl	ata	1 50:	20-i	nch at	2.00 "
4.9		22-inc	hat 12.	50; 24-	incl	ats	5.00;	28-1	nch at	7.50 "

Pot-Grown Lilacs for Forcing.

SPECIMEN AZALEA

Fine pot-grown plants, bushy and covered with buds, Charles X, and Marie Lagraye, 50c each.

Metrosideros Floribunda. Bottle Brush.

We have a fine lot of both tree and bush shaped plants of this useful plant, in fine shape for forcing for Easter.

Bush shaped plants with 12-inch bushy crowns, $t

Standards with sfems 20 inches high and 12 to 15 inch crowns, $1.50 each.

Acacia Armata.

A pretty spring flowering variety which produces its flowers in globular heads from the axils of the foliage in such a manner as to completely envelope the plant in a pleasing light yellow; an excellent plant for Easter forcing, succeeding under the same culture as the Azaleas. We offer a fine lot of well-budded specimen plants in 7 and 8-inch pots, 26 to 30 inches high, $2.00 and $2.50 each.

3332222EEE666

See our Flower Seed "Ad" in this Number.

HENRY A. DREER, 714 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Indianapolis.

The February meeting of the Florists' Club, held at Huntington & Page's seed Tuesday evening, was largely attended. There was much indignant discussion about the party who claims to represent a prominent florist of the north side, that visits houses where a death has occured and insists upon getting some funeral work to do, in fact, can hardly be got rid of until he has an order. Then when delivering the goods, will not leave without his money, which probably is done to avoid making his name known. A committee has been appointed to see to it that the newspapers bring the matter before the people. Thirty thousand tickets will also be printed which the florists will distribute among their customers, asking for their assistance in suppressing this disgraceful way of doing business.

Mr. Hatfield's paper on "Why do we ventilate," contained many good pointers and was listened to with much interest.

Robert McKain reported that the wife of the late pioneer florist of this state, Mrs. Allen Lloyd, had passed away. The three oldest members of the club, Messrs. Hatfield, Wiegand and Langstaff, were appointed a committee to represent the club at the funeral and provide a floral tribute. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd were for many years honorary members of the state society, and were held in high esteem by all.

On the kind invitation of Huntington & Page every meeting hereafter will be held at their store.

Syracuse, N. Y.

Trade opened up rather quiet the begining of the week, but large funeral orders and high school exercises made business quite lively the latter part.

Cut flowers of all kinds, with the exception of bulbous stuff, are very scarce, owing in a great measure to the extreme cold weather, accompanied with heavy snows now prevailing. Last Sunday was the coldest day this winter so far, the thermometer going down to S' below zero, and at this writing a genuine blizzero, and at this withing a genuine stard is in progress. Both foliage and flowering plants have a downward tendency, the majority of sales, which are tew and far between, being more for small, low priced plants, such as einerarias hyncinths, and primroses, than higher grade specimen plants.

Thos Pashop, our genual park superintendent, is able to be out and around again, after a long and painful sickness, resulting from blood poisoning.

ALPHA.

ORCHIDS ORCHIDS

ORCHIDS

Our Specialty. Correspondence Solicited. LAGER & HURRELL, - Summit, N. J.

HARDY

Herbaceous Perennials

THE MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN AMERICA PAONIES, PHLOY, IRIS, DELPHINIUMS, ETC., ETC.

JACOH W. MANNING, The Reading Normery, READING, MASS.

Estamount d When writing mention the American Exprist

Adiantum Farleyense

BEAUTIFUL PLANTS. In 5-inch pots, at $100 per dozen.

EDWIN LONSDALE, Wyndmoor,

Money Order Office, Station H. Phila.

Chestnut Hill, PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

BOSTON FERN

Strong plants, 6-inch pots, $1.00 each; $12.00 per doz.; also three varieties of PTERIS, bushy plants, 5-inch pots, 20c each; $2.40 per doz.

IOHN WELSH YOUNG,CERMANTOWN, PA.

ROSE HILL NURSERIES, JUST ARRIVED!

Cocos Weddeliana $7.50 per 1000. 5000 lots, $36.00.

SIEBRECHT & SON, New Rochelle, N. Y. New York Office, 409 Fifth Avenue.

Rooted Cuttings, 25 of the leading kinds, 60c per hundred free delivery. I will give good count.

S. D. BRANT,

THE CLAY CENTER FLORIST. CLAY CENTER, KAS. FEBRUARY OFFER.

1,	er 100
Alternanthera, Yellow, $1.50; Red$	2.00
English Ivy	3.00
Begonias, 5 var	3.00
Oxalis Floribunda	2.50
Ceraniums, 16 Var., 2-in. pots	2.50
Paney Plants	1.00
CASH WITH ORDER

JOS. H. CUNNINCHAM, Delaware, O.

LEUCOTHE OF all wholesale florists or write the Introducer for free samples and information......

SPRAYS... HABLAN P. KELSEY, BOSTON, MASS. 150 Tremont Building.

BRILLIANT GREEN AND BRONZE

GALAX LEAVES.

For Decorating and all Florists' Designs. CHAS H RICKSECKER, Linvilla, Mitchall Co. N. C.

Do not fail

To send your business card and have your name in the Directory lor 1898.....

American Florist Company, 321 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Palms.

Pandanus Veitchii, Ferns and Araugarias.

IN ANY QUANTITY.

JOHN SCOTT.

Keap Street Greenhouses,

.... BROOKLYN, N. Y.

ROBERT CRAIG Palms

and Novelties in Decorative Plants.

Market and 49th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

MAINT AND TO.

SPECIALT

IN BEST VARIETIES.

ROSES, from 3-inch pots. from 3-inon pots.
CARNATIONS, for fall delivery.
CHRYSANTHEMUMS.
SMILAX.

VIOLETS. Prices low. Send for list.

WOOD BROTHERS, FISHKILL, N.Y.

Cocos

Healthy Growing Plants

Samples for Stamps

Weddeliana...

VIGTOR GARNATION

Wanted for Cash A few 1000 Glovin separate Boston

V. H. HALLOCK & SON, Queens, N.Y.

Bulbous Stock On own Fore order of the control of t sellers

Ist size Dutch Hyacinths in 18 named varieties $1 00 per doz

TULIPS Single and Double, Yellow, White, Pink and colored Also tily of Valley CROCUS in I best colors. Hine Buth Pagsa-in 25c doz , 6-in 35c doz.

Stock packed in sphagnum and will stand 5 days' journey. Cash with order....

H. SCHILLER

897 W. Madison St., - CHICAGO, ILL.

Chester County Carnation Society.

The annual meeting of the Chester County Carnation Society was held January 29 in the office of Wm. Swayne. A hurried look around the houses before the meeting showed carnations in fine condition. Several benches of the seedling Empress are excellent, stems two and a half to three feet long with many flowers of very large size. A bench of Sloane showed a marked contrast in favor of plants potted and kept on benches indoors through the summer over stock grown in the field, the former being more productive and much stronger in stem.

President Styer being absent, the meeting was called to order by vice-president Edward Swayne. The election of offi-cers resulted as follows: President, C. J. cers resulted as follows: President, C. J. Pennock; vice-president, Edward Swayne; secretary, W. R. Shelmire; treasurer, C. S. Swayne. George M. Chandler, J. M. Palmer and N. L. Wilson were elected members. Percy Barnard asked if it was possible to rid a variety of rust in one year. He had seen what he considered a valuable new project, but it was coordinated. valuable new variety, but it was considerably affected with rust. He could keep the stock isolated, but did not care to buy if there was not a good chance of getting rid of the rust in one year. C. S. Swayne said he had cleared one variety of rust in one season. C. J. Pennock advised keeping clear of the disease, as Mr. Barnard did not now have other affected stock. Mr. Shelmire believed, contrary to the generally accepted theory, that a free use of water tended to keep down rust, and knew of two well known growers, one in Massachusetts and one on Long Island, who advocated the same method. Mr. Barnard knew of a grower who claimed that on two adjoining who claimed that on two adjoining benches, where the plants were affected with this disease, only the soil of one bench was watered while in the neighbor-ing one plants and soil were watered, with the result that the latter improved very much over the others.

A discussion on the cutting bench fungus, in which Messrs. Chandler, Shelmire and others took part, was followed by some comment on the American Carnation Society. Mr. Pennock suggested that the low membership roll was probably due in part to the very full reports of the proceedings of the society published in the trade papers, and that sufficient effort had never been made to increase the number of members. The fee for the registra-tion of seedlings was strongly criticised by some members on the ground that it must tend to duplicate names, as many growers believed it to be right to record all names free, and a refusal to pay the fee would tend to place on the market some unrecorded varieties. The matter of certificates was by some members thought to be objectionable as now practiced and that a free exhibition without certificates would be preferable.

Secretary Shelmire exhibited the seedlings Cardinalis, scarlet, three and three-quarter inches in diameter; Emaline, deep pink, very large. L. Eastburn showed two white seedlings, Anna Eastburn and Mary Baker, with long stems and extra fine blooms.

Carnations Chrysanthemums

NEW AND STANDARD VARIETIES

Our new Trade List will embrace the leading novelties of 1898 and 1897 as well as the best standard sorts. Address

Oakland, Md. H. WEBER & SONS,

NEW GARNATION

"Mrs.S.A. Northway"

A soft shell pink, developing to nearly pure white.

OUR MASTERPIECE.

We shall commence shipping soon.

Orders booked now and filled in rotation. . . .

PRICE: PER 100. $10.00.

Newer Geraniums.

Mme. Bruant, Mme. Jaulen, Fleure Poitevine, J. Sallier and J. Ricaud. Fine stock from 214-inch pots, $5.00 per 100  ROOTED CUTTINGS, $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000. Net cash.

GENERAL LIST OF GERANIUMS.

A superb stock in quality and variety of all the finest sorts, from 2½-in. pots, named. $25 per 1000; unnamed, $20 per 1000. & ROOTED CUTTING, $12.50 per 1000. Net cash. & & & & &

Fuchsias.

A grand lot of summered-over stock in small pots that will make early blooming plants, $3 per 100.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO.

Make the following statement to the readers of the American Florist & & & & &

> As originators and introducers of

"Silver Spray,"

"Tidal Wave,"

"Daybreak,"

and "Rose Queen,"

each of which has, we believe, proven even better than we claimed for them. We NOW say for 1898 that possesses all the good points that go to make up a first-class and profitable cut flower sort. and that we introduce it with even more confidence than we did the others.

"Mrs. S. A. Northway"

It is an extra strong grower. It is free from rust or disease. It is a profuse bloomer.

It has excedingly strong stiff stems.

It is of exquisite form full and double.

The flower is high built. petals serrated.

The calyx does not burst. It is delightfully fragrant (a quality lacking in many new ones.)

OUR PRICE LIST now ready, contains prices on many other plants.

SEND FOR

W. P. SIMMONS & CO., Geneva, Ohio.

NEW PINK CARNATION

SEEDLING from McGowan x Wm. Scott; tested for four years. It is of an exceedingly pleasing color and proved itself an early and most prolific bloomer. It makes in a short time a fine bushy plant, and has the form and habit of what carnation men say make an ideal plant. Positively free from rust. The stem is strong and heavy enough make an ideal plant. Positively free from rust. The stem is strong and heavy enough to carry the large flower creet without tying of any sort. Calyx perfect; never bursts. It is a good keeper and a good shipper. You will make no mistake by trying a few. Rooted cuttings ready now. All orders filled in rotation. As the sale of the stock of this Carnations will be limited, it is advisable to order early if you want any. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CASH WITH ORDER.

Price, $2 per doz.: $10 per 100: $75 per 1000.

C. BESOLD, MINEOLA, Long Island, N. Y.

MONEY- MAKING CARNATIONS.

Roper's May Whitely

Daybreak Color, Fragrant,

...and Mayor Quincy

Rooted Cuttings ...Ready Now

The Improved Nicholson. Per 100, $10; per 500, $35; per 1000, $50 ...

Tailby's Wellesley

Brilliant Scarlet, Crand Constitution...
Per 100, $10; per 1000, $75.

GEO. A. SUTHERLAND.

Selling Agent, 67 Bromfield St., BOSTON, MASS.

When writing mention American Florist.

Carnation and Violet Cuttings.

Auswering "Subscriber," Philadelphia: Carnations are best rooted in a coarse clean sand, in a cool, airy house without bottom heat. Xo doubt they ean be rooted in soil if proper care is given, and such as root will probably make equally good plants. Much more care must be given, however, or many will be lost, and there is nothing to be gained by attempting to root them in soil.

The best time to root violets is in the latter part of February or early in March. The "insects" inclosed were so badly erushed in the mail that they could not be identified.

GUTHRIE, O. T.-Farrow Brothers were nearly wiped out by a hail storm on the night of January 24. They locked the door before the horse was stolen by insuring in the Florists' Hail Association.

BUY YOUR ROOTED

Carnation Cuttings

GROWN FROM EXTRA FINE HEALTHY STOCK.

Alaska	$ 2.00 per 100 $15.00 per 100	o.
Triumph) Daybreak Jubilee)
Armazindy McBurney Flora Hill Mayor Pingree	5 5.00 per 100

"Best stock" is cheapest. We took most all the carnation prizes at the recent St. Louis show.

SOUTH PARK FLORAL CO.

NEW CASTLE, IND.

Experiences

. . . WITH . . .

CARNATIO

Ready now. Send me your address on a postal and receive them regularly, during the season.

ALBERT M. HERR,

.... LANCASTER, PA.

สิกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกก

Rooted Carnation Cuttings

		0
Ready Feb. Int.	P	r]1s1
All orders was be filled	Man eatt	41 41
ir retailore mend your	Sizza M. Germin
M. A. Hunt Floral	Allerin	2.147
m. A. Hullt Floral		1.00
Co. Terre Haute, Ind	1
1.0.	1: + Q n + 6	1.50
P. O. Bor So.	Let be extend	2.191

NEW CARNATION....

Empress

Send for price list of above. New and Standard Sorts....

WM. SWAYNE, Box 226, Kennett Square, Pa.

THE NEW Cerise Queen «««CARNATION

The best dark pink we have seen or grown. Orders booked now. $10 per hundred.

Mayor Pingree

FINE STOCK

JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS.

DETROIT, MICH.

WANTED Carnation growers to look into the merits of and be convinced that it is the coming commercial variety of its color. READY MARCH 1st, Price, $2.00 per dozen: $10.00 per 100: $75.00 per 1000.

Send for circular for full description and a select list of money makers in Chrysanthemums. STOLLERY BROS., Argyle Park, CHICAGO.

Anybody Can Grow & & ienesee

COMMERCIAL

WHITE

Originators: HARMON & BURR, Darien, N. Y.

Carnation For Prices, Circulars, etc., address

DAN'L B. LONG, Sales Agent, BUFFALO, N. Y.

````

CARNATIONS.

WHITE CLOUD—White.
GOLD NUGGET—Yellow.
NEW YORK (Ward)—Bright cerise pink.
MRS. JAMES DEAN (Ward)—Clear silvery pink.
JOHN YOUNG (Ward)—White.
BON TON (Ward)—Scarlet.
Prices for above varieties: $2.00 per doz., $10.00 per 100, $75.00 per 1000.

We will also have Cerise Queen (Breitmeyer),
Argyle (Stollery), Jack Frost (Swayne), Empress (Swayne), Evelina (Witterstaetter), Firefly (Hancock), Pyche (Hill), Pantied Lady
(Hill), and Mrs. S. A. Northway (Simmons). All good 1897 novelties and other standard varieties at reasonable prices.

New Chrysanthemums.

MRS, C. II. PEIRCE - Vellow.

3 ic each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

SNOW QUEEN - White.

50c each, $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

MERRY CHRISTMAS - Late White.

35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

Send for Descriptive Price List. Ready January, 1898.

F. DORNER & SONS CO. LA FAYETTE, IND.

STRONG, HEALTHY ROOTED CUTTINGS Ready Feb. III and Later

Including Morello I form Hill Daybrenk, Win. Scott Lazze Mctaowan Ivory Silver Spray, Enrily Piercon Goldlinch, Eddorado and others. Send no clist of what you want and get prices before you bey. We also have a fine lot of Carmation and Vicert Louisins for sale. Write for prices, white

CHAS. CHADWICK,

Lock Box II. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

It is proud business policy to mention the American Horist when you write to our advertisers.

ROSES. Bridesmaid.....
Brides.....
Perles
La France
Meteors...
Kaiserin $1.50 per 100, $12.50 per 1000, Cuttinge.

CARNATIONS.
William Scott.
Nancy Hanks.
Tidel Wave.
Portia.
Lizzie McCowan.
Kchinoor.
Mrs. Thompson
Daybreak.
Emma Wocher $1.00 per 100. $7.50 per 1000. Emma Wocner
Meteor
Coldfinch
Lizzie Cilbert
Harrison's White...
Bridesmaid.
Niveo...
Jubilee...
No order for less than 100 of or $1.50 per 100. $12.50 per 1000. $3.00 per 100. $25.00 per 1000. one variety accepted.

FINE ROSE PLANTS
From 2 ginch puts. Ready February Eth.

REINBERG BROS. 51 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

50,000 ROOTED GUTTINGS

CARNATIONS
Daybreak, Rose Queen. $1.25 per 100, or $10.00 per 1000;
Retler W. Scott, Thos. Carriedge, $1.00 per 100, or $5.50 per 100: Lozzle McGowan, 75e per 100, or $6.50 per 1000. Har.tson's White, Victor, $2.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000. ner 1000

per 1000

CHRYSANTHEMUMS
Two-linch pots.

Major Bonnaffon, 33–00 per 100 or $20,00 per 1000: The Queen, Pluk Ivory, 35–00 per 100, 20,60 per 1000: President Smith Eda Prass, $2.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000.

WIOLETS
Murle Louise, $5 (8) per 1000. Bomble Alyssum, 2-inch pots 75c per 100. Cash with order or satisfactory reference.

PAXTON GREENHOUSES, C. E. Taube, Prop.

BAKER'S NEW CARNATIONS.

Grown and tested five years.

ONEIDA Pure plak Inactity; no rust; continuous producer; largest size bloom

RED JACKET Bright red, line stem and calyx; continuous cropper. $110.400 per 100.

Orders booked now to be filled in rotation as fast as rooted.

C. F. BARBIR, Ution, N. Y.

Cleveland.

The supply of flowers continues to be rather short, although there is usually enough to go around, but at times, for special occasions, on busy days it takes some hustling to get suitable stock. Car-nations are still somewhat short, but bulb stuff of various kinds tends to help out in emergencies. Harrisii at this writing are rather hard to get, the earlier stocks being about through, and there seems to be a break between them and the later stock. Owing to the very general prevalence of disease in the bulbs and their well known trick of throwing the best and healthiest stems in the earliest batches, it would not be surprising if there were some shortage later in the season. Dutch bulb stuff and valley show great improvement this week over the earlier forcings and are now practically as good as they will be. A few common Tournesols are to be seen, also a few Murillos, but both sorts lack in quality as compared with the early single forcing varieties. Prices continue steady.

There was a very large demand for flowers of the highest grade for the funeral of Mrs. Bingham, which occurred since the last report. Everything used was of the very best and in lavish quantities. American Beauties, cattlevas, violets and valley and similar choice flowers were very much in evidence. The most noticeable feature otherwise was the fact that almost nothing calling for a wire frame was to be seen, the only exception being some wreaths made up entirely in choice flowers artistically arranged.

The bowling club met as usual last Monday evening and had a great time. A game each of ten pins and nine pins was bowled, and some very good scores were made at both games. It should be remembered that Monday evening, February 7, is ladies night.

Verbena King ONE MILLION

to offer the following season in 55 of the latest and best mammoth named vars.in cultivation, free from rust or mildew. Satisfaction and safe arrival guaranteed in every way to all norts of U.S. and Canada. 66 beep 100; 5500 for $55; 1000 for $55; 25 0000 for $ HELIOTROPES, rooted cuttings, 10 named vars , $1 00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000. Express prepaid.

TESTIMONIALS.

C HUMFELD. DEAR SIR: -We wish to thank you for the extra fine Verbena Cuttings received. They were the finest we ever saw; also for the extra count we thank you. Resp'y, TIPTON & HURST. Little Rock. Ark.

C. HUMFELD, DEAR SIR:—Your Verbena Cuttings received this day. They are the finest cuttings I ever received; a credit to any florist; none better.

Yours Resp'y,

GEO. T. SCHUNEMAN,

Blue Point, L. L. N. Y.

CASH PLEASE.

C. HUMFELD, Clay Center, Kan.

MHMMMOTH

Verbena Seed, 100 Colors, np-to-date, per oz., $1.00 Coleus, 21<sub>2</sub>-in, pots, 10 best bedders, per 100, 1.00 Send for price list now ready of Carnations, Geraniums, Feverlew, Salvias, Coleus, Cannas, and Gynura or Velvet Plant.

The Morris Floral Go. MORRIS, ILL.

100,000 VERBENAS. THE CHOICEST VARIETIES IN CULTULATION

Fine pot plants, $2.50 per 100; $20 per 1000. Rooled Cuttings, 75c per 100; $6.00 per 1000; $50 per 10000. NO RUST OR MILDEW.

PACKED LIGHT, AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. We are the Largest Growers of Verbenas in the country.

Our plants cannot be surpassed.

J. L. DILLON, Bloomsburg, Pa.

ىدىد.VERBENAS بىدىد

The finest collection in America, 35 varieties, every one a gem-mammoth size, striking colors, green as grass and as clean as a whistle. Strong plants, out of 2-inch pots, full of enttings, $1.50 per hundred; rooted cuttings, 60 cents per hundred, $5.00 per thousand.

ETRICTLY CASH WITH ORDER.

SOUTH SIDE FLORAL CO., Springfield, III.

GHRYSANTHEMUMS.

STOCK PLANTS FROM BENCH.

Marion Henderson, Montmort, Ivory, Pink Ivory, Queen (white and yellow), Wanamaker, etc.
Also a large collection of the best Ostrich
Plume varieties. All $1.00 per dozen;
$5.00 per hundred.

CHAS. L. MARSHALL, 67 Merrimac St., Lowell, Mass. Mention American Florist.

GERANIUMS THAT WILL PLEASE YOU

S A. Nutt, Beaute Poitevine, La Favorite, Heteranthe, 21/4-in. pots, per 1000 $25 00.

Cash with order please

H. R. CARLTON, Willoughby, O.

JUST FOR FUN

 ONLY A FEW FIRST CLASS Sanseviera zeylanica, Strong plants 4-inch Doz.
 100

 Begonia Rex, variety, large plants, lach pots.
 5.00
 75
 5.00

MCDONALD & STEELE, 109 S. Washington St., Crawfordsville, Ind.

SOLANUM

The most shows semi-climber of recent introduction. Strong 3-inch plants now ready. Also Little Cem Callas. 2-inches Logan Berries. Straw-berry Raspiberries. Mayberries. Write for list and prices.

The Conard & Jones Co. WEST GROVE.

VINCA VARIEGATA.

Cash with order please,

GUST. OBERMEYER, Parkersburg. W. Va.

MAMMOTH VERBENAS

Fine selected stock in separate colors, Rooted cuttings, per 100, 75c; per 1000, §6-00.—Cash with order.

FRANK S. PAYNE, Barnard Crossing, N. Y.

5,000 SMILAX..

From 3-Inch pots, $1,30 per 100, $4,00 per 100)
From 3-Inch pots, $1,30 per 100, $13.00 per 100)
From 3-Inch pots, $20 per 100
Cash with the order. Cape May City, N. J.

TO EXCHANGE

Ivy Geraniums For Carnations

GEO. F. BRABON, - KENT, Portage Co., OHIO.

BOUGAINVILLEAS.

Beautiful for "cutting" or pot sale.
Free and durable, and blooming for four to six months of the year. Very easily handled and not subject to any insect pests.

Send for "Comments and Facts."

THEO. F. BECKERT, Glenfield, Pa. 9 mtles below Pittsburg, Pa.

The Cottage Ga -> - QUEENS. L.I Specialties in CARNATIONS, CHRYSANTHEINUMS (CHOOMS. GERADIUMS, DAHLIAS. SEND FOR OUR PRICE LIST

KLONDIKE

~=~=~=~!

Cold Fields at your door. - CERANIUMS.

Cold Fields at your door.—CERANIUMS.
Grown in soil in flats, ready to shift into 3-inch pote, $15.00 per 1000.

St. A. Nutt. Beaute Pultevine, Mrs. Leg. Hill, Van Dael and Robt, Brett; the same in 23-cinch pots, $20,00 per 1000.

Standard sorts such as double Grant, Bruanti, La Fayette, La Favortte, Le Pliot, Gloire de France, Hoff Beech, Wonder, Mrs. J. M. Gaar, Jules Ferry Centanean and others, $12.00 per 1000, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 24-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Fuchsla, standard sorts, from flats, $1.50 per 1000. Fuchsla, standard sorts, from flats, $1.50 per 1000. Fuchsla, standard sorts, from flats, $1.50 per 1000. Slate of St. Standard Sort, standard sorts, $1.50 per 1000, $1.50 per 1000. Slate of St. Standard St. S

J. E. FELTHOUSEN, Schenectady, N. Y.

AZALEA INDICA

Fine Well-Budded Plants.

All the best varieties, and will make fine plants for Easter blooming. 10 to 12-inch crowns.....$3.50 per dozen. 13 to 15-inch crawns.....$5.50 per dozen.

CINERARIAS, 5-inch, bud and bloom $1.25 per doz.
DOUBLE GOLDEN DWARF MARGUERITE Cuttings.
by mail, $1.50 per 100.

WHITTON & SONS, cor. Cily & Green Sts., Utica, N. Y, ........

WHY NOT....

Advertise and sell some rooted cuttings or other surplus stock.

THIS SIZE "AD." ONLY $1.00.

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO, ******

GALIFORNIA PRIVET

1 year old, 12 to 20-inch tops, stocky, $8,00 per 1000 1 year old, 12 to 15-inch tops, 6,00 per 1000 1 year old, 8 to 12-inch tops, 4.00 per 1000 Cuttings, 6 inches long, tied 200 in bunch $1.25 per 1000; 25,000 lots, $1.00 per 1000.

River View Nurseries. O'HAGAN & KING, Little Silver, N. J.

Seedlings and Cions

APPLE GRAFTS Of Apple, Cherry, Pear and Plum &

Low Prices. Send List of Wants to

D. S. LAKE, - Shenandoah, Iowa,

Park Visits Buffalo.

I was in Buffalo last week, and among those whom I had the pleasure of meeting was Daniel B. Long, who said business was very good; Christ, Christensen, formerly one of Buffalo's leading florists, who I found looking very well but suffering from a bad bunion on his left foot; Mrs. Newlands, a sister of Mr. McMillan, former superintendent of Buffalo parks, whose greenhouses always look well, and who has had a very nice trade; voung Mr. Palmer, of W. J. Palmer & Son, Main street, who grow such fine Meteor roses and Daybreak carnations, trade with them being good; Schwert & Berner, the wholesale florists of Forks, who are growing and sending to the Buffalo markets some of the best stuff grown in the neighborhood.

Looked in upon Jos. Roehling & Son, of Gardenville, a suburb of Buffalo; their stock is in first-class shape. I did not see Mr. Wm. Scott until Saturday evening shortly before 1 started home, he being busy at his carnation plantation in the village of Corfu, where he is cutting some dandy earnations. I called on James Milley, of Masten street, his houses and stock were in A1 shape. John G. Pickleman, Jr., of French street, has a good stock of miscellaneous stuff, his lilies are looking fine. I also called on K. A. Kump, Jos. Staillinger, John Spies, Jr.; their stock looks all right and in good shape. I had a word with J. H. Rebstock, the Main street florist, who is always busy; he says while business has been splendid, collections are rather slow; the stock in his greenhouses looks well.

My time was so limited in Buffalo that I had to miss the pleasure of seeing Prof. Cowell, of the Botanic Gardens, and also Jas. Braik, of the park system Park.

Conservatory Notes.

In the furnishing of the conservatory at Washington Park there are a number of Chinese primroses of all varieties, shades and colors now to be had in this popular mid-winter flowering plant. Mr. Kanst has a variety, in color a counterpart of Mrs. McBurney carnations, with flowers nearly three inches in diameter.

There are a number of specimens containing three plants in each pot, the pots being generally of eight inches diameter. The effect is excellent, where strong masses of color are desired at little cost. of these have flower heads ten mehes in Impatiens Sultani is a very effective house plant at this season, and should be encouraged. A few specimens of Mevenia creeta with Tyrian purple flowers, having golden yellow throats, is just lovely. It is an old plant and none the worse for being so.

As ong winter the vering begonias mani-

NEW CHRYSANTHEMUMS FOR 1898

Alice F. Carey, Chempwec, Dolores, Min newaska, Miss Glady: Vanderbilt, Robert G. Carey, Spotswood, at $3.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100, ज्यायायायायायाय यायायायायाय यायायाय cata and manicata aurea are beautiful with their blushful weird-like scapes. A fine display of azaleas are brilliant at this moment—histy plants from eighteen to twenty-four inches in diameter, with bright, clean, healthy foliage. There are about fifteen varieties, all good. Their names are: Dentsche Perle, Flambeau, Empress of India, Niobe, Mme. Van der Cruyssen, Dr. Moore, Empereur de Brazil, Sig. Rucker, Vervæneana, Mme. de Greve, Rosa Bonheur, Simon Mardner, Bernard Andrea alba, Comte de Chambord, Mme. M. Langenhove. This is not a very extensive list, but it is a really good one for general purposes.

Chrysanthemum

The SENSATION Of the Season & & Frank Hardy

Certificated by the committees of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

First prize among whites wherever exhibited.

The best mid-season white to date and indispensable to every grower whether for exhibition of the cut flower trade. Plants ready March 1st and orders filled in rotation.

Price, per plant, 50c; per dozen, $3; per 100, $20; per 1000, $150.

25 at 100 rate. 250 at 1000 rate.

A. HERRINGTON,

Florham Farms,

MADISON, NEW JERSEY.

Two Great Sports

CARNATION

VICTOR

Undoubtedly the best Pink Carnation in commerce and certainly the most prollife bloomer, perfectly healthy and of vigorous growth Rooted cuttingt now rendy $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Come and see this carnation growing.

CHRYSANTHEMUM PENNSYLVANIA

The finest yellow for cut blooms or exhibition pur poses ever produced Plants ready March 15, $5.00 per doz.; $35.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000.

HUGH GRAHAM, 104 South 13th Street, PHILADELPHIA.

PEAGOGK'S Prize Winning Dahlias

All the Newest and Best Varieties

It pays to buy from the leading grower. We grew more than 26 acres of Dahlins the past season more than any flye (5) other growers in the world combined. Write us for wants and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

Our 1898 illustrated descriptive catalogue necentally describing all the leading new and old varieties is now in the printers hands and will be sent about Feb. 1st to all who received our 1897 list without application. Send for it, it will interest you.

W. P. PEACOCK, Atco, N. J.

30,000 DAHLIAS

Before ordering your Dahila stock be sure and send for my catalogue novelties and standards of the best quality and at the lowest prices. All stock guaranteed true to name.

W. W WILMORE, 80x 382. DENVER, CO.O.

Jardinieres, Pots Pedestals

ADAPTED TO Florists' Use.

Artistic Shapes and Decorations.

10/10/2010/10/2010/2010/

Write us for Illustrations

JOHN N. MAY, Summit, New Jersey, BURLEY & TYRRELL, 42=44 Lake St., CHICAGO.

American Grown Bulbs.—A Suggestion.

A well-known horticulturalist writes: "It seems to me that the bulb industry could be largely transferred to, or at least started in this country if the Department of Agriculture would give an order for such bulbs produced in this country. This would stimulate the efforts of some intelligent growers in localities favorable as to soil and climate. These could be distributed to our common schools throughout the country for planting in school yards, and would have some advantage over seeds because they would come into bloom at a time when schools are usually in session. As an outcome of the distribution of seeds and bulbs in the way proposed, it could be reasonably expected that ultimately the government and local town and district offices would do much to beautify not only school yards but other public grounds and our road sides, as well."

Printer's Boy.—"Say Jimmy, wot's de reason dey call dem big white flowers Harrisii for?"

OFFICE BOY.—"Cause dey grow in Harrisburg, cully."—Fact.

Just Off the Press

BARNARD'S Florists' Wholesale List

SEEDS, BULBS

And Florists' Supplies.

Ask for a copy. It will be sent free and by return mail.

W. W. BARNARD & CO. Seedsmen, CHICAGO.

Why Not Try

Pure Eastern-grown Corn and Seeds. Contract with the EVERETT B. CLARK CO. for 1888 Crop. 4 Sole Manufacturers and Proprietors of the Genuine Trowbridge Grafting Wax, now ready in 1-lb. bars at 11e; ½-1b. bars, 12e; ¼-lb. bars, 13e.

(STRICTLY WROLESALE DEALERS)

THE EVERETT B. CLARK CO. MILFORD, CONN.

BEST OF ALL<sup>33</sup> TOMATO "ENGLISH"
"MELONS
(FOR FORCING)

FLOWER SEEDS FOR FLORISTS
Catalogues on application.

WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchants and Growers, 114 Chambers St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

August Rölker & Sons, Spring Bulbs, Florists' Supplies, OLL

Our new Seed Catalogue is out, containing a list of selected Novelties in Seeds and Spring Burbs. If not received, write for a copy.

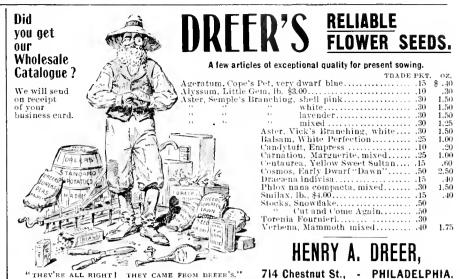

52 Dey Street, NEW YORK.

OSCAR KNOPFF & CO.

SEED GROWERS,

ERFURT, GERMANY.

Sole Agent for the United States and Canada: M. RUTTENAU, 15 to 25 Whitehall St., New York. Trade Catalogues and estimates cheerfully furnished. Orders promptly filled direct from nurseries at Erfurt.

Vaughan's Pansy Seed

This is the time to make another sowing of Pansy Seed if your plants have rotted off. & & &

VAUGHAN'S "INTERNATIONAL" <sup>1</sup><sub>8</sub> oz. $1.50. oz. $10.00. VAUGHAN'S "GIANT MIXED" ¼ oz. $1.35. 02. $5.00.

> These are strains with nine years' record and with a pedigree. We have scores of testimonials. Ask the best pansy grower of your acquaintance for his opinion of our strains of the above mixtures. A A A A A A A For other sorts of Pansies see our Book for Florists.

FORGET-ME-NOT, Vaughan's Early and Everbloomer, plant flowers when 8 weeks old. Trade pkt., 20 cts.

Our EARLY LIST of Florists' Flower Seeds ready. "The Best Flower Seeds in America." Ten per cent. Discount on $2.00 worth and over tor cash with order.

Vaughan's Seed Store,

14 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

84--86 Randolph St., CHICAGO.

trade pkt. 50c.

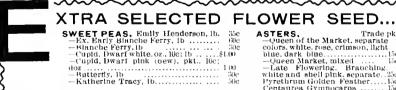

trade pkt.

Vick's Branching Aster Sweet Peas New Daybreak Aster Dahlias Begonias Gloxinias Flower and Vegetable Seeds

VICK'S GARDEN and FLORAL GUIDE for 1898

the pioneer Seed Catalogue of America, is a perfect beauty, the best one we have issued in the forty-nine years of our business. We can honestly say that It leads them all. Those interested in the trade would do well to send for a copy of both wholesale and retail at once.

JAMES VICKS SONS, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ASTERS, Trade pkt. vz.

—Queen of the Market, separate colors, white, rose, crimson, light blue, dark blue. 15c 75e
—Queen Market, mixed 15c 50c
—Late Flowerlor, Brauching, white and shell pink, separate. 25c 81.50
Pyrethrum Golden Feather. 15c 50e
Ceutaurea Gymnocarpa 15c 50e

Wm. ELLIOTT & SONS,

NEW YORK.

It will be better for everybody if you mention the American Florist when writing advertisers on this

EXTRA CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS.

List free on application. FRED. ROEMER, Seed Crower, Quedlinburg, Germany.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The following paragraph appeared in a local daily: "So long as congress retains the free seed swindle, there is no use in calling attention to the purity of American polities." And right here I may be permitted to quote from Mark Twain's latest book, "It could probably be shown by facts and figures." Says the humorist, "That there is no distinctly native American criminal class except congress.

Rather hard on congress, to be sure! But coming back to facts, it will be no exaggeration to assert that the free distribution of seeds is a crime, for the existence of which our honorable lawmakers are solely responsible. "Free distribution of seeds". Fie! The very terms are obnoxious to the independent spirit of the liberty-loving American citizen.

However, it is not my object to call congress to task.

The two notable events of the season, the annual balls given by the "upper ten" and the Press club, surpassed in their pomp and magnificence anything of the kind ever undertaken before. Mr. 1. G. Marvin attended to the former, and to his credit be it said his artistic decoration elicited complimentary remarks on all That of the Press club was under sides. the direct supervision of florist Humphrey, of Eldridge & Co. Given a carte-blanche order, his magnificent palms and decorative plants transformed the armory hall into a sort of dreamland. Both decorations were executed on a most sumptnous scale.

A new range of houses, fifteen in number, will be added during the coming spring to Mr. Benj. Dorrance's already extensive plant. It is likely that Mr. Dorrance will grow carnations as well as roses, for the New York market. As usual, the houses will be constructed of the best materials and equipped with all the modern appliances.

Leaky Gas Mains Damage Greenhouse Stock.

The P. J. Saunders Floral Co., Fiftieth street and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, have had a sad experience from gas escaping from leaky street mains. The pipes run about thirty-five feet from the ends of the greenhouse. Twice last season, the first time December, 1896, the second time February, 1897, and again January 20, 1898. The greenhouses became so filled with gas as to be very plainly smelled all over the premises, the result being that there is not a single plant in the greenhouses but what is ruined or nearly so. On each occasion when the damage has occurred the ground surrounding the houses, together with the street, has been covered with snow to the depth of three or more inches. The whole of the ground covered by the greenhouses being warm and porous, the leakage from the pipes finds its way to the warm ground, whence it evapo-rates with most deadly effect.

Gas pipes running near greenhouses have become very dangerous infrosty weather. From actual proof are they not dangerous at all times?

Koses Roses

| ا بن            |           |     | Per 100  | 1000    | ŧ   |
|-----------------|-----------|-----|----------|---------|-----|
| BRIDE           |           |     |          | $22.50 | 1   |
| BRIDESMAID      | * * *     | 1.0 | 2.50 | 22,50   | 1   |
| BRIDESMAID      |           | 8.5 | 3.00 | 25.00   | 1   |
| PRES. CARNOT.   |         | k 1 | 4.00 | 35.00   | Ī   |
| PERLE           | 5.5       |     | 3.00 | 30.00   | 1   |
| SOUPERT         | * *       |     | 2.50 | 22.50   | 1   |
| MOSELLA         |           |     |          | 25,00   | l ' |
| 25 Other Choice | Varieties |     | 3.00 | 25.00   | 1   |

E. G. HILL & CO., Richmond, Ind.

American Beauties Per 100, $ 2,50 merican Beauties Per 100, $ 2,50

u Paaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa

300,000 300,000 YOUNG ROSES

Ramblers, Climb. Malmaison, Climb. White Pet, Climb, Wootton, Pres. Carnot and 100 other leaders in Teas, II. Teas and Climbers.

Send for prices.

The National Plant Company, Dayton, Ohio.

|                                    | l enttings.Per 100 |         |
|------------------------------------|------------------------|---------|
| Roses, Bride and Bridesmaid        |                        | $3.00  |
| Verbenas. 12 varieties             |                        | 2,00    |
| Vinea, (Major)                     |                        | 3.00    |
| Mme. Salierol Geraniums            |                        | 2,00    |
| Ageratum, blue and white           | (61)                   | 2 00    |
| Coleus in variety                  |                        | 2,50    |
| Rudbeckla, (Golden Glow)           |                        | 4 00    |
| Abuttion, Souv. de Bonn and Eclip  | 969                    | 3.50    |
| Lemon Verbena                      |                        |         |
| Moonvines (white and blue)         |                        | 4 00    |
| Salvia Spiendens                   | 1.50                   | 3.00    |
| Solanum (white)                    | 1                      | 4.66    |
| Controlle Disease                  |                        | 4 00    |
| Umbrella Plants                    |                        |         |
| Calla Lilles                       |                        | 2,00    |
| Paris Dalsies, white               |                        | 3.00    |
| Hellotrope, blue                   | 1.50                   | 3,00    |
| Begonla Vernon, red                |                        | 3,00    |
| Stock ready now. Terms cash or nor | proved refe            | erences |

INDIANAPOLIS FLOWER AND PLANT CO..

Central Ave. and 34th St., Indianapolis, Ind.

NEW FORCING ROSE MRS. ROBT. GARRETT

Hybrid tea, rich soft pink, buds very long, flower extra large, delightfully fragrant, rivaling Bridesmaid in color, but larger and much more productive. A sturdy, vigorous grower, a money maker and a triumph of American skill. The best firms in the country are investing in it. It has won numerous prizes and has elicited the most favorable comment from critical judges. Price strong plants from 21/2-inch pots, $25.00 per 100 in lots less than 1000; $225.00 per 1000. Orders booked now, delivery March 15, 1898. Correspondence solicited. Address

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

Rooted Cuttings...

Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V. Kaiserin, Perles, Belle Siebrecht, Meteors. Same in 2-in. pots ready Feb. 15th to 20th, Send 50c for samples and get prices.

GEO. A. KUHL, Pekin, III.
Carnation Cuttings ready Feb. 1st.

New American Rose-

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT

As one of the syndicate holding stock in this rose we ofter first class plants, from 2%-inch pots, to be delivered on and after March 15, 18%, at the agreed price of $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

AMERICAN ROSE CO.

It will be better for everybody if you mention the American Florist when writing advertisers on this page.

THE NATIONAL FLORISTS BOARD OF TRADE.

COLLECTS OLD OR DIFFICULT ACCOUNTS.

Organized for the Protection of FLORISTS, SEEDSMEN, NURSERYMEN

AND KINDRED INTERESTS.

FURNISHES TRUSTWORTHY REPORTS.

Write to the Secretary for terms and information regarding Membership, Collection Rates and Reporting and Credit Department. Testimonials of the highest character as to elliciency and reliability.

CORNELIUS S. LODER, SECRETARY,

(NOTARY PUBLIC) 271 Broadway, NEW YORK,

Helpful Reminders.

In arranging your plants in the different houses contrive, so far as possible, to put the different varieties requiring like treatment together; it simplifies matters, particularly if you have employes doing work for you. Chrysanthemums for pot plants and stevia go together and here let me suggest cosmos which also works in to good advantage. Get the seedlings ready to pot when cuttings are struck, and from then give them like treatment; they bloom through fall and winter, filling 8 to 10-inch pots, and supply long stemmed flowers by the thousand. Poinsettias that have been beheaded should now be put close together in a dry situation; under a bench will do.

Those of you who do a retail plant trade should not fail to provide Asparagus verticillatus for a hardy climber; it is a beautiful vine; get seed in at once. It is yet early to pot upcanna roots, but if you are short and wish to grow from seed, lose no time in starting it. Look over your callas now; if they are pot bound give the large pots a top dressing of cow manure and shift the smaller pots. If any part of your violet bed is a failure, throw out that portion of the plants and put in fall grown pansies. If you have not provided any procure them from a pansy specialist at once; they do well in a violet house and a few blooms daily are acceptable.

Insects begin to annoy most gardeners now; just as many plants have made new growth and look encouraging, you find some pest just about to ruin your crop, and you stay awake nights calculating the best method of warfare. The insecticide man attracts your attention, you contribute to his support and then affect a compromise with the insects. Take your share to market, grumble at your returns, and next February start out the same way. For the sake of illustrating a point, I wish to state a fact foreign to the subject the subject.

If you make a bonfire in the woods, you will have a crop of raspberries on the spot within a year, not because the raspberries are looking around for just such a spot and then locate there, but because birds drop the seeds everywhere, and only when they happen to fall on the ground they like, do they grow. All the other germs or seeds perish. Every florist who purchases stock from various places is sure to have in his houses germs of every kind of insect, and when conditions are just right for any one or more, they multiply frightfully quick. It is therefore something you do, or neglect to do, that causes the demand for insecticides, and February is the month you make the discovery. The whole trouble lies in the improper administration of your water, as compared with nutriment for the roots and temperature; a plant will make rapid growth until it gets a large top of soft leaf, from which evaporation is most rapid. While this is true of the top, the roots are crowding the pot so there is no room to store water for more than immediate use. A bright sun comes out, you get there too late with water, the plant is wilted; the ball is so dry that when you do give it water, it neglects altogether the assimilation of nutriment for the time, and is at once weakened. If this happened but once, it would not be so bad, but as days grow longer, growth is more rapid, you are crowded with work, and it happens several times; then you employ temporary help, and you put this "green-horn" at watering, (insects always know when you have a "green-horn" doing your watering), and they multiply by the thousand. Careful watering is the only preventive of insects. These brief remarks doubtless hit many in a sore spot. Some may take exception to what I have said, particularly those who manufacture insecticides. We should have this matter carefully laid before us by experts who will prepare lantern slides, illustrating the effects on plants of various ways of watering.

various ways of watering.

Now is the time to employ some teamster to procure for you twenty-five or fifty loads of cow manure for future use. Do this every year and keep two years supply ahead; teamsters have little to do now and will charge you less.

If you do any plant business, start at once seedlings of Marguerite carnations for bedding, it is the most satisfactory carnation for summer use that you can set out for a customer. Nice plants will be ready by May if started now. In order to keep up with the procession, you must be ready to supply the growing demand for perennials, if you have not a a stock on hand, save expense by starting seedlings, it will be to your advantage to start a number at once. You can get from your seedsmen most of the varieties required.

Where immediate effects are required, two year roots are necessary, but your seedlings which are left over should be planted in rows properly labeled, and they will be in fine condition for fall trade or the following spring.

C. B. W.

ONE OF THE BEST FEATURES

....OF THE-

Alba Superba

CARNATION

Is the great LENGTH and STRENGTH of Stem, which is plainly seen in cut. * * *

Many of the flower buyers of Phila. call it the "Gardenia Carnation" on account of the beautiful arrangement of its grand white petals which are of great substance and clear white.

PRICE TO THE TRADE: $10 per 100 & $60 per 1000

JOHN BURTON

CHESTNUT HILL

PHILADELPHIA, JPA. بو بو بو

MARDI GRAS

1898

S. A. L.

...AT...

NEW ORLEANS, FEBRUARY 22

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP

...VIA THE...

SEABOARD AIR LINE

FOR MILITARY COMPANIES AND BRASS BANDS

TICKETS ON SALE FEBRUARY 16th to 21st. FINAL LIMIT MARCH 5th.

A RATE OF ONE CENT PER MILE DISTANCE TRAVELED

CHAS. L. LONGSDORF, N. E. Pass. Agent 306 Washington St.,

CHAS. L. LONGSDORF, N. E. Pass. Agent 306 Washington St., Boston, Mass.
H. L. ELKINS, Agent, 30 S. Third St., Philadelphia, Pa. H. M. BOYKIN, General Agent, Richmond, Va. MURKAY FORBES, Traveling Pass. Agent, Portsmouth, Va. T. D. MEARES, General Agent, Wilmington, N. C. G. M.P. BATTE, Traveling Pass. Agent, Charlotte, N. C. R. H. TATE, S. W. Passenger Agent, St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, Lu.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION APPLY TO

B. FARNSWORTH, General Eastern Pass. Agent, 371 Broad-A B FARNSWORTH, General Eastern Pass. Agent, 371 Broadway, New York.
O H EROH, Traveling Pass. Agent, 371 Broadway, New York.
L S ALLEN, General Agent, 1177 Penn. Ave., Washington, D. C.; W BROWN, Jr., City Passenger Agent, Norfolk, Va.
L S LEARD, Traveling Passenger Agent, Raleigh, N. C.; C WHITELOPD, Traveling Passenger Agent, Augusta, Ga.
B. G.EMERITS, Traveling Passenger Agent, Atlanta, Ga.
B. A. MEWLAND, Gen I Agt. Pass. Department, Atlanta, Ga.

Vice-Pres. and Gen'l Manager.

E. St. John,

H. W. B. Glover,

Traffic Manager.

T. J. Anderson, General Passenger Agent.

Worcester, Mass.

The most severe storm experienced this winter is raging at the time of this writing. It would be a very difficult task to keep glass houses up to the proper temperature in such a storm, but fortunately the houses are all neatly blanketed with snow, keeping out the cold wind and everything is warm and cosy.

Trade has held very steady since last report and we are disposing of all our flowers at remunerative prices; we are getting a good supply of all the regular lines, and plenty of good bulbous stuff is now available. Romans are nearly exhausted, but we are getting good minia-ture hyacinths in pink and white. Pans of hyacinths, narcissus and Keizerskroon tulips are selling well, also azaleas and cyclamens; one pink variety, known as Princess May, is very popular.

Some little time ago, a few growers interested in carnations, took a trip to Rochdale, Mass., to inspect F. A. Blake's seedling carnation Bon Ton, which has created quite a ripple of enthusian among Bastern growers. The siasm among Eastern growers. The party, which included Win. Nicholson, Peter Fisher, C. W. Ward, C. A. Cook, H. F. Littlefield and the scribe, were met at the station by carriages and conveyed to Mr. Blake's residence, arriving, not with malice aforethought, just at the dinner hour—New England time, noon. After partaking of Mr. Blake's hospitality the party adjourned to the greenhouses, were presented to Bon Ton and much pleased with its appearance.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO. eenhouse * Bo

29 to 59 Erie St., CHICAGO.

Bollers made of the best of material, shell, firebox sheets and heads of ateel, water space all around (front, sides and back). Write for loformation.

OUR NEW BOOK

The_

Tropical.... Orchard House

FIFTEEN years' experience in the culture of tropical fruits under glass. Opens a new industry to the horticulturist, profits greater than anything which can be grown under glass, and an unending source of pleasure to the amateur. This book gives plain practical instructions for the culture of all tropical fruits. Every florist needs it—you can get pointers from it. The Tropical Orchard House is a coming popular feature of Price 25c Per Copy (Don't send stamps).

Martin Benson, ILLINOIS.

ALWAYS mention the AMERICAN FLO-RIST when writing to advertisers.

is a fair sized flower, nicely fringed, not too full, has a slight fragrance, is of a pleasing shade of scarlet, good calyx, and borne on stiff stems of medium length. It is a sturdy grower, needing no staking, with strong characteristic foliage, heavily coated with bloom and had a very healthful appearance. One house, containing some five hundred plants, averaged nine buds and flowers, not counting what had been cut, or leading shoots, a very fair average for middle of December. Bon Ton is not of Mr. Blake's hybridizing, being a prize found in a package of "boughten" seed and supposed to be Portiax Casar. A. H. L.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH.-The Twin City Floral Co. will erect five new greenhouses this coming spring.

WHITINSVILLE, MASS.-It is in the nature of an annual pilgrimage that we go to Whitinsville to see the wonders that seem never to cease there. This time that seem never to cease there. calanthes were a sight never to be torgot-ten, hundreds of spikes; if we told how long they were, it would not be believed, but often three from a bulb. Then there were the giant cologues that have bulbs like hens' eggs for size, and that throw two spikes each, out of deference to the wizard that has them under control. Mention must also be made of the number of seedling orchids, a great many of which were in flower, including some good things among cypripedes, and many more to follow. Mr. McWilliam we were pleased to find hale and hearty; may his smile be spared to us long, that we younger ones may profit still by his long experience so willingly imparted.

(Copyrighted)

Kraft's Plant Tonic

For PLANTS, PALMS and FLOWERS

... A Wonderful Preparation for the Promotion of Plant Life, Destruction of Insects and Scale... This is one of the greatest preparations for the use of Florists and Plant Growers ever compounded. It gives to the foliage of plants treated the bright, fresh color of healthy, growing vegetation. It destroys all insect life infecting the plant and eradicates scale. Besides improving the color of the plant, it effects a general betterment of its condition, aiding nature in disseminating and retaining the sap and life of the plant. The Tonic makes the foliage of the plant soit and pliable, and a beautiful bright green.

For sale at

Price per bottle, 25 cents.

84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO. VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE. 14 BARCLAY STREET, NEW YORK.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY HAVING ME

BUILD AND HEAT YOUR GREENHOUSES HENRY W. GIBBONS 134-136-138 LIBERTY STREET,

EXPERT ADVICE AND PLANS FURNISHED.

ESTIMATES FREE.

THE NEW AND ONLY TELEGRAPH CODE FOR FLORISTS, IOC. EACH.

Larger lots at cost. Cipyficht applied for. Every intelligent person can learn the meaning by heart. It will save you and your customers 25c the first line you are out to telegraph. For sale or trade. Mump, slock plants 5c. Will trade for California Violets. Begonias. Carnations. Roses. Cuttings rooted to order fig. and fol. Try Geraniums, Carnations. Sweet Allyssum, both kinds, Heilotrope, Mums, Fuchsla, Stevia, German Ivy. etc.

F. A. HAENSELMANN, Petersburg, Colo.

NOW YOU WANT IT, BECAUSE YOU NEED IT, AND NO DOUBT CAN AFFORD IT. A Set of A. A. A. A.

Long's % Florists Photographs

16-Page Priced Catalogue Free.

DAN'L B. LONG. Publisher, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Please mention American Floriat

N. Y. CUT FLOWER EXCHANGE

404-412 E. 34th St. Near Ferry.
Open for Cut Flower Sales at 6 o'clock
Every Morning.....
DESIRABLE WALL SPACE TO RENT

FOR ADVERTISING.

JOHN DONALDSON, Secretary.

THE Regan Printing House NURSERY

CATALOGUES SEED FLORISTS

> 87-91 Plymouth Place. ***CHICAGO***

GEO. E. COLE & CO. Blank Book Makers. Stationers and Printers

> 86 and 88 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

What to do Now.

Where a number of plants of various kinds are raised from seed, no time should be lost in making a sowing. This applies to proises for late flowering. Lobelias, petunias, verbenas, centaurea, Cineraria maritimu, asters, stocks, golden pyrethrum, smilax, tuberous begonias and gloxinias. All soil used for sowing seed in should be open and friable, with a goodly mixture of sand. The surface before sowing the seed should be uniformly level, and for very fine seeds quite smooth; all seeds should be firmly pressed in the soil; they should not be covered too deep; such seed as begonias and gloxinias require no covering at all, providing they are pressed evenly with a smooth and level tamper. Such seeds as verbenas, and asters cover from one-eighth to one-fourth inch, and heavy seeds such as smilax, about one-half inch deep. Care should be taken in the watering, especially the first time. It is best to go over several times either with a fine rose watering pot or a rubber sprinkler giving sufficient each time to wet the surface without swilling; do not give so much as to have the whole body soggy to begin with.

It would be well, where it is possible, to have a place at 55 for stocks, asters and phloxes, etc., and another at 65 for begonias, gloxinias, smilax, etc. All seeds germinate better where no direct light reaches them; a nothern or eastern bench is a good position for them, they will be all the better for being shaded in the bright daylight. Where it is possible seeds should be sown in uniformly deep flats or seed pans; two inches of soil is deep enough for nearly all seeds to start in. Where the surfaces are even it is easier to shade than where there are various deep pans and boxes used. When the seed begins to germinate among the very smallest, be careful not to expose to draughts or sudden light. It is important, however, that they be brought as close to the light as possible, without being checked.

It is a good time now to make a sowing of sweet peas in flats, and in a month from now make another sowing. Sow now only such kinds as will flower early. It is best to sow rather thickly and then as soon as the third leaf appears prick them out in flats about two inches apart. The flats need not be deeper than two inches. These plants can be planted out at the latest by the 10th of April and in some localities as early as the middle of March. They bear transplanting as easily and as surely as celery.

It is time all seeds are either on hand, or the order for them placed. Where seeds, such as sweet peas, pansies, asters, stocks and phloxes are required get them to color, not in mixed packages.

ELLI, MIZE AND WIDE BOLLOMM BLUB PANM AND AZALEA LOIM

DETROIT FLOWER POT M'F'Y,

HARRY BALSLEY, DETROIT, MICH.,

THE BEST FLOWER POTS

sery strong

r I for not unusually persus.

THE IONIA POTTERY CO., Ionia, Michigan.

Mention American Florist

GURNEY HEATER MFG. CO 163 FRANKLIN ST BOSTON. MASS. NEW YORK CITY BRANCH COR CONGRESS. BOSTON. MASS. 48 CENTRE STREET.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO. Flower Pots,

Bulb Pans, Hanging Baskets and Saucers

OUR FLOWER POTS are standard measure and all first-class and we assure you they will give good satisfaction. We call your attention to our new pots, 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch, called the "Poro Pot." They are more Porous than any pots, smoother inside and outside, perfect drainage, and are easily washed and cleaned. Give them a trial and you will not want any other. Remember these Pots are as cheap as any other Pot on the market. Write for price list.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Send for our new price list, with extra discounts. All of our Pots from 7-inch and upwards have our Patent Excelsior Bottom, which is a great advantage as it insures perfect drainage. A FULL LINE OF BULB PANS.

THE WHILLDIN POTTERY COMPANY, 713 to 719 Wharton Street, Philadelphia, Pa. BRANCH WAREHOUSES: { Kearney and Westside Aves., Jersey City, N. J. Jackson Ave. and Pearson St., Long Island City, N. Y.

We are general agents for all varieties of flower pots and make a specialty of FLORISTS STANDARD POTS

Manufactured by BRAZIL POTTERY & CLAY MFG. CO., Brazil, Iod. Being centrally located we can save you freight. Also head-quarters for FLORISTS SUPPLIES. Write us for price lists and wa know we will get your order.

VAIL SEED CO., 150 No. Delaware St., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Standard Flower Pots...

OUR POTS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY.

We ship all goods from Cincinnati, guaranteeing lowest freight rates and prompt delivery.

Write us before placing your orders elsewhere. . .

CAMBRIDGE TILE MFG. CO., Covington, Ky.

STANDARD FLOWER....

We Manufacture a full line of Standard Flewer Pats, Hanging Vases Lawn Vases, Seed Pans and Cylinders, glazed and with handles.

SEND for our price list before ordering else-where and save 25 per cent. Andress

Hilfinger Bros. Pottery, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

FLOWER POTS

STANDARD POTS

last and SAMPLES FREE.

J. G. SWAHN'S SONS, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Boilers

OF HIGH

For GREENHOUSES.

See our Catalogue. . . . . .

Steam and Hot Water.

Giblin & Co., Utica, N. Y.

Good Railroad Facilities KELLER BROS.

For shipping.
Special Attention Given to
Mail Orders, and Special
Sizes Made to Order.

NORRISTOWN, PA.

Price Lists Furnished on Application.

MANUFACTURERS OF Flower Pots.

Hefore buying write fur prices. 361-363 Herndon Street, near Wrightwood Ave.,

CHICACO. ILL.

Mention American Florist.

Standard 🧀 🎺 FLOWER

If your greenhouses are within 500 miles of the Cajatol, write us, we can save you money.

W. H. ERNEST,

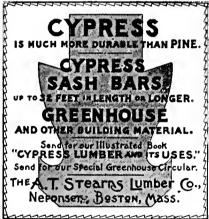

Station M. N. E.

WASHINGTON, D. C

Something Worth Trying.

In my opinion plain everyday Ivory soap is by far the best and safest insectieide I have ever tried, it is cheap, easy to use, within the reach of everyone, and furthermore, is very efficacious, being death instanter to black and greenfly, thrip and red spider. It leaves no disagreeable odor, and I have never found it to injure the most tender foliage of any plant. My most pleasing experiences with it has prompted me to write these few lines. No doubt the manufacturers of insecticides will think I am rather severe on them, but after years of careful trial with the many kinds of insecticides, this is my ultimatum. Many growers will now be troubled with greenfly on their Harrisii lilies, fumigation will exterminate them where it reaches (and there is a question if tobacco smoke hasn't a great deal to do with the tips of the leaves turning brown), but their principal mischief is done in the crown of the bud, where tobacco smoke seldom reaches. I find one application of this soap water sufficient to entirely eradicate them.

For applying it to such plants as these an ordinary rubber plant sprinkler with a crooked neck is used, one bulb full of the solution will go over quite a number of plants, that is where the crowns alone are sprinkled. Any such plants as stock chrysanthemums, etc., that may become infested with fly, thrip, etc., it will be found invaluable as a liquid to dip them in. We use a 5-cent bar of the soap to five gallons of water; it should be shaved up finely and some hot water added at first to make it dissolve quickly. ALPHA.

Mention American Florist.

When writing mention American Florist.

GREENHOUSE ROOF

CONSTRUCTION.

A New Machine.

Lowest Figures.

....WRITE US....

GEO. TAYLOR & SON, Morris, III.

Greenhouse Woodwork

Open-air-dried Cypress Lumber is more durable, and better suited to Greenhouse conditions, than kiln-dried stock. But you cannot get it from those that are engaged in the business in a small way—even though their entire business is confined to greenhouse material—for it takes a long time for the lumber to thoroughly dry and this means an investment in lumber that only those of large capital can make. The only way to have air-dried lumber is to buy green lumber and hold it until it dries. Those that order dry lumber from the producers of Cypress get kiln dried stock. It is cheaper for them to kiln-dry than to hold the stock long enough to season it in the open air. We carry a large stock and fill all orders with open-air-dried Cypress clear of knots, sap and all other defects.

Write for Circulars or Estimates.

Lockland Lumber Co.,

LOCKLAND, OHIO.

CALIFORNIA RED CEDAR

NEVER DECAYS.

A. DIETSCH & CO., 619 Sheffield Ave.,

VENTILATING

MFR'S OF RED CEDAR AND CYPRESS
GREENHJUSE MATERIAL.

CHICAGO.

STANDARD

NONE EQUAL IT

Strength

Durability

Send for Catalogue.

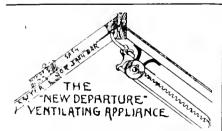

MACHINE.

NOTHING Flimsy

Complicated about it.

E. HIPPARD, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO,

You can not get a GOOD THING for nothing. But the price of this apparatus is next to nothing. Send for price and description to

J. D. CARMODY, Evansville, Ind.

LOUISIANA Cypress Green House Material.

RED CEDAR

Write for Estimates.

Mention American Florist.

Index to Advertisers.

Auen J K 25
American Roller Co. 714
American Judon Fo. 72
American Roller Co. 73
American Roller Co. 73
American Roller Co. 73
Aull Bros Paper and
Box Co F 74
Baker C F 74
Baker C F 74
Basnard W W A 4 4 7
Bassett A Washburn 72
Beckert Theo F 74
Beckert Theo F 74
Besid F 84
Benson Martin 74
Besid F 85
Blanc A A CO 72
Bookert Theo F 75
Bookert Theo F 75
Bookert Theo F 75
Brenson Martin 74
Besid F 85
Brand G 75
Breck Jos A 50
Brands D 75
Brettmeer J A 50
Budlong J A 75
Burlon J 75
Cambridae Tille Mfg
Co. 75
Burlon J 75 McFadden W A
Millank Frank
Moninger J C Co.
Mound City Flo Co...
Morris Florai Co
Mound City Flo Co...
National Flo Board of Trade
National P ant Co...
Niemeyer H A...
N Y Cut Flower Ex...
N Y cut Flower Co...
Ob-rmeyer Gust N Y Cut Flower Ex. 41
N Y Cut Flower Co. 25
Oh-meyer Gust. 75
O'Hskan X King. 75
Paxon Gre-nhouses. 74
Paxon Gre-nhouses. 74
Paxon Gre-nhouses. 74
Paxon Gre-nhouses. 74
Payne Frank S. 75
Peacock W P. 76
Peacock W P. 76
Pennock Sam'l S. 72
Prince A G & Co. 72
Prince A G & Co. 72
Randall A L. 74
Red Glass & Paint Co. 72
Red Glass & Paint Co. 72
Red Glass & Paint Co. 72
Rolled B A Co. 72
Rolled A Co. 73
Rolled A Co. 73
Shiller H . 72
Shelled A Co. 73
Shiller H . 72
Shelled A Co. 73
Shiller A Co. 74
Skabcura Dip Co. 75
Shiller A Co. 74
Skabcura Dip Co. 75
Shiller A Co. 75 Chadwick Chas Clark Everett B Co Cleveland Seed Cu Clucas & Boddington Clucas & Boddington

Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Color Col Flo Mut Fire Ins Co Ford Bros Galvin & Co Glubons H W Hollin & Co Graham Hugh Gurney Heater Co... Haenselmann F A... Hall Ass n... Hallock V H & on Hambood & ammond 3 and ck A Son ift M A err Albert M. istr Albert M.
Istrington A.
Diffinger Bros.
Off E.G. A. Co.
Bippard E.
Highlings A. Co.
Holon A. Hunke Co.
Holon A. Hunke Co.
Hop A. Lempke
Gren Edw.
Hunfield C.
Lu, E.H. Hyran eidw ( ) 100
Hunfeld ( ) 100
Hu (E.H. 124
Hunt A Floralt () 104
Hunt M A Floralt () 105
Hunt M A ennicott Broa Co.

Hitchings & Co.

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS

GREENHOUSE HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

THE HIGHEST AWARDS RECEIVED AT THE THE WORLD'S FAIR FOR HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTURE, GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND HEATING APPARATUS.

Conservatories, Greenhouses, Palm Houses, etc., erected complete, with our patent Iron Frame Construction. Send tour cents postage for illustrated catalogue.

233 Mercer Street. NEW YORK.

LORD & BURNHAM CO.

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS. LARGEST BUILDERS OF GREENHOUSE STRUCTURES.

Red Gulf Greenhouse

Strictly Free

Write to New York Office for circular and estimates.

Send 5 cts. postage for latest catalogue of Greenhouse Heating and Ventilating Apparatus.

New York Olfice:

160 Fifth Ave., Cor. 21st St.

Send 4 cts. postage for catalogue of "Patent Iron Construction."

Write for circular of Hot Bed Sash and Frames.

General Office and Works:

Irvington-on-Hudson, - N. Y.

until you have seen our sample cards. They will help you. Drop us a postal and we'll mail them to you. JOHN LUCAS & CO., Philadelphia, New York and Chicago.

For Cheap Fuel

would recommend Style "C" of the

"Spence" Hot Water Heater.

This style is especially adapted to the use of wood and the poorer qualities of hard and soft coal. If you would rather use hard coal, style "B" would suit you

American Boiler Company

CHICAGO, 84 Lake St.

Young John, Welsh.

NEW YORK, 94 Centre St.

Mention the American Lion t when writing to adverticer on this page.

Mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers on this page.

Mention Am. Florist when writing.

HHOpooi AMERICAN

"the Prow of the Wessel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 12, 1898.

No. 506.

The American (Florist

Copyright 1898, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY. 324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.

Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from the trade.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

OFFICERS-WM. F. GUDE. Washington, D. C.; president; A. DONAGHUE. Omaha. Neb., vice-president; W. J. STEWART, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass., secretary; H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer. 'The fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Omaha, Neb., August, 1898.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Chicago. February 17 and 18, 1898. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

| Violet culture near Washington, D. C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 1   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Violet growing.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7-  |
| Freesia in pots (illus.).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 7   |
| Freesia in pots (illus.).Desirable flowering plants for the holidays                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 7   |
| Calanthes (illus.)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 7   |
| Sweet peas still in the ascendant                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 7   |
| The condition of the co | 7   |
| Flower festival display (illus.)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 7   |
| Flower resultan display (minor)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | ÷.  |
| Carnation notes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | ÷   |
| Lily of the valley culture                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 7   |
| Elmira, N. Y.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
| Plan for a greenhouse (illus.)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 771 |
| Stop and think                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 7   |
| New York                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 7   |
| Philadelphia                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 7:  |
| Dahlia notes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 7   |
| Dahlia notes The carnation society convention New carnations Carnation Engages                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 7   |
| New carnations                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 7   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7   |
| Carnation Empress                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 7   |
| Mr. Herr's report on earnations Spirwa Anthony Waterer for Easter Origin of Kaiserin Augusta Victoria                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 73  |
| Origin of Kaiserin Augusta Victoria                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 7   |
| thright of Katserm Augusta Victoria                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 7   |
| Origin of Rote Dry stem rot . Primulas drooping. Bulbs for Easter . Plorists' ferneries .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 7   |
| Primulas drooping                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 7   |
| Bulbs for Easter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 7   |
| Florists' ferneries                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | -   |
| Boston.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 4   |
| BostonMushroom growing at Kennett Square, Pa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 7   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7   |
| ChicagoPhiladelphia from a grower's point of view                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 7   |
| St. Louis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 7   |
| Cincinnati                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 7   |
| Remedy for scale                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 7   |
| The coed trade                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 7   |
| St. Louis Cincinnati Remedy for scale The seed trade. Buffalo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 7   |
| Distalance                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 7   |
| Pittsburg                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 7   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7   |
| Baltimore                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 7   |
| Roses on Manetti vs. Own 100ts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | -   |
| Indianapolis.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | -   |
| Death of Samuel Edwards                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | -   |
| Plant introductions of 1898                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 1   |
| Rochester, N. Y.Government greenhouses closed to visitors                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 1   |
| Government greenhouses closed to visitors                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |     |
| Care of azaleas                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7   |
| Care of uzaleus                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 7   |
| Grafted roses                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 7   |
| Grand Rapids Florists' club banquet                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 7   |
| Grafted roses. Grand Rapids Florists' club banquet. Kansas City. Fresh American Beauties in England. Bulbs in North Carolina. California grown rose plants for Easter.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | î   |
| Fresh American Reauties in England                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 7   |
| Rulls in North Carolina                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 7   |
| California grown rose plants for Easter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 7   |
| Camorna grown rose pianes for raster con con-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 7   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
| Helpful reminders,Changing heat from hot water to steam.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | -   |
| Changing neat from not water to steam                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | -   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |

VIOLET CULTURE

Near Washington, D.C.

สีกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกกก

No one could ask for a better combination of scientific and commercial work than is seen at the violet houses of Galloway and Dorsett, Garrett Park, D. C. Professor Galloway is chief and Mr. Dorsett is assistant in the Division of Vegetable Physiology and Pathology in the Department of Agriculture. In their work with plant diseases they became convinced that there is only one satisfactory way to do, namely, to live with the plants the year around, and have a stake in their success. They live at Garrett Park, about half an hour's railroad journey from Washington, and began their greenhouse experiments in a small way. Their work with radishes and lettuce is well known to experts and is too important to be neglected by anyone who has not had entire success with these crops. Both these men have a passion for violets, and for three years they have grown nothing else.

Amateurs usually fail in the third year with violets, but Galloway and Dorsett have raised the average yield of their plants from fifty to eighty flowers per plant per season in only three years' work, and there is no reason why they cannot average 100 flowers in every house. However, these men are not amateurs, for they have marketed their product successfully, and have made the investment pay. The work of these two men in the Department of Agriculture is the study of the health and diseases of plants. Yet it must not be supposed that their success in violet culture is due to a technical knowledge of diseases which the commercial florist does not possess. Nothing could be farther from the truth. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and their energy in violet culture is directed towards breeding up a lot of pedigree plants that will resist disease.

"The violet disease" is not any one thing unless it be another name for general neglect. There are dozens of diseases that enfeeble violets, and there are at least eight of them that are widespread enough to be of national importance. It is certain that none of the other staples of commercial floriculture are treated with such general negligence in this country as violets. They are undoubtedly third in commercial importance in America, roses and carnations being probably greater and chrysanthemums less. The three greatest things, at present, in violet culture are selection, selection, selection! Very few florists have any idea of what can be accomplished in three years. Fifty flowers per plant is considered a good average for the season, and most of the florists look upon an average of 100 as commercially impossible, or at least too remote. It pays to pick out a few plants, give them stakes and cards, and keep a record of the number of flowers picked, with the dates. There are the possibilities of a dozen pay-Inere are the possibilities of a dozen paying strains in that one variety, Marie Louise. "Some plants give most of their flowers in the fall and spring, others will yield them pretty steadily each month, while others still will give the greatest number during the winter months, when there is no mass of blooms and prices are high.

The records of Galloway and Dorsett show that there is a wonderful variation in size and general vigor of growth, resistance to disease, number of flowers produced, color of flowers, length of flower stems, etc. A bit of red cloth on a stake is a danger signal. It marks a discased plant, and at the end of the season every one of those plants is thrown away. It pays to propagate from a few pedigree plants. I have never seen an evener lot of plants than the stock these men have worked up in three years. Another lot which came from one of the best violet specialists in America was far better than the general run of florists' stock but was not to be compared with the locally developed stock; 6-inch flower stems are the rule, and 10-inch stems are not infrequent. In short, the wholestory of success is one of special care as against general neglect. At every point there are signs of hard work, and the quantity and quality of the work is that of men who put heart into it as well as brain.

Where will all this specialization end? Shall we have retail stores in our large cities that sell carnations exclusively in their season? and shall we have others that make a specialty of violets? It may seem extravagant and remote, but Mr. Dorsett believes it is logical and nec-

essarv

In making this plea for selection, as the most important feature of violet culture to-day, I shall purposely sayless of greenhouse construction and management, and 1 wish to emphasize the practical nature of the experiments here carried on. While it is true that the work in these glass houses has made considerable additions to knowledge by methods that are beyond anyone but the trained student of technical science, nevertheless the the experiments are chiefly such as every progressive violet culturist can and ought to undertake in his commercial work. The effects of different depths of soils, the value of benches and beds, methods of drainage, sub-irrigation, continued cropping on the same soil, sterilizing the soil, etc., all these are problems which should be solved locally, for although they are broad questions, the general results are likely to be conflicting in different parts of the country, and it pays to test every general principle. For example, the very same disease (according to these specialists in plant diseases) is often given opposite kinds of treatment in different parts of the country with equal success, and here I would urge this consideration about the use of eyanide against aphides in greenhouses. The florists of the country are afraid of the gas. Possi-bly the very minuteness with which all the directions have been given, only tend to increase their sense of danger in the process both to men and plants. But we should reflect that ten years ago the same slivness was felt about the use of Bordeaux mixture, Paris green and all spraying with poisons. The process is not dangerous to man if the directions are followed. The work is easily done, and the applications may be light at first, if growers are atraid of their plants.

Incidentally, there is practically no "spot" in these houses. It is impossible to find a house anywhere that is absolutely free from it, but I have never seen any houses that had less. Locally, indeed the botrytis has been far more troublesome, this season than the "spot."

I wish that Galloway and Dorsett could be prevailed upon to give every detail of their greenhouse construction and management, for their solution of local problems, if not capable of general application, is full of suggestion. All the plans were drawn by Mr. Dorsett and all the details of construction done with his own hands. They have only 3,000 square feet of glass at present but the business is growing. Frames must go, and plants must be grown the year round in the places where they are to flower. A 16-foot house is plenty wide enough, Mr. Dorsett thinks and he believes in side ventilation as well as top: One of the two may be used for only a few days in the year and side ventilation is expensive, but ideal. Much trouble was experienced from poor circulation until the pipes were all run at the same grade. Contrary to the general opinion, distance from the glass seems here to be a factor of almost no importance. Near the sides the plants are relatively larger, especially in summer, because of the shade, but their mass of foliage is at the expense of flower production.

Only a few details of management can new be hastily noted. The summer buds are serupulously picked off and runners are never allowed until the flower season is over and the plants are actually wanted tor propagation. With plants like these which grow so evenly as to hide the ground it is impossible, even with good centration and the greatest care in watering, to keep the lower leaves dry liceloudy weather they are wet for days, and the healthie toplants cannot be entirely tree from disease in conditions that give a high chance for the germina that give a high chance for the germina that give a high chance for the germination of targ is pures. Submirgation has never or given a torrand thorough trial vet as the place. Violets are bluer in the shade. The hade Campbell is not blue er orgh sea crule for he New York warrest. It reeding esperiments their experience has late, herein that other things nearly equivalence of ferritizer of higher grade.

With this bluntage.

Violet Growing.

There are so many ways of growing violets that it seems any one might select one that would suit their circumstances. There is the benching system, either on benches or in solid beds, growing the plants outdoors or in pots, then the planting and growing in beds all summer.

The only way to grow violets is the one where the cost of production does not exceed the price of the product. Bearing this fact in mind, the grower should select such a method as will accomplish this in his locality, his environment and his markets.

Of course failures to accomplish this will sometimes happen, even to the one that has grown violets successfully for many years, and most often does it happen to those that change localities, because the violet has its own individuality in every place, often when the places are not more than a few rods apart.

Any one keeping this fact in mind and having the power of observation will, I am sure, be able to work out for himself a best way to grow violets, for there is more than one right way to grow them successfully.

During this month and from now on our violets bloom most profusely, but also from now on the flowers will commence to grow smaller and lighter in color if the plants are not wellcared for.

The runners commence now to grow freely and are full of flowering buds; if left they will increase the number of flowers considerably, but will in the same dimensions lessen the quality of the flowers. I use the runners for cuttings, to furnish the plants for next year. Our practice is to trim them in suitable form and dibble them in on the edge of the carnation benches, next to the walks, where they will form roots in from two to three weeks and make nice plants by the last of April, ready to plant in the field by the first week in May.

We keep our plants rather wet, and use liquid manure once every week. This manure water is made from cow, horse and chicken droppings; no other material is used. With commercial fertilizer, either in liquid form or applied at the rate of five pounds to 100 square feet, in the culture of violets, we have been very unfortunate, and have discontinued it

Sometime I will tell you how we grow our plants, as we grow them in the field during the summer, and how we grow them in the houses at that time. We practice both ways and have yet to learn wherein one way is better than the other.

CHAPTALOUA.

Freesias in Pots.

These bulbous plants are generally cultivated in boxes or flats in the average floral establishment, cutting the flowers for bouquets, and other decorative purposes. This is without doubt the most profitable method of culture, but our illustration shows what can be done with them in another way. Pots of this character find many parchasers, and by judicrous handling in the matter of successive planting, a supply of such pots may be had in bloom from Thanksgiving to Easter It should be remembered that Freesias will not develop flowers much carbor than twelve weeks after they are fairly well rooted, and for this they require a temperature of about 70 , which chould be gradually increased to that mo sumum limit

PAN OF FREESIA

Desirable Flowering Plants for the Holidays.

[Paper read by Juhn Westcott before the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, February 1, 1808.]

I am asked to tell you the desirable flowering plants for the holiday trade. I would sooner have had the subject allotted to one of our leadingcity florists or store-keepers, as they are in closer touch or come in immediate contact with the buyers or flower-loving public, whereas, as most of you know, that I for the past few years have been located outside of the built-up portion of the city, away from the live part of the town, surrounded with the quiet or dead people, and they furnish very little information, keeping what they know to themselves, a dead secret; they do not seem to want or be looking for anything new or special.

How different to the city florists and their customers, they are on the continual hunt for something new. I hope that my hearers to-night are not on the same tack; if they are 1 can tell them in advance that they will be disappointed.

I do not propose telling you of a lot of new or rare plants that might be desirable, but confine my list to those I know can be brought in flower for the holidays, and, if well grown, prove desirable and a benefit to the whole trade, both financially and otherwise.

1 will commence with one of the most popular plants, the azalea, and say that the colored or bright-flowered varieties sell first. Amaryllis, the formossisima, Vallota purpurea and the striped or hybrid varieties of the Vallota type are very pretty and salable. Begonia; several kinds can be grown to advantage. Bougainvillea glabra Sanderiana, make fine specimens if nicely grown and trained. One of the showiest and most effective flowering plants. Bouvardias, in variety. Cyclamen, one of the prettiest and best selling plants. Clerodendron Balfourianum, a pretty plant if nicely grown and trained. Carnations, in variety. Chorozema elegans. Chinese primroses, in pots or pans. Dapline odorata, a very nice old-fashioned plant if well done, can be sold in quantity. Euphorbia pulcherrima, one of the brightest and best sellers for Christmas, very desirable if grown in pans, six or eight short plants ineach. Emphorbia jacquiniflora, same as above, only more plants required to each pan. Erica Mediterranea, Erica Wilmoreana, and a few others, can be had in bloom, and should be grown in moderate quantity. Epacris, for which same rule as above holds good. Geraniums, nicely grown plants in about 6-inch pots have their place. Linum trigymum, a very showy plant when in bloom, with its mass of hight yellow flowers. Libonia, Lilium Harrisii, lily of the valley, calla, narcissus, Roman hyacinths, Primula obeonica are wanted in moderate quantities. Marguerites and stevia, particularly the dwarf and variegated varieties of the latter, are among the best sellers and are used in quantity.

There is a place for some good orchid plants, such as Cypripedium insigne, C. Lawrenceanum, Dendrobium nobile, Cœlogne cristata, a few of the cattleyas and possibly others which I will leave for someone else to name who is better posted than I am.

There is undoubtedly many other flowering plants that have been overlooked by me that could be added with advantage. I think, however, that my list is sufficiently long, and before finishing would like to say that it is far more important how it is grown than what is grown. If each tion, and are only too glad to get something really fine and pay liberally for the same.

Finally let us resolve, and do our share as growers, towards elevating and encouraging our business, so that whatever we grow and flower will be desirable, not alone for the holidays but at all times. Let our motto be "Onward and Upward," so that our products may prove to be, and that it may be truly said they are, "A thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Calanthes.

Deciduous calanthes are placed under the bench in a temperature of about 60° to rest, as soon as the flower spikes have been cut off. They stay there until the young growths begin to appear again, added, the bone having first been allowed to heat and cool off. The pots are filled about two-thirds with potsherds and charcoal, but when seed pans are used, very little drainage is necessary. The compost is put on and pressed down firmly, space for watering being left. Small stakes are inserted to steady the bulbs until the roots take hold. The bulbs are set rather high to prevent the young growths from damping. After a good watering to settle the soil, they are placed in position well up to the glass, and gradually lowered as the growth advances.

Until the first flowers open, the plants should be syringed every bright morning, lightly at first, later on heavier, and this will be about all the water they will need for a time, but when well-rooted they grower will grow only what he can do well, and leave the rest to other growers, the trade will be greatly benefited, and any or all of the plants that I have named will be wanted; whereas, if they are poorly grown, or flowered, will be very undesirable for the holiday or any other trade; they will be an injury all around, a loss to the grower, to the storekeeper and a disappointment to the customer.

A HOUSE OF CALANTHES.

Let me say, what you do, do it well, whether it be a geranium for the buyer with a moderate amount to invest, or an orchid, or other higher priced plant, for those who have the means and inclina when they are shaken out of the pots, the roots cut off, the bulbs then placed in shallow boxes or seed paus with a little sand beneath them, and the boxes set on the bench near the light, but shaded from direct sunlight. When the roots appear on the young growths they are ready for potting.

potting.

They do well either in pots or shallow pans, the soil used being turfy loam with the fine soil well shaken out. When well rotted eow manure is obtainable, a little of it may be mixed with the soil, but leaf soil is preferable to green or rank manure, and a little fine bone and sand may be take up water freely, and on no account must they be allowed to suffer for it. When the young growths commence to form bulbs, weak liquid manure should be given, once or twice a week for the first few weeks, then every time they are watered until the first flowers open, when the plants should be kept moist with clear water as long as the foliage stays green. Some of the plants will have leaves on when the flower spikes are ready to cut, if care is taken not to expose them to the bright rays of the sun, and it is desirable that they hold the foliage as long as possible, which will give larger bulbs and consequently stronger flower spikes for the coming year. From strong bulbs we get two, three and even four spikes, and four spikes means sometimes over one hundred flowers to the bulb, but I notice that when a bulb goes to extremes in flowering it starts weak the following spring.

Calanthes require a warm house; the temperature should not fall below 65 at night and 70° is preferable from the time the bulbs are potted until half the flowers are open. After this time they will require little water, and will do in a lower temperature. To keep the bulbs healthy, do not store them where the temperature falls below 50, nor over the heating pipes, where they will dry up.

The accompanying photograph was taken the day before Christmas and shows only a small part of the calanthes that were in bloom here on that day.

GEORGE McWilliam.

Sweet Peas Still in the Ascendant.

Twenty-five novelties in sweet peas for 1898! So the list stands, with several counties to hear from. Personally I am not responsible for any additions to the list, not but what there are varieties of merit among them, but because it is unfortunate to swell the list at such a wholesale rate.

Mr. Eckford puts out seven, W. Atlee Burpee & Co. nine, Peter Henderson & Co. one; S. T. Walker, of Forest Grove, Ore., issues his first catalogue as a sweet pea specialist, and names seven that he thinks worthy of a place. Mr. Sam Hamilton gave the names to the two best on Mr. Walker's list. I suppose the Sunset Seed Co. will offer a very fine dark, satiny, indigo blue novelty, which they sent out for trial last year. Vaughan offers the three varieties of which Mr. Lynch let a little trial stock go last year, and which having been on my catalogue were counted in as 1897 novelties. And I understand that Vick puts out another double variety.

I have decided not to issue a list for 1898, although as an easy way to answer inquiries, I have had the novelty list printed. My wish is to fall back into the ranks of impartial critics. I cannot say, as one sweet pea enthusiast said to me to-day, that he was disappointed in the entire novelty list for this year. It does not present as much originality of color as Thoped. But we must remember that we are now at a stage where we have had some colors only in name and are getting nearer and nearer to the genuine thing. Mr. Eckford claims on the strength of a first-class certificate to have now a bright orange variety. We have had orange rose, orange pink and orange salmon, but now there seems to be an advance in purity of color in this line. One of the finest sorts Mr. Eckford ever offered was Her Majesty, and this year he puts out a new bright rose selt, which I shall one a new origin rose sen, which T shall expect to so is an advance on that grand sort. Who if I was at Wen he had the dark marseal color of Stanley carried up to greatly improved size, and now he arers his latest stark on that color. I the ight at one time that it one should go to Englandard see Mr. Lektord's work he could report with a good degree of acen has not the description of his novelties, has although I tool notes on the spot describing each of last very sist, not one desiring each of last we reset, not one of them seen to tall wo can here with my description. It was settings to have the Sun et Seed C.—par One in actional down as a chiral see postulation that hould be rejected. It can alread at the finest thing in the whole etc. It consubmidant hould see in Loyd and Loyd and here are in heream.

primrose showing in its substance its black seed origin, and not betraving with any noticeable effect the latent fawn color that our climate seems to bring out. I am told that it broke here, as Countess of Aberdeen did the year before. Then I was enthusiastic about the new red of Salopian, inclining decidedly towards dark cherry. But much of it has seemed almost identical with Mars in this country.

I don't want to be cynical about these things, for I know that Mr. Eckford's work is grand. I would like to go in among his advance seedlings and get an ounce of true seed of about three firstclass novelties each year and take that seed direct to California, and then add on the same number of the finest selections from American seedlings. Six real good novelties a year would excite our enthusiasm sufficiently.

But there is another side to this matter. The ruinous under cut in contract prices has forced our best growers to some kind of protection. They have found a little relief in novelty stock. In all fairness they are entitled to it. If I know that a certain grower will take special pains with an improved strain of some old popular sort, and that he will father that improved strain, and feel a special obligation to hold it up in quality, I am willing he should rename it, and get some just compensation for his work on it. He could get nothing for growing the old deteriorated stock. Butterfly was But-terfly till it run out. Now it is better than ever as Maid of Honor, and when that deteriorates they can call it Maid of Orleans if they want to, just so they give us back good stock of that dear old blue edged sweet pea. There never was any sense in calling it Butterfly, anyhow.

Mr. Eckford's advance set stands as follows: Prince of Wales, award of merit, R. H. S., a bright rose self of intense color; Lady Mary Currie, award of merit, R. H. S., and four first-class certificates, a deep orange pink, delicately shaded rosy lilac; Chancellor, four firstclass certificates, standards bright orange, wings bright orange pink; Colonist, two first-class certificates, soft lilac, overlaid with brightest rose; Duchess of Sutherland, a pearl white, delicately suffused with light pink; Duke of Sutherland, firstclass certificate, deep claret, wings bright indigo blue, the whole flower becoming bright indigo blue with age; Black Knight, a deep maroon self.

The Burpee novelties are sure to give satisfaction in respect to germinating, quality, and abundant bloom. The set this year gives us some germine seedlings from the original crossing, done by C. C. Morse & Co. The stock sent out last year under the name of Burpee's American seedlings really gave us our first taste of Morse's hybrid stock, and now we shall have many fine things from it. Once get the secret of crossing Ecktord's finest sorts and the product is a break into an unlimited field of new sorts. Our California growers, and especially Morse, are just getting into this rich field. And it is no casy question how to introduce this array of novelties. I have been in the sweet pea business for the fun of it, but I do not recommend this as a criterion for other folks. I can see honest, straight worl behind every one of the twenty five novelties this year, not one of them being as much of a fraud as my Columbia sound to have been last year. The Burpec set will limdle enthusiasm for their splendid grandiflora size and firstly liabit, as well as their novelty in color. The facest of all is Stella Morse, it's best guarantee being that the name has been held in reserve for several years till a variety worthy of this favorite daughter and sister could be produced. It is a beautiful novelty, a rich creamy buff, the edge deepening into rose pink. I do not think that any one of the set will be disappoint-

A word about Pink Cupid. Its blushing cheeks are not due to any embarrassment it feels over the misfortune of White Cupid. It is a little cherub. I had no trouble with it. It germinates and blossoms perfectly and takes kindly to pot

I am glad to see Lynch's Bride and Emily Lynch well spoken of. The former is such a fine white, and its germinating quality is so perfect that it ought to be generally tried. I could not pick out from it quite such large blossoms as Blanche Burpee showed, but it made up in quantity. And for a rich, warm effect I commend the Emily Lynch. It is really a a remarkable introduction. Mr. Lynch has two or three more ready. Then Golden Gleam is a grand strain of Mrs. Eckford. It is a pity the stock is not more plenty, for we wantitin our shows. Walker's Coronet was a thing of merit, coming the nearest to an orange stripe. It's short stems were a defect. He is working on a Flambeau mixture, and the best things in it are some grandiflora stripes of ox blood red. I wish to commend his work now that I have no further business connection with him. For seven years I have watched his conscientious work, and if sweet peas have any future he deserves a show in the rewards. l'eter Henderson & Co. have secured a novelty called Minnehaha from him, a fine selection from his Flambeau hybrids. The prospect for 1898 is bright. reports indicate that the sweet peashows will be more of a feature than ever.

W. T. HUTCHINS.

Phormium Tenax.

In our endeavors to obtain a greater variety of plants for sub-tropical and other planting, we have had occasion to prepare quite a stock of Phormium tenax. The type is principally used as the variegated forms do not do so well here. For certain combinations and in places where it can have plenty of moisture, it is a very valuable plant; having a very distinct and unusual character all its own. I call attention to it now because the present is a good time to begin its propagation. We think that much better results can be obtained by raising from seed than by division. Seed sown now and grown on rapidly will make nice plants for the spring of next year. The seedlings may be either planted out or grown on in pots, giving a good rich as they require it, never letting them become hard or pot bound. Do not give them too rich a soil, as this is apt to induce a rapid, soft growth, and cause them to become drawn.

PHORMIUM TENAX IN B-INCH POT

them to become drawn.

There is an old saying that necessity knows no law, and nowhere does this apply more than in a greenhouse, especially in those places where attention is given to a general assortment of spring that are only twelve inches apart. I never was very good at mathematics, but it seems to me that as close as Mr. Siebrecht advocates planting the pips, he could have room for over 250,000.

We must not compare the labor of this country with that of Europe, for here we do things very different from what they do over there where they do most of their work by hand, while here the horse is compost, and plenty of water after the plants have "taken hold." By reference to the photograph, of a plant in a 6-inch pot, a year and a half old, one can see about what can be done under rather cool treatment.

FLOWER FESTIVAL DISPLAY TRIPLET TRIMMED WITH WHITE ASTERS AND IMMORTELLES.

The plant shown is about three and a half feet in height, and as will be evident, well furnished.

If one can afford room in a warm house they can be grown better. Where partial shade can be had and an even moisture maintained, the purple form is beautiful, as also are some of the variegated ones, but I fear it is not possible to get them from seed.

JOHN F. COWELL.

Carnation Notes.

If it is the intention to try growing earnations under glass during summer, the young plants should be potted into 2-inch pots to start with, which is a better way than planting them in the benches or in flats, and they need to be potted on and bedding plants, which at this time will be pressing hard for room, and as a rule the carnations have to make way for them. Now, if there is any call for carnation plants in pots in the spring, those taken from the benches can be made to fill the bill if we go about it right. They should be potted up in not too large pots, 6-inch is a nice size, given a good watering and placed in a shady location for a few days, where they will soon begin to make fresh roots and stiffen up and can then be brought to the light gradually, when they should be eleaned of all decayed leaves and staked and made as presentable as possible. After they are well rooted, and can stand the sun without wilting, an occasional watering of weak liquid manure will benefit them greatly.

We are getting along in the season now and the sun is growing stronger every day. In the middle of the day the temperature will rise very rapidly, giving our troublesome enemy the red spider every show to get in his work, and as it is too early to syringe, a sharp look-out should be kept, checking the inseet by ample ventilation, for if this pest once gets a foot-hold, especially on such varieties as Daybreak and Jubilee, it will be a hard matter to get rid of it. The plants will also be taking up more water now and should never be allowed to get on the dry side, except during a prolonged period of warm, cloudy weather. If they are allowed to get too dry during bright weather the blooms will soon commence to diminish in size.

C. W. Johnson.

Lily of the Valley Culture.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—Referring to the article on lily of the valley culture on page 402 of your issue of November 27, I would like to ask Mr. Siebrecht why he would prepare one acre of ground for planting 50,000 pips when he advises planting them one inch apart in rows utilized to save many dollars in labor. If in the culture of valley every sixth row is skipped in planting; a farm implement now in use on my place would save about three-fourths of the hand labor so far as hoeing is concerned. Then why should the planting all be done by hand, when a skillful plowman ean mark out a row as straight as a man with a line and a spade? Then again, it is a very simple matter to use the plow to cover the pips after they are set, which of course must be done by hand. Then why use a fork to dig them when a small sub-soil plow will lift the pips so that the matter of digging is greatly simplified? I merely mention these few facts in the use of tools to show the florist that what has been considered a great drawback to the cul-ture of valley is merely imaginary and from a lack of knowledge as to how much labor can be saved by the use of many farm implements at hand at the present time, and which are wholly unknown in Europe. There is no question about growing valley here for as Mr. Siebrecht states, it is done, and done well, and it can be done better than in Europe, for the simple reason that as Mr. S. states the pips can be handled without being kept out of the ground for so long a period as when they are imported.

As I stated at Providence last August it is only a question of a few years when the American florist will realize that he is sending to Europe and other lands for goods that can be grown better here and to a profit. Every dollar which we send out of this country for goods which can be produced here is a dollar (or nearly a dollar) lost to this country, for it the principal cost, and if we can save that dollar to the laboring people here, this country is so much the gainer, and every penny that we can keep here, is spent here and tends to make the trade at large so much the greater.

CHARLES H. ALLEN.

Elmira, N. Y.

The Elmira Horticultural Society has been organized with the following officers: President, Rev. E. M. Mills; vice-president, H. N. Hoffman; secretary, E. A. Higgins, treasurer, Mrs. A. F. Eastman, Grove P. Rawson is chairman of the committee on exhibitions and premium lists. Mr. Rawson's long and varied experience in such matters makes him pre-eminently the man to head the committee. Wonder what system of judging will be adopted.

Plan for a Greenhouse.

Having recently purchased a valuable site for greenhouse plant, on our main street, and wishing to use every space to best possible advantage, will some one competent kindly give me a plan, suitable for a florist's establishment for town of 6,000 inhabitants, where one, of course, is expected to grow a little of everything? At all events would like to grow a few roses, carnations, violets and chrysanthenums for winter blooming; and let-thee, celery, tomato, house and bedding plants for spring. I enclose sketch of plan; on the lot is a house and store combined, with a good cellar under the entire building. Would you heat with hot water or steam? As the lot is within fire by-laws limit, will not be allowed to use wooden walls. Subscriber.

The drawing shows the lot to be 66x134, with streets along the south and west sides. The house is at the southwest corner of the lot, and a drive is desired along the north and east sides.

have its south wall 10 feet high and the north 7½ feet, and house No. 7 can have its walls 7½ and 5 feet respectively.

The above number of houses may be more than the business will demand at first, but as arranged any number may be built at first and others added as needed.

Either steam or hot water can be used for heating and will give good results. The former will cost less to put in, but to secure as regular heat will require rather more attention.

If the boiler is to be under the potting room it would be well to have the walls of that part of brick and the roof of iron. On the east and south sides there should be two feet of glass below the plates, and the remainder of the wall can be of brick. grout, or wood covered with corrugated L R TAFT iron

Stop and Think.

Reports from most of the wholesale cut flower markets have not been very favorable this season. Week after week there appears to have been a surplus of stock in most of the large flower growing centers. This is the natural consequence of building more houses year after year without any thought as to where the purchasers for this tremendous output are to be found.

What shall you do this year? Shall you stop building and wait until the demand approaches somewhere near the supply, or will you go ahead and put up another block, hoping the market will be better or that your neighbor will cease erecting houses for the time being?

Is it not time for some of us to consider 134 Feet North. Drive 12 Feet Wide. 6. 7. Drive & Feet 5 2 3. 1 Store Street.

PLAN FOR A GREENHOUSE.

This leaves for the greenhouses a space 54x104 While other combinations right a used, tiding everything into onsider from we recommend the follows ig arrangement which will occupy all of the space coept in alles four feet wide between the hear es and the dwelling between the houses and the dwelling?

The even see, houses 20x47, running north and soo the with a head house 7x100. House food from he connected at the ton and can be used as a show and pale to an afficuse 2 to 5 cm be errorsed for to the cone involvence of the crops not of the crops of well the question of supply and demand before investing more of our capital and wearying our brains to increase this supply for which there is little demand? seems to have become second nature with the growers after a prosperous year to spend the profits in mereasing their plant, or as a Philadelphian once said It all goes into sash," and of late years this habit seems to have grown on them to such an extent that they enlarge the place whether they have just gone through a prosperous year or not.

Lor some time the grower who has made money has either had exceptionally tine cops or handled scane specialty. has not been the state of the market that has enabled him to secure a fair recompense backs work and outlay, then why should be more set the size of his place unless he can be sure of a continuation of extra good crops or get hold of some other taking specialty that his competitors are not growing, and you have got to take something new to your market pretty often to make much money in the line of special things, for as sure as you allow time enough for others to have caught the idea and propagate the stock your profits will get beautifully less and soon disappear entirely, as with the great amount of surplus glass there is at present, the temptation to get into anything that has shown a profit for some one else is sufficient to swamp the market by overproduction.

Of course this whole question is one for each individual to settle for himself and everyone will do as he thinks best for his own interest, but if this great increase goes on much longer in the same proportion it has been doing for the last six or eight years, it will make serious times for our trade.

It has been asserted that the cheapness of flowers will popularize them, and this is true so far as it goes, but if to make them popular they must get so cheap that the producer goes to the wall, it will be something the average florist will fail to appreciate.

We cannot expect to have our good years through any such influence as is benefiting the wheat grower at the present time, the failure of the flower crops in Europe or the Argentine will not send up the price of flowers or give us a chance to get rid of the surplus and so pay off the mortgage. We must look to ourselves to either increase the demand or stop adding to an already overabundant supply.

Would it not be better and pay more to try and improve the quality of our output rather than build more houses and so keep on piling up stock which can find an outlet only through the fakir or rubbish

It will seem to many that these views are pessimistic and the result of business disappointments, but the writer assures you that no one will be more pleased than he, to find that all this talk of overproduction, poor demand, and low prices continuing is a dream, and wake up to find that everything is lovely, and if there has been any dullness in our trade it was caused by the tariff legislation, too much talk about free coinage of silver, the attempts of the banks to corner gold, or the wilful neglect of the government in not having already amexed 11. HAWAII.

New York.

OVERSTOCK OF FLOWERS BRINGS ABOUT A STAGNATION ONCE MORE, -INTERESTING MEETING AND EXHIBITION OF FARMERS' CLUB.-FIRE AT LEACH BROS. -ENTER-TMNMENT FOR FLORISTS' CLUB'S FEB-RUNRY MEETING. -INTERESTING LOCAL THEMS.

Business in the wholesale district is unsatisfactory again. That the recent brief period of activity was not based upon any permanently healthy condition was apparent as soon as good blooming weather set in. The sun came out strong and with it came a resumption of heavy shipments which put an end to the stringency without any further ceremony. Stock in all lines is of the finest quality, but there is far more than the stores can possibly assimilate. Weather favorable for the street sellers is now hoped for, as then the surplus will at least be taken care of although at low prices. Naturally, bulbous stock is at the bottom of the list at present. $12.50 a 1000 for lily of the valley is an actual quotation to-day. Roman hyacinths and freesias have got past their best season and what comes in now is of very poor quality. Tulips and Von Sions are improving all around. Keizerskroon tulips which Ford Bros. are receiving daily are unprecedentedly good for the season and are well worth a much better price than buyers can be induced to pay for them.

At the monthly meeting of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute, held February 9, Edwin Hoyt talked on "Pruning Trees and Shrubs" in the afternoon, and C. H. Atkins gave an illustrated lecture on "Mimicry and Fertilization of Orchids" in the evening, which was very entertaining. A fine exhibition of orchids was made by Max Nathan, C. G. Roebling, H. McKay Twombly, Lager & Hurrell, John Scott, New York Botanic garden, Siebrecht & Son and Julius Roehrs. William Turner contributed earnations, violets and American Beauty roses.

On Tuesday evening, February 1, at 10:30 p. m. a fire broke out in the end of one of the greenhouses of J. & R. Leach, Garfield avenue, Jersey City, and but for the timely alarm given by the watchman of a nearby hose factory, the result might have been very serious. Cause: woodwork in too close contact with the brick covering of a pipe boiler. Loss by burnt woodwork and broken glass probably $75; loss in stock by smoke probably $200. At the time of the fire the thermometer indicated 15° above zero. The house is 100 feet long and has an incline of four to five feet, and it was curious to note that the damage done to the plants in the lower end where the fire occurred was slight, whereas, at the upper, or far end, the destruction was very complete. house was filled with carnations and spring stock.

The special attraction at the next meeting of the Florists' Club which takes place on Monday evening, February 14, will be a talk on "Bulb Growing in Holand" and "Plant Life in Jamaica" by Mr. John K. M. L. Farquhar of Boston. The lecture will be illustrated by a large number of stereopticon pictures and will be very entertaining. Together with the exhibition which will be made, it will afford an attraction which should bring out a large audience.

S. C. Nash has returned from Florida with a fine complexion and a graphic account of the terrible railroad accident in which he participated on his return trip.

Julius Lang had the misfortune to injure his ankle while stepping from a street ear, and is confined to his home for of the present in consequence.

Abrams' team ran away on Monday morning and when finally brought to a stop the wagon was a complete wreck.

Mrs. Warendorff is about to open a new flower store at the corner of Fifty-ninth street and Madison avenue.

Several of the Thirtieth street wholesalers have their windows filled with azaleas in bloom.

Visiting New York: Chas. H. Fleming, Bridgeport, Conn.

Philadelphia.

THE LILY DISEASE.—COBWEBS IN FLORISTS'
WINDOWS.—TRADE GOOD.—PRICES REMUNERATIVE.—YIOLETS PLENTIFUL.—
DAFFYS DOWN.—TEN PIN NOTES.

For the past week the lily disease has been the principal topic of discussion when growers meet. All agree that something must be done to insure a better percentage of healthy stock, or else but few men will care to engage in such a precarious business. Notwithstanding the statements that are made regarding the stock from Japan, that they are absolutely free from disease, there is not a single lot out of a number of consignments received almost direct from there but what show traces of the malady, some plants being affected even unto death. The percentage of diseased stock, however, is not at all serious, and would probably not be noticed but for the more serious trouble among their Bernauda cousins.

The weather for the past few days has been that of the early balmy days of spring, which, together with the quantities of daffys, tulips and hyacinths about, makes one almost believe spring is here.

Cobwebs are hardly considered appropriate decorations for the florists' windows; the rafters in the cellar may be covered without comment, but the show windows, that reflect in so many cases the bright ideas of the proprietor or his elever artists, are generally free of such impediments. Pennock Brothers have a grand window, some sixteen feet long and six deep; this without any discredit to them has been for the past two weeks fairly littered with cobwebs They were of the ornamental kind, however, and attracted considerable attention from the passing public. One week a large one took up the entire front of the window; it was made of baby cattleya ribbon, and in small bottles at the intersection of the threads there was placed one or two eattleyas. About 100 blooms were used. This week there are five webs in all, covering the side of the window as well as the front. These are decorated with daffys, double and single, and Campernelles.

Trade in our city is in keeping with the reports from other trade centers, good. Florists generally are busy, and all fine stock finds ready sale at presumably remunerative prices, as when a man gets what he asks for his goods he ought to be satisfied.

Prices are about the same as last week. Stock is a trifle more plentiful, but seems to be all used up. The rose most in demand is the Bridesmaid, after that the Beauty, and then the Bride. Perles scarcely sell at all.

Violets are plentiful, the large single varieties are now coming in in large quantities; the Princess of Wales is finest, followed by Luxonne and California.

Daffodils are down to $4; tulips, $3 to $4; white hyacinths scarce at $3 to $4; valley plentiful at same price, bunches of two dozen have been sold by the fakirs at 25 cents, they were from the week before, and had a decided yellow cast.

Carnations are active at from $1.50 to $2, the former being the ruling price, a few fancies bring $3. There is plenty of blooming stock in pots to be found in the stores and doubtless from now on until Easter (April 10), the assortment will increase.

Messrs. H. A. Dreer's obliging representative, Mr. Ruppert, spends Monday and Tuesday of each week in this city, attending to the wants of the retail trade particularly; the megaphone he carries is not used to proclaim loudly the merits of the stock he sells, but conceals generally a fine specimen of a palm, which when released speaks for itself, Mr. R. standing ready with pencil in hand in the meantime. Nothing the matter with Ruppert; "he's all right," and the same may be said of his stock.

When it comes to playing ten pins the commission men are regular fields. Messrs. Smith, Dumont and Moss had a three cornered fight for the medal of the third class last month. The ambition moved them all up, and now they will have to meet second class men and work harder than ever for medal honors. K.

Dahlia Notes.

THE DAILLIA IN MID-WINTER.

If the roots were packed firmly in dry earth no attention will be necessary until they are required for use in the spring. If they have been exposed to the air in the place of storage, a careful inspection at this season is desirable and profitable. Those thus exposed will often be found considerably affected by decay. A gathering of white mold about the tubers is a sure sign of it. A judicious use of a strong sharp knile will remedy most of the trouble and often prevent serious loss. If the decay is located in the lower portion of the tuber, it may be stopped by simply cutting away the affected part. Sometimes the heart of the tuber will be found affected also. In this case the heart may be cut out leaving the tuber in the form of a hollow shell. Ordinarily the cut will dry over and show no farther sign of rot. If a tuber is in a complete state of decay, remove it close to its point of union with the bunch. If the seat of decay is located in the upper portion of the clump, if seasonably examined, the stalks only will be found affected and the removal of the decaying stalk down as far as the trouble extends, into the very heart of the elump if necessary, will do away with all danger.

Great care must be taken in the latter operation not to remove any of the healthy tissue, particularly on the outside. At and near the points of union of the roots with the foot of the stalk are located the dormant buds from which the new growth is made and these must not be injured. An inch or two, more or less, removed at the lower end of the tuber matters little; an eighth of an inch or less removed at the upper extremity may render it worthless. Often decay will extend to the bottom of the stalk so that after it is removed, the roots will simply be attached by their crowns to a hollow shell, but so long as the buds on the external surface remain unharmed all is well. If the trouble has extended to the necks of the tubers, nothing can be done except to add them to your cow's ration if you possess one. Before rejecting an entire clump, however, careful examination should be made of every tuber as one or two may often be found which are all right.

This is the season also to begin the work of propagation by cuttings if one needs to multiply a variety more rapidly than can be done by division of the roots. The roots are started into growth in a temperature of 65° or 70° and when the shoots have made the third set of leaves they can be removed a short distance above the tuber. With a sharp knife the stalk is cut off just below the first joint, the first pair of leaves are cut away near the joint and the cutting is plunged into sand up to the second joint, care being taken to press the sand firmly against it. In about two weeks roots will have begun to form, and the cutting should then be potted off. After the young plant has become thoroughly established it should have abundance of light but the temperature should be very moderate, not exceeding that mentioned above in order that the growth may be stocky with short joints. From the pots the plants can be transferred directly to the open ground in planting season or delivered to customers. H. F. Burt

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Agate; $1.00 per inch. Cash with Order.
No Special Position Guaranteed.

No Special Position Guaranteed.

Discounts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

The Advertising Department of the AMERICAN FLORIST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in wares pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted.
Advertisements must reach us by Wednesday to secure insertion in the issue for the following Saturday.
Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

The Carnation Society Convention.

The croakers are beginning to let their dulect tones be heard in the land, although spring is not yet here. The "Ananias Society" has gotten its prevaricating committee in good working order. The "Loyal Legion of Has Beens" are cheerfully piping. "Don't go! Don't go! Every man attending the convention is just alive with rust spores, and you'll catch lem sure."

And the "most unkindest cut of all" comes from Boston! Ve gods and Boston httle fishes! Cultured Boston! Classic Boston! Calm, staid, eminently-satisfied-with-itself Boston, pronounces these bitter words, "Rooted Cutting Society." In the words of the immortal Mulvaney, "I take shame of ve, binah Shad."

The story, in brief, seems to be simply this: In Boston, besides the little paper which is making the fuss, is a trade exhibition—and a few other things. It has always been supposed that the trade exhibition and the other things were appendages of the paper. It now transpires that the paper is a tail attacked to, and wagged by the trade exhibition body. It wags to this tune, "Don't go to the Carnation Society Convention; don't send your flowers to ot a exhibition and let us meaning the trade exhibition and let us meaning the trade exhibition-trade-paper combination) get a little rake-off on the side." The latter part of the tune is of course inaudible.

All this leads to the asking of a few questions. Why is it that all the brightest, and most successful men in the trade would as soon think of not preparing a compost heap for next season as of missing the convention? Why is it that the raisers of seedlings are so eager to exhibit their new productions there, and so anxious to get the society's certificates? Why are they so disappointed when they don't get them? Why is each exhibition of the Carnation Society the grandest display of forcing varieties of carnations be seen anywhere, or in any land? What are all these vilities of trade organiz ation doing to help the trade? What ore the offering better in place of what

The Ameier v. Fromse urges each and ever, one of its renders retail, wholesale, grower, or dozen in carnations, to go one activities your head out, and get clear out act a peach of a certain and the other relies to the dozen of the activities who dozen all and then tall. You talk the other is located as the cell and out the activities of the cell and the other relies to the dozen of the activities of the dozen that the other activities are the following the activities of the cell and the cell a

Process the date formary 17 The post trop count depart and early to the search, as the beau

The interconnection date of Laster this control part 10 of Laster 100 Laster took needless and great Better a week took needless. The techniques for Louis took total

New Carnations.

Mr. Henry A. Niemeyer, Erie, Pa., has favored us with a box of his new seedling carnations. They stood the journey nicely which speaks well for their keeping qualities. Among them were Snow Queen, a very pretty white, Pluto, crimson, Uncle Sam, white striped with pink, and Rob Roy, light red. We hope Mr. Niemeyer will show a goodly bunch of each at the convention in Chicago.

Carnation Empress.

Mr. Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, Pa., sends a box of his new carnation Empress, stating that a part of the blooms had been cut a week before shipment. We could see no difference in the condition of the flowers except that those cut a week carlier were larger. The flower is a deep, rich crimson, very large, fringed, good form, good calvx, fragrant, and borne on a stiff stem thirty inches long. Mr. Swayne is on the right track. There is no longer any room for weak stemmed carnations.

Mr. Herr's Report on Carnations.

The second edition of Mr. Herr's valuable notes on carnations is just received. It is sent free on application, and should be in the hands of every one.

The places Flora Hill at the head of the whites, Lizzie McGowan a good second. We infer that he considers Harrison's White and Nivea as failures. He speaks well of the new candidates, Alba Superba, White Cloud, John Young and Evelina

White Cloud, John Young and Evelina.

In pink Triumph leads, Victor second, Emma Wocher third on the list on account of not being so large as the others. Abundance he thinks only suitable for pot plants. The new ones, Mrs. James Dean, Frances Joost, New York, Argyle and Mrs. Thos. W. Lawson are all favorably spoken of. Jubilee is the best searlet among tested varieties, with Bon Ton and Fire Fly showing good points.

Among yellows, Eldorado though rusty is recommended, also Mayor Pingree. He urges trial of the new one—Gold Nugget. Tago is the only older crimson recommended. Empress is stated to be the finest thing Mr. Herr has seen in a carnation. Helen Keller is not recommended. Armazindy and Mrs. Bradt he says are good commercial sorts.

He does not like the color of Mrs. McBurney, but admits that his "taste may be perverted." Thos. Cartledge is strongly recommended.

Cut Flower Price Lists Received.

W. A. McFadden, Cincinnati; Bassett & Washburn, Chicago; W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, C. A. Kuchn, St. Louis; H. L. Sunderbruch Co., Cincinnati.

Spiraea Anthony Waterer for Easter.

Lo AM. Fromst — Should Spiraea Anthony Waterer, when it is wanted for Easter blooming, be planted out during summer and litted and potted in fall?

Spin.ca. Anthony Waterer may be planted out all summer and lifted in the fall when intended for Easter blooming, but it would be better to grow it in pots the year round, as most plants of this character flower best when treated in that way, the wood being in better condition, because more ripe, than when grown in open ground, especially it the fall happens to be wet. This spiræa is well enough to make variety as an Easter plant, but it lacks brightness in color when compared with azaleas.

L.

Origin of Kaiserin Augusta Victoria.

Replying to W. S., will state that all the information regarding this variety that I have been able to obtain is that it is a hybrid tea, and was introduced by Lambert & Reeter, Freir, Germany, in 1891, but what its parents are, or who was the raiser, I have never seen in print that I can remember. Possibly Mr. John Cook, of Baltimore, can give the desired information to your correspondent, as he knows the introducers personally I believe.

John N. May.

Dry Stem Rot.

ED. AM. FLORIST: Enclosed find a sprig of L. McGowan carnation that has a disease which has badly infested my house, more especially the whites, L. McGowan, Storm King and Alaska. I have lost but three or four plants entirely, but that ring will come around the bark of the stems. Sometimes they will wilt just before they are fully opened. I. E. R.

The trouble is doubtless dry stem rot. Only a certain portion of the plant is attacked, causing it to wither and dry up, and if allowed full sway will destroy the greater part of the bench. The only remedy is to cut away the affected parts of the plant as soon as it appears, not letting any part stand, but cut it close to the place which still seems unaffected and sound. Watch closely, and keep all moisture or dampness from the foliage, for this will quickly germinate any spores that may have ripened, and spread the disease. Extreme caution should be taken in selecting cuttings from this stock, as it will grow and produce more damaging results year after year. With care it can be worked off entirely.

Primulas Drooping.

F. E. Dorner.

ED. AM. FLORIST.—What is the cause of primulas (Chinese) suddenly drooping in leaf and flower over night? The house in which they are grown is kept at carnation heat, never over 65° daytime and never below 48° night temperature. The plants are fine and healthy, and shortly repotted to 4-inch pots, well set and growing. On examination we found nothing at roots, and no insect on leaves apparently. Only a few plants seem to be affected.

Primulas recently potted droop in this way when the soil is kept saturated for a few days at a time, but sometimes the trouble is traceable to the hard, impervious character of the original ball, which becomes quite dry even when the new soil around it is sufficiently moist. The use of a dirty pot in the former potting will also bring about this result, the young roots at the side being much mutilated in the later transfer.

B.

The Passey Issue to the that this is not a botanic garden, but a school of horticulture connected with Harvard University.

It you are a pand up subscriber to the AMERICAN FLORIST, you are entitled to a five-line want advertisement free, any time before year's subscription expires.

Bulbs for Easter.

ED. AM. FLORIST.-When is the best time to bring tulips, narcissus and Dutch hyacinths into the greenhouse so that I may be able to use them for cutting at Easter, and at what temperature should they be grown?

In order to have these bulbs in bloom for Easter (April 10), it will be necessary to place them in a temperature of 45° at once, increasing the heat gradually to 65° and 70° in the course of the next two

Lynn, Mass.

Interest over the contest for City Forester was manifest by the large gathering of local florists at a public hearing given by the committee on public grounds at the City Hall on Friday evening, January 28.

William Miller, the present incumbent being charged with all sorts of misdemeanors, Mr. Miller came out with flying colors, receiving four out of the five votes. No charge was proven.

Gibbs Bros. report a good trade; they seem to be catching on nicely. Tapper Bros. show a fine house of Bridesmaid and Daybreak carnations. Among the local growers no specialty is grown; a general stock seems to be the order of things. Everybody has his overalls on for spring work.

The recent banquet of the Lynn Florists' Club at the residence of Wm, Miller was a grand success. We expect another soon. Considerable damage seems to have been done by the blizzard. Miller & Sons lost a large lot of glass; Tapper Bros. a smoke stack and John Knight one greenhouse.

Hayden, of Marblehead is cutting Marie Louise violets that overlap a silver half dollar by considerable; they are fine.

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE.

Advertisements under this head will be inserted at the rate of 10 cents a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accompany order. Plant advs. not admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the AMERICAN FLORIST for the year 1886 is entitled to a five-lace want adv free to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED-By a first-class rose grower:
15 years' experience. Good references. Address
10 W, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a competent store man, late with Freidman; reference given by Chicago wholesale florists. R.A., care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By a young man, 21:3 years' Sexperiencein general greenhouse work, scher. Good references. Address KOMO, care Am. Florist.

STUDATION WANTED—By young man, age 21, three years' experience in roses and carnations. Best of references. Address W W, Box 163, Newtown, Pa.

SITUATION WANTED—By nn A No. 1 manager of wholesale or retail store; twelve years experience in prominent cities. Correspondence solicited G, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As assistant gardener on private or commercial place; German, single, age 24. Best of references; able to take charge. Address. Box 828, Naugatuck, Conn.

SITUATION WANTED—Ry middle aged gardener and florist, with large experience both in this coun-try and Enrope; private place preferred. Address E.M., care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By A:1 general cuttlewer grower; good decorator. Recommendations furnished; German American; 30 years old. Address V G, care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED-As foreman of a first-class out flower growing establishment. In reply de-scribe place and name salary. References NIAON H. GANO, Richmond. Ind.

CITUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener and florist, to take charge of private or commercial place; age 38, married. Best of references.

CHICAGO, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a young man well up in the growing of roses carnations, huma, etc., as assistant grower; age 24, single. Best of references. ASSISTANT, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By young man to learn the forist trade; sober and reliable; state terms. Address W. C (REGORY, BOX 22, Markham P. O., Ontario, Canada.

CITUATION WANTED - A competent seedsman wants situation with a reliable seed house; can speak Dotteh, German or English; correspondence solicited. H. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—A young man. 19, with 3 years' experience in horist store desires a place in greenhouse to learn practic 4 forfeithure:

ALBERT FIEDLER 820 Hanover St., Baltimore, Md.

CITUATION WANTED—As foremen in first-class of establishment; specialities, roses, 'mums, carnations, orchids, etc.' life experience; well up in other branches of the profession. C.O., care Am Florist.

CITUATION WANTED—By a young florist, 24, as a sasistant on private or commercial place, 6 years' experience in general greenhouse work; 3 years in last place. Address M. E. ARNDT, Poldips, Wis.

Struction Wanted—As foreman in large cut flower establishment by ro Al grower of roses, carnations, etc.; 24 years experience; 12 years as foreman in large places. Best references. Address F B care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By practical florist of 17 years' experience, good cut flower grower, roses, carriations, etc. Competent to take charge; would work on shares. Reference and bond given. Address Keliable, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By single man. age 25, as Second man or to take charge of small place; good grower of cut flowers and bedding plants, steady and reliable; disengaged March lat. Address R. L. care American Florist. Chicago.

SITUATION WANTED—48 foremen by practical flori-t and grower; specialty No I roses, carnations, mums violets, general stock, etc. Now disengaged; age 38 Best references. Address W II care 164 E Main St. Alliance, Ohlo.

DITUATION WANTED— sy praetien! fiorist and plantsman of experience and executive ability in all the requisites of commercial places; general propagation, inside and ootside operation. For nore particulars address.

F. T., care Am. Forist.

SITUATION WANTED—March 1st, us working fore-D man or propagator, by it st class, all-round grower; wide experience in Europe and United States; spe-cialities, roses, carnations, violets and adminimus; laine, single, 28; state terms. N B, care Am Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foremen with some retined party by a practical grower of roses, carnatiors, violets, mums, palms, ferms and general stock, forcing of bulbs; a life experience: references Ck. Address FOREMAN, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By christian young man as foreman or manager of some first class pince: ten years' enstern and western experience good cut flower grower; wages must be good; western states preferred. References exchanged Address.

Lil W. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman in cut flower establishment, mostly roses and carnations; must be up to date in conveniences; by ali-roond man, single. American, nine years experience; don't use to-bacco or drink; west preferred; good wages expected. References ROSES, 2640 Cottage Grove Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman or manager in large commercial place by a first-class grower of roses, carnations, 'mums and general stock; life experience, married, age, 36; has been foreman in large establishments for the past ten years; only reliable parties who wish a first-class man need answer; best of references. Address ROSE GROWER, care American Florist,

WANTED-Responsible florists to work. Send two 2-cent stamps. E. A. TAYLOR Asheville, N. C.

WANTED-A good, all-round florist, single, reliable, temperate man, with good references. Address O. L. BAIRD, Dixon, III.

WANTED-The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amager. Address L. JENSEN, South Butte, Mont.

WANTED Young man to take charge of florist business and take interest in business. Address New York, care American Florist:

WANTED—General greenhouse man well posted in ferns and paints.
H. F. HALLE, 548 W. Madison St., Chicago.

WANTED-Man capable, energetic and Christian, to take charge of 6,000 feet of glass, dowers and vegetables. PARK GREENHOUSES, DuBuis, Pa.

WANTED-A young man with 2 or 3 years' experi-ence in a commercial place; must be temperate and reliable. Address R. S. RASMUSSEN, Waterbury, Conn.

WANTED -To know the whereabouts of C. G. Kramer; was last heard of from Santa Barbara, Cal., February, 'H. Will hear of something to his advantage. ALBERT ZUMERMANN, 750 B North Talman Ave., Chicago.

WANTED-A competent man for cut hower de-partment and making up floral designs and bou quet work; also one that understands decorating and general greenhouse work. Apply CHARLESTON GREENHOUSES, 366 Meeting St., Churleston, S. C.

WANTED-A good, sober, middle-aged man, either single or married, to grow 'mums principally; must come well recommended. A steady pince for the right prison. Address NANZ & NEUNER, 582 Fourth Ave., Louisville, Ky.

WANTED-Foreman on commercial place. Cali-tornia: must be experienced in handling men; with u questionable knowledge of propagating and growing, both inside and out: competent to take charge. Good babits and best of references. Address CARNATION, care American Florist.

WANTED-Young mno thoroughly experienced in the best class of retail iterist business; most be first-class in window, table and wedding decoration, nlso design work—Apply with references, ability, ctc., stating wages expected. J.H. DUNLOP, 445 Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

FOR SALE-One Alasks refrigerator in first-class condition.

JOHN H. ORTH & CO., McKeesport, Pa.

FOR SALE OR RENT-Greenhouse and cottage on C. & N. W. R. R., 35 miles from Chicago; will make easy terms on saile or low rent E. W. UPHAM, Waukegan, Ill.

FOR RENT-Seven greenhouses, stocked: dwelling and land, steam heat; convenient tor Baltimore wholesale market, and fair local trade. Address MARYLAND, care American Florist

FOR SALE—Greenbonse plant of 5,000 feet of glass in Jamestown, N. D.; price $1,500; 1<sub>3</sub> cash, balance may be paid in cut flowers. Address W. W. SEEKINS, 321 E 3rd St., Doluth. Minn.

FOR RENT—Greenhouse, 6 (800 feet of glass on Main street; street cars pass the door; store and dwell-ing house connected with same place. 835 per month, P. N. SOETGA, 1882 Cedar Ave., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE-Five Greenhouses, heated with hot water; all lo good condition, well stocked with the finest carnations and other stock in general seen; 6% acres of land, all kinds of soll on same: a harvest for any good man; poor health is cause for selling MRS. H. C. BUCHELER, Oconomowoc, Wis.

GREENHOUSES FOR SALE.

A rare opportunity: Seven greenhouses near Chl-cago for sale cheap. Owner has other interests re-quiring all bis attention. A reliable man can have easy terms. For further particulars address L.D. care American Florist.

TO EXCHANGE.

Canna Chas. Henderson, dry roots, for Dahlla or Madeira Vine tubers, sbrubs or Climbing Roses; or will sell for cash at 25 cts per clump (large.)

W. P. RANSON, Junction City, Kansas.

FOR SALE

or rent with privilege of buving—established green-house property consisting of four houses about 100x25 feet each; boiler house and pack rooms; 12-room mod-ern dwelling, two acres land; 10 miles from Philadel-phia, near R. R station, steam heat; splendid chance for right party. phla near R. R. statiou, steam of for right party.

JOS. T. SULLIVAN, Moorestown, N. J.

PIPE WANTED.

Second-hand Hitchings' or Weathered's cost 4-incb pipe, 2,000 feet (or any part thereof). Give CASH price f. o. b.

J C, Station A, 79 Pine St., New Haven, Conn.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good investment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health

For particulars ELLIS & POLLWORTH, write Milwaukee, Wis.

Valuable Greenhouses FOR SALE

A Rare Opportunity-Seven Greenhouses in St. Louis County with or without stock, for sale cheap. Owner has other interests requiring all his attention. A bargain. For further particulars address

E. H. MICHEL,

Care of St. Louis Cut Flower Co....

1620 Olive St., - ST. LOUIS, MO.

Say "saw your ad. in the Florist" when you write advertisers,

THE "OLO RELIABLE" FOR

WHOLESALE

Hunt's Flowers Go Everywhere

76 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

REINBERG BROS. WHOLESALE GROWERS OF CUT FLOWERS.

500,000 FEET OF CLASS.
We can fill all orders on short notice with all leading varieties of Roses and Carnations.
We ARE Headquarters for fine AMERICAN BEAUTIES Give us a trial and convince yourself.
Salesroom, 51 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

LYNCH, Consignments Solicited.

All Florists' Supplies.

19 & 21 RANDOLPH STREET, Fine Stock a Specialty. CHICAGO.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson WHOLESALE

FLORISTS SUPPLIES FLORISTS SEEDS SPRING BULBS

All the leading varieties in Carnation Rooted Cuttungs

Best varieties of Young Roses in 2½-in. Pots.
Fine well cured Pearl Tuberose Bulbs, per 1000. $7.50
Extra fine mixed Gladioli Bulbs, per 1000. 7.50

SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson, - 45-47-49 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Wholesale Flower Markets

|        | CHICAGO. Feb. 11.                         |
|--------|-------------------------------------------|
| Roses  | Beauties per doz, 2.00@5.00               |
|      | Bridea 1 00@ 8.0                          |
|      | Meteors, Bridesmaid, Kaiserin., 4,00@ S.t |
|      | Perie, Gontlers 3.000 6.0                 |
| * *    | La France. Testout 5.00@ 10.0             |
| Carna  | lona, common 1.00ka 2 (                   |
|        | tancy 2.00@ 5 (                           |
| Violet | 50@ 1.0                                   |
| Narch  | sua, Romana 2 000 3 (                     |
| Callas |                                           |
| Harri  | 11                                        |
| Valle  | 2.00kg 3 t                                |
| Tallp  | 1 00 a 5.0                                |
| Von 3  | lon                                       |
| Livac  | the 4.00 g 10.0                           |
|        | .i. mm                                    |
|        |                                           |
|        | igua 50.00kg 75.0                         |

Always mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers.

MINE WORK ASPECIALTY, 88 WABASHAVE. CHICAGO,

A. L. RANDALL 🏖

Wholesale Florist

DON'T FORGET that we are at the old number, 126 Dearborn St., Chicago. Write for special quotations on large orders.

E. C. AMLING. WHOLESALE COMMISSION → FLORIST.

51 WABASH AVENUE,

Consignments Solicited. CHICA Prompt attention to shipping orders. CHICAGO.

Bassett & Washburn. Successors to J. B. DEAMUD & CO.,

CROWERS and WHOLESALE DEALERS in

88 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

WINTER & GLOVER.

21 Randolph St., CHICAGO.

GRADE |

PACKED RIGHT,

so they will reach you in just as good condition as they reach us.

WIRE DESIGNS: A Full Line. Write us for our lilustrated Catalogue. Mention American Florist.

mention the American Florist when you order stock. &

Wholesale Florists

III West 30th Street, NEW YORK. Consignments Solicited. Telephone, 260 38th St.

A. G. Prince & Co. WHOLESALE CUT FLOWERS

AND FLORISTS' SUPPLIES.

88 & 90 Wabaeh Avenue,

Telephone Main 3208.

CHICAGO.

Prompt Attention to all Orders.

Now or Never

SPECIAL LELOPES

American Florist Company, (a) Dearborn Street, CHICAGO,

ROGERS PARK FLORAL CO..

Wholesale Growers of

FLOWERS.

51 WABASH AVENUE,

--- CHICAGO. HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES

DAGGER

o are willing to exclaimted and I model stand-by

L. B. BRAGUE, Hinsdale, Mass.

19c. semantion the American Plorist.

MacDONALD & McMANUS

Supply Orchids every day.

Only House in New York handling Extra Fancy Stock for Special Occasions.

Telephone 2778--38th Street. 50 West 30th Street, NEW YORK CITY.

FRED. EHRET, Wholesale Florist

No. 1403 Fairmount Avenue,
Telephone, Long Distance. PHILADELPHIA.

CONSIGN TO

BUY FROM

M. A. HART, Commission Dealer Cut Flowers, 113 WEST BOTH STREET,

NEW YORK CITY.
THE BEST MARKET IN NEW YORK.

TRAENDLY & SCHENCK, Wholesale Florists,

Control the stock of many celebrated growers and are prepared to quote prices on First Grade Cut Flowers. All varieties.

38 West 28th St., and Cut Flower Exchange, Tel. 961 18th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| NEW YORK, Feb. 9                        |
|-----------------------------------------|
| Roses, Beauty,                          |
| " Br.des. Bridesmald 3 00@ 10 00        |
| " Testout, Carnot 4 100@.12.00          |
| " Morgan, Meteor 3.00.410.00            |
| Carnations 1.00@ 2.00                   |
| " fancy 2 50@ 4.00                      |
| Valley 2.00 & 4.00                      |
| Mignonette                              |
| Violets                                 |
| Harristi 8.00@10 00                     |
| Tullps 1.50(3.3.0)                      |
| Smllax 8 00@10.00                       |
| Cattleyas                               |
| Daffodila, Jonquila                     |
| BOSTON, Feb. 9.                         |
| Rosea Beautles                          |
| " Perle. Niphetos 2 00a 4 00            |
| " Bride, Bridesmald, Morgans 4 00@12.60 |
| " Carnot Meteor 6.00kg/12/00            |
| Carnations, ordinary                    |
| " faucy 2.00@ 3.00                      |
| Valley, Daffodlis 3.00@ 4 00            |
| Vloieta                                 |
| Violeta                                 |
| Tuitps 3.00@ 4 00                       |
| PHILADELPHIA Feb. 9.                    |
| Roses, Beauties, per dozen3.00@8.00     |
| " Teas, firsts 7.00@10 00               |
| " aelect                                |
| Carnations 1 50ca 3.00                  |
| Valley 3.00@ 4.00                       |
| Violets                                 |
| Narciaaua 2.50@ 3.00                    |
| Hyacintha 2,00@ 3.00                    |
| Harristi                                |
| Daffodlls 4.00                          |
| Tullps 4.(0)                            |

John I. Raynor,

49 WEST 28th STREET,

-NEW YORK.

SPECIAL EXTRA STOCK OF

AM. BEAUTY, METEOR, BRIDESMAID, BRIDE.

Record Breaking Carnations

THOS. YOUNG, JR.

43 West 28th Street, New York.

WALTER F. SHERIDAN,

FLORIST,

39 West 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Roses shipped to all points. Price list on application.

Pose Growers

Will find a good market and good returns for their stock at....

JULIUS LANG'S

53 W. 30th Street, - NEW YORK.

Edward C. Horan, 34 W. 29th Street, NEW YORK,

WHOLESALE • FLORIST.

Careful Shipping to all parts of the country.

Price list on application.

CITY HALL CUT FLOWER MARKET, 9 Chapman Place, 15 Province Street, BOSTON, MASS.

WELCH BROS., PROPRIETORS.

Consignments from regular growers assigned aeparate space in our market. We guarantee payment for all Flowers sold. Sales reported weekly; payments monthly, or oftener if required.

THE NEW ENGLAND HEADQUARTERS FOR THE BEST GRADE OF FLOWERS AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

J. K. ALLEN, Wholesale Florist,

57 West 28th Street, NEW YORK, near 6th Ave. Elevated R. R.

BEAUTIES AND VIOLETS, SPECIALTIES.
Consignments Solicited.

JAMES M. KING

Commission Dealer in

CUT FLOWERS

Cood Money for your Flowers, Cooe Flowers for your Money, 49 WEST 29TH ST., NEW YORK, TELEPHONE 1675 38th St.

THE NEW YORK GUT FLOWER CO.

119 and 121 West 23d Street, 112 and 114 West 24th Street,

Telephons 733-181h.

NEW YORK.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED.

Specia Attention Given to Shipping Orders.

GEORGE A. SUTHERLAND, Cut Flowers & Florists' Supplies

67 Bromfield St.,

BOSTON, MASS.

Wholesale Florists

ALWAYS ON HAND:
CARNATIONS,
BRIDES.

SUPPLIES.

FLORISTS' VASES.
Horticalinral Auctioneers.

84 HAWLEY STREET, - BOSTON.

GALVIN&CO.

Wholesale Florists

AND DEALERS IN ALL FLORISTS' SUPPLIES,

4 Ordway Place, BOSTON, MASS.
Cut Flower Consignments Solicited. Best market.

JOHN YOUNG, ROSES, CARNATIONS, VALLEY

and all other choice cut flower stock.

51 W. 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Price list on application.

FRANK MILLANG, SUT FLOWERS

WHOLESALE COMMISSION,

408 E. 34th Street,

.....

Cut Flower Exchange, NEW YORK.

WM. C. SMITH, Wholesale Florist,

40 So. 16th St., PHILADELPHIA.

Consignments Solicited. Special attention given to shipping orders Long Distance Telephone 5008 A.

Florists' Ferneries.

The increased use of terns for house decorations within the past ten or twelve years has been remarkable. They have steadily grown in public favor, rivaling palms, rubbers and other plants used for this purpose. Nephrolepis and other large ferns are now largely sold for filling jardinieres where formerly only palms rubbers were used, though the great demand is for small ferns in two and three inch pots for filling ferneries.

of the many ferns in cultivation there are but very few that, under the most favorable circumstances, would live for more than a short period in the hot dry atmosphere of a dwelling hented by a furnise or steam. We are not only ex-pected to furnish plants that will stand heat and dry air, but they are restand heat and dry air, but they are required to grow in a shallow dish, generally without drainage. Therefore great care should be taken in the selection of the most suitable varieties. The followthe most suitable varieties. The following will be found serviceable as center plants in small fernerics, or in those of large size where tall subjects are needed: Nephrolepis davallioides furcans, X. exaltata Bostoniensis, and X. Phillippinensis. X. davallioides furcans can be as easily grown as Pteris serrulata, and when treated in the same way is one of the most useful and beautiful of all ferns, being salable from the time it is established in 2-inch pots, and in all larger pots up to 12-inch. If a plant gets too large, the size can be readily reduced by dividing it.

Among other good sorts for this kind of work are Cyrtomium falcatum, one of the very best ferus for house culture; Lastrea aristata variegata, good variegated. Pteris adiantoides, dark green foliage; P. cretica, and its varieties magnifica and albo-lineata, the last the best variegated fern in cultivation; P. serrulata and its varieties cristata, cristata compacta, cristata fastigata, cristata parvula, cristata plumosa, cristata magnifica, major, and major cristata; P. hastata, P. palmata, and P. Victoria. This list of terms cannot be duplicated by auother of equal size and merit from the hundreds of varieties known in gardens, and they will come as near standing the disadvantages of house culture as any fern can come.

There always has been, and no doubt always will be, a class of customers who prefer adiantums. The majority of these will be suited with A. cuncatum, but for others it would be well to have on hand a few varieties of A. Capillus Veneris. Several of these varieties, including fission, gracile, grande, imbricatum and magnifrom A number of other plants can be mixed with terms in these little ferneries to good purpose. Small pallus are quite gererally used for center plants, and Cocos Weddehana is one of the best. Peperomia Saundersu is a good house plant, withstanding the dry air and gas pant, withstanding the dry air and gas inch better than the terns, and very easy to grow and propagate. When we dean the peperomas or have a plant biolen in any war, the locyes are thrown under the greener is every hard here they soon declored the party or and here they soon declored the party with all perceives of P. Samidesan are soon go decreter plant for a terreiry and the same free plants may be used around the cateroday with good effect.

The tonic, and the same dear degrams good things are a conductor in this work. These parts is a continuous rather are but the according to the other. mertined.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| CINCINNATI, Feb. 10.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| Roses, Beauty select 30,00@40.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| " medlum                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| n Brites                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| " Bridesmalds                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| Himeediands                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
| Carnations 1 5000 2.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| " fancy 3.00@ 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| Vailey 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| Romans 2 00@ 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| Narcissus 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |  |
| Daffodlls 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |  |
| Vlofets                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| Harrish 12 50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| t allas                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| Tuling 3.00.4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| Smilax                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| Adiantum                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| Asparagas 50.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
| Albertage Control of the Control of |  |
| St. Louis, Feb. 10.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| Boses, Beauties 15 00@50 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| " Meteors 5.00 a 8.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| " Brides, Bridesmaids 5.00@ 8.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| " Perles 4.00@ 5 (0                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| " Wootton 4.00ka 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| " La France 5.00c/10.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| " Kalserine 4,000 10.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| " Carnot 6 1000/12 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| Carnations 2.00% 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| Violets, California                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| " single                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| Vailey 3.00a 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| Harrisii                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| Callas $ 000 12 50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| Talips                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| Nardsaus Romans 2 50cc 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| Smllax                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| BUFFALO, Feb. 10.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| Roses, Beauties                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
| Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors 6 000 10 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| " Perles 4.00% G 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| " Niphetos                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |  |
| " Kalserin, Mermets 6 00@ 12.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
| Carnations extra                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| ordinary                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
| Valley                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| Violets                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| Romans 2.00@ 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| Harrisil 15 00@ 20.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| Smilax 12.50@ 15.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| Adiantam 1.25                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| Asparagus                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |  |
| Asparagus                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |  |

OF SEASONABLE FLOWERS IN STOCK.

WM. F. KASTING COMMISSION FLORIST....

495 Washington St., Buffalo, N. Y. Also Dealer in Florists' Supplies and Wire Designs

W. A. MCFADDEN,

NEAVE BUILDING. CINCINNATI.

Producers and Shippers of every description of High Class Floral Supplies.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS. JARDINIERE FERNS.

Quotations pouled weekly forwarded

N. Y. CUT FLOWER EXCHANGE

404-412 E. 34th St. Near Ferry. Open for Cal Flower Sales at Go'clock Every Morning.....

DESIRABLE WALL SPACE TO RENT FOR ADVERTISING.

JOHN DONALDSON, Secretary.

C. A. KUEHN. Wholesale Florist.

ST. LOUIS. MO.

A complete line of Wire Designs.

MOUND CITY CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists.

CONSIGNAL
Special attention given
1322 Pine St., ST. LOUL

C. W. WORSERERERER
2740 Olive Street,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
at HOLESALE....

Headquarters for the South West ...

------When writing mention American Florist

ST. LOUIS GUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists

E. H. MICHEL

1620 Olive St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

HOLTON & HUNKEL CO.

The Wisconsin Flower Exchange.

Fresh Cut Flowers, Florists' Supplies Manufacturers of WIRE DESIGNS

Consignments Solleited.

Phone Main 874.

457 Milwaukee St., MILWAUKEE.

Asparagus Plumosus

Strings 8 to 10 feet long, 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

Baston.

FEBRUARY EXHIBITION AT HORTICULTURAL HALL. - FINE CARNATIONS. - BUSINESS DULL AND OUT OF TOWN SHIPMENTS STOPPED BY THE STORM.—A FINE EASTER STOCK AT WM. EDGAR'S .- COTTER'S SUC-CESS WITH SUMMER ROSES.-UNUSUAL PROCEDURE IN MASSACHUSETTS HORTI-CULTURAL SOCIETY. — GREENHOUSES CRUSHED. — PROTECTING THE MAY-FLOWER.

The February exhibition at Horticultural Hall last Saturday brought out two fine collections of carnations from Wm. Nicholson and M. A. Patton. the recent introductions, as well as older varieties, were included in both collections and the quality was good excepting for a noticeable weakness of stem in all, caused by the shade from the heavy snow banks on the glass. Of the old varieties none looked better than Thomas Cartledge, which apparently does not belong in the "run out" class. Carl Blomberg showed a fine group of orchids comprising many cattleyas and cypripediums, besides dendrobiums and phalaenopsis. In the class for camellias James Comley was the only competitor, and no one tried for the freesia premiums. The dis-plays of forced vegetables were unusually good.

The effects of the recent wild weather are seen not only in the broken trees and crushed greenhouses but in the accumulation of flowers at the various wholesale stores, the receipts being in excess of the outlet, notwithstanding the decreased production resulting from the cold and absence of sunlight. The difficulty in moving even a limited stock when transportation to outside points fails, and street dealers are unable to work, is an impressive object lesson and is an indication of what might be expected if the wholesalers ceased to ship flowers away from this market and the flower growers were forced to depend upon the legitimate local retail trade. Shipments north and east have been impossible all through the past week and carnations, even, are pil-ing up hopelessly. When carnations go that way at this season the story as to other flowers is easily understood. In short, business has been very disappointing of late.

Wm. Edgar has as nice an Easter stock in prospect as is ever seen in this neighborhood. Azaleas rhododendrons and genistas will be very fine; lilies ditto. Some big pots of longitlorums, six and seven bulbs in each, are especially admired and the entire stock of lilies excites sur-prise on account of absence of evidences of disease until one is told that the usual proportion of sickly lilies was in evidence the same as ever, but that as soon as they showed, they were promptly dumped. Mignonette, Allen's Defiance, which looked so handsome here not long ago shows considerable trace of disease now, but Mr. Edgar attributes this to injudicious watering rather than to any inherent weakness in the mignonette. ferns by tens of thousands are rapidly coming forward and it is consoling to know that at last Boston is in a fair way to have a home establishment with sufficient enterprise to supply all the young ferns needed for local demands.

Lawrence Cotter is entirely out of the Easter hustle this year. The houses, five in number, that in previous years were devoted to chrysanthennums in fall and then filled with Easter stock, were planted with Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and Meteor roses for summer consumption and gave a good crop until December when they were cooled off and the plants given a chance to take a good rest. They are now breaking again and give promise of a grand crop. Mr. Cotter claims that this method of using the houses has proved much more profitable in the aggregate than the old way.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society has suddenly developed a great interest in the state forests and street trees. Very much to the Society's credit is this, but when in an organization such as this. with so many noted and able arboriculturists of long standing as members, it transpires that of a special committee of five on this subject, two members, one of whom is the chairman, only joined the society on the day on which the committee was constituted, comment must be expected. There are some things that the Massachusetts Horticultural Society has in the past wisely abstained from, and conservative members will now keep their eye on the woodpile in which, maybe, a colored gentleman is concealed.

In addition to those mentioned in last week's notes as having sustained loss on account of the storm it is learned that David Gray of Brockton suffered heavily; his greenhouses being badly wrecked and the contents seriously damaged.

A resolution has been introduced into the Massachusetts House of Representatives, providing for the protection of the trailing arbutus.

W. R. Smith of Washington will talk on "Trees in Streets and Elsewhere" at Horticultural Hall, on Saturday, February 19.

Fred W. Hyatt, Beacon street, has failed.

Visited Boston: H. Bayersdorfer, Martin Reukauf, Philadelphia; Paul M. Pierson, Scarborough, New York.

Mushroom Growing at Kennett Square, Pa.

The mushroom industry in this section has been made quite a feature, and pretty generally entered into the last few years in connection with carnation growing; so much so in fact, that it has ceased to be a paying crop, all things considered. It must be borne in mind that a great many of our florists-growing mushrooms-have farms connected with the greenhouse business; which, with the extra cheap labor to help ont in preparing the material, lessons the cost of production very materially; otherwise I doubt if there would be very many grown.

The manure used is not entirely wasted in the growing of mushrooms, however, for it makes an excellent potting soil and top dressing for any growing crop. preparation, housing, etc., is quite expensive, and the chances of failure about as good as of success.

The temperature of a carnation house is a little low for best results in growing the mushroom. The best results are obtained in houses built separately for them. These are under better control, and an even temperature of 56°, best suited to them, can be maintained.

A few years ago before so many were grown, when 50 cents per pound was realized, they were a fairly paying crop. I doubt very much if they can be grown for less than 25 cents per pound. Last season they reached the low figure of 10 cents, which was a losing price for the erop. WM. SWAYNE.

LENOX, MASS.-J. R. Paul has just secured a patent on a shade for greenhouses.

FLORISTS' MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE ASS'N

W. J. VESEY, Sec'y, - Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GEO. E. COLE & CO. Blank Book Makers. Stationers and Printers

> 86 and 88 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

THE Regan Printing House NURSERY CATALOGUES SEED FLORISTS

87-91 Plymouth Place, *** CHICAGO

THE WABASH R. R. COMPANY

The Short and Quick Line between the East and West connecting Buffalo, Detroit and Toledo with Chicago, St. Louis, Kan-and Toledo with Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

The Wabash is the Only Line running sleeping cars and chair cars (free) between Butlalo and St. Louis and Kansas City.
Through sleeping cars between New York and Boston and St. Louis and Chicago run every day.

For further information apply to the nearest Railroad Ticket Agent, or to

H. B. McCLELLAN, G. E. A., 337 Broadway, New York City,

J. D. McBEATH, N. E. P. A., 6 State Street, Boston, Mass.

C. S. CRANE, Gen. Pass. & Tkt. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

NOW YOU WANT IT, BECAUSE YOU NEED IT, AND NO DOUBT CAN AFFORD IT, A Set of A.A.A.A

16-Page Priced Catalogue Free,

DAN'L B. LONG, -Publisher, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Please mention American Florist.

Chicago.

BUSINESS GOOD AND PRICES HIGHER .-WASHINGTON PARK CONSERVATORIES OPEN EVENINGS -PINK TULIPS IN FAVOR. -MEETING OF THE FLORISTS' CLUB.-VISITORS.

Business during the past week has been good. There is a marked improvement in demand. All good stock, except bulb stock, has been cleaned out by ten o'clock

There are not enough roses to supply the demand, especially of Brides and Maids. Meteors are more plentiful than other roses, and less in demand on account of poor color, but as roses are scarce all are disposed of. Carnations, especially good Tidal Waves, are scarce. Violets, which a week ago were accumulating, are now sold out clean every day, and at an advance of 25 cents per 100 over last week's prices.

The Chicago growers ought to be well satisfied with the prices obtained this winter for stock. A comparison of price lists for the past seven years for the month of January shows that they averaged higher in January, 1898, than in 1892, which was the highest in the years compared.

Retail trade is fairly good; there are no large parties or great demands from any particular source, but a good steady business.

The Washington Park conservatories are now lighted by electricity and opened to the public in the evening. Crowds are in attendance each evening, and it is the intention to continue the practice as long as the interest keeps up. Mr. Kanst feels well pleased with the success of this expe-

John Zeck, manager for Reinberg Bros., has been sick since last Saturday

Klehm has made a hit with his pink tulips; pink is the only color that sells readily this season.

Weber Bros., of Bowmanville, are sending to A. L. Randall exceedingly fine carnations. Their McGowan are the best seen in the market.

The Florists' Club meeting Thursday evening was quite largely attended, it being retailers' night. It was expected that the retailers would take the opportunity to discuss their grievances against the growers and commission men. old subject of pickled stock which is ever fresh in the minds of the retailers after the holidays, was thoroughly and good naturedly discussed, and also the necessity of having all flowers which are sold by the bunch full count and better graded.

1) McKoric, with W.A. Manda, of New Jersey, visited the club. P. J. Hanswirth, has the decoration for the banquet of the Marquette Club at the Auditorium hotel Saturday night. Covers will be laid for 1200.

Philadelphia from a Grower's Point of View.

Messrs. Thomas Mechan & Sons have

Messes. Thomas Mechan & Sons have a white sport from carnation Della Fox. I hope they may be at and that it may prove to be a made.

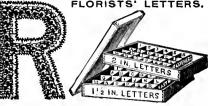

The line of against as spoken of frequency, the edge of Igne within the seventies of the tenent was subject to a first sea hearbested it smaller to the a release to the affected at similar to the same transform or emission head honotrope. Now data there ggy verticus to the grotter of the energy verticus to the grotter of the energy of the first of the energy of the belief that the point of the electropic of the e vitality, causing the parent to produce something dissimilar and weaker than itself. It would be interesting if Mr. Marquisee would particularize and specify why he thinks so, producing facts to bear him out in his assertion. Proofs in abundance, I think, can be produced that either he or the reporter has made a mis-Lots of erroneous information is spread broadcast in just that reckless way of speaking and writing.

At the April meeting of the Florists' Club will the symposium on the Lilium Harrisii disease take place, and not as has before been stated at the March meeting. Wm. P. Craig is down to tell meeting. wm. r. Craig is down to tell us all about what he saw at the annual meeting of the American Carnation Society, to be held February 17th, at Chicago, and his impressions of the great West. An instructive and entertaining paper is expected.

Boston Florist Letter Co.

This wooden box nicely stained and varnished, 18x30x12 made in two sections, one for each size letter, given away with first order of 500 letters.

Block Letters 1 ½ or 2-inch size, per 100, $2.00. Script Letters $4 Fastener with each letter or word. Used by leading tiorists everywhere and for sale by all wbolesale florists and supply dealers.

N. F. McCARTHY, Treas. and Manager, 84 Hawley St., BOSTON, MASS.

Doves

The largest and finest stock of white doves on earth. * Write for prices. A A A S. J. RUSSELL, 203 Summit Ave., JERSEY CITY, N. J.

See that my signature is stamped on every dove.

Folding Boxes and Wax Paper

The Aull Bros. Paper & Box 60.

بية بي DAYTON, OHIO.

FAXON'S "WHITE PANSIES.

The best mixture in cultivation, flowers very large, thick and velvety; of superb colors and markings. The perfection of form and texture. In Trade Packets at $1.00 each.

M. B. FAXON,

528. BOSTON, MASS. Correspondence solucited. Lock Box 1528.

Pansies Worth Raising.

GOOD PLANTS, 82.50 per 1000, or $1.50 per 500. LARGE PLANTS, $4.00 per 1000, or $2.50 per 500. BLOOMING PLANTS, $1.50 per 100. CASH WITH ORDER. SEED, as usual.

C. SOLTAU & CO., Ave., JERSEY CITY, N. J.

..PANSIES..

200,000 in cold frames of the Jennings finest strengs, all extra No. 1 plants; large size, ready to bloom. Edit per 1991; extra medium size for cold frames, $140 per 1991. Extra 75c per 199 by of the linest strain, $150 per pkt of AND seed; $600 per outce.

...SEED...

Cash with order. Lock Hox 25t

E. B. JENNINGS, Southport, Conn. Grover of the finest Pausies.

For Insurance against damage by hail, Address

JOHN G. ESLER, Sec'y, F. H. A., Saddie River. N. J

John Conley & Son,

TIN FOIL

2 AND 4 DOMINICK STREET,

__New York.

REED & KELLER. Florists' Supplies

122 W. 25th St.,

NEW YORK CITY.

St. Louis.

MARKET REVIEW.— CLUB NOTES.— PER-SONAL MENTION.—THE BOWLING CLUB.

Market opened up for the week with a good demand and a very limited supply of stock. The shortage of stock still continues with the outlook for heavier receipts very discouraging. The heavy The heavy snows throughout the Indiana flower belt which to a great extent supplies this market, were a hindrance to shipment. The home growers report that their crop will be on again in about ten days or two weeks.

Beauties were in good demand, stock was very poor and receipts light; Kaiserin and Brides sold better; Bridesmaids were in good demand; Carnots were called for, with none in the market: Meteors continue to arrive in poor shape, with a big demand for same; Perles were more plentiful; Woottons sold well. California violets went lower this week than at any other time this season. Double violets were neglected. Single violets and southern stock sold cheap. Harrisii lilies were scarce with a good demand. Callas sold well and supply was good Romans and narcissus were poor sellers this week. Smilax was plentiful and selling cheaper. Carnations are in good supply. The bulk of carnations arrriving here are very poor, and the wholesaler has a hard time disposing of this kind of stock. Good stock sold readily and at fair prices.

Mr. J. J. Beneke who was elected manager of the next flower show has appointed his staff of officers to act as chairmen of their respective committees. Mr. Emil Schray, premiums and awards; R. F. Tesson, hall and printing; Mr. Wm. Young, subscriptions and prizes; Carl Beyer, advertising; C. C. Sanders, finance; F. Fillmore, special prizes.

The second annual smoker of the St. Louis Florists' Club was held at the Merzantik Club, and all members of the Mercantile Club, and all members of the club and all the florists of the city were invited to attend. Plenty of lunch and refreshments were served, and all were called upon to make a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. Altogether the smoker was a success in both a social and business way.

Mr. Dan'l McKorie, the popular and rotund salesman was with us the last few days. Outside of corralling all the orders here he also showed the St. Louis boys how to roll cocked hats.

Mr. Ed. Buechel, the genial manager of the Riessen Floral Co., reports business good, and is kept busy this week with one of the biggest decorations of the season for the Liederkranz masquerade ball.

The meeting of the bowling club despite the cold weather was well attended and some good scores were made. The boys may possibly make up a team to roll the Chicago team during the coming carna-Ã. J. B. tion meeting at Chicago.

Cincinnati.

The supply of roses has been somewhat better than in the previous weeks. Choice Beauties have been difficult to obtain; there are enough second and third class to meet the demand. Teas are coming in more plentiful. Carnations have been sufficient and find a ready sale. Marie Louise violets, choice quality, are still sought after, but inferior grades move slowly. Tulips are improving, with longer stems. Our wholesale houses report a fair shipping trade the past week.

On February 5 a special meeting was held at the society's club room. The object of the meeting was to make final arrangements in regard to the Chicago

Carnation Convention. Mr. E. G. Gillett was appointed a committee on railroad rates. The time of leaving the C. H. & D. depot will be 8:45 p. m. February 16.
Mr. Albert Sunderbruch was appointed a committee to notify Mr. Hadley in regard to spacefor the Cincinnati exhibit. A suitable badge was next discussed, and Mr. Witterstaetter selected to have full charge of procuring same.

Mr. J. M. Gasser, of Cleveland, O., was a visitor at the meeting. He spoke entertainingly regarding trade in his city, also the marked difference he noticed in carnations seen here as compared with that of his own city.

Among those who will attend the carnation convention at Chicago are Mr. Bartlett (who makes bone flour without acid) A Sunderbruch, H. Wallman, R. Witterstaetter (Evelina), Ben George, J. Schuman (Newport, Ky.), E. G. Gillett, J. Petersen, R. H. Warder, Supt. of Parks, Gus Adrian, W. Murphy and E. H. Giesy. That long bundle E. H. G. is going to bring contains sash bars; no sap in the bars nor the man either. II. Schwarz.

Remedy for Scale.

ED. AM. FLORIST: I saw recently in the New York notes that growers of dwarf oranges are troubled with scale. An effective remedy used here by spraying is Babbitt's lye, one pound, to twenty gallons of water. This neither injures fruit or foliage, but it may be well for growers to pack the surface of pots with sphagnum, as too much lye may be injurious to plants in pots.

C. H. CAMPBELL.

HAGERSTOWN, MD.-Adolph Jaenicke has made a voluntary petition in insolv-

Palmer's Hot Bed Mats FROST PROOF

Made expressly for winter covering of hotbeds, cold frames, plants and seeds of all kinds. Indestructible, Cheap and Warm

WILL not harbor mice or vermin. Easily handled. Dry out quickly after rain. Have now been in practical use three years. Cost less than old-fashioned straw mats and entirely take their place.

MADE IN FOLLOWING GRADES:

No. I—Burlap Cloth, filled with combination wool and quilted, seams 3 inches a part and edges firmly bound.

Size 40x76 inches, 50 cents each. 76x76 ... 75 ...

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 12 cents per running foot.

No. 2-Duck Cloth outside, filled and quilted same as No. 1.
Size 40×76 inches, $0.75 cach.

76×76
1.00

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 16 cents per running foot.

No. 3-Waterproof, made of oil duck, filled and quilted same as Nos. 1 and 2.
Size 40x76 inches, $1.00 each.
" 76x76" $1.25 to $1.50 each.
Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 20 cents per running foot.

پيون That these mats are a much needed improvement over anything heretofore used for the same purpose, is demonstrated by the large demand and many testimonials from prominent men in the trade. Everyone using Hot Bed Mats should give them a trial.

×

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

WE ALSO MAKE

QUILTED HORSE BLANKETS the Cheapest, Warmest and Strongest in the World....

The R. T. Palmer Co.

Or New London, Conn.

113 Worth Street, NEW YORK.

Address all correspondence to The R. T. Palmer Co., New London, Conn. Agents wanted pay good commission.

H. BAYERSDORFER & CO.'S

Seasonable Specialties:

CYCAS WREATHS.

MOSS WREATHS.

FERNERIES AND JARDINIERES:

Norman Style in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Tuscan, in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Milan, in Sprays.

OUR LEADING NOVELTY:

LACE VIOLET HANDKERCHIEFS.

Wheat Sheaves and Immortelles.

The largest and best stock in America.

New Catalogue of all FLORISTS' SUPPLIES on application. In For the trade only.

H. BAYERSDORFER & GO.,

50, 52, 54 and 56 N. 4th St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE SEED TRADE.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

JEROME B. RICE, Pres.; E. B. CLARK, 1st Vice-res., S. F. Willard, Wethersfield, Conn., Sec'y

Onton sets are now quoted at Chicago: yellows, $2, reds and whites, $2.50 to $2,75.

THE sweet corn shortage is becoming more generally apparent, and prices have advanced.

GENERAL REPORTS on the catalogue mail trade indicate satisfactory business to date, February 10, with from 10% to 20% advance over 1897 for January.

Los Angeles, Cal.-The Redondo growers are about the only ones that have not suffered from the frost. They have some thirty acres planted to carnations. Mr. Feder is cutting from 2,500 to 3,000 per week, and the Redondo Beach Co. about the same. While they are not cutting nearly as many as they would if the weather was more favorable, yet the quality does not seem to be affected. J. J. Dean, of Moneta, in the valley between Redondo and Los Angeles, would have lost a good deal if he had not had his young stock under glass. The Redondo growers are leaders in this section, both as to quality and quantity.

G. C. WATSON,

Juniper, below Walnut, - PHILADELPHIA.

E. F. C. YOUNG, Pres. V. P. SNYDER, Vice-Pres. JOS. D. HEDLESSEC. R. S. FOWLER, Trens. S. M. PEASE Genl Mar.

The Cleveland Seed Co.

Contract Growers of

IOBBERS IN SEEDS.

Cape Vincent, N. Y.

COTTON SEAMLESS, BURLAPS, ETC.

NO HAND BAGS BOUGHT AND SOLD. CINCINNATI BAG CO. Second and Walnut Sts., CINCINNATI, 0.

JOSEPH BRECK & SONS, CORP'N.

Peas, Beans and Sweet Gorn

JOBBERS AND DEALERS IN

GARDEN SEEDS

Wholesale Catalogue Now Ready

__OF ALL KINDS

18 N. Clark St., CHICAGO.

*<sup>W</sup>*ECEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE Seed Stores and Flower Stores

Can profitably handle our Packages of Plant Food. Attractive, take little 🚜 🤏 shelf room. Valuable 🤏 booklet free. Good profits.

The WALKER FERTILIZER CO. Clifton Springs, N. Y.

THE ALBERT DICKINSON CO.

Parks, Tennis Courts, Lawns, &c. In fancy 1 and 2 pound packages and bulk.
SPECIAL PRICES TO THE TRADE.

CHICAGO, ILL.

Why Not Try

Pure Lastern-grown Corn and Seeds. Contract with the EVERETTB, CLARK CO, for 1898 Crop. Sole Manufacturers and Proprietors of the Genuine Trowbridge Grafting Wax, now ready in 1-lb, bars, at the, 42-lb, bars, 12c, 44-lb, bars, 13c.

STRUCTLY WHOLESALE DEALERS

THE EVERETT B. CLARK CO. MILFORD, CONN.

BEST OF ALL' TOMATO

"ENGLISH" MELONS

"FOR FORCING)

FLOWER SEEDS FOR FLORISTS

Catalogues on application WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchants and Growers,

OSCAR KNOPFF & CO. SEED GROWERS.

ERRECHET, GERMANY.

sole Agent for the Lulted States and Canada

M. RUTTENAU, 15 to 25 Whitehall St., New York. Trade Catalogues and estimates cheerfully furnished Orders promptly filled direct from nurseries at Erfurt.

FOR THE TRADE ONLY.

MARK,

WE import all kinds of Japanese Bulbs, Plants and Seed, and have our own Nurseries and Farms in Japan. We expect large shipments of Lilium auratum, L. spec. album, rubrum, Melpomene Cycas steens and Maples. Prices on application.

SUZUKI & IIDA,

No. 15 Broadway. NEW YORK.

No. 3 Nakamura, YOKOHAMA, JAPAN

BURPEE'S SEEDS PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Price List for Florists and Market Gardeners.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON CO.

Importers and Exporters of

Seeds, Bulbs & Plants,

501 TO 503 W. 13TH ST.,

NEW YORK CIT

Send for quotations on all Florists' Bulb Stock.

COCOS WEDDELIANA. . $1.00 $7.50 $20.00 LATANIA BORBUNICA . .50 3.00 7.50 KENTIA BELMOREANA . 1.00 7.00 20.00 FORSTERIANA . 1.00 7.00 20.00

FORSTERIANA 1.00 7.00 20.00
ASPARAGUS PLUMOSUS NANUS 1.50 12.50 85.00
CANARIENSIS 1.60 12.50 85.00
SPRENGERII 1.50 12.50 85.00

J. L. SCHILLEH, th St., NEW YORK CITY. 404 E. 34th St ..

ALWAYS mention the AMERICAN FLO-RIST when writing to advertisers.

Buffalo.

The window of one of our Main street stores has been conspicuous all winter by the profusion and perfection of the Day-break carnations which have been the key note of the decorations. I refer to that of W. J. Palmer & Son.

I took a run out to their houses at Lancaster a few days since, not only to see where the flowers were produced, but to make my peace with the senior member of the firm.

Since my last visit a lot of the older houses have been removed to make room for those of more modern construction. The new houses are extremely well built and have side light both front and rear; iron frame, big glass and ventilators hinged to purlins. When you walk inside it seems lighter than out of doors.
Several of the houses are devoted to carnations, principally Daybreaks, and a finer lot I never saw—no, never so fine. At the time of my visit they were loaded with great long stemmed blooms of perfect form and color and the evidence was on the plants themselves to show that they had been yielding in a bounteous manner for a long time. I did not learn that they had received any special treatment. It only goes to show what new houses and an old head can do. Several of the older varieties are still grown well. A great many of the newer aspirants for public favor were there also, but I thought it would be a long time before Dayhreak, as grown here, would be superseded.

Roses, as usual, are doing well, and violets have been good evidently.

There is nothing new in trade circles that I am aware of—everything quict and peaceful. The energies of the growers are now being devoted to getting things for Easter and the spring trade, which come rather close together this year.

Pittsburg.

There is nothing new to report in the business situation this week, neither does it look as if there is to be any marked improvement before the Easter rush, but will keep steadily at what may be designated as very conservative. The demand for funeral work remains fairly good. The Western Pennsylvania Botanical Society, met on the 3d inst. Twelve new names were added to the membership list. The principal feature was an address delivered by Prof. Adolph Koenig on "Medicinal Plants." He confined himself chiefly to the plants of Allegheny county, Pa., (our own county). Upward of 100 specimens were exhibited and examined in detail. The alkaloid and glucoside substances, which are found in nearly every plant, were fully delineated, and their curative, poisonous and antiseptic properties explained. The lecture gave a very great deal of satisfaction and instruction.

Miss Anna M. Deens, instructor of botany in our high school, will at the next meeting of the Society, March 3, lecture on "Botany in our Public Schools.", As Miss Deens is an enthusiast on her subject, as well as a very fluent speaker, the lecture is looked forward to with great expectations.

The Perfume of the Violet.

For a long period much of the perfume sold as the product of the violet has been derived from quite a different plant, namely, the Florentine iris, and now we have to record as one of the most recent achievements of scientific chemistry, the production of an artificial perfume practically identical with that of violets.—Gardeners' Magazine.

SOMEBODY MUST WANT THEM

I have Five cases Spiraea Japonica left, 200 clumps each. Who wants them at ONE-HALF PRICE? I will sell at $2.50 PER HUNDRED by the case. They must be planted this week to be ready for Easter. Speak Quick. GUARANTEED O. K. Have been kept in cold storage. . . . . .

G. C. WATSON.

Juniper & Walnut Sts. PHILADELPHIA.

NEW . GIANT . ESCHSCHOLTZIAS, "THE GOLDEN WEST."

New Giant Fancy Cosmos, six splendid varieties, separate, $1 oz.; Giant Cosmos, splendid mixed, 65c oz.; Calliopsis "California Sunbeams." $1 oz. Special rates given on Cosmos in quantity: Apple Geranium, fresh, $1 per 1000 seeds; New Large Flowering Zonale Geranium, $2.50 oz.; Ipomæa, "Heavenly Blue," $1 oz., $12 lb.; Laurustinus grandillora, $1 oz.; Zinnias, "New Curled and Crested," 50c oz.; $5 lb.; Nasturtium Good Venture Mixture, 60c lb.; $8 per 15 lbs.; Seaforthia elegans (Palm) 40c per 100 seeds. $3 per 1000 seeds. Sans (Or trade list of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs and Caeti.

MRS. THEODOSIA B. SHEPHERD.

Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal.

Bargains in Valleys

from a newly arrived consignment we offer ....

Fine Hamburg Lily of the Valley Forcing Pips

A Selected run, $10 per 1000; $24 the box of 2,500 B Ordinary run, $ 8 per 1000; $19 the box of 2,500 Net 30 days to approved accounts, less ten per cent for eash with order.

AUGUST ROLKER & SONS, 52 Dev St., New York

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS $4.00 per 100. These are large, extra fine and Bulbs. English strain.

$4.00 per 100. - These Bulbs, English strain.

LILIUM SPECIOSUM RUBRUM, $3.50 per 100 LILIUM SPECIOSUM ALBUM, $4.50 per 100

Fine Nursery Stock such as Rhododendrons. L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Azaleas, Clematis, H. P. and Tree Roses. L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Branch of The Horticultural Co., Boskoop, Holland.

CANNAS NEW AMERICAN Finest in the World Our Novelties for 1898

|                                           | Per   | 100  |
|-------------------------------------------|-------|------|
| DUKE OF MARLBORO, darkest crimson         | $30  | 00 ( |
| DUCHESS OF MARLBORO, only pure pink       |       |      |
| TOPAZ, only absolutely large pure vellow. | 50    | 00   |
| LORRAINE, pink, edged white, fine         | 30    | 00   |
| MAIDENS BLUSH, delicate flesh color       | 15    | .00  |
| GOLDEN PEARL, yellow, nearly double       | 30    | .00  |
| CUBA, finest and largest gilt edged       |       | 0.00 |
| GLORIOSA, very dwarf, March delivery      |       | 50   |
| PHILADELPHIA, glowing crimson             |       |      |
| CHAMPION, largest, glowing searlet $5    | 00 es | ich  |
| KLONDIKE, only large pure orange 32       |       |      |
| Send for complete list of 50 novelties    | and   | 200  |
| standard varieties at lowest prices.      |       |      |

OUR CANNAS IN FRANCE.

OUR CANDAS ...

To Messrs A Blanc & Co.
Your new cannas of last year gave me much sstisfaction. Please send me a complete set or your nevelties for 1888 as soon as ready. Also 12
Glant Crimson, etc. Signed CH MOLIN.
Lyon, France. Jan. 3, 188

ASPARAGUS SPRENGERI

Fine plants in 6-inch pots, ready for 8-inch $5 per 12.

AMARYLLIS.....

Veitch's Hybrids. $4 per 12; Equestra, $4 per 100; Formosissima, $3 per 100.

CALLAS

Spotted Leaf, $3; Black, $5; Yellow, $30; all per 100. Golden, $2 each.

DAHLIAS

11 prizes out of 22 at the last Dahlia exhibition. First prize Dahlia, GillT EDGE, $15 per 100 Send for special list.

A. BLANC & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

SPRING BU

| 7-9 inch$3.759-11 inch   | $35,0045,00 |
|-------------------------------|------------------|
|                               | 45,00            |
| LILIUM RUBRUM (Speciosum)     |                  |
| 7-9 inch 4.75                 | 40.00            |
| 9-11 inch                     | 60.00            |
| LILIUM ALBUM (Speciosum)      |                  |
| 7-9 inch                      | 55,00            |
| 9-11 inch 7.50                | 65,00            |
| BEGONIAS TUBEROUS             |                  |
| ROUTED                        | 00.00            |
| Single, separate colors, 3.50 | 30.00            |
| Double, " " 9.00              |                  |
| TUREDOSES                     |                  |
|                               |                  |

JDEKUSES....

True Excelsior Pearl.
"Hallock strain" First size..... 1.00 7.50 GLOXINIAS ...... Per doz., 85c; per 100, $5,00

CALADIUMS..... Fancy leaved choice bulbs, per doz., $1.75; per 100, $12.00.

CALADIUM ESCULENTUM

GLADIOLUS XXX Florists Mixture Per 1000 ... $1.75 Per 1000

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

NEW YORK 14 Barclay St.

CHICACO 84-86 Randolph St.

Pedigree Cannas.

Our new Cannas. Rosemawr. Golden Pearl. Maiden's Binsh, Duke and Duthess of Mari-borough Gloriosa, Sunset. Augusta. Balti-more, Philadeiphia. Ac., are the very best Write for list of new and standard varieties.

THE CONARD & JONES CO. WEST GROVE, PA.

STANDARD GANNAS

| THE OTHER             | 11 11     |
|-----------------------|-----------|
| STRONG ROOTS.         |           |
| 500 Mme. Crozy        | . $3.(t) |
| HOU Alphonse Bouvier  |           |
| 300 Florence Vanghan  |           |
| .00 J. D. Cabos       |           |
| 1501 Ch. Henderson    | 3.00      |
| 1500 Paul Marquant,,, | ., 3,00   |
| 150 Stella            | 4 ERT     |

Cash with order ERNST MAAG, Quincy, Ills.

Baltimore.

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE FROM BAD WEATHER. TRADL STEADY .- PRICES .- SHOW GETS A SET BACK.—CUT FLOWERS IN COLUMNS.

We did not have such a blizzard last week as Boston reports, but it was enough. Cold weather is all very well to stop the supply of outdoor flowers in the fall, but no doubt, a majority of the craft would like to have a week's notice of such a break as the last, or even dispense with it altogether. So far as can be ascertained no serious damage was done anyone, either by the gale that preceded it, or by the blizzard itself.

Trade is jogging along at a steady gait. The supply seems fairly up to the demand and prices are not bad. The manager at the exchange quotes the following rates: Carnations 112 cents; La France, Brides, Bridesmaid 6 to > cents; Perles 4 to 5 cents: American Beauty, scarce, at $3 to $4 per dozen; callas, $1.20 per dozen; smilax, 20 cents; freesias, $1 to $2.50 for choicest long stemmed; Adiantum cuneatum, $1 per hundred.

Well, the show project has received a decided set back at the hands of the club. The question really is not whether we shall have a show, but shall we have a show of our own, or be a kind of sideshow for somebody or something else. There will always be flower shows; there were several in and about the town last year, and there really seems to be a good deal of reason in the assertion that it would eost no more and be no more risky for any individual to join with all hands in giving a grand chrysanthemum show, than it would to be stuck off in a corner, like a "lovers' postoffice" or "wheel of fortune" at some charity bazaar. Has our desire to do wonders and leave larger cities and older societies in the shade not run away with us? Or is it an exemplification of the saying that "a scalded child fears cold water. While cruising about among the stores the other day, a simple but very satisfac-tory plan of holding cut flowers in columns was seen at Mr. Feast's. A bamboo stem about two inches in diameter had notches cut half way through the diameter just below each node or leaf joint, by filling the hollow stem of each joint with water and putting the stems of the orchids, terns, etc., in the holes or notches, a slender column of most graceful appearance was formed, while every bit of the greenery and bloom had a plentiful supply of water at the stem, to keep it from wilting. The usefulness of such an arrangement for delicate subjects, such as Adiantum Farlevense can hardly

ORCHIDS ORCHIDS

ORCHIDS

Our Specialty. Correspondence Solicited. LAGER & HURRELL, - Summit, N. J.

Please rentron the American Horist

HARDY Herbaceous Perennials

THE MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN AMERICA.

PÆONIES, PHLOY, IRIS, DELPHINIUMS, ETC., ETC. JACOB W. MANNING

The Reading Norsery, READING, MASS.

Established = 4
When writing mention the American Forbst

Adiantum Farleuense

BEAUTIFUL PLANTS, In 5-Inch pots, at $9.00 per dozen.

EDWIN LONSDALE, Wyndmoor,

Money Order Office, Station H Ph la

Chestnut Hill, PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

BOSTON FERN

Nephrolepis Evaltata Bostoniensis. Strong plants 6-inch pots, $1.00 each; $12.00 per doz.; also three varieties of PTERIS, bushy plants, 5-inch pots, 20c each; $2.40 per doz.

JOHN WELSH YOUNG. .... CERMANTOWN, PA.

ROSE HILL NURSERIES. SPECIAL OFFER

Cocos Weddeliana $6.75 per 1000. 10ts, $36.00.

SIEBRECHT & SON. New Rochelle, N. Y. New York Office, 409 Fifth Avenue.

* BEGONIAS *

|                         | 100,    | 11000,  |
|-------------------------|---------|---------|
| single, separate colors | $3 100 | $25,00 |
| Double. " "             | 7.50    | 65 00   |
| doxinas, mixed          | 3 (H)   | 35-00   |
|                         |         |         |

J. L. SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., New York. Sole Agent for Louis van Driessche, Ghent.

FEBRUARY OFFER. Per 100

| Iternanthera, Yellow, $1.50; Red | $2.00 |
|-----------------------------------|--------|
| nglish Ivy                        |        |
| egonias, 5 var                    | . 3.00 |
| xalis Floribunda                  | . 2.50 |
| eraniums, 16 Var., 2-in. pots     | . 2.50 |
| ansy Plants                       | . 1.00 |
| A SHEW HILL ORDER                 |        |

JOS. H. CUNNINCHAM, Delawere, O.

DWARF PAPAYAS

Most a guiffeent beginning and a com-plant known - Equal to a plant in beauty ond manner of growth; grows with the case of the Ricinus and endures drought with impornity. Plants from A in part of out-line 1st attained a height of to feel and though not watered once, remained fresh and services throughout the extreme drought As a produce code across fruit as easily grown as i nio Dorij ant are propagated from a tree I see produce 1 the winter 192 lbs of fruit recommendation Send for half-tone a free photo showing bed of these There Per Should be Price $2.25 per size ready May 1st. We are hendquarand for Lit.

Martin Benson, - - ILLINOIS. DONGOLA.

Palms.

Pandanus Veitchii,

Ferns and Araugarias.

IN ANY QUANTITY.

JOHN SCOTT.

Keap Street Greenhouses,

ROBERT CRAIG ROSES, Palmand Novelling

Market and 45..... Market and 49th Streel, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

IN BEST VARIETIES

ROSES, from 3-ineh pots.
CARNATIONS, for fall delivery CHRYSANTHEMUMS.
SMILAX.
VIOLETS.

Prices low. Bend for list.

WOOD BROTHERS, FISHKILL, N.Y.

Cocos

Healthy Growing Plants

Samples for Stamps

Weddeliana...

VIGTOR GARNATION

From sand $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. The best pink on the market!

B. REDFIELD. Juggenside, PA.

Bulbous Stock on own roo for Jardinieres and Pots, which are great

On own roots

Fine Bulb Pans ....5-in 250 doz.; 6-in. 350 doz.

Stock packed in sphagnum and will stond 5 days' journey. Cash with order....

H. SCHILLER 897 W. Madison St., - CHICAGO, ILL.

150 Tremont Building, -BOSTON, MASS.

BHILLIANT GREEN AND BRONZE

GALAX LEAVES.

For Decorating and all Florists' Designs.

CHAS. H. RICKSECKER, Linville, Milchell Co., N. C.

Roses Grafted on Manetti Stock Versus Own Root Stock.

Replying to your correspondent A. T., J. A. V. and many others who are constantly asking the same questions, who seem to think this is comparatively a new subject, whereas it was simply a very old one revived by the articles which appeared in the paper about a year ago; as long as I can remember anything about rose growing, this same subject had been thoroughly tested by many growers, but as I can only give the actual experience of one (myself), I will simply give the results of my own trials.

Some twenty-four years ago as I was growing roses where the Aramygus or rose bug as it is commonly known, was causing fearful havoc with our stock, it occurred to me that possibly the Manetti roots and stem, being somewhat of a harder nature than the ordinary tea rose roots, might resist their teeth a little To carry this idea into practice I ordered quite a lot specially prepared for the following season's planting which we received in due time in splendid condition, but alas! their roots were in no way proof against the pest. They were proof against the pest. They were planted, or part of them, in a house 24x300 about half filling the same. The other half was planted with own root stock which we had propagated ourselves. The result was, at the end of the season, that the own roots stock gave us about ten per cent. more flowers than the grafted stock, though the latter were much the strongest plants when put in the house. About this time I made up my mind to wage war on the rose bugs, so lifted the grafted plants, washed every particle of soil from their roots, dipped the tops in strong Paris green solution, planted them in the open ground, then cleaned every particle of soil, including the surface of the ground under the benches for two inches deep, made a huge bonfire and burned everything. This we did with all the old stock from all the houses except the grafted plants above mentioned.

After emptying the houses, we burned enough sulphur in each house to kill every living thing in them, including a cat which was left in one by oversight. This with some other radical measures we took, virtually got rid of Mr. Aramygus. In the meantime we had prepared an entirely new stock to plant the houses in a separate lot of houses some distance away from the infested ones. This stock included about 1,000 grafted plants of such varieties of tea roses as were then grown, and about the first of July the large house was again planted somewhat in the order as given above. A very careful record of the cuts of buds from both classes of plants were daily kept this season, the result was 12½ per cent in favor of the own root stock. I might mention that the first year's trial given above was in benches with six inches of soil, and I believe these were the first benches planted for winter forcing in this coun-

So much for this test; true we were not bothered in those days with eel worm, and our own varieties were not those of the present time, being such old sorts as Niphetos, Bon Silene, Safrano, Bougier, Souvenir d'un Ami, etc., but about this time I imported a lot of Perle des Jardins and Catherine Mermet for trial as they were new varieties untried in our method of forcing. Some of my then neighbors predicted that they would not succeed. As to the result the rose growers in the whole country can judge for themselves. Of course when these varieties did bloom, and their marvellous beauty was discovered, the main object in view was to propagate as many as possible. Having a lot of Manetti stock on hand, also a lot of Cherokee, Banksia and other strong growing varieties at my disposal, I utilized every shoot and eye possible without destroying the vitality of the plants to bud and graft. The next season's trial of these was somewhat disappointing so far as the Manetti was concerned. Those on the Banksia, Cherokee, etc., did won-derfully well. The result was that for the following season I propagated largely by cuttings, and that year the result was entirely satisfactory. And from that time to this, I have tried grafted stock on Manetti at various times, and in various ways with the idea of thoroughly satis-fying myself if there was any advantage in them, and am compelled to admit that up to the present time, including this season, I can find no advantage in them for shallow bench culture such as we follow here. This season we have several patches of Bride, Bridesmaid and American Beauty planted alongside of our regular own root stock and we have not found them yield as many buds or give us any better quality than the own root stock, and they are now growing here for any one to examine them who wishes

Now with regard to the roots of Manetti resisting eel worm I sold a customer who has been badly troubled with this pest for several years a few plants last spring, I saw him a few days ago and he tells me that the grafted plants are as badly affected as the others, but this may be an isolated case.

IOHN N. MAY

DREER'S "Special Offer" of

*SEASONABLE Bulbs and Tubers

IUBEROUS-ROOTED BEGONIAS AND GLOXINIAS. Now is the time to plant for early flowering. Our strain this season is even superior to that supplied by us in the past, having secured control of the stock of two of the most successful European growers, same having been personally inspected by us while in flower.

SINGLE TUBEROUS-ROOTED BEGONIAS

DOUBLE TUBEROUS-ROOTED BEGONIAS

 Separate colors—Scarlet, Rose, White and Yellow.
 $1 25 per dozen, $10 00 per 100, $90 00 per 1000

 Choicest Double Mixed.
 $1 00 per dozen, $8.00 per 100, $70.00 per 1000

GLOXINIAS

FANCY LEAVED CALADIUMS.

 Choice Named Varieties, in 25 sorts
 $2,00 per dozen, $15,00 per 100

 Choice Mixed Varieties
 $1,00 per dozen, $8,00 per 100

DAHLIAS.

A fine assortment of 25 Double Unctus, 42 Double Show and Fancy, 20 Pompone, strong field-grown roots, $1.00 per doz., $8.00 per 100

TIGRIDIAS.

MONTBRETIAS.

One of the most desirable of our summer and fall flowering bulbs, comparatively but True Dwarf Double Pearl, selected, 4 to 6inch bulbs, 85e per 100; $7.50 per 1000. little known, but certain to become popular. Six choice named sorts, 35c per doz.; $2.50

TUBEROSES.

JAPANESE LILIES.

HENRY A. DREER, 214 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Offer" of Carnations

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

All of the following are grown from clean vigorous stock and in A1 condition. For full description see our Wholesale Price List. Novelties and Varieties of Recent Introduction

| d                | oz.  | 100     | 1000    | doz,                    | 100     | 1000    |
|------------------|------|---------|---------|-------------------------|---------|---------|
| Bon Ton          | 2.00 | $10.00 | $75.00 | John Young $2.00       | $10.00 | $75.00 |
| Empress          | 2.00 | 10.00   | 75.00   | Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt 1.00 | 6.00    | 50,00   |
| Flora Hill       |      | 5.00    | 40,00   | Mrs. James Dean 2.00    | 10,00   | 75.00   |
| Gold Nugget $   |      | 10,00   | 75,00   | New York 2.00           | 10,00   | 75,00   |
| Harrison's White |      | 5.00    | 40,00   | White Cloud 2.00        | 10.00   | 75.00   |
| Jack Frost., 2   | 2.00 | 10.00   | 80,00   |                         |         |         |
|                  |      | STAN    | DARD    | VARIETIES               |         |         |
|                  | doz. | 100     | 1000    | 107.                    | 100     | 1000    |
| Anna Webb        | 35   | $2.00  | $15,00 | Lawrence Thompson ,35   | $2.00  | $15.00 |
| Alaska           | 35   | 2.00    | 15.00   | Orange Blossom          | 3.00    | 25.00   |
| Armazindy        | 50   | 3.00    | 25,00   | Portia30                | 1.50    | 12.50   |
| Buttercup        | 75   | 4.00    | 35,00   | Rose Queen              | 2.00    | 15.00   |
| Daybreak         | 35   | 2.00    | 15.00   | Thos. Cartledge         | 2.00    | 15.00   |
| Eldorado         | 50   | 3.00    | 25 00   | Tidal Wave              | 2.00    | 15:(X)  |
| Helen Keller     |      |         | 25.00   | Wm. Scott 30            | 1.50    | 12.50   |
| Times Matters    |      |         | 10.50   | W. D. Claurer 95        | 0.00    | 15.00   |

HENRY A. DREER. 714 CHESTNUT STREET. Philadelphia, Pa.

Do Not Buy Carnation Cuttings At a less price than it costs to grow them and expect good stock. Our prices are as low as good stock can be sold for.

as low as good stock can be sold for.

| White Cloud                                                 | $ 2 0010 0075 00 | per        | 100.        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|------------|-------------|
| Daybreak$2.0 per 100;Jubilee 3 50 per 100;Eldorado | $ 2.00                   | perper | 1000100 |

| C. A. Dana | $ 5.00 | per | 100  |
|------------|---------|-----|------|
|            | 40,00   | per | 1000 |
| Nivea      | $ 3.00 | per | 100  |
|            | 25.00   | per | 1000 |

| Alaska                                    | $ 1.50 per 10012 00 per 1000 |
|-------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Triumph Mrs. McBurney H. Keller Armazindy | $ 2.50 per 10020 to per 1000 |

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass.

FVFIIN

Is the grandest mid-winter carnation extant. This is the unanimous opinion of all who have seen it growing and predict for it a grand future. 🛪 🐼 Surpasses Wm. Scott.

R. WITTERSTAETTER, Sedamsville, O.

50,000 Flat-Grown GARNATIONS

| STRONC STOCK.                     | per lui | per 1000 |
|-----------------------------------|---------|----------|
| Partreak                          | (81.15  | $15.101 |
| movitt.                           | 2.00    | 15 (4)   |
| No main Colorests                 | 2.00    | 15 161   |
| This wave                         | 1.41    | 12 (#)   |
| Portin                            | 1 #1    | 12.00    |
| Both Bory new                     | 10.06   |          |
| Tutitine                          | o (III) |          |
| MONTH CONTRACTOR                  | 10.00   |          |
| MI YET TOTAL                      | 1.71    | 12.00    |
| 1. Metalogian                     | 1.41    | 12.100   |
| Eldorado Metror                   | 214)    |          |
| Flora H                           | + 111   |          |
| Tricroph Armayleds                | - 17.7  |          |
| Pilitic research inche sam ness b | itti    |          |
| T m florfiere                     | 19 (4)  |          |

Cash with order HENRY A NIEMEYER, Erie, Pa

NATHAN SMITH & SON

Wholesale Florists

Specialties 4,4,4

CHEYSANTEMUMS CAPNATIONS A.A.A AND VIOLETS. 4.4.4

. . . CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED . .

Kathleen Pantlind

HOPP & LEI

Paul P. O., E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Premium - 5 Red Wave with every 100 Kathleen Pantlind.

A RUST PROOF CARNATION FOR BUSINESS.

Bright searlet and POSITITTLY RUST PROOF. As productive as Scott. Rooted lifteen other novelties of 198, lifteen varieties of 197 and older standard sorts.

GEO. HANCOCK & SON. GRAND MAVEN. MICH.

When writing mention the American Florist.

When you write to any of the advertisers in this paper please say that you saw the advertisement in the American Florist.

Indianapolis.

During the past week business has been very good. Many receptions and other social events absorbed all the home grown cut flowers, besides many shipped. Violets even, of which an over supply is reported from most other places, find ready sale in this city.

Several florists are planning changes in regard to what they are going to grow this year.

H. W. Rieman, who showed such a fine collection of roses at our last chrysanthemum show, will plant Brides, Maids, Meteors and Perles only; Kaiserin, Test-out, Carnot and La France will be dropped, because they do not bloom enough in winter to pay.

The Columbian place conservatory, where roses have mainly been grown, intend raising carnations extensively.

Sonnenschmidt & Junge will diseard carnations and grow only roses and violets.

The Meridian street conservatory, where general stock for market has been grown, will change to a cut flower growing establishment.

The Indianapolis Flower and Plant Company, growers of cut flowers and general stock, have recently developed into a wholesale plant business, which so far, is the only one in town.

This city claims the distinction of a citizen managing four well sized greenhouses with the aid of but one thermometor, which is hanging on the outside of his greenhouse shed.

Death of Samuel Edwards.

The funeral of Samuel Edwards, of Mendota, Ill., was held on the 2nd, in that city and was attended by a large number of people. He was 80 years of age and his attainments and knowledge as a scientific horticulturist have made him well known throughout the North-west. With J. T. Little, about the year 1851, he was one of the first to hold the office of secretary in the Northwestern Fruit Growers' Association.

50.000 ROOTED GUTTINGS

OU, OUU INOULL OUTTING

CARNATIONS

Rose Queen, $1,25 per 100, or $60 00 per 1000; .lubilee, $2.50 per 100, or $30 00 per 1000; II. Keller, W. Scott, Thos. Cartiedge, $1.00 per 100, or $5.50 per 100; II. Zele McGowan, 75c per 100, or $5.50 per 1000; Hardson's White, Eldorado, $2.00 per 100 or $5.00 per 1000 per 1000.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Two-Inch por $50 00 per 1000; The Queen, Pink Ivory, $3.00 per 100, $30,00 per 1000; President Smitb, Rda Prass, $2.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000.

Marie Louise $6.00 per 1000. VIOLETS

Marie Louise $6.00 per 1000: Double Alyssum. 2-inch pots. 75c per 1t0. Cash with order or satisfactory reference.

PAXTON GREENHOUSES.

C. E. Taube, Prop. Harrisburg, Pa.

Carnations Chrysanthemums

NEW AND STANDARD VARIETIES

Our new Trade List will embrace the leading novelties of 1898 and 1897 as well as the best standard sorts. Address

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

1 make these low prices to sell out my surplus stock.

OTTO HANSEN, CALEWOOD. ILL.

NEW GARNATION

"Mrs.S.A. Northway"

A soft shell pink, developing to nearly pure white.

OUR MASTERPIECE.

We shall commence shipping soon.

Orders booked now and filled in rotation....

PRICE: PER 100. $10.00.

Newer Geraniums.

GENERAL LIST OF GERANIUMS.

A superb stock in quality and variety of all the finest sorts, from 214-in. pots, named. $25 per 1000; unnamed, $20 per 1000. ROOTED CUTTING, $12.50 per 1000. Net cash.

Fuchsias.

A grand lot of summered-over stock in small pots that will make early blooming plants, $3 per 100.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO.

Make the following statement to the readers of the American Florist & & & &

> As originators and introducers of

"Silver Spray," "Tidal Wave,"

"Daybreak," and "Rose Queen,"

each of which has, we believe, proven even better than we claimed for them. We NOW say for 1898 that possesses all the good points that go to make up a first-class and profitable cut flower sort, and that we introduce it with even more confidence than we did the others.

"Mrs. S. A. Northway"

It is an extra strong grower. It is free from rust or disease.

It is a profuse bloomer.

It has excedingly strong stiff

It is of exquisite form full and double.

The flower is high built, petals serrated.

The calyx does not burst.

It is delightfully fragrant (a quality lacking in many new ones.)

OUR PRICE LIST now ready, contains prices on many other plants.

SEND FOR IT.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO., Geneva, Ohio.

NEW PINK CARNATION

SEEDLING from McGowan v Wm. Scott; tested for four years, pleasing color and proved itself as another. SEEDLING from McGowan x Wm. Scott; tested for four years. It is of an exceedingly pleasing color and proved itself an early and most profille bloomer. It makes in a short time a fine bushy plant, and has the form and habit of what carmation men say make an ideal plant. Positively free from rust. The stem is strong and heavy enough to carry the large flower erect without tying of any sort. Calvx perfect; never bursts. It is a good keeper and a good shipper. You will make no mistake by trying a few. Rooted cuttings ready now. All orders tilled in rotation. As the sale of the stock of this Carnations will be limited, it is advisable to order early if you want any. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Price, $2 per doz.; $10 per 100;

$75 per 1000.

C. BESOLD, MINEOLA, Long Island, N. Y.

THREE MONEY-MAKING CARNATIONS.

Roper's May Whitely

Daybreak Color, Fragrant,

...and Mayor Quincy

Rooted Cuttings ... Ready Now

The improved Nicholson. Per 10b, $10; per 500, $35; per 1000, $50...

Tailby's Wellesley

Brilliant Scarlet, Crand Constitution. .. Per 100, $10; per 1000, $75

GEO. A. SUTHERLAND.

Selling Agent, 67 Bromfield St., BOSTON, MASS.

When writing mention American Florist.

Plant Introductions of 1898.

The undersigned respectfully solicits from all those introducing or having a knowledge of the introduction of new plants to the American trade for the year 1898, such descriptions and information as will be of assistance in making up the complete list for the year, which will be published as a part of the record of the Society of American Florists and Orna-mental Horticulturists, as was done last year, but in a more complete form.

Address, WM. J. STEWART, See'v, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

LONDON, ONT.-It is claimed that false returns were made in the election of representatives of the Horticultural Society to the Western Fair Board. The matter has been taken into court and interesting developments are expected.

CARNATIONS.

WHITE CLOUD—White.
GOLD NUGGET—Yellow.
NEW YORK (Ward)—Bright cerise pink.
MRS. JAMES DEAN (Ward)—Clear silvery pink.
JOHN YOUNG (Ward)—White.
BON TON (Ward)—Scarlet.
Prices for above varieties: $2.00 per doz., $10.00
per 100, $75.00 per 1000.

We will also have Cerise Queen (Breitmeyer),
Argyle (Stollery), Jack Frost (Swayne), Empress (Swayne), Evelina (Witterstaetler), Firefly (Hancock), Pyche (Hill), Panted Lady (Hill), and Mrs. S. A. Northway (Simmons).

All good 1897 novelties and other standard varieties at reasonable prices.

New Chrysanthemums.

MRS. C. H. PEIRCE—Yellow.

35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

SNOW QUEEN—White.

50c each, $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

MERRY CHRISTMAS—Late White.

35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

Send for Descriptive Price List. Ready January, 1898.

F. DORNER & SONS CO. LAFAYETTE, IND.

ՎԱՍԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱԱ

Experiences

... WITH ...

CARNATIONS

will be cultural as we'l as descrip-tive and sent free to all applicants.

I Guarantee all cuttings sent out and offer a Special Guarantee to all buyers of Flora Hill and Triumph.

ALBERT M. HERR,

.... LANCASTER, PA.

*สีกากกากกากกากกากกากกากกากกากกา*ร

Rooted Carnation Cuttings

| (ar) |
|------|
| 41   |
| 41   |
| 100  |
| 50   |
| (8)  |
| 50   |
| 101  |
|      |

NEW CARNATION ....

Empress

Send for price has of above. New and Standard Sorta....

WM. SWAYNE, Box 226, Kennett Square, Pa.

THE NEW .x.x.x.x Cerise Queen «««CARNATION

The best dark pink we have seen or grown. Orders booked now. $10 per hundred. 24.24

Mayor Pingree

**FINE STOCK

$40,00 per 1000.

JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS,

DETROIT, MICH.

WANTED Carnation growers to look into the merits of and be convinced that it is the coming commercial variety of its color. READY MARCH 1st, Price, $2.00 per dozen; $10.00 per 100: $75.00 per 1000.

Send for circular for full description and a select list of money makers in Chrysanthemums.

STOLLERY BROS., Argyle Park, CHICAGO.

Anybody Can Grow **

Genesee

NEW COMMERCIAL

Originators: HARMON & BURR,

Darien, N. Y.

For Prices, Circulars, etc., address

Carnation

DAN'L B. LONG, Sales Agent, BUFFALO, N. Y.

CO., New Castle, Ind.

We grow prize winners. Try our fine strong .* stock and grow fine flowers.

We are wholesalers of Fine

ROOTED CUTTINGS. $15.00 per 1000. McBurney...... Flora Hill ...... Mayor Pingree ... $ 5.00 per 100.

Notice the report of the meeting of the Indiana florists Jan. 20, and see 34 who got the awards will be paid for any RUST found in our Carnations.

S100 REWARD Will be baid for any RUS1 found in our CarnationsAll Pure and Healthy. Throw out that old RUSTY
Stock, begin anew with clean stock.

Meteor. Storic Courtings No. 1.

Storic Daybreak Storing King Daybreak St

McDONALD & STEELE, 109 S. Washington St., Crawfordsville, Ind.

STRONG, HEALTHY ROOTED CUTTINGS Ready Feb. 1st and Later

Including Morello, Flora Hill, Daybreak, Wm. Scott Lazza Metawan, Ivory Silver Spray, Emily Pierson Goldflich, Eldurado and others, Send no a list of what you want and get prices before you law. We also have a line lot of Carnation and Ardet blooms for safe. Write for prices, Address.

CHAS, CHADWICK,

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. Lock Box II.

FROM SAND OR SOIL

•[ per 100 •[0:00 per 1000]
1 [epar 100, 10:00 per 1000]
1 [0:00 per 1000]
20 per 100, 20 per 1000 SCOLL

CASH WITH ORDER. LAKE GENEVA FLORAL CO., - Lake Geneva, Wis.

Mention American Florist,

BAKER'S NEW CARNATIONS.

Grown and tested five years.

ONEIDA—Pure pink, healthy; no rust; continuous producer; largest size bloom.

RED JACKET—Bright red, line stem and calyx; continuous cropper—$10.00 per 1000.

Orders booked now to be allied in rotation as fast as

C. F. BAKHH, Ution, N. Y.

| IIAVL a large stock of rooted CARNATION | CUTTINGS in healthy condition of the following varieties, now rendy. Per 100, Per 1000. | Daybreak | $2.50 | $20.00 | Portion | $2.50 | Por

VICTOR CARNATIONS

- The best pink carmation in commerce, and the most profife bloomer, producing im-mense flowers on long still stems. The plants are of robust growth and clean. We can formula strong cuttings from soil or sand at 2100 per 100, or $25 00 per 100. Come and see it growing—Cash with order. ٤,

SMITH & SON, Wade Park Ave. & Crawford Road, CLEVELAND, OHIO.

Rochester, N. Y.

The demand for cut flowers during the week has been highly satisfactory; in some lines the supply has increased. Violets are quite plenty, so are tulips and other bulbous stuff, but prices have not declined. Carnations are furnished in quantity, still there are none too many; they bring $1.50 to $2 for ordinary, and $3 to $4 for choice quality. Tulips still sell at $3 and $4. Narcissus, $4. Miniature hyacinths from $5 to $6; some indifferent stock sold for $4. Good freesia can be bought for $2. Valley, $4. Tea roses continue scarce as ever, and prices are stiff, good quality brings from $8 to $12. Smilax is $12 to $15; not much of it in the market, and the same can be said of asparagus.

Business outlook for the near future is very encouraging; weddings and other events call for extensive decorations from now on until the end of the month, when Lent will check gay entertainments to some extent.

Lately the weather has not been very favorable for the plant trade; in severe cold days we can notice always a falling off in this line, but as we now again enjoy a mild spell, sales are improving, especially is this true in all kinds of flowering plants.

Last week a serious accident happened to Mrs. F. Schlegel while out sleigh riding. She is now very much improved, and her many friends are wishing for a speedy and complete recovery. J. B. K.

Government Greenhouses Closed to Visitors.

An order was issued January 29, forbidding the admission of visitors to the greenhouses under the control of the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds at Washington, D. C. This action is believed to be due in some part to the crusade against the distribution of flowers carried on by the local florists, and is apparently much regretted by the general public. Some leading florists claim that if the greenhouses were not almost completely devoted to the production of flowers for free distribution, the parks could be kept in better condition at all times of the year.

| Rooted cuttings.Per 100                   | 2-inchPer 10: |
|-----------------------------------------------|-------------------|
|                                               |                   |
| Roses, Bride and Bridesmaid                   | $3.00            |
| erbenns, 12 varieties                         | 2.00              |
| Inca, (Major)                                 | 3.00              |
| Ame. Salierol Geraniums                       | 2.00              |
| Ageratum, blue and white                      | 2.00              |
|                                               | 2.50              |
| Coleus in variety 1.00                        | 4 00              |
| Andbeckla, (Golden Glow)                      | 4 00              |
| Abuthon, Souv. de Bonn and Echpse.            | 3.50              |
| Moonvines (white and blue)                    | 3 (4)             |
| Salvia Splendens                              | 3.00              |
| Solanum (white)                               | 4 ()              |
| Jmbrella Plants                               | 4 ()(             |
| Calla Lilles                                  | 2.00              |
| Alla littea,,,                                |                   |
| Paris Dalsles, white                          |                   |
| dellotrope, blue                              | 3,18              |
| Begonia Vernon, red                           | 3.48              |
| stock ready now. Terrus cash or approved refe | rancau            |

INDIANAPOLIS FLOWER AND PLANT CO., Central Ave. and 34th St., Indianapolis, Ind.

5,000 SMILAX...

From flats, by mall, 50c per 100, $4 00 per 1000 From 2-inch pots, $1 50 per 100, $13 00 per 100 From 3-inch pots. $3 00 per 100 Send for samples. Cash with the order.

FREO BOERNER, Cape May City, N. J.

It is good business policy to mention the

....AMERICAN FLORIST

when you write to an advertiser.

100,000 VERBENAS. THE CHOICEST VARIETIES IN CULTIVATION

Fine pot plants, $2.50 per 100; $20 per 1000. Rooted Cuttings. 75c per 100; $6.00 per 1000; $50 per 10000. NO RUST OR MILDEW.

PACKED LIGHT, AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. We are the Largest Growers of Verbenas in the country. Our plants cannot be surpassed.

J. L. DILLON, Bloomsburg, Pa.

***VERBENAS.

The finest collection in America, 35 varieties, every one a gem—mammoth size, striking colors, green as grass and as clean as a whistle. Strong plants, out of 2-inch pots, full of cuttings, $1.50 per plants, out of 2-then pois, but of cuttings, 41.50 per hundred; fa,00 per thousand.

STRICTLY CASH WITH ORDER.

SOUTH SIDE FLORAL CO., Springfield, III.

The New Imperial Violet. Perfectly bealthy, very dark green follage, makes few

Perfectly beatthy, very dark green follage, makes few runners, flowers royal purple, on loop stiff stems, exquisitely fragrant, very prollific and the most e normans double flowers ever seen on a Violet. A spiendid keeper and shipper; not over two doz sent to any one order Price $2.50 per doz. Plants by mail. Address the originator

W. L. MINOR, Brockton, Mass.

Come and see the most superb lot of violets ever grown

GERANIUM*S* BEGONIAS

and FUCHSIAS

SELECT NEW and good oldstandardsorts, the best to be found, up-to-date. 4 40 Varieties Geraniums, 2 25 Flowering Begonias, and a good assortment of Market Fuchsias. * Let us know what you want and we will quote you prices low enough.

J. NICOL ex ex

Oak Street, & JERSEY CITY, N. J.

GREEN AS GRASS.

MAMMOTH VERBENAS

Fine selected stock in separate colors, Rooted cuttings, per 100, 75c; per 1000, §6-00.—Cash with order.

FRANK S. PAYNE, Barnard Crossing, N. Y.

| CLEMATIS        | Jackmanni, Druryii oz. and others$3.00  | 100$20.00 |
|-----------------|------------------------------------------|----------------|
| H. P. Roses     | Strong, 2 and 3 yearsown roots$1.50 |                |
| RED JACKET GOOS | EBERRY, large native .75                 |                |

DOWNING, best for general crop, special Prices.

PAEONIES, fine ass't of colors and kin is $1.25 $8.00 $MILAX, extra strong plants.... $2.50

F. A. BALLER, Bloomington, III.

PELARGONIUMS

12 LEADING KINDS, $4.00 per 100.

VERBENAS 25 of the best named varieties, Rooted Cuttings, 60c per 100. Express prepaid. Cash with order.

S. D. BRANT THE CLAY CENTER FLORIST, CLAY CENTER, KAN.

STOCK THAT WILL PLEASE YOU.

Carnations in 2-in. pots. Mrs. 8. A. Northway, $10 Daybreak $15 a 1000; Flora 11III. Maphedale. $5 a 1000; Daybreak $15 a 1000; Elyzle Mectowan, $12 a 1000; Rose Queen, tine for summer cutting, $10 a 1000.

Geraniums in 25-in. pots. 8. A. Nutt. La Favorite, M. Alphonse Ricard, Fleur Pottevine, $4 per 100; Mrs. Breant, M. Alphonse Ricard, Fleur Pottevine, $4 per 100; Mrs. $2.50 per 1000; Mrs. Salierol (2-in.), $20 per 1000. Rose, $2.50 per 100; Mrs. Salierol (2-in.), $20 per 1000. STOCK A NO, 1.

TERMS CASIL.

CARL HAGENBURGER, West Mentor, Ohio.

BOUGAINVILLEAS.

Beautiful for "cutting" or pot sale. Free and durable, and blooming for four to six months of the year. Very easily bandled and not subject to any insect pests

Send for "Comments and Facts."

THEO. F. BECKERT, Glenfield, Pa. 9 miles below Pittsburg. Pa.

- QUEENS. L.I 🗫 🖚 🕽 Specialties in CARNATIONS. CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

(CHOORS, GERADIUMS, DAHLIAS. SEND FOR OUR PRICE LIST

KLONDIKE

Cold Fields at your door. - CERANIUMS.

Gold Fields at your door.—CERANIUMS.

Grown in soil in flats, ready to shift into 3-inch pots. $15.00 per 1000. S. A. Nutl. Beaute Poltevine, Mrs. E. G. Hill, Van Dnel and Robt. Brett; the same in 2½-inch pots. $20.00 per 1000.

Standard sorts, such as double Grant. Bruantl. La Fayette, La Favorite. Le Pilot. Gloire de France. Hoff Beech, Wonder. Mrs. J. M. Grant, Jules Ferry. Centanreau and others. $12.00 per 1000. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. Feverfew Little Gem, from flats. $1.50 per 1000. Per 1000. Per 1000. Feverfew Little Gem, from flats. $1.50 per 1000. St. 200 per 1000. St

J. E. FELTHOUSEN, Schenectady, N. Y.

We have an immense stock of all the best varieties; tine shapely plants well budded. 10 to 12-in. Crowns, $1 (0) per doz. $20,00 per 100 13 to 13-in. 10 to 10-in. $1 (0) per doz. $20,00 per 100 10 in the Golden Marguerite Cuttlogs by mall, $1 (0) per 100 $20 per 100 per 100 $30 per 100 per 1

..........

WHY NOT....

Advertise and sell some rooted cuttings or other surplus stock.

THIS SIZE "AD." ONLY $1.00.

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO.

GALIFORNIA PRIVET

year old, 12 to 15-inch tops. 6,00 per 1000 year old. 8 to 12-inch tops. 4,00 per 1000 year old. 8 to 12-inch tops. 4,00 per 1000 intimes 6 inches long, tied 200 in burnch $4,25 per 1000, 25,000 lots, $1,00 per 1000.

River View Nurseries. O'HAGAN & KING, Little Silver, N. J.

TELEGRAPH CODE

SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION AM.

$2.00 in either stiff or dexible cover.

> AMERICAN FLORIST CO.. CHICAGO.

Care of Azaleas.

ED. AM. FLORIST: Please give some information on the care of azaleas. have them for the first time, and do not know what to do with them for the summer. They were soaking wet on arrival, but many buds were blighted and they dropped their leaves badly and do some Replying to the above, as to the care of azaleas in summer, it is best to plunge them out of doors in a bed of ashes or any material that will furnish the requisite drainage, and top dress them with thoroughly decomposed stable manure. This is Robert Craig's method of grow-ing this popular and useful plant, and the hundreds of exceedingly fine plants he had out in the full sun at Market and 49th streets last summer, testifies to the wis-dom of this system of culture, and he emphasizes the fact that the manure must be well rotted. Care must be exercised, however, that the plants have completed their growth, and have been thoroughly hardened by ventilating the greenhouses in which they are growing, both night and day, before being exposed to the full sun and the outdoor treatment, and they must never be allowed at any stage of their existence to suffer for the want of water, and this advice especially applies when they are first taken out of doors. It will be found necessary, if at that time the weather be dry and bright, to give them a thorough drenching three or four times a day until they have become accustomed to the new order of things. This is deemed necessary to allow for the greater evaporation which takes place when plants are first taken out of a greenhouse and placed out of doors, and frequent syringings overhead are at all times beneficial in the hot, dry days of summer.

The reason the plants were soaking wet may be accounted for possibly because the shipper found them dry on arrival from Europe, and took the pre-

WHOLE

Fine collection of varieties including Wm. Agnew, Nymphaea, John Bragg. Obao, Zulu. Beauty of Brentwood. etc., etc. Our selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $50,60. Purchaser's selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $60.00.

Wm. H. Moon Co.

Gleowood Aurseries

MORRISVILLE,

Bucks Co., PA.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS FOR 1898

Alice F. Carey, Chempwec, Dolores, Minnewaska, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, Rnbert G. Carey, Spotswood, at $3.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100, પ્રાપાયાં પ્રાપાયા પાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પાયા પ્રાપાયા પાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાયા પાયા પ્રાપાયા પ્રાપાય

JOHN M. MAY, Summit, New Jersey.

caution to insure their being wet clear through to the center of the "ball", which should be a mass of living roots, before shipping them to New Glasgow. It is nothing unusual for azaleas to drop their old leaves at this season of the year, especially under the circumstances. If they are kept in a temperature, say from 40 to 50° at night for a while and increased as their requirements demand, with lots of fresh air on every favorable occasion, and earefully attended to as to their wants in watering, they ought to be in good condition for Easter, and make very much finer plants for the same purpose each succeeding year.

Mr. Kisco, N. Y.—At the meeting of the Westchester County Horticultural Society on January 28, William Scott, of Tarrytown, read an interesting paper on "Indoor Culture of Roses." A. T. Marshall was elected president for 1898; Geo. Barton, vice president; Michael Green, treasurer and Herbert Spavins, secretary.

Two Great Sports

CARNATION

VICTOR

Undoubtedly the best Pink Carnation in commerce and certainly the most prolific bloomer, perfectly benithy and of vigorous growth. Rooted cutting thow ready $4.00 per 100. $55.00 per 1000. Come and see this carnation growing.

CHRYSANTHEMUM PENNSYLVANIA

The finest yellow for cut blooms or exhibition pur poses ever produced Plants rendy March 15, $5.00 per doz.; $35.00 per 100; $250 00 per 1000.

HUGH GRAHAM, 104 South 13th Street, PHILADELPHIA.

THE SENSATION CHRYSANTHEMUM FRANK HARDY. ''' OF THE SEASON

Certificated by the committees of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

First prize among whites wherever exhibited #2. The best mid-season white to date and indispensable to every grower whether for exhibition or the cut flower trade.

Plants ready March 1st and orders filled in rotation.

Price, per plant, 50c.; per dozen, $3; per 100, $20; per 1000, $150. 25 at 100 rate; 250 at 1000 rate.

A. HERRINGTON, FLDRHAM FARMS, - - MADISON, NEW JERSEY

"BOSS" Chrysanthemums WM. H. CHADWICK—The grandest white novelty of the season. THE YELLOW FELLOW—Winner of $100 Stearns bicycle prize. MADELINE PRATT—"As pretty as ber picture."

Grove P. Rawson, Elmira, N. Y.

PEAGOGK'S Prize Winning Dahlias

All the Newest and Best Varieties

It has to hay from the leading grower. We grew more than 26 neres of Dahlias the past season more than any live (5) other growers in the world combined. Write us for wants and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

Our 1898 illustrated descriptive entalogue accurately describing all the leading new and old varieties is now in the printers hands and will be sent about Feb. 1st to all who received our 1897 list without application. Send for it, it will interest you.

W. P. PEACOCK, Atco. N. J.

30,000 DAHLIAS

Before ordering your Dahlia stock be sure and send for my catalogue novelties and standards of the best quality and at the lowest prices. All stock guaranteed true to name.

W. W. WILMORE, Box 382, DENVER, COLO.

Jardinieres, Pots@Pedestals

Florists' Use.

Artistic Shapes and Decorations.

ารโทรนิยารัยหรือหรือ

Write us for Illustrations and Prices.....

BURLEY & TYRRELL, 42=44 Lake St., CHICAGO.

Denver.

The unusually dull cold weather of December and January has held back the roses and carnations, making the supply rather short; but the bright February sun will make them more abundant.

In looking round among the growers, bulbous stock has been planted late, probably because of the coming of Easter late this year. This seems a mistake especially with Von Sion, as it is always a popular flower for early decorations, and not an especial favorite for Easter.

There is a great complaint about Bernuda lilies, many of them coming blind. One grower said one-half of his would prove worthless. Valley are fine now and the first crop of lilacs appearing reminds one of approaching spring.

Society has been quite gay, and small decorations numerous. One table at an afternoon tea was a little out of the ordinary, the table was against curtains at the side of the room and a background made of palm leaves and white antirrhi-num, caught with large French bows of green and white ribbon, the ends of this brought well to the front of the table, with an immense bow in which were mingled valley and fern; on each side of this were silver filagree baskets of valley, and in the center a vase of mammoth mignonette. The effect was cool and light, and quite appropriate for the cream and frappe which were served there by two pretty girls in green and white costumes, adding not a little to the attractive effect.

Thomas Chapman of the West side, and John Davis of the Gallup Floral Company, seem to be running a race on pansies counted not in thousands but in ten thousand lots; we wonder who will come out ahead. Mr. Chapman grows altogether in beds, Mr. Davis in cool houses until they can go in cold frames.

The Park Floral Company are showing some fine cyclamen plants which sell well, cinerarias and azaleas are just coming in and are selling well.

Morris, Ill.

The Morris Floral Co. under the management of Mr. Mitting has one of the most progressive establishments in this section of the country. The houses are new and modern in every detail. Mr. Mitting does not believe in false economy in building greenhouses, but thinks the best is the cheapest in the long run.

Aster, Verbena & Pansy Seed

Trullaut's peony-flowered Perfection, mixed, 4 oz. 30 cts 1 oz. $140.

Truffaut's peony-flowered Perfection, mixed, in separate colors, pure white, light blue, rose and white, and bright red, 14 oz. 50 cts., 1 oz. $1.50, or 1 oz. of each of the 4 colors for $5.00.

Princess or Snowbalf (Aster), pure white, 14 oz. 75 cts. 1 oz. $2.50.

Mammoth Verbena, 100 colors mixed, 14 oz. 30 cts. Mixing's Pansy large flowering at a cts.

Mitting's Papsy, large flowering, choice, 14 oz. $1.00. 1 oz. $4.00.

PLANTS.

Alternanthera aurea nuna and P. major, 24 ln., strong $2.00 per 100 $15.00 per $1000.

800 Robin Hood Carnation Cuttings to spare, strong and healthy, large scarlet, $3.00 per 100.

500 Mrs. Chas. Duhme @ $4.00 per 100.

500 CM. A. Dana @ $4.00 per 100.

$500 Wm. Scott @ $1.00 per 100, $7.00 per 1000.

5000 Colons, 20 choice bedders, 24 ln., $1.50 per 100.

Lycopodium Denticulatium, 24 ln., $2.00 per 100.

Our Crowers' Trade List now ready.

THE MORRIS FLORAL GO. Morris, III.

He finds the demand for rooted cuttings is phenomenal in the new varieties of carnations, and in miscellaneous stock.

Mr. Mitting's experience with rust may convey a useful hint on the suppression of this pest. He has noticed that where the carnations are planted on high ground, in well drained soil, rust is not common; while in his lower ground, in a more marshy soil, rust is exceedingly troublesome. His Jubilees from the high ground are almost free from rust. His new clear yellow carnation Gold Pearl was cut down for propagating so that I could not see the blooms, which was a great disap-JAMES HARTSHORNE. pointment.

Bloomington, Ill.

The death rate among prominent people the past month has been unusually large. The receiving vault of Evergreen Cemetery has been literally lined with designs and bouquets. Probably the greatest number was at the funeral of Dr. Hallam, a prominent physician and member of secret orders. One design that attracted attention was from the Knights Templar, made by Mr. J. D. Robinson.

Mr. Hemptead is preparing to rebuild and enlarge his greenhouses. Mr. Hemp-stead is a hustler, and deserves the success he apparently has.

I see Mr. A. J. Graves, superintendent of Evergreen Cemetery, has built a greenhouse; it is to be used as a conservatory to keep and raise plants for the cemetery. He has the finest lot of coleus I have ever seen.

I hope to see everybody at theearnation exhibition next week. JAY.

The Best the World Produces. & Complete Stock

A few extracts from our FLORISTS' LIST just published. If not received, write for it.

ASIERS, Truffaut's Perfection, Victoria Comet, Queen of Market, Mignon, separate colors or mixed. 25
Begonia, New Dwarf Vernon. 15
Centaurea, Marguerite, white, new. 25
Balsam, White Perfection, oz., $1.00. 10 Salvia, Clara Bedman......25
 Stock, Cut and Come Again
 .25

 Verbena, Mammoth, oz , $2 00
 .25

W. W. BARNARD & CO., Seedsmen, CHICAGO.

August Rolker & Sons, 52 Dey St. New York.

August Rölker & Sons, 52 Dey St. New York.

It will be better for everybody if you mention the American Florist when writing advertisers on this page

WRITE

R. & J. FARQUHAR & CO.

**SEEDSMEN**

16 and 19 South Market Street, BOSTON

FOR THE CHOICEST AND BEST NEW CROP

FLOWER SEEDS

Neponset Paper Flower Pots, Pure Sheep Manure, and All Florists' Supplies. . . .

Catalogues mailed free.

EXTRA CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS.

List free on application. FRED. ROEMER, Seed Grower, ... Quedlinburg, Germany.

Grafted Roses.

On page 702 of the AMERICAN FLORIST of January 29 is a short note on grafting Belle Siebrecht rose.

I have had some experience with this variety grown on benches, in solid beds, grafted and on own roots. My experience with it has given me the opinion that it is no good for winter blooming.

The first year this rose was sent out I planted one hundred, own roots on a bench, but after the first few strong shoots, which were usually sent up in November, nothing but short miserable stems were obtained. I then concluded it should be gratted on some good vigorous stock to produce the necessary long stem.

The following February I grafted some 400 plants on the Manetti stock; they were grown on in 4-inch pots and planted in a well prepared solid bed in July. The bed in question was 6x100 feet, five rows of grafted plants, and one row of own roots were planted.

The grafted plants started off strong and vigorous and by November 1 had thrown up many strong shoots from the hottom two feet long.

I then congratulated myself that I knew how to manage this rose that so many people were condemning, but alas! by December 1, very few long stem roses were seen, and by January 10 most of the plants were pulled up and consigned to the rubbish heap. They made scarcely any growth during December and what few flowers were cut were such short stems they would scarcely pay for shipping. To my mind L. is correct in saying the scion has as much, or more to do with the inclination to rest as has the stock upon which it is grafted.

The "Belle Siebrecht" rose is one of the best outdoor roses we have, but for winter forcing it does not come up to our standard varieties. W. W. Coles. standard varieties.

Grand Rapids Florists' Club Banquet.

The third annual banquet of the Grand Rapids Florists' Club was held at the Eagle hotel February 1, and was the most successful yet held. Our worthy presi-dent, N. B. Stover, passed round the dessert in the shape of a brief history of the club since its organization on March 19, 1895. The programme of the evening consisting of recitations, songs and piano solos, was carried out without a hitch, reflecting great credit on the committee of arrangements, Wm. Cunningham, J.A. Creelman and Eli Cross.

The next meeting will be held at Alfred Hannah's, on East street, near Burton avenue, on February 15, in the afternoon. The florists will go early, so as to inspect the greenhouses before meeting.

F. A. Chapman recently had his violet house frozen, and some others had to sit up nights to keep the boilers warm.

A. L. Vaughan, of Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson, is in town canvassing the boys for orders in almost any line you please, as is also the agent of the Dayton Paper Novelty Co., of Dayton, Ohio. GEO. F. CRABB.

Kansas City.

Under a provision of the city ordinances owners of greenhouses are subject to a $25 a year license. A committee protested to the city counselor against the license ordinance without avail.

The ordinance is a double taxation, as greenhouse men pay wagon licenses at the market each day for selling their produets, and this license alone amount to from $50 to $80 a year. A remonstrance will be filed with the council.

Fresh American Beauties in England.

-, the rose-grower, has solved the problem of packing American Beau-ties. Some time ago he had an order for a huge bunch of this variety from a lady who wished to take them to Europe with her. In packing the roses Mr. — inserted each of the long stems into a potato, and on their arrival after the yoyage they were found to be as fresh as if they had just been taken from the greenhouse. In a letter the lady said that the flowers kept well for a number of days after her arrival, and their beauty was greatly admired by her English friends .-Clipping

And then the lady could have the potatoes hoiled or fried after they had done duty as above. This point seems to have escaped the reporter. No Chicago newspaper man would ever have missed it.—ÉD.

NEW FORCING ROSE MRS. ROBT. GARRETT

Hybrid tea, rich soft pink, buds very long, flower extra large, delightfully fragrant, rivaling Bridesmaid in color, but larger and much more productive. A sturdy, vigorous grower, a money maker and a triumph of American skill. The best firms in the country are investing in it. It has won numerous prizes and has elicited the most favorable comment from critical judges. Price strong plants from 212-inch pots, $25.00 per 100 in lots less than 1000; $225.00 per 1000. Orders booked now, delivery March 15, 1898. Correspondence solicited. Address

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

Rooted Cuttings...

Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V. Kaiserin, Perles, Belle Siebrecht, Metcors. Same in 2-in. pots ready Feb. 15th to 20th. Send 50e for samples and get prices.

GEO. A. KUHL, Pekin, III.

Carnation Cuttings ready Feb. 1st.

New American Rose ....

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT

As one of the syndicate holding stock in this rose we offer first class plants, from 2%-inch pots, to be de-livered on and after March is 1.88s. at the agreed price of $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

AMERICAN ROSE CO. WASHINGTON, D. C.

300,000 YOUNG ROSES 300,000

Ramblers, Climb. Malmaison, Climb. White Pet, Climb. Wootton, Pres. Carnot and 100 other leaders in Teas, H. Teas and Climbers.

Send for prices.

The National Plant Company, Dayton, Ohio.

| Bridesmaid | * * |     |                    |
|------------|-----|-----|--------------------|
| Brides     |     |     | 51.50 per 100. |
| Perles     |     | * * | $12.50 per 1000   |
| La France  |     |     | Cuttings.      |
| Meteors    |     |     | Cottings.          |
| Kaiserin   |     |     |                    |

CARI
William Scott
Nancy Hanks
Tidal Wave
Portis
Lizzie McCowan
Kohinoor
Mrs. Thompson
Daybreak
Emma Wocher
Meteor
Coldfrinch
Lizzie Cilbert
Harrison's White
Bridesmand CARNATIONS. $1.00 per 100. $7.50 per 1000 $1.50 per 100. $12.50 per 1000 Brideamaid Nives rideamaid ivea $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000, ibilee $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000, fora Hdf $4.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000, $5 det for less that the force watlets accepted

FINE ROSE PLANTS

REINBERG BROS., 51 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

MAIDS, BRIDES, METEORS, KAISERIN, HOSTE, MON-GAN, CARNOT, Grafted on Manetti and

ONLY TO ORGEH. Ph/95 H (0 per 100 per 100)

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass.

| Ro                                       | ses                                                                                              | Roses          | R                                                                                | oses                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1 | BRIDEBRIDESTIAIDMETEORPRES. CARNOTPERLESOUPERTMOSELLA25 Other Choice | 20 s-inch Pots | Per 10$2.502.503.004.002.503.002.503.003.00 | 1000   $\tilde{w}$   $22,50   $\tilde{w}$   $22,50   $\tilde{w}$   $25,00   $\tilde{w}$   $35,00   $\tilde{w}$   $25,00   $\tilde{w}$   $25,00   $\tilde{w}$   $25,00   $\tilde{w}$   $\ |

CUTTINGS

..ROOTED

| So scrub wood used. All stock thoroughly rooted  | and           |          |           |       | From 23     | g luch Pots |
|--------------------------------------------------|---------------|----------|-----------|-------|-------------|-------------|
| enrefully packed when sent out. Send for sample  |               | Pasr 100 | Per 1000  |       | Per 100     | Per 1000    |
| AMERICAN BEAUTIES, Rooted Cut                    |               | $2.50   | $100 OO  |       | $1.00      | $35,00     |
| BRIDES                                           |               | 1.50     | 12.50.    |       | 2.45        | 20.00       |
| BRIDESMAID                                       |               | 1.50     | 12.50     |       | 12.125      | 30.00       |
| METEOR                                           |               | 1.50     | 12.50     |       | 13.123      | 20,00       |
| EAISERIN                                         |               | 1.5E     | 19.50     |       | 2.25        | 20.00       |
| PERL                                             |               | 1,50     | P2.50     |       | 2.25        | 20,00       |
| to run exclusion and regular or equals in fit to | $\ominus$ $D$ | Phint    | s from 20 | -Inch | pols ready. | March L     |

J. A. BUDLONG, - STATION X. CHICAGO, ILL.

Bulbs In North Carolina.

ED. AM. FLORIST:-In reply to your request of the 27th in regard to bulb culture in North Carolina, I have to say that we are continuing our experiments in this line. I have never had means enough at my disposal to test the matter on a scale sufficiently extensive to attract attention in the market. We have demonstrated that we can grow here most of the bulbs now imported for forcing, of as good and better quality than the imported. This is particularly true of the Lilium candidum, which grows to an astonishing size and perfection of bulb. Tulips also do well, and we have had some handsome breaks in the so-called Darwin tulips. Lilies become weeds in the field from the scattered scales left in the ground at digging, We have done but little in the way of testing the Bermuda lily, but feel sure we can grow them in time for forcing and can grow good bulbs. Freesias do splendidly in frames with no protection but the glass sashes. Our Narcissus Tazetta bloomed in water ahead of the imported Chinese bulbs. Roman hyaweeks now in the open ground, make splendid bulbs, some as much as six inches.

An experiment made in the eastern part of the state by a northern dealer failed, not because of the soil or climate, for the bulbs were very fine, but because the grower did not understand the curing, and had them to gum. We have grown and cured Romans that made eight spikes under glass. Narcissus Von Sion in the sandy soil of our Southern Pines station is rapidly outgrowing the green flower that was prevalent on the bulbs when imported. The bulbs are not as large as those grown here in loam soil, but are bright and solid, and force well. Gladioli do not do well in the locality where the tuberose is such a success, but in the upper country and among the western mountains they reach great perfection. The high plateaus of the upper French Broad in Transylvania county will be the place of all others for the culture of all the hardy azaleas and rhododendrons. The mountain sides there are solid thickets of Rhododendron maximum, and higher up Catawbiense forms dense thickets, and the flame-colored azalea and A. Vasevi are also common. Mollis and the Ghent azaleas would find a congenial home in the deep black soil of this plateau, elevated 2,500 feet above the sea. The climate there would be too severe for the Chinese azaleas, but in the eastern part of the state there are vast areas of black peaty soil, where the Chinese azaleas flourish like the green bay tree. They do well here, but suffer from drought in our clay soil. From this eastern section too, where the gardenias grow to tree-like stature, the shipping of cut blooms in summer to watering places could be made a paying business. With the varied climate and soil of North Carolina there are places for almost anything from a palm tree to a hemlock and white pine.

Down on our lower coast the palmettos grow as tall in the forest as in Florida, while in the high lands of the western part of the state the forest growth of Canada prevails, In the long sunny slope to the sea between these two extremes there is place for almost any product. I am hoping to interest some one in the bulb culture to the extent of putting money into it. Our people are slow to take to new things and want to see returns at once, and few have the means to go into bulb culture, and still fewer know anything about it.

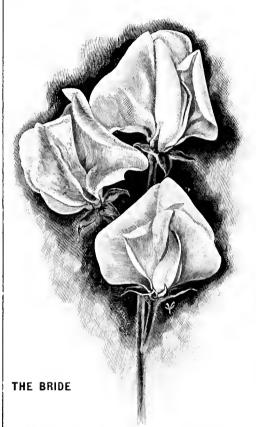

culture of most of the winter bulbs is so different from that of the tuberose that the tuberose growers are slow to catch on, though they might grow some of them very successfully. About the only things they grow to any extent are tube-roses and Caladium esculentum. If the Department at Washington would let the stations have some of the money wasted in free seeds to extend the work in bulb culture a great industry could soon be established here.

W. F. Massey.

BUTTE MONT.-Trade has been good for the month of January, especially in funeral work, as there has been an epidemic of suicides, murders and accidental deaths. Most stock is shipped into the city from a distance, but such stock does not fill the bill as there are many good judges of flowers among the buyers here. Law Brothers & Day will build two new houses 20x100 feet each this spring. The Silver Bow Floral Co. have given up their retail store.

SMOKE EATER.

WEET PI THREE NEW CALIFORNIA

Originated by M. Lynch, Menio Park, Calif.

m. Lynch, Menlo Park, Calif.

THE BRIDE This beautiful large, white-seeded variety is the best White Sweet Pea to date. It is a pure white selection from Mrs. Eckford and is the strongest germinator among all the white-seeded varieties—so often poor growers. Grown for the eut-flower market of San Francisco in competition with the other high class whites, it has brought the highest figures over them all, taking first rank among all the whites, The flowers are pure white of fine substance, large and of true grandifloratype. Beside this every seed will grow. Perfect flowers were cut as early as April 16 last year. Price, per ib., $2.00; 1-4 lb., 60c; oz., 20c; pkl., 10c.

20c; pkl., 10c.

The Cornell Bulletin in naming the best Sweet Peas of each color, classes The Bride first as a white, with Emily Hendersoo second and Blanche Burpee third.

Frank Pelleano, a leading florist of San Francisco, stated: "We can sell more Bride Sweet Pea blooms than those of any other variety which we have ever handled."

Prof. Tracy, in a recent review of some of the newer Sweet Peas says: "The especial merit of this variety (The Bride) is in its length, strength and grace of flower stem, and the disposition of the blooms thereon, being one of our best sorts in these respects, and forming an exceedingly graceful bunch."

EMILY LYNCH The earliest of all Sweet tra Early Blanche Ferry it was in bud in & days, while the latter showed no sign of buds at that time. It blooms two weeks earlier than Extra Blanche Ferry. The standard is plak, sbadfar to bright rose, wings bull suffused with pink, Grandiflora style. A great advance on Duke of York. Price, 1-4 lb., 60c; oz., 20c; pkt., 10c.

CALIFORNIA This is the best "self-color" in break Carnalion, the lightest self among all sweet Peas. The form and size are perfect. Rev. W. T Hutchins says of it: "It is different from all our other self-pinks and a good thing." Price, I-4 lb., 60c; oz., 20c; pkt., IOc.

Mr. Lynch has sent us his entire stock which we offer to the trade as above.

14 BARCLAY STREET, NEW YORK.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO.

SOW NOW

BEGONIAS of the Semperflorens type, of which "Vernor" is a shining example. We have some improvements upon the good old Vernon that we desire everybody to try. Here they are:

CRIMSON GEM

CORAL

DUCHESS OF EDINBURG

GEM

MIXED

One of the most effective Begonias of the Semperflorens type; excel-lent for bedding; the flowers are of a rich red, and the foliage crimson bronze
$1 00 per trade pkt.......50c per half trade pkt

A distinct and attractive flower of a pale rose or peach color. The habit of the plant is remarkably good, and the plants bloom pro-

An exceedingly beautiful and profuse blooming Begonia. The plant is robust and has proved to be almost a continuous bloomer. Flowers white, suffused with pink, and twice the size of the ordinary B. Semperflorens. $1.00 per trade pkt.; 50e per half trade pkt.

$1.00 per trade pkt..... . 50c per half trade pkt

This is American saved seed, and the germinating tests are most satisfactory. It comes up quickly and the little plants grow with great rapidity. Seed sown now will make line plants for Spring sales. Order at once, and a leaflet "How to Grow Begonia Semper-Ilorens from Seed" will be sent with each order.

Cash with the Order. Money Order P. O. Station H.

A. H. LONSDALE & CO.,

Specialists, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

California Grown Rose Plants for the Easter Market.

The Jackson & Perkins Co., of Newark, X. V., speaking of their experiment in growing roses in California advise us as follows:

We have sent about 150,000 young roses to California to be grown and they are thus far doing very nicely indeed. These were all propagated here, but as soon as we get matters in a little better shape we expect to have the propagating done entirely in California.

We experimented with rose growing a little there last year, sending 10,000 plants then. They came back to us with an amount of growth upon them that was perfectly surprising. La France, American Beauty and Mrs. John Laing which are very slow growing sorts ont doors here and of which, it is impossible to grow very strong plants even in two seasons, will, in California, make plants three feet or more in height in one season.

The bulk of our planting in California this season has been of the more moderate growing H. P. varieties. We also planted quite a quantity of H. T.'s and Bourbons, including Wootton, Etoile de Lyon, Malmaison, etc., and we are working up a considerable stock of forcing roses. We believe that we can get some fine strong plants of these varieties and have them sent East ready for sale by about holiday time.

We are also trying about 40,000 elematis, believing that we can produce some exceptionally fine strong plants there. There is nothing quite equal to the convenience and value of having water right at hand to turn on whenever it is needed, instead of having to depend upon rainfall. We do not believe that the plan of growing roses in California from field rooted cuttings will ever be very successful as it is altogether too uncertain. Oecasionally a very good and fine erop can be secured, but more frequently one is obliged to cultivate and irrigate about three times as much land as is covered by the proportion of plants that live and grow. All of our roses will be grown from one eye cuttings, rooted in beds and transplanted to the fields afterwards. We find that this makes a much more symmetrical, stocky and well-rooted plant, than ean ever be obtained from long field-rooted cuttings.

MITCHELL, S. D.—Trade has been good and prospects are rosy. There will be quantities of shrubbery and ornamental trees put out in the spring.

Boilers

OF HIGH GRADE..

For GREENHOUSES.

See our Catalogue.....

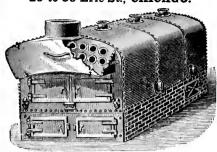

Steam and Hot Water.

Giblin & Co., Utica. N. Y.

GREEN-HOUSE HEATING. MYERS & CO. 1518 & 1520 S. 9th St. PHILADELPHIA. Bend for catalogue and price list.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO. Greenhouse * Boiler, 29 to 59 Erie St., CHICAGO.

Bollers made of the best of material, shell, firebox sheets and heads of steel, water space all around (front, sides and back). Write for information.

NEW & SECOND-HAND MATERIAL.

purchased from Sheriff, Receiver, and Assignee sales at less than one-half prices. Pipe and Fittings, Hose, Florists Wire, Hot Water Heaters, Greenbouse Bollers and Engless, Rope, Light Wrought Iron Pipe, Glass Sash and thousands of other articles, for sale by

CHICAGO HOUSE WRECKING CO.
Largest Mail Order Depot for New and Second-Hand
Material in the World.
W.35TH & IRON STS., CHICAGO.
Write for our free Illustrated catalogues.

THE ESLER HOSE IS THE BEST

It is used by the leading Florists and is giving satisfaction. Try it and be convinced. For price Address.

J. G. & A. ESLER, Saddle River, N. J.

LAST CALL FOR NAMES

3 3 3 TO BE INSERTED IN 3 3 3

THE AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY'S DIRECTORY

Of Florists, Seedsmen and Nurserymen to which are added lists of Parks, Park Superintendents, Cemeteries and Cemetery Superintendents. A complete list of all persons in the above trades in the United States and Canada, by towns; also a complete list of the same names, alphabetically arranged.

SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD OR LETTER HEAD OR ANY OTHER PRINTED MATTER, AND WE WILL SEE THAT YOUR NAME IS INSERTED FREEOF CHARGE

A LIMITED SUMBER OF ADVERTISEMENTS FOR THIS DIRECTORY WHE BE ACCUPTED RATES ON APPLICATION.....

American Florist Company
324 DEARBORN STREET,

Chicago.....

WHAT WE KNOW

ABOUT GLASS

Send for them.

🔞 🌣 🕹 JOHN LUCAS & CO., Philadelphia.

Omaha.

Thanks to the courtesy of a local florist, the writer spent last Monday visiting the various floral establishments of this thriving western city.

As a rule the florists seem to be in the best of spirits and they aver that they have nothing to complain of, for the trade is about equally divided, and business prospects are brighter than they have been for years past. Of course there are a tew pessimists who are grumbling at the "deterioration of the business" (they do not take the Florist, however), but the hustlers are decidedly optimistic and seem serenely confident of the success which is theirs by right.

As there are no street fakirs in the place, and but little competition compared to its size, the prices should be much better; the leading florists are struggling at the present time to establish a higher standard in this direction. To one accustomed to Eastern prices it seems ridiculous that good stock must be sold for almost less than Chicago wholesalers can market it; but as in other places, the feeling among a certain class of florists is to undersell on the threadbare plea of holding custom.

The Florists' Club which was recently organized is doing much to promote a fraternal spirit of good fellowship, and it is hoped that in the future there will be more co-operation than there has been in the past.

Every one is looking forward to the convention of the S. A. F. in August, and many schemes are being devised for royal entertainment. Bowling is also becoming quite a favorite sport here, and the thirty-six members of the Florists' Club contemplate organizing a bowling club and fitting up rooms before the convention takes place. Forewarned is forearmed.

It was the writer's pleasure to spend a delightful hour in the hospitable family delightful hour in the hospitable family of A. Donaghue, vice-president of the S. A. F. Mr. Donaghue has practically retired from the business, and his son, A. Donaghue, Jr., has charge of the entire concern. Their greenhouses are in particularly fine condition. Mr. Donaghue, like the majority of his brother florists, is planning everything to meet the needs of the coming exposition. Mr. Donaghue has a fine lot of cinerarias and freesias just coming into bloom. His freesias just coming into bloom. His roses are excellent. The Beauties, Brides and Maids are grown in a short span to the south house, but Mr. D. affirms that he can see no real value in the short span roof.

Lewis Henderson has some good houses, and is doing a very fair business. He is in the vicinity of the packing houses, and much of his trade comes from these establishments. Mr. Henderson, who, by the way, is one of the managing directors of the State Horticultural Society, has carried off first premiums for floral designs and exhibits at the S. H. S. fairs for a good many years. He has an interesting display of cloth flowers in his window that are made so perfectly and arranged so artistically that they look very natural. This is the work of his clerk, Joseph Dunn. Mr. Henderson expects to take a special place at the Trans-Mississippi for Petersen Bros, have a fine lot of Easter lilies coming on. There are a few uneven ones, as has been the case for the past few years, but the cripples are soon thrown out and the stock well kept up.

Hess & Swoboda expect to make some improvements in their greenhouses this spring. They seem to excel in good azaleas and violets.

Under the firm name of J. W. & E. E. Arnold, Miss Cassie Arnold is conducting a magnificent business, and she deserves great credit for the success she has already achieved. Miss Arnold is a very young woman (the writer forgot to ask her age), but she is thoroughly capable and genial, therefore she has built up a fine trade in a short time. The Arnold store is about to be handsomely refitted.

The demand for cut flowers seems to be more than the supply, for although the majority of dealers grow more or less stock they are obliged to call upon J. F. Wilcox, of Council Bluffs, frequently.

L. DEW.

(Copyrighted)

Kraft's Plant Tonic

For PLANTS, PALMS and FLOWERS

... A Wonderful Preparation for the Promotion of Plant Life, Destruction of Insects and Scale..

This is one of the greatest preparations for the use of Florists and Plant Growers ever compounded. It gives to the foliage of plants treated the bright, fresh color of healthy, growing vegetation. It destroys all insect life infecting the plant and eradicates scale.

Besides improving the color of the plant, it effects a general betterment of its condition, aiding nature in disseminating and retaining the sap and life of the plant. The Tonic makes the foliage of the plant soit and pliable, and a beautiful bright green.

For sale at_ 84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

14 BARCLAY STREET, NEW YORK.

Price per bottle, 25 cents.

Jadoo Fibre and Jadoo Liquid

are to-day being sold by the leading SEED HOUSES and are used by prominent GROWERS and FLORISTS.

You Cannot Afford to Grow

Plants Without Them

1111333888666

Send for particulars and be convinced

The ____ American Jadoo Co.

815 FAIRMOUNT AVE.

...PHILADELPHIA. PA.

HAMMOND'S TOBACCO THE OLD ORIGINAL.

OLD TOWN FARM GREENHOUSES

OLD TOWN FARM GREENHOUSES.

COR. SARGEANT & ATWOOD STS.

Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y.
Gents—L send check for amount of enclosed bill, and think I shall need more of the Tobacco Extract for further trial. TWES PARAS CAN BEAUTOBED IT IS THE BEST EXTRACT I EVER HAD. Let It come by freight at once, as we have two houses longing for a dose.

SOLD BY WHOLESALE SEEDSMEN.

STEMS DUST

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

Chicago. New York.

A COMPLETE AND ATIVE GUANO NATURAE LETILIZER FOR . . . . (Desiccated Night Soil)

Gardeners and Florists. SOLUBLE, QUICK TO ACT, PLEASANT TO HANDLE.

STANDARD FERTILIZER CO. Inc.

1822 Filbert Street, Philadelphia.

Scollay

Sprinkler.... INDISPENSABLE

J. A. Scollay, Maker, A. Scone, 74 Myrtle Ave. — N. Y.

Brooklyn, N.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Gen'l Weslern Agents, 34 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Helpful Reminders.

It is now time to bring in a few of each variety of bulbs potted or boxed weeks ago, which have made considerable root by this time. It is a good plan to bring in a few each week, unless you have taken care to use only the special varieties of hyacinths for early flowering. You will have a few that show color before the spike rises above the ground, particularly among the double varieties. Invert a B-inch pot over the spike; this will draw it out some. These same varieties will do well for you if held back until March, so if you have them under name, bring in one of the earliest varieties now.

It is time to sort your hydrangeas about the middle of February, so bring them in from your cold house; you will notice they are beginning to push out leaf buds. We went over all of our plants last September, shifting those that were not housed. If you did not do so that depot bound. If you did not do so then do so now; clean off all the dead leaves, and be sure the drainage of each plant is perfect. Place them in a house where the temperature is not above 50° at night, and 60° to 65° day time; as we get into March and Aprilincrease the temperature, maintaining the same ratio as compared with weather outside.

If you have large specimen plants three to six feet high for decoration and not wanted before June, hold them at least two weeks later in the cold.

When you place hydrangeas in position for spring growth, be careful. plants you can put together as pots will stand at first, and separate later. With a hydrangea it is economy to get it just right at once, so that it will not be moved one inch until ready for market.

When you provide violets for next season, remember that odor is an essential, and size another. Procure some of the oldfashioned English single varieties that are so very fragrant; treat same as the other varieties. When bunching the violets for market, put in four or five of these strong scented single flowers without extra charge, or even mentioning them, and see how quick you will get a reputation for having fresh and the sweetest violets.

There is one plant, old-fashioned, which should be cared for now, the lantana. Shake out the old plants and put in a few cuttings by selecting two or three cuts, training to standard just as you grow standard chrysanthemums. When two or three years old, they are quite pretty. Summer or fall they are a novelty in your store for days, or for some decoration you can trequently hire them out. Very often you can sell a number for a good price

The maintophyllum needs a cop area ing by March 1, or some earlier. If you have some very large chumps and the decide them, do so at once. They The munitophyllum needs a top dressdo not stand separation very well, and re also set back in the operation. not divide all you have in one season; it is best to have a few each year that larve not been tampered with at the root; g or the balan co good rich top dressing and be shie dramage is good, water freely

THOSE RED

FILL SIZE AND WIND BOTTOMS BULB PANS AND AZALKA FOLS

DETROIT FLOWER POT M'F'Y, HARRY BALSLEY, DETROIT, MICH., 490 HOWARD ST.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO. Flower Pots,

Bulb Pans, Hanging Baskets and Saucers

OUR FLOWER POTS are standard measure and all first-class and we assure you they will give good satisfaction. We call your attention to our new pots, 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch, called the "Poro Pot." They are more Porous than any pots, smoother inside and outside, perfect drainage, and are easily washed and cleaned, Give them a trial and you will not want any other. Remember these Pots are as cheap as any other Pot on the market. Write for price list.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

STANDARD FLOWER

Seud for our new price list, with extra discounts. All of our Pots from 7-inch and upwards have our Patent Excelsior Bottom, which is a great advantage as it insures perfect drainage. A FULL LINE OF BULB PANS.

THE WHILLDIN POTTERY COMPANY, 713 to 719 Wharton Street, Philadelphia, Pa. BRANCH WAREHOUSES: { Kearney and Westelde Aves., Jersey City, N. J. Jackson Ave. and Pearson St., Long Island City, N. Y.

We are general agents for all varieties of flower pots and make a specialty of FLORISTS STANDARD POTS

Mnnufactured by BRAZIL POTTERY & CLAY MFG. CO., Brazil, Ind. Breath Potter & Clay Mrg. Co., Brazil, ind.

Being centrally located we can save you freight. Also headquarters for FLORISTS SUPPLIES. Write us for price lists and we know we will get your order.

VAIL SEED CO., 150 No. Delaware St., INDIANAPOLIS, IND

Standard Flower Pots...

OUR POTS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY.

We ship all goods from Cincinnati, guaranteeing lowest freight rates and prompt delivery.

12 Write us before placing your orders elsewhere. . . . . . .

CAMBRIDGE TILE MFG. CO., Covington, Ky.

STANDARD STANDARD FLOWER ....

We Manufacture a full line of Standard Flower Pols, Hanging Vases Lawn Vases, Seed Pans and Cylinders, glazed and with handles.

SEND for our price list before ordering else-where and save 25 per cent. ADDRESS

Hilfinger Bros. Pottery, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

FLOWER POTS

A SPECIALTY STANDARD POTS

List and SAMPLES FREE.

J. G. SWAHN'S SONS, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

very strong and unusually porous. Write for prices and terms

THE IONIA POTTERY CO., Ionia, Michigan.

Mention American Florist.

Good Railroad Facilities KELLER BROS. For Shipping.

Special Attention Given to
Mail Orders, and Special
Sizes Made to Order.

NORRISTOWN, PA.

Price Lists Furnished on Application.

GEO. KELLER & SON. MANUFACTURERS OF

Flower Pots.

Before buying write for prices. 361-363 Hernden Street, near Wrightwood Ave., CHICACO, ILL.

Mention American Floriat.

Standard 🤏 🤏 FLOWER -

If your greenhouses are within 500 miles of the Capitol, write us we can save you money.

W. H. ERNEST,

Station M. N. E.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Changing Heat From Hot Water to Steam.

"Subscriber" can run steam direct from top of boiler to the greenhouse, and from where it enters the greenhouse it should have a gradual fall to the farther end, and there drop into the return pipes, which in turn should have a gradual fall back to the end near boiler; and this can be made to circulate very nicely without any traps other than dropping the main return as low as possible before entering the boiler. This in itself forms a trap which is always full of water.

It might be possible to circulate steam s "Subscriber" describes from an upright boiler on a level floor of his shed, but I certainly should not advise trying it, as it would be much safer, and in the end much more economical, to sink a pit for the boiler, so that it stands at least below the level of the return pipes in the greenhouse.

I do not quite understand his question: "How large a flue boiler would be required, etc?" for the reason that boiler makers, as a rule, make the flue opening of equal size for the requirements of each different size boiler they make. On the other hand, if he means how large the tubes would require to be, that is another matter that can be regulated to suit the circumstance, as boiler tubes are made one and one-half to four or five inches, generally they are made about three or three and a quarter inches in diameter, but the size of boiler required to heat the amount of pipe given would require about a ten horse-power boiler to be safe for all weather. John N. May.

BED SASH

of Red Cedar, Cypress and Pine. A. DIETSCH & CO.

Manufacturers of Greenhouse Material.

615-621 SHEFFIELD AVE . CHICAGO, ILL.

CONSTRUCTION.

A New Machine.

Lowest Figures.

....WRITE US....

GEO. TAYLOR & SON, Morris, III.

GREEN-HOUSE CONSTRUCTI

This has been a specialty with us for many years and to us is due the credit for many of the great improvements that have been made in the construction of wooden green-houses. To those that buy our

Clear Cypress Building Material

we furnish, free of cost, complete detail drawings from which any intelligent workman can put up the material correctly. We have plenty of time to write letters ABOUT OUR BUSINESS, and we will be glad to hear from those contemplating building.

Write for Circulars or Estimates

LOCKLAND LUMBER CO.

LOCKLAND, OHIO.

${f STANDARD}$

VENTILATING MACHINE.

NONE EQUAL IT Strength Durability

Send for Catalogue.

NOTHING Flimsv OR Complicated about it.

HIPPARD. YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

CALIFORNIA RED CEDAR

NEVER DECAYS.

A. DIETSCH & CO., 619 Sheffield Ave., MFR'S OF RED CEDAR AND CYPRESS GREENHJUSE MATERIAL.

CHICAGO.

You can not get a GOOD THING for nothing. But the price of this apparatus is next to nothing. Send for price and description to

J. D. CARMODY, Evansville, Ind.

LOUISIANA Cypress Green House Material.

RED CEDAR

Write for Estimates. Mention American Florist.

Index to Advertisers.

Advertising rates .... 752 Breitmeyer J & Son Budlong J A. Burley & Tyrrell. Burpee W Atlee & Co Cambridge Tile Mfg

Cambridge Tile Mfg
CO. 74
Carmody J D. 75
Chadwick Chas 100
Chicago House WreckIng CO. 100
Cleveland Seed CO. 700
Co. 700

CO 701
Cincinnati Bag Co 701
Cole Geo E & Co 751
Conard & Junea Co 761
Conley Juhn & Son 752
Cottage Gardens 767
Craig Root 762
Consolver III 762 Contey John & Son. 62
Cottage Gardens. 70
Cralg Root. 70
Dictorit Flow Put Mix 73
Dictorit Flow Root. 70
Dictorit Flow Root. 70
Dictorit Flow Root. 70
Enter F. 73
Elliott Put Mix 73
Elliott Put Mix 73
Ernest W. 1. 73
Ester J G & A 72
Farquhar R & J Co. 70
Faxou M B 75
Felthousen J E 75
Ford Bros. 73
Ford Bros. 73
Galvin & Co. 73
Graham Hugh. 73
Graham Hugh. 73
Graham Hugh. 73
Hagenburger Carl. 74
Hagenburger Carl. 74
Hagenburger Carl. 75
Hall Ass n. 75
Hall Hart M A. 75 Hanson Otto.
Hancock & Son
Hart M A.
Herr Albert M.
Herrington A.
Hillinger Bros.
Holton A. Hillinger Co.
Holton A. Hillinger Co.
Holton A. Hillinger Co.
Holton B. Hempke.
Home Bros.
Home Bros.
Hillinger Br

opp Sana Edw ( )
oran Cut Flower Co 704
oran Pottery ( )
oran Pottery ( )
oran Pottery ( )
oran Edw ( )
oran ennicott Bros Co. Ing J. M.

412 TO 422 CHICAGO, ILL

CYPRESS

DESCRIPTION.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

American Florist

Hitchings & Co.

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS

GREENHOUSE HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

THE HIGHEST AWARDS RECEIVED AT THE THE WORLD'S FAIR FOR HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTURE, GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND HEATING APPARATUS.

Conservatories, Greenhouses, Palm Houses, etc., erected complete, with our patent Iron Frame Construction. Send four cents postage for illustrated catalogue.

> 233 Mercer Street, NEW YORK.

LORD & BURNHAM CO.

LARGEST BUILDERS OF GREENHOUSE STRUCTURES

And Manufacturers of Heating and Ventilating Apparatus.

Plans and estimates furnished on application for Heating and Ventilating Appartus erected complete or for material only. Highest awards at Worlds Fair.

Send 4 cts. postage for catalogue of Patent Iron Greenhouse Construction.

Standard Hot Water Heater IN 4 SIZES.

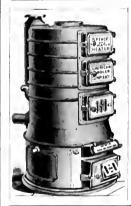

Specially adapted for moderate ranges. We also make Sectional Heaters for large ranges. Highest economy. Reasonable prices.

×

Send 5 ets. postage to New York Office for latest catalogue of Heating and Ventilating Apparatus, Estimates lurnished for Cypress Greenhouse Material.

NEW YORK OFFICE 160 FIFTH AVE., Cor 21st St.

GENERAL OFFICE AND WORKS: IRVINCTON-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.

For Cheap Fuel

would recommend Style "C" of the

"Spence" Hot Water Heater,

This style is especially adapted to the use of wood and the poorer qualities of hard and soft coal. If you would rather use hard coal, style "B" would suit you better......

American Boiler Company

CHICAGO, 84 Lake St.

NEW YORK, 94 Centre St.

COLD SYRINGE

allty of your stock, but write for particulars of my tempering Apparatus W. GIBBONS, 134 LIBERTY STREET, NEW YORK.

When writing mention American Florist.

FOR SALE CHEAP.

GLASS for Greenhouses. Conservatories, Hother Sushes and Miss Points Obs. etc. Also Hother Sushes and PAINT CO., 456 W. Broadway, NEW YORK.

THE NATIONAL

C. S. LODER, Sec'y, 271 Broadway, New York.

a. Migot sent $H_{Hl^{0}l^{000}l^{0}}$ AMEDICAN FLORIS

120

America is "the Prow of the Vessel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 19, 1898.

No. 507.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Copyright 1898, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, 324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.

Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2 Subscriptions accepted only from the trade. To Europe, $2.00.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

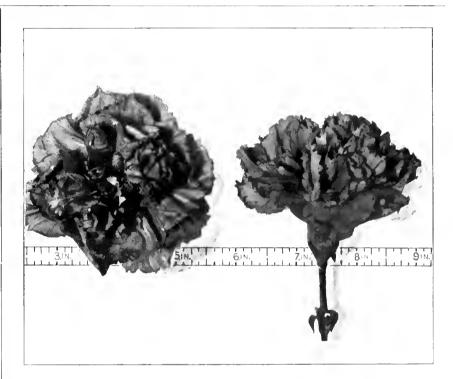

OFFICERS-WM. F. GUDE, Washington, D. C.; president; A. DONAGHUE, Omaha, Neb., vice-president; W. J. STEWART, 67 Bromield St., Boston, Mass., secretary; H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer. The fourteenth annual meeting will be beid at Omaha, Neb., August, 1898.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Philadelphia. February, 1899. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

| Carnation Mrs. Thos. Lawson (illus.)                                                                                                                         | 777   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------|
| American Carnation Society                                                                                                                                   | 777   |
| Seventh annual convention                                                                                                                                    | 777   |
| -Thursday's business.                                                                                                                                        | 778   |
| —Thursday's business. —Carnation Hanna Hobart (illus.)                                                                                                       | 778   |
| The exhibition                                                                                                                                               | 778   |
| —The exhibition                                                                                                                                              | 778   |
| 22 3 12 1 1 2 12 C 23 1 1 C 23 1 1 1 C 23 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1                                                                                | 779   |
| - Exhibition half (flus.) - Paper by Fred. Dorner, Lafayette, Ind                                                                                            | 779   |
| . Paper by Fred, Mantet, Datayette, Ind                                                                                                                      | 780   |
|                                                                                                                                                              | 780   |
| -Carnation G. H. Crane (mus.).                                                                                                                               | 781   |
| -Secretary's report                                                                                                                                          | 781   |
| -Treasurer's report                                                                                                                                          | 781   |
| —President's address                                                                                                                                         |       |
| Xomenelature.Varieties of 1896, '97 and '98.Carnation Mayor Pingree (illus.)                                                                         | 781   |
| Varieties of 4896, '97 and '98                                                                                                                               | 783   |
| -Carnation Mayor Pingree (illus.)                                                                                                                            | 783   |
| Luct conson's introductions                                                                                                                                  | 784   |
| -The carnation from the commission man's                                                                                                                     |       |
| standpoint                                                                                                                                                   | 784   |
| -Friday's business                                                                                                                                           | 785   |
| The banquet. —Varieties exhibited Wm, P. Craig (portrait). An interview with William P. Craig House of Victor carnations (illus.) Carnation Bon Ton New York | 785   |
| Varieties exhibited                                                                                                                                          | 785   |
| Wm. P. Crain (portrait)                                                                                                                                      | 786   |
| An interview with William P. Crair                                                                                                                           | 786   |
| Dame of Victor agreetions (illus)                                                                                                                            | TSE   |
| it work in Don Con                                                                                                                                           | -     |
| Carnation for Con- New York Boston. The Skirm bill Philadelphia Detroit S. A. F. and Ornamental Horticulturists                                              | 107   |
| New York                                                                                                                                                     | 1178  |
| Boston.                                                                                                                                                      | 101   |
| The Skirm bill                                                                                                                                               | 600   |
| Philadelphia                                                                                                                                                 | 492   |
| Detroit                                                                                                                                                      | 792   |
| S. A. F and Ornamental Horticulturists                                                                                                                       | 793   |
| S. A. F and Ornamental Horticulturists St. Louis                                                                                                             | 793   |
| St. Louis The free seed distribution. The seed trade Of importance to importers American potatoes in England                                                 | 794   |
| The seed trade                                                                                                                                               | 795   |
| Of importance to importers                                                                                                                                   | 795   |
| American potatoes in England                                                                                                                                 | 795   |
| Toronto                                                                                                                                                      | 795   |
| Dragamas                                                                                                                                                     | 796   |
| Milwankee, Wis.                                                                                                                                              | 797   |
| Old rose soil                                                                                                                                                | 795   |
| Pittchurg                                                                                                                                                    | 799   |
| Pittsburg                                                                                                                                                    | 899   |
| Womanton Maco                                                                                                                                                | 503   |
| Worcester, Mass                                                                                                                                              | 504   |
| Cincinnati                                                                                                                                                   | 805   |
| Buffalo                                                                                                                                                      | 506   |
| Cleveland thorists' club Freesia bulbs for 1898                                                                                                              | 41115 |
| Freesia bulbs for 1898                                                                                                                                       | 507   |
| Cleveland                                                                                                                                                    |       |
| Fern notes                                                                                                                                                   | A()!  |
| Youngstown, O                                                                                                                                                | 200   |
| Fern notes. Youngstown, O Los Angeles, Cal.                                                                                                                  | 500   |
| OmahaHelpful reminders.                                                                                                                                  | 210   |
| OmahaHelpful reminders                                                                                                                                   | 811   |
| •                                                                                                                                                            |       |
|                                                                                                                                                              |       |

CARNATION MRS. THOS. LAWSON.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

SEVENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION, CHICAGO, FEBRUARY 18 and 19, 1898.

Preliminary.

Notwithstanding the predictions to the effect that the 1898 gathering of carnation growers would be a small one, the men interested in the work of the society began to arrive early, and before noon of the first day of the convention, Thursday, February 17, a large and thoroughly rep-resentative meeting was assured. With few exceptions all the prominent authorities on carnation matters attended in person, and most of the others had able advocates on hand.

With the earliest arrivals was Albert M. Herr, of Lancaster, Pa., the energetic secretary of the society. He arrived early on Wednesday, closely followed by S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia. Later in the day the stream grew thick and fast, and still they were coming at noon Thursday. Among the visitors we noticed C W. Ward, Queens, N. Y.; W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind.; Adam Graham, Cleveland, O.; E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; D. B. Long, Buffalo, N. Y.; Fred Dorner, Sr., and Fred Dorner, Jr., Lafayette, Ind.; Fred Breitmeyer, Detroit, Mich.; Wm. Scott, Buffalo, N. Y.

On the arrival of Mr. Breitmeyer Thursday morning some anxiety was felt as to the safety of Harry Balsley, Frank Holznagle and others of the Detroit delegation, who were reported to be due the previous day. An hour later, however, the gloom was dispelled by the appearance of Harry and his friends. mystery exists regarding their whereabouts during the previous twenty-four hours, but Balsley's check suit is still resplendent as a new variety. The judges have awarded it 100 points for loudness. Additional arrivals were E. H. Michel, St. Louis, Mo.; Wm. P. Craig, Philadelphia, Pa.; Wm. Wallace, New York; Mr. Joy, Nashville, Tenn.; W. J. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mr. Evans, Mr. Mitting, Morris, Ill.; Jas. Hartshorne, Joliet, Ill.; Wm. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass.; C. W. Johnson, Mt. Greenwood, Ill.; Jos. Tailby, Wellesley, Mass.; Fred Lemon, Richmond, Ind.; Uncle John Thorpe; H. Weber, Oakland, Md.; Wm. Swayne, Kennett Souare, Pa.; Mr. Reardon. Kennett Square, Pa.: Mr. Reardon.

The Cincinnati delegation arrived Thursday morning, and their bright red badges attracted much attention. In this group were E. H. Gilsey, Albert Sunderbruch, H. Williams, J. A. Peterson, Wm. Murphy, R. Witterstaeter, Wm. Schuman, Ben George, Geo. S. Bartlett, Jul. Baer, E. G. Gillett, and another gentleman who was so deeply interested in a discussion on carnation matters that we considered it unsafe to put the usual inquiry.

Thursday's Business.

The opening session was called at 10:30 Thursday morning, when the president's address was followed by the appointment of the judges. Wm. Nicholson, Adam Graham and Wm. Scott were selected to exhibits were ready for the judges. display was fully as extensive as any the society has had, and the blooms of far higher quality than those seen at earlier exhibitions.

The improvement was particularly noticeable in the stems, which in the case of such varieties as Mayor Pingree, Mrs. McBurney and Jubilee apparently left little to be desired in this respect. The flowers were larger and purer in color; but while solid progress is evident here, the improvement has not kept pace with that of the stems. It will be obvious from this-from the fact that stems of the right character are no longer among the impossible things-that greater attention must now be given to the development of size, color and form in the flowers.

Perhaps the most extraordinary feature of this exhibition was the arrival of a large case of blooms in excellent condition from John H. Sievers, of San Francisco. This was consigned through J. C. Vanghan, of this city, and on investigation we found that special effort had been made to insure the arrival of these flowers in the superior condition in which they were staged. The flowers were packed in a large case February 13, the stems being immersed in tubes fourteen that the first of the distribution of the first of the first of the duty in the gas and special transfer of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the first of the control with the distribution of the distribut

CARNATION HANNA HOBART.

The Exhibition.

trace to the first of the usual the control of the state of the usual state of the coming of the state of the control of the con ment seems to have confusioned in the seems the melies high, two inches in diameter and made fast to the bottom of the case. The tubes, of course, were filled with water, and packed in such manner with moss and the stems of the carnations that the water could not escape to any considerable extent

Not only did these flowers arrive in good condition on the opening day of the exhibition (the fourth day after packing), but some samples of Hanna Hobart, among the dozen or more seedlings represented in the collection, had flowers of a doep pull, shade and larger and finer than anything we remember to have seen in the way of winter flowering carna-

Awards.

The judges report that there was no entry for the Breitmeyer prize for 100 blooms of Mayor Pingree.

The Breitmeyer prize for fifty blooms of Mayor Pingree was awarded to W. N. Rudd, Mt. Greenwood, Ill.

Breitmeyer prize for twelve blooms of Mayor Pingree—W. X. Rudd.
Hill prize for 100 blooms of Flora Hill—1st, W. X. Rudd; 2nd, Wm. P. Craig, Philadelphia, Pa.

Prize for 100 blooms of Triumph-H. Weber & Sons, Oakland, Md.

Cottage Gardens cup for the best yellow or yellow variegated seedling not yet distributed—F. Dorner & Sons Co.

In the preliminary certificate class, Peter Fisher, Montvale, Mass., was granted a certificate for Mrs. Thomas Lawson, scoring eighty-five points.

Jos. Tailby, Wellesley, Mass., scored sixty-eight points with Wellesley.
E. G. Hill & Co., Richmond, Ind., scored with several varieties as follows: America, eighty points; Arbutus, eighty points; Scarlet Queen, eighty points; Prima Donna, seventy-three points.

In the three year seedling certificate class Frank Niquet, Patchogue, N. Y., scored eighty points with Mand Adams.

Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, Pa., secured a certificate with Empress, scoring ninety-six points.

R. Witterstaetter, Sedamsville, O., likewise won a certificate with Eyelina, ninety-four points.

W. J. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind., scored eighty points with Fort Wayne.

Stollery Bros., Chicago, were awarded ninety-one points and a certificate for Argyle.

Dorner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind., were given a certificate for G. H. Crane, scoring ninety-two points.

So far as the above seedling classes are concerned, it should be remembered that certificates are given only to such varieties as seenre eighty-five or more points, and in the case of Mand Adams no plant was exhibited as required by the regulations for 3-year old scellings. Vasc 100 white, 1st, E. G. Hill & Co., Flora Hill; 2nd, Dorner & Sons Co., White Cloud.

Vasc 100 light pink, 1st, W. N. Rudd, Mrs. McBurney; 2nd, Weber & Sons, Mrs. McBurney.

Vasc 100 scarlet, 1st, E. G. Hill & Co., Jubilee; 2nd, W. X. Rudd, Jubilee.

Vasc 100 yellow variegated, 1st, W. N. Rudd, Mayor Pingree; 2nd, Dorner & Sons Co., Gold Nugget.

Vasc 100 crimson, 1st, Breitmeyer & Sons, Meteor.

Vasc of 100 white variegated, 1st, Dorner & Sons Co., Mrs. G. M. Bradt. Vase 100 Lily Denn, 1st, Wm. P. Craig. Vasc 100 Armazimly, 1st, Wictor Bros., Chicago.

Vase fifty Maska, 1st, South Park Floral Co., Chicago.

Vasc lifty any other white, E. G. Hill & Co., Flora Hill.

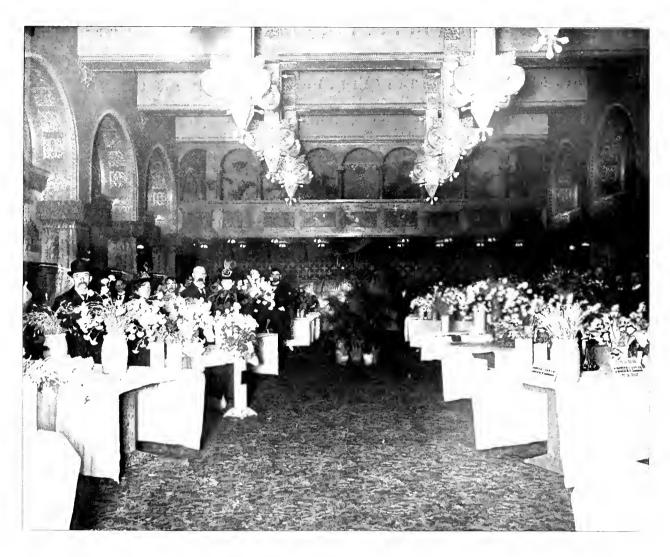

Vase fifty Hector, 1st, II. Weber & Sons. Vasc fifty Jubilce, 1st, Wm, P. Craig. Vasc fifty Portia, 1st, Wm, Murphy.

Vase fifty scarlet, 1st, Dorner & Sons Co., Dazzle.

Vase fitty Tidal Wave, 1st, H. N. Higinbotham.

Vase fitty Scotts, 1st, Weber & Sons. Vase fifty Daybreaks, 1st, Weber & Sons. Vase fifty any other pink, lighter than Scott, 1st. South Park Floral Co.,

Vase fifty Armazindy, 1st, E.G. Hill & Co. Vase fifty Helen Keller, 1st, South Park Floral Co.

EXHIBITION AND BANQUET HALL, AUDITORIUM HOTEL.

Vase fifty Eldorado, 1st, Weber & Sons. Vase fifty any other yellow, 1st, Weber & Sons, Buttereup.

Vase twenty-five best blooms of pink, lighter than Scott into 1897, 1st, W. N. Rudd, Mrs. McBurney.

Vase best any other color, 1st, Fred Dorner & Sons Co., Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt.

The Introduction of New Varieties and their Commercial Value as Far as Can be Ascertained.

BY FRED, DORNER, LAFAYETTE, IND.

What are commercial varieties and in what does their value consist? I believe many entertain erroneous ideas, that will lead to erroneous opinions and conclusions, detrimental to a progressive evolu-tion of the carnation. The general con-ception of a commercial variety in the first place embraces quantity, quality is second. If so many flowers were cut to a plant, so many thousands of flowers were marketed and sold from a house is conclusive with many. That they were sold shows, that quality was of a grade suffcient to effect a sale. But now let us go a little farther and compare these commercial varieties, with some that are not so prolific in quantity, but superior in quality, and consequently to this idea are outside the apprehended range of a commercial variety. Let us compare prices, at which these different varieties are generally sold, if higher or lower the difference remains proportionately the same. Suppose 100 blooms, the product of these plants, are sold at $2 or 2 cents each. Now to my experience the following grades, all the product of these plants, can be grown at the same cost, but as quantity diminishes, quality improves. Ninety blooms may bring $2.25 or 212 cents each. Eighty blooms may bring $2.40 or 3 cents each. Seventy blooms may bring $2.45 or 3½ cents each. Sixty blooms may be sold at $2.40, bringing as much as the eighty blooms. Now it is not uncommon that an extra fine variety is sold at $5 per hundred, but we will allow only fifty blooms to the three plants, that is, one-half of the first mentioned makes $2.50 or 50 cents more for one-half the number of blooms but of superior quality. I believe I am only stating facts as they appear every day in every flower market of this land. Fifty cents more on the returns from three plants does not seem very much, but on a houseful, say about 2000 plants, aggregates to $330. What is of the greatest value in a variety, quantity or quality? I believe that we had better delegate these apprehended commercial varieties to the second rank and pay more attention to the others. It is always acceptable when we have a variety of fine quality and can also cut many blooms to a plant, but the trend in improvements includes size also, and we go rather beyond nature's power if we expect both at the same time.

The introduction of new varieties in the past has in many instances been a failure, resulting from different causes, some from natural consequences that could not be foreseen, but others were neglect, ignorance and avarice, as overtaxing of nature's ability, were potent factors, and places the introduction of new varieties in an odious light. Disappointments and losses as they are too often experienced, makes the purchasers suspicious of the new varieties offered every wear; he expects for his good money what he was offered in the glowing advertisements. We must admit that there are cases where the disseminator cannot be held responsible for such things as change of location and different modes of treatment, and these are by no means the least. But there are others that can be avoided by a conscientions grower, but a novice in the originating and growing of new varieties is only too apt to overlook defects. In the admiration of his work he looks with loving eyes at his pets, and let me tell you that where new varieties are treated as pets, a rigid thorough trial such as is necessary to determine the good and bad properties of a variety is impossible. Another cause is the too high culture in the effort to make a good showing that cannot be kept up under ordinary good culture for profit. The growing and introduction of new varieties is a business, and as mevery other trade one must be prepared to meet misrepresentations by obscrupulous people. On the other hand, when a grower conscientiously gives his yew varieties a thorough trial it conmees han of their true value and justifies disseringation, he expects a compensa-tion that will pay him for his work, and he can hardly be held responsible for the deateomings that may appear after, of shielche was marwhire

CARNATION ARBUTUS.

As our present mode of judging new arietic is curried on, the exhibitor has a given the advantage over the one who bepends or the diension of the judges in the investment of new varieties. The adge scan only judge what they see, such as the character would have been the transacters, similar showing one of the transacters, similar showing one of the transacters, similar showing one of the transacters of their better as outside of the transacters of the howing of one attraction as even also as time representation of the action of society or the growers would care to shoulder.

One other suggestion is to appoint stations for trial in different parts of the country. This meets with opposition from the grower, for it can hardly be expected that they should be of such a philanthropic disposition as to scatter their new varieties over the country. And if the growers should favor such a proposition. as present indications are a large house would be filled at each station with applicants for honor. Who would undertake such a venture, and who would pay the expenses? What we need is a system that determines the value of a variety at least through the most important part of the season, and not only when they can be shown at their best but exposing their defects, without encroaching upon the rights of the grower; and further to give a purchaser who takes the verdict of the judges as a guidance a chance to judge to some extent for himself. Such a system to my idea could be arranged and besides would be inexpensive, as I will show later on

Our carnations are in the market the whole year, and we would like to know how a new variety behaves itself at least during the most important part—the late lall and early winter months. Now why not follow the chrysanthemum society and appoint standing committees in the principal cities and let them sit once a month for five successive months, say on the 15th of November, December, January, February and March. It is to the interest of the exhibitor to show a variety with as many committees as possible if he is fortunate to possess enough stock to do so, but he has to show the same variety each month with at least one committee and if it scores three times of the required number of five times it has to be shown, this will entitle it to the society certificate.

If a grower wishes to magnify the value of his certificate, he has only to show on a large scale, that is, with as many committees as possible. If sent from a distance the condition in which the flowers arrive should receive special attention.

CARNATION G. H. GRANE.

If it misses a show at any of the appointed towns, this would indicate that the plants are not blooming at that town. If a shipment should accidentally get spoiled in transit, the exhibitor should at once be notified, and allowed to make another one within a week's time to be judged. If a grower wishes to disseminate a variety during the season of judging and he can score high enough the first three months, a certificate will certainly be of value to him.

A certificate received under this mode of judging is valuable alike to the disseminator and to those who wish to invest. To increase further its value to the latter the result of each month's judging should be published at once in all of the trade papers, not only to mention the aggregate of points scored, but to give the details of the scale by which a variety is judged. It is of the greatest value to those who wish to buy to know exactly the specific points a variety receives; in this way the purchaser, having a record in the publications, is to a large extent his own judge and the committees are the appraisers. By publishing the whole, the line drawn by the limit of eighty-five points securing a certificate, and eighty-four points not receiving one, is not so severe, yet a variety missing a certificate by a few points may yet prove valuable to many when they can judge for themselves when they know in what part this particular variety is deficient.

True, the judging of the different committees like those judging chrysanthemuns do not at all times harmonize, but we cannot overcome that. Judges are human and, without questioning their integrity, may involuntarily be influenced by their own fancy and taste. This may especially happen in the points of form and color, but a specified record will enable us to draw our own conclusions, and partly judge for ourselves. A certificate always signifies a certain amount of perfection and cannot be overestimated, but the line drawn as in the past with eighty-five points as good and eighty-four points as bad is too harsh when not wrong.

At the time of our annual meeting and exhibition every exhibitor before the different committees should be requested to make an exhibit with the record attached to it as judged by the committees the month before, for the inspection of all visitors. This would be my idea of judging seedlings; the quality of the blooms every month speaks volumes as to the habit of the variety. Again, there could be made two classes for the second and third year and over, the same as at present. It would probably cost the growers a few more flowers, but they are always watching for any chance to make an exhibit whenever the opportunity is exhibit offered, and I suppose they are willing to spend the flowers where it will do the most good.

If a wise, impartial judge can be introduced equally satisfactory to the disseminator and the buyer; when this system of judging brings to our knowledge not only the value of a variety when it is at its best, but what can be expected from it during the most important part of the season, when our society can accomplish this it will control the introduction of new varieties, and if carried out in an impartial way, it will gather around itself the progressive and impartial clements, and reach the highest point of its usefulness. Many will not admit that the interest manifested in new varieties centers in the American Carnation Society and is its moving spirit; remove it and the society will crumble and decay.

Secretary's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the American Carnation Society:

Your secretary reports having issued the reports of last meeting in due time and sending them to all members who were not in arrears for dues.

There are on the books (February 1) ninety-four members who are paid up. The revenue derived from these will not pay the running expenses of the society, and there is room for considerable missionary work by these ninety-four members.

Every year the mail matter of this society gets heavier. The past year there was not less than three hundred parties outside of the society, who wrote your secretary on matters pertaining to the society, and it remains for the society to say whether or not they will be burdened with postage (which has not been charged up in the past, but which your secretary believes will reach $10 the coming year) or whether the secretary shall not recognize such letters from parties other than members.

Albert M. Herr.

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. C. 11. Allen, shows receipts to the amount of $598.93, expenditures $492.61, balance in bank $106.32.

President's Address.

GENTLEMEN OF THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY:

We meet to-day in annual convention. Six times since its organization has this society assembled in various cities, drawing together from distant localities men as widely separated in lines of thought and methods of work as are their places of residence. We have studied and planned and toiled to bring our productions to the upper limit of quality, and have carried them to these conventions for comparison with the work of our fellow members.

Each one of us has fallen short of his hopes and some have suffered bitter disappointment, but whether successful or beaten in the contest for honors, we have all returned to our homes with greater knowledge and broader views to strive again through another year for that to which we may all approach constantly nearer, but to which, thank God, we can never attain—perfection.

As we look back over past conventions and the products of our skill then shown, we can note how the apparent perfection of a year ago becomes the mediocrity of to-day. Only then do we begin to know and value what this society has done for every one who is even ever so remotely connected with our branch of horticulture.

So much for the past. What of the future? Shall it show continued success, and an ever widening field? Shall it be doubt, distrust, failure? It rests with you; it depends on your action at this meeting. You have come to the dividing ways; take heed lest you follow the downward path.

The history of all societies similar to ours is the same. Novelty attracts the thoughtless. In the beginning, along with the sober, thinking workers, come the fickle and the shallow. As time passes the weaklings fall away, the membership decreases, and to the mind of the unthinking, failure is at hand.

I say to you, gentlemen, this is not so. These desertions from the ranks are a source of strength to the society. With the deserters have gone intrigue and dissension. What remains is strength, honesty, energy. Settle the important questions now before you thoughtfully, carefully, slowly if you will, but without fear or lavor, and success is yours.

The past few years cover a period of financial disturbance and trouble. The year 1897, while showing to careless observers only increased disturbance and added difficulty, has been a time of liquidation and adjustment. Business has been forced into safer and more conservative channels. We are to day, for the first time in some years, on a sound basis. We reached the bottom last year, but are now on the up grade, and unless all signs fail are, from this time on, to see continued upward progress.

The recent holiday trade has taught us some valuable lessons. From all parts of the country have come advices of increased demand and better prices for carnations of the higher grades. The supply of inferior flowers is and has been ample; it always will be. But we have shown the buying public the possibility of hetter things. The demand for them has been made and must now be supplied.

The stemless carnation is a thing of the past, forced out by the larger and longer stemmed flowers of yesterday. To-day the demand is for greater size, better form and color, and larger and stronger stems. The carnation of yesterday will not do for to-day, and we must change our methods to suit the times. Carnations summer grown in the field can not compete in quality with those grown throughout the season under glass, and we may look to see the same change take place in our methods of culture as the chrysanthemum grower has had forced upon him.

The resume of the year's work, usually taken up by your president, has, on this occasion, been placed in hetter hands. Your secretary will, at a later session, give you a careful review of the new varieties of the year.

Let us get to work.

Nomenclature.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the American Carnation Society:

In the list marked "Standard Varieties" I have left out all varieties not supposed to be grown any longer. In revising this list I have been assisted by the following gentlemen: Geo. Payer, H. Weber & Son, Jas. G. Hancock, Peter Fisher, E. H. Michel, John Hart, Jr., Theo. F. Beckert, C. W. Ward, E. G. Gillett, W. N. Rudd, Richard Witterstaetter, Geo. Smith, C. E. Field, W. R. Shelmire, Daniel B. Long, Eugene Dailledouze, Elmer D. Smith, John G. Esler and Wm. Scott.

It will be seen that the list of assistants comprises growers from all sections of the country, and with a revision by a committee appointed at this meeting the standard list should be final. The society has spent considerable money, and your secretary some $50 of his own money, in trying to straighten out and reduce the list to something like common sense.

The list marked "Varieties of 1896, '97

The list marked "Varieties of 1896, '97 and '98" is of too recent registration to eliminate any names without the consent of the parties having registered them. So all names registered within the last three years have been intact.

There are numerous unregistered names given each year, and this gives rise to a possible duplication of names regardless of the fact that the society is trying to avoid this very thing. Some claim that the $1 charge has this effect, but the past experience of your secretary leads him to think that this is not the case.

Something should be done, however, so that all the carnations put on the market at least should be registered and a duplication of the names of popular varieties made impossible. ALBERT M. HERR.

REGISTERED 1897 AND 1898.

REGISTERED 1897 AND 1898.

Asha Superha By John Burton, Chestmit Hill, Pale Color pure white, strong grower, very stiff stem, and good carby, free bloomer.

Burd in-hand By Elmer Weaver, Bird in-hand, Pale Color white with earnine markings; plant healthy, free blooming stiff stem and good carby, Conch Shell By H toront Springfield, Massiver or shell pink vigorous grower, constant health, but he will be superior be comer.

Limitume By W. R. Shelmire, Avondale, Pale or dark pink with purplish east, very large flower, ong stemmed. Edua Craig crossed with Costf.

Cost T. Color pure clear fright flesh pink, seed-ing crosses.

Lifed W. G. Liv The Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y. Color pure clear fright flesh pink, seed-ing crosses.

Lifed Y. Liv Theo Hancock A. Son, Grand Haven Mich. Color searlet, free bloomer, remarkably healthy habit not unlike Scott, to nesse. By Harmon A. Burr, Sawens, N. Y. Coor white cross between Daybreak and to use By Harmon & Burr, Sawens & and Meto wath.

Coor white eross between Daybreak and Meto wath.

Len Macco By The Cottage Gardens Queens N. Y. Color deep searbet maroon shading. Metoor crossed with Winter Cheer.

Con Maximo Gomez By The The Cottage Gardens, Queens N. Y. Color bright cardinal crimson. I rom seedling crinism.

Cool Coin By Geo Hameock & Son, Grand Hayon Much. Color vellow stiff stem, fair size. Cold Nuggot By I. Dorner, Sons & Company, Lafavette, Ind. Color deep yellow, slightly marked with red constant and free bloomer, stong grower stem long and stiff callyy good.

Happy Day By Albert Hake, Manchester, Pa. Color bright pink, large flower, good stem, free becomer.

womer.
Mary A Wood - By F - Dorner Sons A Company, afayette Ind. - Color white shown as No. 67 at neimnad. Mand Adams - By Frank Niquet (Patchoque, N. Color carmine shaded scartet a bright telling mand Adams. By Frank Nignet Patchoque, N. Color carmine shaded scarnet a bright telling circly.

New York: By The Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y. Color bright cerise pink, free and early domer, habit similar to Scott good fragrance, softer sood with Daybreak.

Progress By W. R. Shelmire, Avondale, Pa, or white striped pink, flowers fairly large not never hirst stiff stem robust grower, commons bluemer. Dorothy crossed with Casar, Queens, N. Y. Coor bright maroon extra long and stiff on free progression with Casar, white services the carry blue of the control of the contr

VARIETIES OF 1896, '97 AND '98.

| 1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Location State                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Expedis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 1 11, 71, 1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 1 Lame                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 11 5161                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 106 Ju20                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | For all to                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 1 ashing                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| H. L. c.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Logit Way to                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 1 readon                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 12.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Grant T                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | factor of                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Ger Maria                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 7                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | tion Mount of Leading Z.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | fact of E                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 11- * I                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 1. a 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 11 *                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Lit                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | for Jers Carts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Lead of the state | The Control of the Control                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Comment of the Commen |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | the first transfer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 13                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 14 h. 15 m.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Here I a Made to a                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

Manlattan. Mark Hanna. Margaret Rath. Maud Adams. Mayor Pingree.
McConnell.
McRomelle Payne.
Morelle Morning Star.
Mrs. Chas. M. Fiek.
Mrs. Chas. H. Duhme.
Mrs. James Dean.
Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote. Thorley.
Mrs. Me Burney.
Mrs. Re Milliander.
Mrs. S. M. Imman.
Mrs. S. M. Imman.
Mrs. S. M. Imman.
Mrs. S. M. Imman.
Mrs. Wm. McKinley.
New York.
Viere-Pre.
Vivea. Mayor Pingree New York. Nivea. Northern Light. North Oneida, Oneis Peak, Pike's P Pilgrim. Princess Progress

Red Wave, Robin Hood, Rosa Pizer, Ruby, Kuny. Saginaw. Sandusky Selver, Servia, Silver Ball, Silver Star, Snow Crest, Snow Drift, Storm Queen. Thomas Caird. Trilby.
Triumph.
Triumph.
Twilight.
Utica.
Van Houtte.
Vice-Pres. G. A. Hobart.
Victoria.
W. D. Slonne.
White Cloud.
White Daybreak,
White Queen.
Wilhelm.
William 1. Burke.
Winfred. Wimfred.

STANDARD VARIETIES.

Adelaide Kresken. Alegatiere, Alegatiere, Alaska, American Flag, American Florist, American Wonder, Amy. Angelus. Anna Webb. Armazindy. Antorn Aurora. Bouton d'Or. Bride of Erlescourt. Bridesmaid. Brutus Buttereup Clesar. Cardinal. Captain King Century. Cherry Pride. Chester Pride. Christmas. Charles T. Starr. onstancy. Corsair Crimson Coronet. Crimson King, Crystal, Daisy Bell, Daybreak, Daybreak.
Dawn,
Dean Hole,
Della Fox,
Dr. Warder,
E. A. Wood,
Edelweiss,
Education Craig. Edna Crais E. G. Hill.
Eldorado.
Emity Pierson.
Enlalia,
Fred. Porner.
Golden Gate.
Golden Gate.
Goldfineh.
Grace Darling.
Grace Wilder.
Dako Kollor Helen Keller Hinze's White. lago. Jack brost

Jacquentinot, J. J. Harrison

Inhilee. Jubilee, Kohinoor, King of the Crimsons, Kitty Clover, Kitty Clover, Lasandria, Lawrence Thompson, Lity Dean, Lizzie Gilbert, Lizzie McGowan, L. L. Lamborn, Laus J. Haettel, Louise Porsch, Magnet Magnet, Mapledale, Mand Dean, May Queen, Meteor Meteor Minnie Cook, Miss Joliffe, Miss Joliffe, Mrs, Carnegie, Mrs, Feedinand Mangold, Mrs, Fisher, Mrs, Fisher, Mrs, Henry M. Stanley, Venne Mesh. Mrs. Henry M. Staul Namey Hanks. Nellie Bly. Nellie Lewis. Ophelin. Orange Blossom, Peachblow Coronet. Poetia Portia. President Garfield. President Garffelt Pride of Kennett, Princess Bonnie, Puritan. Purple King, Robert Craig, Rosalnd, Rose Queen, Silver Lake, Silver Spray, Storm King, Stoarn, Shart. Sunbeam. Sweetbriar, Thomas Cartledge, Tidal Wilve, Uncle John. Unite John.
Vietor,
Western Pride,
Win, F. Dreer,
Win, Scott,
Win, Swayne,
W. W. Coles, Yellow Jacket

The afternoon session opened with the reading of the reports of the treasurer and secretary, the former being unavoidably absent on account of illness in his family. Mr. Herr then read his paper on the new varieties of carnations and afterward presented the report of the nomenclature committeec.

The report of the judges contained the recommendation that the number of points required to secure a certificate in the tirst year seedling class be reduced from eighty-five to seventy-five, no plant being called for therein. On the motion Aesey the recommendation was adopted

Victor from Mr. Shehnire was read in which that gentleman condemned the project system of awards and the registration icc, and suggesting that a prize cohered for new varieties of general

Mr. Dorner's paper was then read. On the motion of E. G. Hill, and in response to invitations received from Robt. Craig and the president of the Philadelphia Florists' Club it was arranged to have the next convention in that city.

The amendments to the constitution and by-laws were then taken up and adopted as follows:

ART. HI. SEC. H. After first word insert the word "reputable."

ART. IV. SEC. I. After the word year add "and until their successors are elected and qualified.'

ART. VI. Before "a meeting of the executive," etc., insert the following: "A special meeting of the society may be called by the president with the consent of the executive committee or it shall be called on the written demand of not less than fifteen members of the society. Notice of such special meeting shall be mailed to each member not less than ten days previous to the date fixed for holding the meeting and no subject shall be acted upon except such as are mentioned in the call. Voting at a special meeting by authorized proxy shall be allowed."

ART. VII. Strike out word annually in last line, and add the following: "At the first session of the society at which there is an exhibition, the president shall, after consultation with the executive committee, nominate nine members known to be present for judges. The meeting thereupon shall either accept or reject the nominations or call for the nominations of additional names. When nominations shall have been made by the president and accepted by the meeting, nominations shall be closed and the meeting shall proceed to yote for six judges by ballot. The three vote for six judges by ballot. nominces receiving the highest number of votes shall be the judges to pass on all exhibits at the exhibition of the meeting at which they are elected, and shall award all certificates and premiums. All protests against the decision of the judges shall be filed in writing with the executive committee promptly. In case of protest by a member of this society or an exhibitor, the executive committee shall examine into the matter carefully and if they consider an error has been made shall report to the society with suggestions as to its correction, otherwise they shall confirm the action of the judges. In all cases of protest no premium shall be paid or certificate delivered until the judges' action is confirmed by the executive committee or the protest has been settled by the society as the case may be."

By-Laws-Section I. Insert after absence the words "or disability."

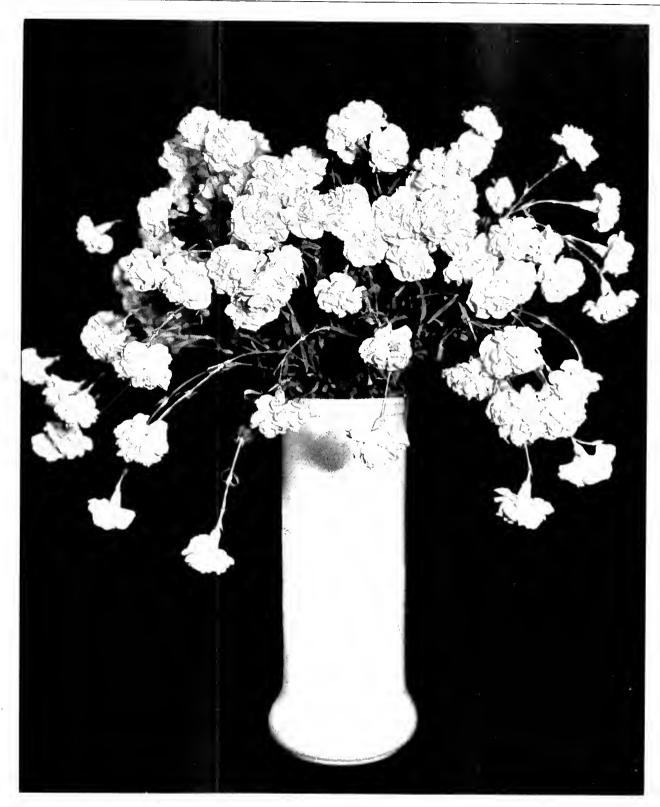

Cancel and substitute the fol-SEC. H. Cancel and substitute the following: "The sceretary shall keep a true and correct account of the proceedings of the society and shall conduct its correspondence. He shall have charge of its books, papers, reports and other property except as otherwise provided by by-laws. He shall make an annual report."

Sec. 111. Add. "He shall give bond in such amount and with such sureties as may be from time to time required by the executive committee.'

SEC. VII. Strike out words "after receiving such notice."

There was free expression of opinion in the matter of expelling members who should be convicted of dishonest practices in connection with the exhibitions of the society. It was the general opinion that this was beyond the province of the society, that the only thing to be done under such circumstances was to exclude the exhibit, which would be considered suffi cient punishment for any violation of the moral law

CARNATION MAYOR PINGREE.

President Rudd stated that a matter had been brought to his attention with the request that it be presented before the society. This matter was in regard to the variety Harrison's White, which had been stated to be a sport from Wm. Scott, but was in reality the variety Puritan renamed. It had been suggested that the society investigate the matter through its officers or by a particular committee. Mr. Hill stated that the society had done nothing with this particular variety which would warrant its passing any opinion upon it. It had not been granted any certificate by the association and he considered that the society would be going outside of its line of action to take the matter up—lle was satisfied that the gentleman who had disseminated Harrison's White was under the impression that it was a sport from Wm. Scott, although nobody else believes that but himself. The speaker was convinced that the variety was nothing more nor less than Puritan. The president then suggested that the matter be referred to the nomenclature committee with instructions to investigate, and if they find the facts are as stated that the name Harrison's White be withdrawn from the list.

Mr. Palmer took exception to that course, stating that he did not consider the variety to be Puritan. Neither did he believe it to be a sport from Scott. Mr. Ward then simply reiterated the statements regarding this variety, which have already appeared in print, to the effect that the disseminator of the variety had been led into the error from finding this white flower mixed with some plants of Scott. He told of the comparison that had been made by Mr. Wood, the originator of Puritan, last year with Harrison's White and stated that that gentleman had now come to the conclusion that the variety was Puritan.

Mr. Ward himself had grown the variety this season and found it identical in every respect to the Puritan as grown by him some years ago. It differed in some respects from that variety, but he was confident that it was not a sport from Scott. He did not accuse the dissemina-tor of any dishonest intention at all in the matter, but he thought that he had fallen into the error unwittingly.

Mr. Scott facetiously remarked that the comments of Mr. Hill might go this time, but he thought when a similar case came up that it was in the province of this society to look into it, and that when he did sport he would like to sport some-thing good. Mr. Michel stated that he hoped he would not sport into a Puritan.

Last Season's Introductions. HY ALBERT M. HERR LANCASTER PA

Perhaps the two most notable introductions of the past scason are Harrison's White and Flora Hill. The latter has proved to be even more than was claimed for it. The former being sent out as a sport from Scott, raised expectations which it has not been able to meet. Your secretary has had letters demanding that the society take some action on this matter, claiming that the variety was no more a sport from Scott than the writer was a sport from an elephant. If there was evidence of an attempt to defraud, the society would be justified in taking some notice of such letters, but those of us who know Mr. Harrison also know that he honestly thought the variety a sport from Scott, and thinks so to this We, as a society, have no evidence to the contrary, for while the variety has been a disappointment in most places, it has done well with a few, and at this date. February 10, is doing fairly well everywhere. There is a possibility that a variety that can sport color can also produce a bud variation that would change the entire habit of the plant, and there is reason to believe that this may be an instance Nivea seems to be grown more successfully in the east than anywhere else.

Of the season's introductions in searlet, Morello and Jahn's Scarlet have both given satisfaction to the growers.

In panks, Mrs. Chas. H. Duhme and C A Dana have made many friends, but Sictor seems the introduction of the season, as one hears very little of the others. It is a case of ac port that has proven of Milud Dear is recognized as one of the scautics of the cason, and like some ther heautic very field and not to be depended upon.

Laly Decoration is coefficient variety in its class, and some easier of culture than after of the supposeds. Sire The decoration proceeds incoherns entour and promise to be a standard

Mayor Engines has filled a long felt and for a cool and profitable vellow.

Mis. McBurre, profit is to replace beyone is song larger and casic to do, and having other points of merit over the older variety.

Taken altogether the season's introductions have been such that the introducers can be congratulated.

Of those being introduced this seasonthere are certainly plenty of them-and all seem of sufficient merit to try. It would take too much of your time to review all of them, and to have but one man's opinion would not do them justice.

This society should have a report from one of its members as to the health of the stock being sent out and if it will answer to the description given, this report should be a part of the annual meeting.

At the evening session officers for the ensuing year were nominated, and Mr. Kennicott read his valuable paper on carnations from the commission dealer's standpoint, illustrating it very graphically by means of genuine stock in good shape and in bad.

The Carnation From the Commission Man's Stand-Point.

BY FLINT KENNICOTT, CHICAGO

Through Mr. Rudd, Mr. Herr has requested me to make a few remarks from the commission man's stand-point upon that most beautiful and useful flower of the genus dianthus, but to the trade more commonly known as carnation pink, and in all commission houses simplified to C. P. I am not in the habit of writing papers and these few remarks will be but a rubaboo or mixture of ideas. Of course, you are all earnation growers but my lew remarks will be made from the stand-point of a commission broker of cut flowers.

In my opinion, if you are growing for the trade, you should confine yourself to carnations only, with as few side issues as possible and of the C. P. not too many varieties, say five or six and not over eight varieties at the most, and grow only such as you can do well. Discard all others, unless grown for experiment or pleasure. Your merchant wants a No. 1 "bang up" stock, with large perfect flowers and long, stiff stems, with good foliage. Such he can sell to best advan-tage. In my opinion straight colors, clear and pure, are best to grow-white, pink in shades, red in shades, and yellow.

There are many good whites, and white C. P's are always staple, more so than any other color; so give a good share of space to the white or whites that you can grow best. A good white or two you must have. They should be pure white and good large flowers on long stiff stems. The day of short stemmed carnations is past. The custostemmed carnations is past. The customer wants them long. For design work, he picks them off himself.—It is very sel-dom now that short C. P's are asked for and then it is only by some back number who is still in the woods. After white, the best in demand, are the different shades of pink-dark, medium and light represented respectively by Tidal Wave, Scott and Daybreak, with intermediate shade, but to sell well they must be disfinet in color. No mongrels need apply, In red, the very dark magenta shades, such as Old Sport (not the "old sports who sell chewing gum and are well known characters in Chicago streets, but the old blackish C. P.).

Prince of Morocco and others of the same illeage not in demand, excepting for entertamments of certain college societies and as colors of football and baseball teams, but of a good red C. P. we are much in need, one the same shade as Portia, with just as long a stem but stiffer and of the same keeping quality, with twice the size of bloom, and one that is as free a bloomer. Of course, there are Jubilee, Meteor, Morello and many other fine reds but they are so scarce you cannot get them when you want them or sell them at listed prices when you have them, as they must be classed as faney, with a faney price, or the grower will be left. Now, what is wanted, is a good, large, dark red, something better than Portia, that can be sold as first-class with good whites and pinks, etc.

Yellow is still a novelty. No merchant can quote it as he does white, pink and red and be sure he can get them. There is no doubt that if a free blooming yellow could be found and produced freely enough so your merchant could depend on it, it would find a ready sale at prices above all other colors, but I have never known the time when I could promise 1000 yellow earnations one day in advance, no, not fourteen days. Now in white, pink and red, I will promise you 100,000 in fourteen days, if price is satisfactory. So I class a yellow C. P. as a novelty until one of you gentlemen will grow one that will bloom as freely as the old Degraw.

As to the variegated carnations, such as Helen Keller, Mrs. Bradt and many others, they are also novelties and though to my taste they are very beautiful, still as your merchant, I will say that commercially they are worthless, except as novelties. They are seldom asked for, and when they do find a market it is through a forced sale, due to chance. Excepting in a house devoted to your own pleasure, I would advise growing very few variegated C. P's. Clear colors are what "knock"!

Now, gentlemen, your merchants are not idiots, although a few of them may appear a little "daffy". They do not expect you can grow every flower to perfection, but they do expect you can separate the perfect from the imperfect blooms and bunch them separately and even make a third class, if necessary. Carnations should be tied twenty-five in a bunch. Four bunches will then make 100 and your merchant sells all his goods by the hundred and he trusts to his grower's count. In the Chicago market the growers are all known by number, and a customer soon learns the number of the grower who produces the stock he wants. He naturally buys stock from the lots in which he has found twenty-five perfect flowers to the bunch and will ask for that grower's number next time; so, for your own sake, as well as that of your merchants, be sure there are twenty-live perfect blooms in every bunch.

No matter how scarce flowers are, do not count short. Put in one extra rather than one short. Many growers have yet to learn that six had ones or even sixteen are not equal to one good one, so dever put a "ringer" in your bunch, for the customer who buys 100 first-class carna tions of your merchant expects to get 100 and will make no "kick" if there are 101 first-class ones or he will say nothing if there is an extractwo or three, but "if for the 100 he gets ninety-two that are perfect and eight that are "ringers", gentlemen, "the fur will fly." An extra one An extra one or two should really be included in the banch to allow for an occasional broken

Put your second-class stock in separate bunches and your merchant will take care of it, but never mix any of your seconds or rubber necks with your firsts, and if you have thirds send them along, unless you are short on fertilizers. Maybe they would help out on commission and express but never mix them with your first-class stock. One "ringer" will kill the entire bunch.

I want to say a few words regarding the naming of C. P's. It is a bad mistake that some of you make in naming your C. P's after staple roses, such as Meteor, Bridesmaid, etc., and it causes your merchant much confusion. Thus, an order comes for "One Perle, one white carnation, half Meteors, half Maids." Your merchant has to be a mind reader to know whether roses or C. P's are wanted. On two last mentioned I have known more than one mistake to occur. And a earnation "by any other name would smell as sweet," wouldn't it?

Regarding the bunching of C. I's I am going to make a few illustrations. Here is a bunch of twenty-six good C. I's tied as they should be, even heads, with each individual flower showing; also showing every stem of equal length; that it as it should be. This one is not. It is tied all should be. This one is not. It is tied all wrong. But, maybe, the grower had a reason; let us cut it open. What't wentyeight carnations! Generous man! But hold on; see, here are three dead "ringers" and two short stems. His generosity is misplaced. The ringers alone would kill the bunch, even had there been twentyfive good ones, but two are short and do not count. The bunch has only twenty-three carnations in it—Register another "kick" for your tough merchant. No. 1 is the way to do it; No 2 is the way not to do it.

Now a word as to pickled stock. experience of years ought to teach every grower that pickled stock does not pay, but at every holiday the mistakes of the previous year are more or less repeated It will invariably prove in this respect. the most profitable to you as well as satisfactory to your merchant and his customers to keep sending your flowers in as fast as they are in proper condition for market. Pickled stock always results in loss to the grower, trouble for your merchant and dissatisfaction to the buyer. I cannot emphasize this fact too strongly. The grower who pickles stock is invariably working directly against his own best interests.

Friday's Business.

The convention was called to order at 9 a. m. Prof. Authur's paper on "Moisture, the plant's greatest requirement" was read and called out a very general discussion. A vote of thanks was tendered Prof. Arthur.

The election of officers was next in order and the following gentlemen were elected by acclamation: President, Win. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass.; vice-president, Wm. P. Craig, Philadelphia; secretary, Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.; treasurer, Fred Dorner, Jr., Lafayette, Ind.

The committee on protest against proposed plant inspection legislation was named as follows: Wm. Wallace, J. C. Vaughan and E. G. Hill.

Wm. Scott was named as a committee on correspondence with the national flower organization. Messrs. Graham, Vesey and Giesy were appointed as a committee on final resolutions.

The proposition of Sceretary Herr that members contribute $25 each for the good of the society aroused considerable discussion, which developed into great enthusiasm. Mr. Hill offered $50 and Mr. Ward in the same breath increased his present offering, of which the society has been the recipient for some years, to a like amount. Twenty-five dollar subscriptions came from all parts of the hall and in a few minues $350 was subscribed with only a part of the members present. The executive committee was instructed to carry on the work and to endeavor to interest others. It was resolved that all receipts in access of $500 per annum be carried to a sinking fund to form the neucleus of a permanent endowment.

The most enthusiastic good feeling prevailed and the society adjourned to meet next year at Philadelphia.

The Banquet.

The banquet to the American Carnation Society at the Auditorium hotel is in progress as we go to press, about 125 guests are present and the jolliest kind of a good time is anticipated.

Varieties Exhibited.

Fred Dorner & Sons Co. had on exhibition twenty varieties, among them, Unele John, fine; White Cloud, fine shaped full flower, grand stem; Gold Nugget, fine fringed yellow, full flower, good stem; Mrs. G. M. Bradt, extra fine, as usual; Mary Wood, fine white, slightly penciled pink; Dazzle, fine shaped scarlet; New York, pink, extra good color, fringed flower, good stem; Mrs. James Dean, pleasing shade of pink, seems a little weak in stem; John Young has the appearance of a fine commercial white, fringed flower, good stem; Storm Queen, white, not quite so full as White Cloud, but still a fine thing; G. H. Crane, searlet seedling, large full flower of lively color, ealyx fine, a plant exhibited shows it to be of fine growth; Bon Ton, searlet, a little small, but of good color and fine stem.

Mr. C. W. Ward's exhibits are staged jointly with the above making a clean, well-grown lot.

E. G. Hill & Co., Richmond, Ind., showed a grand vase of Jubilee, fine large flower and good stem; also vase of 100 Flora Hill in good form; Painted Lady, fine deep pink, shading lighter on the edges, seems a little weak in stem, but otherwise a fine thing, white; Psyche, white heavily penciled with red, have seen this in better shape than shown here; vase of fifty blooms of Armazindy, fine shape, with extra good stems; America, red seedling, fine shaped flower, even color, good stem; Scarlet Queen, scedling, fine large fringed flower, extra fine as regards color and form, good stem; Arbutus, seedling, Daybreak color, but a little deeper, fine flower with good stem; Prima Donna, pink, similar in color to Triumph, fine shaped flower with good stem.

From Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, Pa., Empress, rich crimson, making one of the finest exhibits, stem fully thirty inches long, plant shown indicates extra strong growth, though a dark one the color, is still lively, strength of stem and calyx good, Stollery Bros, had on exhibition a fine vase of Argyle, grand in every respect, the color showing well in artificial light. Maud Adams from Frank Niquet, Patchoque, N. V., looks to be a good commercial flower, of a deep pink color, tine fringed flower of good form, with good stem, holding the flower erect.

From W. P. Craig, Philadelphia, vase of 100 Flora Hill in good shape; vase of 100 Lily Dean, a finely penciled flower, but a little weak in stem; a fine vase of fifty Jubilee; a fine vase of Victor, together with some plants showing growth; it has the appearance of being very free, as the growth and everything is good.

Wictor Bros., Chicago, showed a fine vase of 100 Armazindy with stem fully thirty inches.

John Burton, Philadelphia, a fine vase of Alba Superba, flower a little small, but otherwise good. Weber & Sons, Oakland, Md., a fine vase of 100 Mrs. MeBurney, the same of Triumph and Mrs. G. M. Bradt, Flora Hill Buttercup, Daybreak, Goldfinch, Wm. Scott, Storm King, Hector, and fine vasc of seedlings. These exhibitors showed a fine vase of Mrs. Robert Garrett rose which certainly seems to be a great acquisition, eolor, shape, form, stem and foliage being extra fine.

John Breitmeyer & Sons a fine vase of Mayor Pingree, a fine vase of Crimson; also good vase of Cerise Queen, a fine pink.

Messrs. George & Allen put up a nice stand of cut flowers, including Meteor roses, valley, tulips and Dutch hyacinths. Mr. Peterson staged a nice vase of Princess of Wales violets.

Mrs. Thos, Lawson was staged in fine shape by Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass., a fine large flower of good color and grand stem.

Chas. S. Baker, Utica, N. Y., staged Oneida, pink, fine color, but a little weak in stem; Red Jacket, scarlet, fine color, not so large as some reds, but otherwise good; Uncle Sam, a densely striped red white; also two promising seedlings; Pluto, dark red, and Goliath, pink.

R. Witterstaetter, Sedamsville, Cincinnati, Ohio, staged a grand lot, including his peerless white Evelina, which was fine in every way.

Mr. Murphy, Cincinnati, Ohio, staged Portia, W. Scott, Daybreak and Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt in good shape

Dan'l B. Long, Buffalo, X. Y., was on hand with a fine lot of Genesee, white, both flowers and plants being in good shape, and look to be very free, and a good market variety, but the flower is a little small compared with Flora Hill.

Mr. James Hartshorne, gardener to H. N. Higinbotham, Joliet, Ill., staged a fine vase of Tidal Wave with fine stems, also a grand vase of Jubilee.

G. A. Kuhl, Pekin, Ill., showed some elegant Brides, Bridesmaid and Belle Siebrecht roses.

Bassett & Washburn, Hinsdale, Ill., staged a fine lot of roses, carnations and mignonette, not for competition; they were all elegant stock and well done.

John H. Sievers, San Francisco, Cal., had a very interesting exhibit of seedling carnation, some of them being grand specimens, and looked in good shape after their long journey.

South Park Floral Co., New Castle, Ind., exhibited fine vases of Bride and Bridesmaid roses, also vases of Jubilee, Mrs. Geo. Bradt, Armazindy, Alaska and Albertini, all in fine shape.

Barnd Sisters & Co., Findley, O., staged a vase of dark crimson named Olive Snyder. John Murchie, Sharon, Pa., had a vasc of dark pink named Uncle Walter, fine color and stem.

J. P. Turner, Galewood, Ill., a vasc of Van Leevan, flower a little small, but with fine stem; also vase of Daybreak.

Geo. Hancock & Son, Grand Haven, Mich., plant and blooms of their seedling Firefly, which they term a business carnation, which certainly looks to be very free; also a vase of Jemon yellow, named Gold Coin.

W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., showed a vase of elegant Kaiserin roses, and an American Beauty with stems about 7 ft.

From W. N. Rudd, Mount Greenwood, Ill., vasc of 100 Pingree, fifty ditto, twelveditto, 100 Mrs. McBurney, twentyfive ditto; two vases of 100 Flora Hill, also one of twenty-five; vase of 100 Jubilee, fifty Jubilee, and some others.

C. W. Johnson,

WM P CRAIG

An Interview with William P. Craig.

William P. Craig has been showing us the newer earnations-unusually well done-at our flower shows and club meetings recently, and although but a youngster compared to most of the successful growers, he certainly does credit to his excellent training at Mr. May's and the old homestead, and gives promise of taking a leading place in the rising genera-

With the idea that Mr. Craig could tell us something of the newer carnations, the writer jumped on a ear vesterday and rode out to Market and Sixty-first streets in the hope of being able to pump an interesting story for the AMERICAN FLO-RIST out of the youthful W. P.

Mr. Craig was busy opening the morning mail when I greeted him. I could see that there were some good fat orders in the bunch of letters before him, so 1 felt sure he would be in excellent, humor, and in just the trim to be amiable and chatty in showing me around. I believe the New York reporter's style is to ask all sorts of questions and if the victim answers not, supply the answer. Nansen was asked what he ate, how much, and how often, and a hundred other such questions, until he stood aghast. Acting on the precedent of such unimpeachable author ity I promptly began my labors by asking what those orders consisted of that were lying on the desk. I do not have to turnish the answer, here it is.

None of your business, my boy, but seeing that you're a privileged character, I don't mind telling you that they're mostly for young stock of the newer car nations of which I am making a spe-

What's your best seller?

Well so far I lora Hill leads the prosome but Victor, Mayor Pingree, and Lals 16 at are also prime favorites, and I sill not have readly enough of either if the deceand keeps up as it is at present.

Is I for all the better than John Rur tan's Alba Superbact. This was a trap.
Being or by 26 I thought, may be he'd get. aught sudderl.

Lead here there are sound

Laco here theory, that are you up that Wanth eyel he path ended Lassure that I delete to the consented to answer all a cetral at I looked them respectable

"What makes you think so much of Flora Hill?

"Well, in the first place, it is very healthy, vigorous and free; then it has good size, good stem, and in fact it is all that Hill claimed for it.

"I see you have a house of Victor? Any fault to find with him?"

"No siree! That's absolutely the finest pink carnation to date. Do you see that center bench there, where the men have just started to take off the crop? are 1000 plants on that bench and I am cutting 100 a day and have been since the middle of December and I took at least 1000 off before that; it's certainly a money maker! The crop keeps coming right along. Ves, Scott has served us well, but his day is past when you can have a pink like Victor on the carpet.'

"What do you consider the best red to date?"

"I should say Jubilee, by all means. It has stem, size, form and color, and sizes up to the exacting standard of the day better than any other I know of."

"How about Mayor Pingree? I see you have a center bench of him in fine

'Pingree is the best yellow—an exceedingly lively shade of yellow, especially in the center, and the red pencilings rather enhance its beauty than otherwise. I can cut stems twenty-eight to thirty-two inches in length good and stiff. It is also a free bloomer, the flowers are large and averaging three and one-fourth inches in diameter with me.

"What's your favorite in the fancies?" "Ah, now you just come round to this far house and I'll show you some Lily Dean that will make you quiver! Ain't they fine? Did you ever see anything so charming? shape exquisite, color more exquisite still! I wish I'd had it on the center—bench it needs more head-room (three and one-half feet head-room-no less) than what it gets here. It also wants to be grown cool, 50° is about right for it. Mrs. Bradt requires the same treatment, and is a good one to grow in the same house. Mrs. Bradt is a good heavy flower, very showy, but she will not be in the race with Lily Dean as a fancy-the pencilings are too heavy."

I see some fine McGowans up at that back benefi. I suppose she's still a money-

'No; after careful thought I'm afraid we must say good-hye to Lizzie, too, as well as Scott; she's not in it with Flora

Hill?"
"Is Flora Hill better than Burtou's Alba Superba?

"There you go again! Why ean't you stay in my bailiwick where I'm on sure ground! I've seen Alba Superba at Mr. Burton's, and it's certainly magnificent, and where a long stiff stem is required it is indispensable in fact nothing can touch it. It has fair size, too, and I think most everybody will be able to grow it. The color is very pure, and the form and texture unique. I think it a grand good thing, indeed."

"Are there any other new ones you've tried?

"Not many. Mrs. McBurney with me s no better than Daybreak. Emma Wocher is a very fine pink, very pretty, but not full enough. Maud Dean very fragrant. A fine thing, but too late.'

"Hello! a house of carnations and no flowers! What's it mean.'

"Oh, that's a house of Flora Hill exclusively for cuttings. I have not allowed a bud to expand except at first to make sure of the purity of the stock. The buds are carefully pinched every day. It pays. I've had great success in striking cuttings. In one batch of 20,000 I did not have 1% miss. Of course the mica rock I use for striking may share the glory of that.'

"What kind of rock's that?"

"Why, its rotten rock found near here, composed of mica, mostly. It's grand stuff for striking cuttings. American Beauty and other difficult subjects do splendidly in it. 1 have shipped several carloads of it to other growers, Mr. May and Mr. Burton among others. It's too expensive, however, for a distance; the freight is too high. But any one can get it who will dig for it in their own neighborhood. The mica strata is found below the gravel."

"What further passed at this meeting deponent sayeth not. I guess l'Il follow Sam Weller's advice and make this letter short, so you'll wish there was more. Some time I may go out and see this beauty of Mr. Burton's that they're all talking about. If you never hear of this reporter thereafter, you may con-clude that he met the fate of Abe Cumius -'the rope broke and I was driven-well, to breakfast, and now, by gum, I want a pension.'

G. C. Watson.

WM. P. CRAIG 8 HOUSE OF VIOTOR CARNATIONS.

The American Florist

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00, Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Ag $1.00 per inch. Cash with Order. No Special Position Guaranteed. Discounts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

Advertising Department of the AMERICAN ST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted. Advertisements must reach us by Wednesday to secure insertion in the issue for the following Saturday Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

THE illustrations of carnation flowers in this issue are from the actual specimens exhibited at the national convention of growers held in this city within the past two days.

Carnation Bon Ton.

We have received a box of blooms of this excellent variety from F. A. Blake, of Rochdale, Mass. The flowers are of good size and substance, very full and deeply fringed. The color is a good bright scarlet. It is evident the flowers will travel well, and they are borne on stems of the first quality.

New York.

FLORISTS' CLUB HAS A ROUSING MEETING.— A GOOD EXHIBITION —CHANGE IN EXHIBI-TION RULES.—A LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE APPOINTED. — ENTERTAINING LECTURE WITH STEREOPTICON VIEWS BY MESSRS. FARQUHAR.—BULB GROWING IN HOLLAND AND PLANT LIFE IN JAMAICA.-VISITORS FROM ABROAD.

The meeting of the Florists' Club on Monday evening was something of a record breaker, there being seventy-seven members present, twelve new names added to the roll and fourteen more proposed for election at the next meeting. The exhibition comprised a fine collection of carnations from C. W. Ward, group of azaleas from A. Schultheis, collection of orchids from Siebrecht & Son, and W. A. Manda, section of greenhouse from Thos. W. Weathered's Son, and orchid basket from W. A. Manda. The committee made a report on all these and supplemented same with a new scale of points which it recommended for judging these monthly exhibits. The new scale, which provides that any exhibit gaining eighty-five or more points shall have a certificate of merit and the exhibitor with the most certificates at the end of the year shall have the gold medal, was unanimously adopted. The committee reported having visited the houses where the new carnation Maud Adams is growing, which they honored with a certificate and a very high endorsement.

Patrick O'Mara called attention to the efforts now being made to pass a law in New Jersey, also in New York and in Congress, providing for a rigid inspection of all trees and plants coming from outside territory and exclusion of all stock infested with insects, and urged that the pests at which the law is aimed are exclusively found on nursery stock, never on so-called florists' stock. He explained the annoyance and loss that would come to florists if the bill in its present shape should become a law and asked for a committee with power to appear before the various legislative bodies and urge that florists' stock be exempted. Messrs. O'Mara, May and C. H. Allen were appointed accordingly and will assume their duties at once.

The promised entertainment of the evening was then in order, a stereopticon exhibition by Messrs. John and James Farquhar, of Boston. No more delight-ful evening has ever been spent by the Scenes in the bulb growing districts of Holland, views in many foreign horticultural establishments and entrancing pictures of the tropical scenery of Jamaica were thrown rapidly in succession on the screen and applause was frequent. The greatest surprise to all was the wonderful vegetation of Jamaica. The great trees with orchids and ferns growing over their branches, the rocky chasms hung with beautiful ferns and tropical plants innumerable, the stately palms, the banana groves, the strange towns and market places were all shown and entertainingly described. At the close of the lecture, which lasted for an hour and a half, the Messrs. Farquhar were the recipients of a vote of thanks, an invita-tion to the club dinner and no end of applause.

Business is sailing along serenely, with fair demand, plenty of stock of all kinds and low prices on everything. Lily of the valley, tulips, daffodils and violets are accumulating faster than they can be unloaded in the wholesale marts. Harrisii lilies are also overplenty and callas are abundant. Smilax and adiantums are shortening up in quality and quantity, both. Unusually fine Vervæneana azaleas are displayed in the retailer's windows, and among the most attractive things offered are pots of violets in bloom. Visitors in town: G. Krouwell, of Speelman & Sons, Sassenheim; Jac. Wezelenburg, Sassenheim, Holland; Mr. Kaptjen, representing G. Van Waveren & Kruyff and P. Vos, of the Holland Bulb Co.

Boston.

BUSINESS SATISFACTORY.-IGNORANT PREI-UDICE AGAINST POLICY OF PARK DEPART-MENT.—EXHIBITS AT HORTICULTURAL HALL.—RECENT FUNERALS CAUSE BIG DEMAND FOR FLOWERS .-- GURNEY HEATER MFG. CO.'S REMOVAL.-LOCAL LINES.

A more even trade is reported from all local points. Receipts of roses and carnations seem about right for the needs of the market and no fluctuations in price, of any account have been experienced this week. This may reasonably be expected to continue till middle of next week at least, when Lent will come in and a lull may be experienced. Bulbous stock and violets are in oversupply here, as in other eastern markets, prices realized being low and the surplus disposed of with difficulty.

The self-constituted censors of Superintendent Pettigrew and the park board continue to vent their abuse through the open columns of the daily press, and the crusade against the tree-cutting goes on vigorously. The less a writer knows about the subject, the more frantic he becomes, apparently. The necessary thinning out of young trees and shrubs as they grow is a work only to be entrusted to a man of long experience, foresight and a thorough knowledge of their requirements. Here we have a superintendent possessing all these attainments, fully supported by a park board which is in close touch with our most eminent arboriculturist, a man who has devoted a lifetime to the science of forestry, but this counts for nothing with these critics and disturbers who, neither asking nor caring, apparently, to know the reason for the acts they condemn, rage at the thinning out of overcrowded plantations, and yet often display the insincerity of their professions by their indifference to the usefulness, or ignorance of the proper arrangement and care of trees and shrubs, as shown in the barren or unkempt surroundings of their own homes. One of this latter type was overheard recently to boast that the Massachusetts Horti-cultural Society was now to be made use of to help put a stop to this "vandalism" as he termed it. "We shall see what we shall see." It is gratifying to know, however, that the unreasoning clamor is likely to prove fruitless and to feel assured that in the course of time the wise policy of the present park management will be vindicated.

At Horticultural hall on February 12 J. E. Rothwell showed a number or rare and handsome cypripediums. A bloom of Cattleya Trianæ, Emily Roebling exhibited by H. T. Clinkaberry was much admired for its rich coloring and fine form and received honorable mention. James Comley contributed a collection of camellia blooms.

The funeral of State Senator Hayes on Thursday last was the occasion of a phenominal demand for flowers and following so closely as it did on the funerals of the unfortunate firemen who lost their lives in a burning building, it helped out the volume of the week's business for the city florists very materially. Scanning the list of floral emblems it appears that the standing wreath, in various styles, is one of the most popular designs at pres-

The Gurney Heater Manufacturing Co. whose boilers have become such favorites for greenhouse purposes within the past few years, will move from their present address on March 1 to 74 Franklin street, corner of Arch street, a more central and convenient location.

George Cartwright is still bringing in chrysanthemums and says he could easily keep it up the entire season. Minnie Wanamaker and Maud Dean are the varieties he is cutting from.

Welch Bros. have had on exhibition at the City Hall Flower Market, a vase of Genesee carnation from D. B. Long. Not only is it a grand white bloom but its keeping qualities seem really remark-

Referring to the growing impression that the Harrisii disease is caused by insects infesting the bulb. Mr. Edgar suggests the experiment of packing the bulbs in tobacco dust.

C. Thompson Adams of West Medway has gone into insolvency.

Visiting Boston: H. S. DeForest, representing Hitchings & Co., New York.
Henry Waterman, Jr., 488 Boylston street, has made an assignment to D. W. Murray.

NEWPORT, R. L.—The February 9 meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society was a very large and enthusiastic one, and it was decided to hold a chrysanthemum exhibition next fall at Masonic Hall. Schedules will soon be ready.

HOLYOKE, MASS.—The annual meeting of the Holyoke Horticultural Society was held on the evening of February 5. Donald McGregor read a paper on cyclamens. Election of officers will take place at the March meeting.

Wakefield, Mass.-Owing to the small eccipts at the fair last fall, the Wakefield Horticultural and Agricultural Society is unable to pay the prizes awarded at the exhibition.

NEW LONDON, CONN.—The florist establishment of J. L. Fitch took fire on the morning of February 5 and most of the plants and seeds were destroyed.

Cut Flower Price Lists Received.

Kennicott Bros. Company, Chicago; W. A. McFadden, Cincinnati; C. A. Kuehn, St. Louis; Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. V.-At the meeting of the Dutchess County Horticultural Society on February 2, Mr. W.G. Gomer-sall read an interesting paper entitled "Helps and Hints for the Amateur.

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE,

Advertisements under this head will be inserted at the rate of lifeents a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accompany order. Plant advs. not admitted under this head.

admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the American Florist for the year less is entitled to a five-line want adv. free to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED-By a first-classrose grower: 15 years experience. Good references. Address D.W. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By a young man 22 years of age; ; years' experience, Good references. Address O.M., care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED By competent grower in private or commercial place. Best of references.

JOHNSON, 48 W. Huron St., Chicago.

SITUATION WANTED—By a competent store man, late with Freidman; reference given by Chicago wholesale florists. R.A. care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By an A No. 1 manager of wholesale or retail store; twelve years' experience in prominent cities. Correspondence solicited G, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED - By rose grower as foreman; expert in all leading varieties of cut roses, mums, carnations, etc.: plants, mains, pains, etc. O.S. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED By A I general cuttower grower; good decorator Recommendations fur-D grower: good decorator Recommendations as bladed, German American; Myears old. Address V G, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED -By experienced gardener and florist (Scotch) to take full charge of private place. Best of references married; age as W.S., care American Florist

STITUATION WANTED-By young man age 21, three years experience in roses and carnations. Best of references. Address
W. W. Box 163 Newtown, Pa.

CITTATION WANTED As foremen by a rose of grower, at place where extra fine American Beauty and Tea roses are wanted. Address P.H.M., care American Florist

STITUATION WANTED By an experienced gardener and florist to take charge of private or commercial place, age a married Best of references.

Chicago care American Florist

STILATION WANT CD. As assistant florist single, in age 2. Spars, experience, sober and reliable. References. Address. I. H. A. H. Frankfet St., Carlisle, Pa.

SITUATION WANTED By young man to learn the florist trade, sober and reliable; state terms. Address W. GREGORY.

Box 22 Markbam P. O. Onfarlo, Canada

STITATION WANTED By experienced gardener and florat to take charge to private place; It sears experience age 2 married to family Address.

J. It B. care American Florist.

STILLATION WANTED By gardener and florist with large expanse on Europe and America crossfeld temperate private procepulation of dress.

STRIATION WANTED A competent seedsman was the stratfor with a reliable seed house, can apear Dobb. German or English correspondence seeds their H. care American Florist STITEATION WANTED As foreign in first class of metal stoners specializes roses money earlier for a real large fraction with up in other transfer of the real state profession. Commission Edwards with a profession.

STITATION WANTED B a good a round grower to the sore as to assess of remaining on the major positions. esta street in the best of Higgsindian position ages in citied. It for a returned Astroperature W.W. same American Floriat

CHIA TON WANTED As foreman or assissant to the foreign and argue for so houses. Heart of references that it is a size for each of the purities areas. A freeze

B.M. i. Spinie Ceseland is

SHIFAFFOR WANTED By practical florial of Lorar acceptance of peaks of flower grower power arms after a for a flow of the control of the contr

SITUATION WANTED—By single man age 25, as second man or to take charge of small place; good grower of cut dowers and bedding plants, steady and reliable; disenvaged March lst. Address It L. care American Florist, Chicago.

Oltuation Wanted—As foreman by practical fiorist and grower; specialty No 1 roses, carnations, mums, violets, general stock, etc.; now disengaged; age 18. Restreferences. Address W 11, care 164 E. Main St. Alliance, O.

OlTUATION WANTED—By practical florist and plantsman of experience and executive ability in all the requisites of commercial places; general propagation, inside and outside operation—For more particulars address—FT, care Am. Fiorist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foremen with some refined party by a practical grower of roses, carnations, violets, 'mums, palms, ferns and general stock, forcing of bulbs; a life experience: references O K. Address FOREMAN, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a first-class cut flower grower with 15 years' experience, specialist in roses, married, ags 32. Nothing but first-class place wanted; state wages. Address CUT FLOWER GROWER, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As manager of park or private place; young German-American desires engagement; thoroughly experienced in all branches, can furnish best of references; married, family of two. Address RSL, care American Fiorist.

OlTUATION WANTED—A gardener experienced in propagating, culture of paims and terns foliage plants, roses, carnations, etc.; also in landscape gardening, botany and designing, would like a situation as foreman in a florist's establishment, park or college, Address

CUR. MARKEN,

76 Jefferson St., Buttle Creek, Mich.

OlTUATION WANTED—As foreman in cut flower establishment, mostly roses and carnations: must be up to date in conveniences; by all-round man, single, American, nine years' experience; don't use to-bucco or drink; west preferred; good wages expected, References.

2640 Cottage Grove Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman or manager in large commercial place by a dist-class grower of roses, carnations, "nums and general stock: life experience, married, age 3%; has been foreman in large establishments for the past ten years; only reliable parties who wish a first-class man need answer; best of references. Address

Rose Grower, care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED—As foremen in good fiorists' establishment; first-class rose grower, also palms, ferns, carnations, immis, violets and general stock; or take charge of a gentleman's good private place. 20 years' experience in England and America, strictly temperate; good wages expected; married; disengaged about March lst. Good references. Address GEORGE NORTON, 164 Center St., Bridgeport, Conn.

WANTED-The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amager. Address L JENSEN, South Butte, Mont.

WANTED-Catalogues and price lists to Merrill, Wis., not to Sparta. Wis., as before.
NICK GRIEVELDING, Merrill, Wis.

WANTED- Young man to take charge of dorlst business and take interest in business. Address NEW YORK, care American Florist:

WANTED—Catalogues of limits roses, hardy herba-ceous plants, seeds, trees, shouls and plants, T. B. STROUT, New Philadelphia, O.

WANTED Man to fire four bollers steam and hot Apply with references etc. stating sulpost expected POEHLMANN BIOS , Morton Grove, Ill.

WANTED For general greenhouse work, an active and reliable young man; wages $25 per month; willing to increase wages if suffed. Address Box 155, Danville, Ky.

WANTED Reliable man for roses and general floral work: good pay for good work. Address J. T. WILLIAMSON, Prop. La Rose Gardena, P. O. Rox 22, Memphis, Tenn.

WANTED A second-hand hot water heater; also gloss or 5in, plpe. Parties having such please correspond with M. L. BELCHER, Lock Hox. al, So. Braintree, Mass.

WANTED Assistant in rose houses under fore-man. Apply with reterences, etc., stating ability and salary expected. Address. PORILMANS HIGOS, Morton Grove, III.

WANTED AT ONCE. Young man with general knowledge of intracty stock instead satisfinan, send references and state wages expected to stock Forces Statescripts, Villa Sova, Ind. Co., Pa.

WANTED Partner in Chicago, with $500 cash, to take half interest in new established, paying digital and greenlouse basiness, experienced man perfected. Address. M. N. care American Florist.

WANTED Address of nurserymen isomhern or central states or California) carrying brige stock of herbiceous species, low prices Catalogius or information requested F.N. Hatrion 5. Tyler St., Hoston, Mass.

WASTED A good sober, middle used man, either single or married, to grow mums principally; next come well recommended. A steady place for the rigid person. Address.

NAME OF SERVICE SERVICE AVE. Londwille, Ky.

WANTED-Foreman on commercial place, California; must be experienced in handling men; with ur questionable knowledge of propagating and growing, both inside and out; competent to take charge. Good habits and best of references. Address CARNATION, care American Florist.

WANTED-Young man thoroughly experienced in the best class of retail dorlst business: must be first-class in window, table and wedding decorations, also design work. Apply with references, ability, etc., stating wages expected. J. H. DUNDOP, 445 Yange St., Toronto. Can.

WANTED-A competent man for cut flower de-partment and making up floral designs and bou-quet work; also one that understands decorating and general greenhouse work. Apply CHARLESTON GREENHOUSES, 309 Meeting St., Charleston, S. C.

FOR SALE—One Alaska refrigerator in first-class condition.

JOHN 11. ORTH & CO., McKeesport, Pa.

HOR SALE-Two greenhouses heated with but water; good stock of plants; dwelling house attached.

FOR SALE—Greenbouse plant of 5,000 feet of glass In Jamestown, N. D; price $1,500; ½ casb, balance may be paid in cut flowers. Address W. W. SEEKINS, 921 E 3rd St., Duluth, Minn.

FOR RENT-Seven greenbouses, stocked; dwelling and ind, steam heat; convenient for Baltimore wholesale market, and full local trade. Address MARYLAND, care American Florist.

FOR RENT-Greenhouse, 6 000 feet of glass on Main street; street cars pass the door; store and dwelling house connected with same place $35 per month. P. N. SOETGA, 1692 Cedar Ave.. Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE.

1000 G, 7 and S-Inch calla lilles in best possible condi-tion, all 1 to 2 bids, $20 to $30 per 100. Will take palms, ferns or ticus in trade.

ALBERT FUCHS, 2059-73 N. Halsted St., Chicago.

Here is a good thing. Discard the old one and use the new and only
TELECRAPH CODE FOR FLORISTS

Copyright applied for. First copy flc (stamps inken) balance at cost of printing. Every intelligent doriet can learn the meaning by heart. It will save you and your costomers to the first time you have to telegraph.

F. A. Haenselmann, Petersburg, Colo.

FOR SALE OR TRADE.

'Mums stock plants, Sc. Will trade for Cal. Violets, Begordaa, Carnations Roses. Cuttings rooted to order of Ivy, flowering and foliage Geraniuma, Carnations, Sweet Alyssum, both kinds, Heliotrope, Fuchsia, Stevia, Mums. German Ivy, etc.

F. A. HAENSELMANN, Petersburg, Celo.

GREENHOUSES FOR SALE.

A rare opportunity: Seven greenhouses near Chicago for safe cheap. Owner has other interests requiring sil his attention. A reliable man can have easy terms. For further particulars address L D. care American Florist.

TO EXCHANGE.

Canna Chas. Henderson, dry roots, for Dahlia or Madeira Vine tubers, shrubs or Climbing Rosos; or will sell for cash at 25 cts per clump (large.)

W. P. RANSON, Junction City, Kansas.

FOR SALE

or rent with privilege of buving—established green-house property consisting of four houses about 100x25 feet each: holler house and pack rooms; 12-room mod-ern dwelling, two acres land; 1i miles from Philadel-phia, near R. R. station, steam heat; splendid chance for right party.

Jos. T. SULLIVAN, Meorestown, N. J.

PIPE WANTED.

Second-hand littchings' or Weathered's cast 4-inch pipe, 2,000 feet (or any part thereof). Give CASH price f. o. h.

J C, Station A, 79 Pine St.,

SITUATION WANTED.

As assistant; experienced in hot and cold fruit houses; also growing of gardennis, roses, carmi-tions, 'mums and general stock, private or com-mercial; age 25; industrious and steady; good references. Address, > JADOO, care American Florist, Eastern Office, 67 Bramfield St., Boston.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good investment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health

Par particulars ELLIS & POLLWORTH, write Milwaukee, Wis.

The Skirm Bill.

Messrs. Patrick O'Mara, representing Peter Henderson & Co., the New York Peter Henderson & Co., the New York Florists' Club and the New York Market Growers' Association; John N. May and Chas. H. Allen, representing the New York Florists' Club; Henry C. Steinhoff, representing the New York Market Growers' Association, and Win. F. Dreer, of Henry A. Dreer, Incorporated, were given a hearing on Tuesday, the 15th inst., before the senate committee in Trenton N. Lin reference to the Skirm. Trenton, N. J., in reference to the Skirm Bill No. 66. Prof. Jno. B. Smith, of the State Experiment Station, and a delega-tion of nurserymen also attended. The florists and the nurserymen discussed the bill informally before submitting argument to the committee on agriculture and forestry. The result of the discussion was that an amendment offered by Mr. O'Mara was accepted as being satisfactory to the nurserymen and to Prof. Smith. The amendment is as follows: "Florists' plants, flowers, cuttings, scions and buds grown under glass and com-monly known as florists' stock are exempt from the provisions of this act."

During the discussion it transpired that there is a likelihood of similar measures being introduced in the different states in the country, and therefore it behooves the florists in the different states to take the matter up with their state legisla-tures. The New York Florists' Club has already appointed a legislative committee to look after the matter in New York state. The vice-presidents of the S. A. F. in the various states should look after this matter and focus the opposition of the florists in their state against legisla-tion which includes florists' plants in provisions which are really aimed at nursery stock. Every one agrees that florists' plants enjoy immunity from the diseases aimed at in these various laws, and it would be absurd to have laws passed in-cluding them. The house committee of congress adopted a similar amendment to the one just accepted by the committee in Trenton.

Northampton, Mass.

Since my last report trade has shown a decided improvement, and with the exception of a few stormy days has been very steady. Roses have sold well, but carnations are yet in the lead and were never better than at present; violets also sell well, and but very few go to waste. Bulbous stuff is coming in quite freely, and finds a ready sale at good prices; if we had a few more saints like good St. Valentine we would not need to wonder if it would be advisable to start for the Klondike, for everything was sold out clean on the 14th, and roses and violets were in short supply. Many more could have been disposed of.

A visit to the Botanic Garden found everything in apple pie order, as usual, and Mr. Canning as genial as ever. Mr. H. W. Fields' houses are also looking well.

G. W. THORNILY.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.                        |
|---------------------------------------------|
| Roses, Beauty select30.00@40.00             |
|                                             |
| " medlum                                    |
| Diries 5 00@ 1 00                           |
| Dridesmands 5 000 (.u)                      |
| Meteors 6.00@ 8.00                          |
| renes 4 00@ 5 00                            |
| Carnations 1 50@ 2.00                       |
| fancy 3.00@ 4 00                            |
| Valley 3 00                                 |
| Romans 2 00@ 3.00                           |
| Narcissus 4 00                              |
| Daffodils                                   |
| Violets                                     |
| Harrisli 12.50                              |
| Callas                                      |
| Tulips 3.00@ 4 00                           |
|                                             |
| Smilax                                      |
| Adiantum                                    |
| Asparagus 50.00                             |
| ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.                         |
| Roses, Beauties 5 00@50 00                  |
| " Meteors 4 00 a 10 00                      |
| " Brides, Bridesmaids 4.00@10.00            |
| " Perles 3.00% 5.00                         |
| Wootton                                     |
| " La France                                 |
| Welcowing                                   |
| " Kalserine 4.00@10.00                      |
| " Carnot 4 00@10 00                         |
| Carnations                                  |
| Violets, California                         |
| " single                                    |
| Vailey 3.00@ 4 00                           |
| Harristi                                    |
| Callas 8.00@12 50                           |
| Tulips 3.00 a 5.00                          |
| Narcissus, Romans 2 (0)@ 3.00               |
| Smilax                                      |
| BUFFALO, Feb. 17.                           |
| Roses, Beautles                             |
| " Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors, 6 046 10 00 |
| " Perles 4 00 @ 6 00                        |
| " Niphetos 1 00 å 6 00                      |
| " Kalserin, Mermets                         |
| Carnations extra                            |
| ordinary                                    |
| Valley                                      |
| Violets. 1 (00@ 2 (0)                       |
| Romana                                      |
| Romans 2.00@ 4.00                           |
| Harristi                                    |
|                                             |
| Adlantum                                    |
| Asparagus                                   |
|                                             |
|                                             |

H-L-SUNDERBRUCH (6) WHOLESALE COMMISSION FLORISTS 4th and WALNUT Sts CONSIGNMENTS CINCINNATI, O.
SOLICITED CINCINNATI, O.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO SHIPPING ORDERS,

DIRFCTORY

SIXTH EDITION

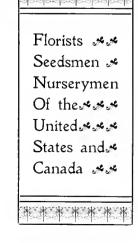

Completely revised and greatly enlarged. * * * PRICE $2.00

Send us your business card or letter head at once, if you wish to get

American Florist Company,

324 Dearborn Street.

CHIGAGO. ILL.

C. A. KUEHN. Wholesale Florist.

1122 PINE STREET. ST. LOUIS, MO.

A complete line of Wire Designs.

MOUND CITY CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists.

C. W. WORSE SEES SEES ST. LOUIS, MO.

at WHOLESALE....

Headquarters for the South West...

When writing mention American Florist

ST. LOUIS CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists

E. H. MICHEL

1620 Olive St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

W. A. MCFADDEN.

NEAVE BUILDING. CINCINNATI.

Producers and Shippers of every description of High Class Floral Supplies.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS. JARDINIERE FERNS.

Quotations issued weekly, forwarded on request.

HOLTON & HUNKEL CO.

SUCCESSORS TO

The Wisconsin Flower Exchange. Fresh Cut Flowers, Florists' Supplies Manufacturers of WIRE DESIGNS

Consignments Solicited.

Phone Main 874.

457 Milwaukee St., MILWAUKEE,

Hunt

THE "OLD RELIABLE" FOR

WHOLESALE

Hunt's Flowers Go Everywhere

76 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

Bassett & Washburn,

Successors to J. B. DEAMUD & CO., CROWERS and WHOLESALE DEALERS in

88 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

W. E. LYNCH,

Consignments Solicited.

All Florists' Supplies.

19 & 21 RANDOLPH STREET. Fine Stock a Specialty. CHICAGO.

WINTER & GLOVER. 21 RANDOLPH ST. GHIGAGO. High Grade Cut Flowers PACKED RIGHT so they will reach you in just as good condition as they reach us....... WIRE DESIGNS: A Full Line. Write us for our Illustrated Catalogue.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| CHICAGO, Feb. 18.                           |
|---------------------------------------------|
| Roses, Beautiesper doz, 2.00@6.00           |
| " Brides 1.1000 5 00                        |
| " Meteors Bridesmaid, Kalserin., 4,000 5.00 |
| " Perie Contlers                            |
| " La France. Testout 5.00@10.00             |
| Carnations, common 1.00@ 3 00               |
| fancy 2.000 6 00                            |
| 50@ 1 00                                    |
| Violets50@ 1.00                             |
| Narcissus, Romans 2 00ca 4 00               |
| Calles 10,00 g 12.00                        |
| Marriell 13.4 (R&15 14)                     |
| Valley 2.00ka 3 00                          |
| Tulips 1 (Mkd 5.00)                         |
| Tumps                                       |
| Von Sion                                    |
| Hyacinths                                   |
| Adlantum                                    |
| Smile #                                     |
| Asparagus                                   |
| ushujuma                                    |

Always mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers.

WHOLESALE CUT FLOWERS MIND FLORISTS SUPPLIES. WIRE WORK ASPELALTY, 88 WABASHAVE. CHICAGO.

E. C. AMLING. WHOLESALE COMMISSION → FLORIST.

51 WABASH AVENUE,

Consignments Solicited. CHICAGO. Prompt attention to shipping orders.

N. Y. CUT FLOWER EXCHANGE

404-412 E. 34th St. Near Ferry. Open for Cut Flower Sales at 6 o'clock Every Morning.....

DESIRABLE WALL SPACE TO RENT FOR ADVERTISING.

JOHN DONALDSON, Secretary.

Wholesale Florists

111 West 30th Street, NEW YORK.

Telephone, 260 38th St. Consignments Solicited.

GIVE US Α TRIAL. WE CAN PLEASE YOU.

ROSES, CARNATIONS, AND AL. KINOS OF SEASONABLE FLOWERS IN STOCK.

F. KASTING WHOLESALE COMMISSION FLORIST....

495 Washington St., Buffalo, N. Y. Also Dealer in Florists' Supplies and Wire Designs

Strings 8 to 10 feet long, 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

A. G. Prince & Co. CUT FLOWERS WHOLESALE

AND FLORISTS' SUPPLIES,

88 & 90 Webesh A Telephone Main 3208.

CHICAGO.

Prompt Attention to all Orders.

Now or Never

SPECIAL EFFORTS

American Florist Company, 324 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

ROGERS PARK FLORAL CO..

Wholesale Growers of

FLOWERS.

51 WABASH AVENUE,

-CHICAGO.

HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

DAGGER

not order any ferns onle s you are willing to this teries a my stock is very limited and I chard venough now to earry my old stand-by tomers to faster

L. B. BRAGUE, Hinsdale, Mass.

Please mention the American Florist

MacDONALD & McMANUS

Supply Orchids every day.

Only House in New York handling Extra Fancy Stock for Special Occasions.

Telephone 2778--38th Street.

50 West 30th Street, NEW YORK CITY.

FRED. EHRET, Wholesale Florist,

No. 1403 Fairmount Avenue,

Telephone, Long Distance. PHILADELPHIA.

CONSIGN TO

BUY FROM

M. A. HART, Commission Dealer Cut Flowers,

> 113 WEST 30TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE BEST MARKET IN NEW YORK.

TRAENDLY & SCHENCK, Wholesale Florists,

Control the stock of many celebrated growers and are prepared to quote prices on First Grade Cut Flowers. All varieties.

38 West 28th St., and Cut Flower Exchange,
Tel. 961 18th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

Wholesale Flower Markets

NEW YORK, Feb. 16

| " Br des, Bridesmald 3 00@ 10 00        |  |
|-----------------------------------------|--|
| " Testout, Carnot 4 00@12.00            |  |
| " Murgan, Meteor 3.00 a 10.00           |  |
| Carnations 1.00@ 2.00                   |  |
| " fancy 2 50@ 4.00                      |  |
| Valley 1.00 a 4.00                      |  |
| Mignonette                              |  |
| Violets                                 |  |
| Harristi 5,00@ 8 00                     |  |
| Tulips 1.50@ 3.01                       |  |
| Smt/ax10 00 a 12.00                     |  |
| Cattleyas                               |  |
| Daffootis, Jonquils 1.00@ 3 00          |  |
| BOSTON, Feb. 16.                        |  |
| Roses Reauties                          |  |
| " Perie, Niphetos 2 00@ 4 00            |  |
| " Bride, Bridesmald, Morgans 4 00@12 00 |  |
| " Carnot Meteor 6.00@12 00              |  |
| Carnations, ordinary                    |  |
| fancy                                   |  |
| Valley, Daffodiis                       |  |
| Violeta                                 |  |
| Hyacinths, Narcissus, Freesia           |  |
| Tuilps                                  |  |
| •                                       |  |
| PHILADELPHIA Feb. 16.                   |  |
| Roses, Beauties, per dezen 3.00@8.00    |  |
| Teas, firsts                            |  |
| " select                                |  |
| Carnations 1 50@ 3.00                   |  |
| Valley 3 00@ 4.00                       |  |
| Violets                                 |  |
| Narcissus 2.50(ā. 3.00                  |  |
| Hyacinths                               |  |
| Harristi                                |  |
| Daffodtis                               |  |
| Tulips 4.00                             |  |

John I. Raynor,

49 WEST 28th STREET,

-NEW YORK.

AM. BEAUTY, METEOR, BRIDESMAID, BRIDE.

Record Breaking Carnations

THOS. YOUNG, JR.

* * Wholesale Florist

43 West 28th Street, New York.

WALTER F. SHERIDAN,

FLORIST
39 West 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Roses shipped to all points. Price list on application.

Pose Growers

Will find a good market and good returns for their stock at....

JULIUS LANG'S
53 W. 30th Street, - NEW YORK.

Edward C. Horan, 34 W. 29th Street, NEW YORK,

WHOLESALE • FLORIST.

Careful Shipping to all parts of the country Price list on application.

CITY HALL CUT FLOWER MARKET, 9 Chapman Place, 15 Province Street, BOSTON, MASS.

WELCH BROS., PROPRIETORS.

Consignments from regular growers assigned separate space in our market. We guarantee payment for all Flowers sold. Sales reported weekly; payments moothly, or offener if required.

THE NEW ENGLAND HEADQUARTERS FOR THE BEST GRADE OF FLOWERS AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

J. K. ALLEN, Wholesale Florist,

57 West 28th Street, NEW YORK, near 6th Ave. Elevated R. R. NEW YORK, BEAUTIES AND VIOLETS, SPECIALTIES. Consignments Solicited

JAMES M. KING

Commission Dealer in

CUT FLOWERS

Cood Money for your Flowers. Cooe Flowers for your Money. 49 WEST 29TH ST, NEW YORK. TELEPHONE 1675 38th St.

THE NEW YORK CUT FLOWER CO.

119 and 121 West 23d Street, 112 and 114 West 24th Street,

Telephone 733—18th.

NEW YORK.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED.

Specia Attention Given to Shipping Orders.

GEORGE A. SUTHERLAND, Cut Flowers & Florists' Supplies

67 Bromfield St.,

BOSTON, MASS.

Wholesale Florists

ALIVAYS ON HAND:
CARNATIONS,
BRIDESMAIDS,

FLORIST'S

FLORISTS' VASES.

Horticultural Auctioneers.

HAWLEY STREET, - BOSTON.

GALVIN & CO.
Wholesale Florists

AND DEALERS IN ALL

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES.

4 Ordway Place, BOSTON, MASS.

Cut Flower Consignments Solicited. Best market.

JOHN YOUNG, ROSES, CARNATIONS, VALLEY

and all other choice cut flower stock.

51 W. 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Price list on application.

FRANK MILLANG, CUT FLOWERS,

WHOLESALE COMMISSION,

408 E. 34th Street,

Cut Flower Exchange. NEW YORK.

WM. C. SMITH, Wholesale Florist,

40 So. 16th St., PHILADELPHIA.

Consignments Solicited. Special attention given to shipping orders

Long Distance Telephone 5008 A.

Philadelphia.

LADIES' RECEPTION AT THE FLORISTS' CLUB .- BUSINESS ALL RIGHT .- BEAUTY ROSES SCARCE.—POT PLANTS SELLING

The ladies' reception at the Florists' Club rooms on next Tuesday evening, the 22nd promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The programme includes a short musical and literary menu followed by games on the shuffle boards and bowling alleys. Only ladies will be allowed to play, and there will be three prizes and a booby for the winners at both games. Refreshments will be served during the evening and everything done to give the fair visitors a pleasant time.

Business has been all right for some time past, and nearly all branches of the craft are satisfied, except possibly the growers of Beauty roses who say they can't cut anything like enough to fill their orders. Retailers complain that Philadelphia Beauties are getting too famous over the country, and that so many are being shipped, the home market is kept con-stantly bare, there being none except on orders. The market for other stocks of flowers is pretty well supplied at the same rates as have prevailed for the past few weeks. Princess of Wales violets are now coming in fine and sell very well. Daffo-dils are a little too plentiful, and are sold as low as $3 per hundred for very fair stock.

It is a little too early to speak of Easter stock, but there bids fair to be a fine lot of everything usually forced for this busy season. Mr. Harris has weeded out most of his diseased lilies and the balance are looking fine. A large lot of Japanese longiflorums are being grown quite elose together to get them to push up a little the tendency of this variety being to grow short and bushy.

Pot plants are selling better, there being now quite a large variety to choose from, the balmy spring-like weather of the past week is also conducive to their sale.'

D. D. L. Farson is now in it and his violet window is very attractive, there is violet crepe paper and violets, barrels of them, and the barrels are violet hued. Wiolet ribbons support violet colored bottles filled with violets, everything except the countenance of the redoubtable Dan, which is as bright as ever, partakes of a violet tinge.

FLORISTS' MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE ASS'N

Application Blanks and Prospectus Ready....

W. J. VESEY, Sec'y, - Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE WABASH R. R. COMPANY

The Short and Q = 5. Line between the Last and West connecting Buffalo Detroit ar 1.7 or fo with Chloride St. Look Kansker Christian Combination of Christian Christia

H B McCLELLAN, G. E. A.,

387 Broadway, New York City.

J O McBEAIH, N E P A., 5 State Street, Boston, Mass.

C. S. CRANE, Gin. Pass & Tit Agt, St Louis, Mo. | NEW YORK, 14 Briclay St.

Business is moving along steadily in this city and the prospects are good for Easter trade, provided, of course, that the florists have a "good weather week' during that holiday.

The following gentlemen have signified their intention of paying a visit to the metropolis of the West during the carnation convention this week: Fred. Breit-meyer, Frank Holtznagle, George Rack-ham, and perhaps Gust H. Taepke, The undersigned hopes to be one of the delegation from here. Parks.

RAFFIA BEST QUALITY.
LUNG MAD 4 GASCAR
Having purchased on a very lavorable market, and wishing to move the stock quickly, make the following special low quotations for prompt orders: Grafting Wax Trowbridge's celebrated Gratting Wax, the genuine article, 1 lb. bars at 19e; ½ lb. bars at 20e; ¼ lb. bars at 21e per pound. Rebates: 10 lb. lots, 5 per cent; 25 lb. lots, 10 per cent; 50 lb. lots, 15 per cent; 100 lb. lots, 20 per cent.

G. C. WATSON, Juniper, below Walnut, - PHILADELPHIA. A SET OF & &

Long's Florists' Photographs

Will please you in your business and bring you profits. & Sets, $1.75 up.

CATALOGUE FREE.

DAN'L B. LONG. - Publisher. BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE Regan Printing House NURSERY CATALOGUES FLORISTS

> 87-91 Plymouth Place, ***CHICAGO***

GEO. E. COLE & CO. Blank Book Makers. Stationers and Printers

> 86 and 88 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

PLEASE mention the AMERICAN FLORIST every time you write to an advertiser.

Flora Hill

CARNATION

> nothing in sight to at all equal it. It speaks for itself where-ever grown. It is fragrant. It is the largest bloom. It puts all others in the shade. Nothing past or present to equal it. We have four thousand plants exclusively for propagating from; don't allow them to bloom. Send at once and get the best stock ever offered. $5.00 per 100; $40.00 per 1000.

Our trade list is issued. If you have not received one send for it.

E. G. HILL & CO., Richmond, Ind.

For Spring of '98 Now Ready

EVELINA, per 1000 $80. MRS. S. A. NORTHWAY.

WHITE CLOUD. ARGYLE.

GOLD NUGGET. BON TON.

Price for strong, well-rooted cuttings, per doz., $2.00; per 100, $10.00; per 1000, $75.00.

VARILTIES OF 1897

FLORA HILL JUBILEE, MAYOR PINGREE, MRS C. H. DUBME MORELLO

Strong, rooted cut-tings from flats, per doz., 75c; per 100, $5, per 1000, $40....

STANDARD VARIETIES

ALASKA...
DAYBREAK
LIZZIE McGOWAN..
MINNIE COOK...
WILLIAM SCOTT
EMMA WOCHER...

Transplanted plants from flats, per doz., 30c; per 100, $2; per 1000, $15.

CALADIUMS, Lanes Leaved, choice bulbs in manied sorts, per doz., 75c; per 100, $12.00

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists.

President W. F. Gude has appointed the following gentlemen to serve on the Executive Committee of the Society of American Florists: For two years, Mr. Edmund M. Wood, Natick, Mass. For three years, Messrs. John H. Taylor, Bayside, N. Y.; W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., and E. H. Cushman, Euclid. Ohio.

WM. J. STEWART, Sec'y.

St. Louis.

The market opened up for the week with a good demand, but very little stock. It is impossible for commission men to fill all orders. Good roses are in great demand and selling at higher prices. Carnations are scarce and bring good money. Violets not so plentiful as last week and bring about double the money lately quoted.

A. J. B.

FAXON'S "WHITE" PANSIES.

The best mixture in cultivation, flowers very large, thick and velvety; of superb colors and markings. The perfection of form and texture.

In Trade Packets at $1.00 each.
M. B. FAXON,

Lock Box 1528,

BOSTON, MASS

Correspondence solicited.

..PANSIES..

200,000 in cold frames of the Jennings finest strains; all extra No. 1 plants: large size, ready to bloom, $5.00 per 1000: extra medium size for cold frames, $4.00 per 1000. Extra 75c per 100 by mail.

... SEED...

of the finest strain. $1.00 per pkt. of 3000 seed; $6.00 per ounce;

Cash with order.

E. B. JENNINGS, Southport, Conn.

Grower of the finest Pansies.

John Conley & Son,

Manufacturers of

TIN FOIL

2 AND 4 DOMINICK STREET,

_New York.

Boston Florist Letter Co.

This wooden box nicely stained and varnished, 18x30x12 made in two sections, one for each size letter, given away with first order of 500 letters.

Block Letters, 1 % or 2-inch size, per 100, $2.00. Script Letters $4 Faste -er with each letter or word Used by leading florists everywhere and for sale by all wholesale florists and supply dealers.

N. F. McCARTHY, Treas. and Manager, 84 Hawley St., BOSTON, MASS.

For Insurance against damage by hail, Address

JOHN G. ESLER, Sec'y, F. H. 4., Saddle River. N. J.

E. C. AMLING...

WHOLESALE

Commission Florist

PROMPT ATTENTION TO SHIPPING *ORDERS*

51 Wabash Ave.

.....CHICAGO

Consignments
Solicited

Send for my weekly quotations. Issued every Friday.

Free on application,

····

Folding Boxes and Wax Paper

The Aull Bros. Paper & Box Go.

****DAYTON, OHIO. ***

It is good business policy to mention! the American Florist when you write to an advertiser.

The Free Seed Distribution.

A Southern Congressman received a letter some time ago which, being like hundreds of other communications, did not attract attention. It read as follows: BLANKVILLE, Jan. 4, 1898.

DEAR SIR:-Will you please send me a pareel of cow peas from the government distribution? Very truly yours,

JAMES LANCASTER.

The package was duly sent. A week later there came another letter. It made the following request:

BLANKVILLE, Jan. 10, 1898. DEAR SIR:-Please send me some cow peas. I only want one package.

MARY LANCASTER.

The Congressman promptly complied with the request, and thought no more about it until five days later, when there came still another letter. It was postmarked at the same country town, and was evidently from a member of the same family as his two previous correspondents. The Congressman rather smiled as Blaskville, Jan. 15, 1898. DEAR SIR:-I should very much like to have one of the bags of cow peas which you are sending free. I am your friend, and hope you will be re-elected. Yours Samuel P. Lancaster. truly,

The letters did not stop coming. Three more arrived, one from the mother of the Lancaster family, one from a daughter, and another one from a son. The Congressman thought that his constituents intended to plant a ten-acre lot with cow peas. Nothing of the kind, Yesterday he received a letter which told of the use to which the government seeds had been put. It said:

BLANKVILLE, Jan. 29, 1898. Dear Mr. Congressman:—We got all the packages of cow peas and thank you very much. We put all the peas together and boiled them for dinner. It was the best meal we have had for a long time.

With many thanks. Yours truly,

JAMES P. LANCASTER.

-Charleston News and Courier.

GERANIUMS that will please you and prices that will suit you

S. A. Nutt. LaFavorite, Heteranthe. §2.50 per 100. §20.00 per 1000; Beaute Porteyine, Mary. Hill. §3.00 per 100, Mine, Bruant, Frances Perklins. §3.00 per 100. 10 varieties Coleus. J. varieties. Carnations. 2 varieties oleus: A varieties Carnaticals 2 var Ageratum, Prices upon appliention,

H. R. CARLTON, Willoughby, O.

Palmer's Hot Bed Mats

and seeds of all kinds

Indestructible, Cheap and Warm

WILL not harbor mice or vermio. Easily handled. Dry out quickly after rain. Have now been in practical use three years. Cost less than old-fashioned straw mats and entirely take their place.

MADE IN FOLLOWING GRADES:

No 1 Burlap Cloth, filled with combination wool and quilted, seams 3 inches a part and edges firmly bound.

Size 40x76 inches, 50 cents each.

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 12 cents per running foot.

No. 2-Duck Ctoth outside, tilled and quilted 2 ×

So. 2- back color obsisted, there and quired same as No. 1.

Size 40x76 inches, $0.75 each,

76x76 1.00 9

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 16 cents per running foot.

No. 3—Waterproof, made of oil duck, filled and quilted same as Nos. 1 and 2.
Size 40x76 inches, $1.00 each.
7 76x76 ** $1.25 to $1.50 each.
Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 20 cents per running foot. 30 That these mats are a much needed improvement over anything heretofore used for the same purpose, is demonstrated by the large demand and many testimonials from prominent men in the trade. Everyone using Hot Bed Mats should give them a trial.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

QUILTED HORSE BLANKETS the Cheapest, Warmest and Strongest in the World.... The R. T. Palmer Co.

Or New London, Conn.

113 Worth Street, NEW YORK Address all correspondence to The R. T. Palmer Co., New London, Conn. Agents wanted pay good commission.

BAYERSDORFER

Seasonable Specialties: CYCAS WREATHS. MOSS WREATHS.

FERNERIES AND JARDINIERES:

Norman Style in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Tuscan, in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Milan, in Sprays.

OUR LEADING NOVELTY: LACE VIOLET HANDKERCHIEFS.

Wheat Sheaves and Immortelles.

The largest and best stock in America.

New Catalogue of all FLORISTS' SUPPLIES o application. IF For the trade only.

H. BAYERSDORFER & GO.. 50, 52, 54 and 56 N. 4th St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Carnation...

ARGYL

Wins Certificate at Chicago Convention.

STOLLERY BROS. Argyle Park,

THE SEED TRADE.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION,

JEROME B. RICE, Pres.; E. B. CLARK, 1st Vice-Pres.; S. F. WILLARD, Wethersfield, Conn., Sec'y and Treas.

Of Importance to Importers.

An order has been issued from the State Department at Washington to all U.S. consuls that hereafter all shippers of bulbs and plants to the United States must, previous to making shipments, deposit two copies of their catalogues or written price lists at the local consulate; that the contents of each case must be specified plainly upon the invoice and the latter must also state the variety, name, size, color, etc., of bulbs, azaleas, rhododendrons or other plants, and all other details bearing upon their value, before same can be approved.

These particulars must appear opposite the items to which they relate, as:

5000 Roman hyacinths 11 to 13 atper 1000.

5000 Dutch hyacinths, mixed, pink, 1st or 2nd quality at — per 1000. 1000 Dutch hyacinths, Norma, atper 1000.

100 Rhododendrons, 7 buds at -

250 Azaleas, Vervæneana, 15 in. at -And the prices given on invoice must agree with prices quoted on same article in catalogue of shipper. If any difference is shown between catalogue quotations and invoice, full reasons for said difference must be given on invoice, same to be passed upon by the appraisers at port of Importers will understand the necessity that they insist that shippers are careful to observe the above rules and show in invoices every detail hearing upon the value of the goods, otherwise the goods will not be admitted and loss will result. We are informed that it is the intention to enforce the rules literally and rigidly.

American Potatoes in England.

Writing on this subject in the London Garden, Messrs. James Carter & Co. state that a correspondent of that journal "is not quite correct when he states that Beauty of Hehron is the longest lived in this country of the American introduc-tions, for it was many years previous that Early Rose came over, and is still grown in large quantities. We were among the first to bring it into general notice, and have still the original stock on our seed farms. As proving that there is still a market for it, we may state that we have already disposed of a large quantity of seed this season. Most of the American varieties serve us best here in a dry summer, and give the most satisfactory results on light and well drained soils.

Toronto.

Business continues very good, but stock is short. One large grower says he can't nearly fill the orders coming in. The very cloudy weather we have had ever since the beginning of November is no doubt principally to blame. It is many years since we have had such dearth of smiles from Old Sol as during the last three months.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Association held their annual meeting on Thursday evening, February 10, and had the usual good time. TORONTO.

JOSEPH BRECK & SONS, CORP'N.

Peas, Beans and Sweet Gorn

GARDEN SEEDS

Wholesale Catalogue Now Ready

__OF ALL KINDS

18 N. Clark St., CHICAGO.

TRADE

Seed Stores and Flower Stores

Can profitably handle our Packages of Plant Food Attractive, take little 🧀 🎿 shelf room. Valuable & Dooklet free. Good profits.

The WALKER FERTILIZER CO. Clifton Springs, N. Y.

THE ALBERT DICKINSON CO. KASS SFI

Parks, Tennis Courts, Lawns, &c.

in fancy 1 and 2 pound packages and bulk.
SPECIAL PRICES TO THE TRADE. CHICAGO, ILL.

Why Not Try

Pure Eastern-grown Corn and Seeds. Con-tract with the EVERETTB, CLARK CO, for 1898 Crop. Sole Manufacturers and Proprietors of the Genuine Trowbridge Grafting Wax, now ready in 1-lb. bars at 11c; ½-lb. bars, 12c; ½-lb. bars, 13c.

(STRICTLY WHOLESALE DEALERS)

THE EVERETT B. CLARK CO. MILFORD, CONN.

BEST OF ALL'' TOMATO
"ENGLISH" MELONS
(FOR PORCING)

FLOWER SEEDS FOR FLORISTS
Catalogues on application.

WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchanis and Growers, 114 Chambers St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

DS LAWN GRASS $12.00 per 100 lbs.

Quality Ever Offered (Retails (a 30c, lb, J. CHAS. McCULLOUGH, SEEDSMAN, RECLEANER AND JOBBER GRASS SEEDS North-East Second & Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, O. Send for Illustrated Cutalogues.

FOR THE TRADE ONLY.

MARK

WE import all kinds of Japanese Bulbs, Plants and Seed, and have our own Nurseries and Farms in Japan. We expect large shipments of Lilium auratum, L. spec. album, rubrum, Melpomene Cycas stems and Maples. Prices on application.

SUZUKI & IIDA.

No. 15 Broadway. NEW YORK.

No. 3 Nakamura. YOKOHAMA, JAPAN

BURPEE'S SEEDS PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Price List for Florists and Market Gardeners.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON CO.

Importers and Exporters of

Seeds, Bulbs & Plants,

501 TO 503 W. 13TH ST., NEW YORK CITY. Send for quotations on all Florists' Bulb Stock.

E. F. C. YOUNG, Pres.
JOS D. BEDLE, Secty.
S. M. PEASE, Gen'l Mgr.

V. P. SNYDER, Vice-Pres.
R. S. FOWLER, Trens.

The Cleveland Seed Co.

Contract Growers of

and General

JOBBERS IN SEEDS.

Cape Vincent, N. Y.

ALWAYS mention the AMERICAN FLO-RIST when writing to advertisers.

Dracaenas.

NOTES ON PROPAGATING AND CULTURE.

Answering inquiry of "Toronto," I will state that in order to color dracænas properly three points must be carefully observed. First, the plants must be properly potted, secondly they must be grown on briskly in a stove-house temperature with plenty of moisture in the air, and they must have lots of light to produce the best results. Few plants are prettier for the center of a table or for room decoration than a well grown or nicely colored dracæna, and where one can command an abundance of heat, light and moisture no plant is easier to grow satisfactorily, but the conditions named are indispensable.

Dracanas are easily propagated and by several methods. The tops may be cut off and placed in a bottle of rain water, adding a piece of charcoal; the tops may be rooted on the plant by cutting away a small portion of the bark about one-eighth inch wide and three parts around the stem, then make an upward cut about one inch cutting half way through the stem, draw a little moss into the cut to keep it open, then place a ball of moss around theent, bindit tightly with raffia, keep well moistened and it will soon root through, when it should be cut off below the ball, and without disturbing the roots; pot into 3-inch pots, using at this stage a soil composed of three-fourths fibrous loam, one-fourth sphagnum moss. rubbed through a half-inch-mesh sieve, adding a little coarse sand. The old stems or imported canes may be split the full length and laid flat side down under the benches in the stove house, covering them with two inches of sand and they will soon break away at the joints and make roots, when they may be divided and potted into 2-inch pots.

The roots of dracenas in most eases form fleshy tips, and often near the sides of the pot; these may be taken away carefully, so as not to disturb the mother plant, and put in sand in the propagating bed, covering with sand about two inches in depth. They will soon make plants. Indeed, dracanas propagate naturally by these tips and by seed, but the latter is too slow except on a very large scale. On the plants developing into specimens I use for 7-inch and larger pots, loam, lumpy peat, adding a little charcoal, and where the character of the loam demands it, enough coarse sand to keep it open and healthy.

Brisk heat, plenty of light and moisture (except on dull days of course), will give you fine plants with leaves to the pot and no complaint about the coloring.

WILLIAM RAYNOR.

The most sh wy semi-climber of recent remote in wy semi-ember of recent latroduction. Strong 31: ch plants pow ready. Also Little Cem Callas. 2\(\frac{1}{2}\) Inches Logan Berries. Strawberry Raspberries. Mayberries. Write for list and prices.

The Conard & Jones Co. WEST GROVE.

NEW . GIANT . ESCHSCHOLTZIAS. "THE GOLDEN WEST."

New Giant Fancy Cosmos, six splendid varieties, separate, $1 oz.; Giant Cosmos, splendid varieties, separate, $1 oz.; Giant Cosmos, splendid mixed, 65c oz.; Calliopsis "California Sanbeams," $1 oz. Special rates given on Cosmos in quantity; Apple Geranium, fresh, $1 per 1000 seeds; New Large Flowering Zonale Geranium, $2.50 oz.; Ipomaea, "Heavenly Blue," $1 oz., $12 lb.; Laurustinus grandillora, $1 oz.; Zinnias, "New Curled and Crested," 50c oz.; $5 lb.; Nasturtium Good Venture Mixture, 60c lb.; $8 per 15 lbs.; Seaforthia elegans (Palm) 40c per 100 seeds, $3 per 1000 seeds. Send for trade list of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs and Cacti.

MRS. THEODOSIA B. SHEPHERD. Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal.

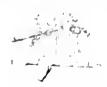

Please mention the American Florist

Vick's Branching Aster Sweet Peas New Daybreak Aster Dahlias Begonias Gloxinias Flower and Vegetable Seeds

VICK'S GARDEN and FLORAL GUIDE for 1898 the paoneer Seed Catalogue of America, is a perfect beauty, the best one we have issued in the forty nine years of our business. We can honestly say that It leads them all. Those interested in the trade would do well to send for a copy of both wholesale and retail at once.

JAMES VICKS SONS, ROCHESTER, N.Y.

.ISTEN!

Bargains in Valleys

from a newly arrived consignment we offer ....

Fine Hamburg Lily of the Valley Forcing Pips

A Scheeted run 410 per 1900 (23 the box of 2,500 B. Ordinary run § 8 per 1900) 418 the box of 2,500 Set 20 days to approved accounts, less ten per cent for each with order.

AUGUST ROLKER & SONS, 52 Dey St., New York

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

$4.00 per 100. .* These are large, extra fine 🧀 Bulbs, English strain.

ILIUM SPECIOSUM RUBRUM, $3.50 per 100 LILIUM SPECIOSUM ALBUM, $4.50 per 100

Common B. B. and Free Boses L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Branch of The Horticultural Co., Boskoop, Holland.

CANNAS NEW AMERICAN Finest in the World Our Novellies for 1898-

| DUKE OF MARLBORO, darkest crimsonDUCHESS OF MARLBORO, only pure pink | 30,00    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|
| DUCHESS OF MARLBORG, only pure pink                                      | 30,00    |
| DUCHESS OF MARLBORG, only pure pink                                      | 30.00    |
|                                                                          |          |
| TOPAZ, only absolutely large pure yellow.                                | 50.00    |
| LORRAINE, pink, edged white, fine                                        | 30.00    |
| MAIDENS BLUSH, delicate flesh color                                      | 15.00    |
| GOLDEN PEARL, yellow, nearly double                                      | 30.00    |
| CUBA. finest and largest gilt edged                                      | 40.00    |
| GLORIOSA, very dwarf, March delivery                                     | 12.50    |
| PHILADELPHIA, glowing erimson                                            | 15.00    |
| CHAMPION, largest, glowing searlet $5                                   | .00 each |
| KLONDIKE, only large pure orange $2                                     | 50       |
| Send for complete list of 50 populties:                                  |          |

standard varieties at lowest prices.

OUR CANNAS IN FRANCE.

ASPARAGUS SPRENGERI

Fine plants in 6-inch pots, ready for 8-inch $5 per 12.

AMARYLLIS..... Veltch's Hybrids, $4 per 12: Equestra, $4-per 100; Formoslashna, $3 per 100.

CALLAS

Spotted Leaf. $3; Black, $5; Yellow, $30; all per 100. Golden, $2 each.

DAHLIAS

11 prizes out of 22 at the last Dahila exhibition first prize Dahila, Gill.T. EDGE. $15 per 100 Send for special list.

A. BLANC & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

SPRING BULBS

| LILIUM AURATUM. Per 100                                | Per 1000  |
|--------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 7-9 inch$3.79-11 inch5.0                          | 5 $35.00 |
| LILIUM RUBRUM (Speciosum) 7-9 inch. 4.7 9-11 inch. 6.7 | 5 40,00   |
| LILIUM ALBUM (Speciosum) 7-9 inch                      | 0 55.00   |
| 9-11 inch                                              | 0 65.00   |

BEGONIAS TUBEROUS

|         |          | KOOLED |      |       |
|---------|----------|--------|------|-------|
| Single. | separate | colors | 3.50 | 30.00 |
| Double, |          |      |      | 00,00 |

TUBEROSES....

True Excelsior Pearl.
"Hallock strain" First size..... 1.00 7.50

GLOXINIAS ......Per doz., 85c; per 100, $5,00 CALADIUMS ....

Funcy leaved choice bulbs, per doz., $1.75; per 100, $12.00.

CALADIUM ESCULENTUM

| Cured a    | nd sor   | and ba   | lbs with | nve e | enter |
|------------|----------|----------|----------|-------|-------|
| shoots.    |          |          |          | Doz.  | 100-  |
| 5 to 7 inc | hes in   | eireum   | ference§ | 40    | 82.50 |
| 7 to 9     |          |          |        | .65   | 4.50  |
| 9 to 12 3  |          |          | 1.4      | 1 00  | 6.50  |
| 50e per 1  | 00  less | on 7/9   | inch and | 9-12  | inch  |
| Sizes if s | drippe   | l from l | New York |       |       |

GLADIOLUS XXX Florists Mixture Per 1000 ... $1.75

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

NEW YORK 14 Barciay St.

CHICACO 84-86 Randolph St.

FLORISTS' FLOWER SEEDS.

| I LUMBIO I LUMEN                       | OLLDO.         |
|----------------------------------------|----------------|
|                                        | Trade Pkt. oz. |
| Aster Betteridge Prize mixed           |                |
| " Dwart Peony Perfection               |                |
| " New Dwart Bournet Bullze             |                |
| " Victoria, extra tine mixed           |                |
| Balsam, Double Camellla flowered, v    |                |
| Belils perennis, double dalsy          |                |
| Deme percuise, donate dates            |                |
| Carantion, choice double               | ,50            |
| Centaurea candidissima                 | 25             |
| " gymnocarpic                          | 15             |
| Cosmos                                 | ,15            |
| Lobella                                | , 20           |
| Resedu odorata granditiora             |                |
| Noncortium, ticlfor dwarf              |                |
| Panny, H & R Glants                    |                |
| " H & B extra Jurge                    |                |
| Stocks, German Ten Weeks               |                |
| Verbenn, Mammoth, very fine            |                |
| A discount of 10 percent, on all ord-  |                |
| Our seeds are strictly first class and |                |
| this action are serviced than the      |                | order. We carry a full stock of all different kinds of flowerseeds. Sent by until postpaid. HECKENKAMP & BLAESING, Soodsmen, 6th Ave. and Adoms St., - QUINCY, ILL.

Milwaukee, Wis.

The past two weeks have been what may fairly be termed a little slow. All florists have purchased and displayed in their windows the usual number of flowers: they have all made a nice display daily, but there were not many orders filled except from this display stock. Good sized standing orders have been reduced, although the amount purchased is almost equal; this is due to the fact that the supply at wholesale market has improved some in quantity and quality, so that florists feel safe in taking their chances from day to day in picking just what they want, thereby taking less chance of waste, the consequence being that the best sells first, and the inevitable waste falls heaviest on the grower. About the poorest paying stock when grown in quantity is callas. One change is notice-able, and in line with improved taste is the "cold shoulder" being turned to Von Sion narcissus. There has been quite a stock on this market, much of which is not first-class. The single narcissus, such as Princeps and the smaller varieties with as Frinceps and the smaller varieties with more grass-like foliage, called jonquils, are much more popular. Pansy blooms and mignonette plants, notably those grown by Mr. Zepnick, nieet with favor. Azalea plants are coming slow and steady and sell promptly. The violet supply is very good and sells quite well. The same is said of roses, except Beauties—the quality is not such as induces florists to put them to the front.

The retail buyers are beginning to learn that the price of carnations varies according to quality, the same as with roses; most florists have their order file quite full for this week. From February 14 to tull for this week. From February 14 to 22 promises to be one of the busiest weeks on record. If the present weather continues, both grower and retailer will do well. The use of Alabama smilax is quite popular, one florist alone has orders requiring fourteen cases.

A centerpiece arrangement designed by by a local florist, has become quite popular of late. It is made by the use of a few potted plants and cut stuff arranged in the form of an irregular mound. This is varied in size and shape to suit the situation. The flowers used are most frequently "spring flowers," pansies and violets, and their foliage are arranged in the lower niches. Narcissus, freesias, etc., in clusters higher up, a few grasses with gladiolus or a stalk of something prominent on top. Such an arrangement looks entirely different from different points of view, and society ladies are quite enthused. One of these had a strangely-shaped Daphne odorata which projected out mostly to one side, this not having much foliage. Asparagus tenuissimus was growing up the branches and hung over very daintily. Under this was a flat of moss and lycopodium in which a few valley were in natural position. The other side was rounded out, on which were tulips and narcissus.

Mr. A. Klokner's large stock of orchids is improving under his care, and peeps in his houses suggests the idea of his making a specialty of them in the near future.

WINDOW AND PLATE ASSJOHN LUCAS & CO. PHILA. A. E. VAUGHAN

C. W. McKELLAR

ED. F. WINTERSON

Vaughan,

McKellar & Winterson,

Wholesale

Commission Jobbers...

In CUT FLOWERS,

Plants, Seeds, Bulbs

And All Florists' Supplies

Manufacturers of WIRE GOODS High-Grade Stock Our Specialty &

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson, 45-47-49 WABASH AVENUE, CHICAGO

WOODEN LABELS for FLORISTS and NURSERYMEN

Being located at the head center of this country for White Pine Lumber we are able to buy our stock right and turnish our customers with goods of the best quality and at prices which will put them at your station lower than the lowest. Our factory is thoroughly equipped and turning out promptly the most uniform, smooth and best painted goods made in this country, put up in neat packages, guaranteed full count and nicely crated.

SEND FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES.

WOODEN GOODS COMPANY, 83 Western Ave., MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

To Fill One House With General Stock

Send your surplus cash prices only. Address offers and catalogues 10 .....

Parlor City Floral Co., CEDAR RAPIDS. IA. PURE DRIED BLOOD. Cin'ti Desiccating Co.

Louisville, Ky.

Business has been very brisk in the past few days. Monday especially, every florist in the city was kept busy answering telephone calls and getting out orders.

Roses and carnations have been scarce all winter, but the growers have not been fortunate enough to receive any more for their stock than in previous years. I have always thought it has been on account of this city not having a commission house. Every grower in the city must come or send to town and peddle his stock at whatever price he can get, therefore losing much valuable time and getting very little money for his stock. I think if some enterprising man who is posted in the commission business would open a house here the growers would be willing, nay anxious, to send him consignments.

The Kentucky Society of Florists have concluded to hold their annual spring show on March 30 and 31 and April 1 This one promises to eclipse them and 2. This one promises to eclipse them all. These spring shows have always been a financial success, and have been the means of adding many a dollar to our treasury, and we hope to see many consignments of flowers, especially new varieties of both plants and cut flowers, from florists outside of the city.

Nanz & Neuner are cutting some of the finest mignonette ever seen here, and it has been said they are cutting it by the bushel.

C. H. Kunzman is still cutting some very fine sweet peas, which have been in crop with him ever since Christmas. C. H. K.

Old Rose Soil.

"Canadian Subscriber" asks what to add to old rose soil to fit it for use in transplanting tomato and celery plants. Do not use old soil at all if you can avoid It is the worst kind of economy to make use of an old worn out soil. Fungous diseases are apt to be increased in this way also. If a crop is worth growing at all, the best fresh new composted soil is none too good. Rose soil posted soil is none too good. Rose soil if proper for roses is too heavy for tomato and celery plants. If "Subscriber" is compelled to use it, lighten it up with leaf mold, and sand, add a liberal amount of well rotted stable manure, and sweeten it with wood ashes (unleached). If the latter can not be obtained use slaked Χ.

ORCHIDS

Our Specialty. Correspondence Solicited. LAGER & HURRELL, - Summit, N. J.

Say "saw your ad in the Horist" when you write advertisers.

HARDY

Herbaceous Perennials THE MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN AMERICA.

PÆONIES, PHLOX, IRIS, DELPHINIUMS, ETC., ETC.

JACOB W. MANNING,
The Reading Nursery, READING, MASS.

ESTABLISHED 1854.

When writing mention the American Florist.

BOSTON FERN

Nephrolepis Exaltata Bostoniensis. Strong plants, 6-inch pots, $1.00 each; $12.00 per doz.; also three varieties of PTERIS, bushy plants, 5-inch pots, 20c each; $2.40 per doz.

JOHN WELSH YOUNG. ....CERMANTOWN, PA.

ROSE HILL NURSERIES. SPECIAL OFFER

Cocos Weddeliana $6.75 per 1000.

SIEBRECHT & SON, New Rochelle, N. Y. New York Office. 409 Fifth Avenue.

BEGONIAS

J. L. SCHILLER, 404E. 34th St., New York. Sole Agent for Louis van Driessche, Ghent.

FEBRUARY OFFER. $_{\mathrm{Per}\ 100}$

Alternanthera, Yellow, $1.50; Rad....$2.00 Oxalis Floribunda ..... 2.50 Ceraniums, 16 Var., 2-in. pots ...... 2.50 Pansy Plants ...... 1.00

JOS. H. CUNNINCHAM, Delaware, O.

DWARF PAPAYAS

M DST magnificent bedding and decorative plant known. Equal to a palm in beauty and manner of growth; grows with the ease of the Ricinus and endures drought with impunity. Plants from 4-in, pots set out June 1st attained a height of 10 feet and though not watered once, remained fresh and vigorous throughout the extreme drought. Also produces a delicious fruit; as easily grown as a tomato. Our plants are propagated from a tree which has produced this winter 192 lbs. of fruit, the largest weighing 12 lbs Send for half-tone illustration from photo showing bed of these plants. Livery florist needs it. Price $2.25 per 12 for 3-in, pots, ready May 1st. We are headquarters for tropical plants. Send for list.

Martin Benson,

DONGOLA,

ILLINOIS.

Palms.

Pandanus Veitchii.

Ferns and Araugarias.

IN ANY QUANTITY.

JOHN SCOTT.

Keap Street Greenhouses,

ROBERT CRAIG

and Novelties in Decorative Plants.

Market and 45.... Market and 49th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

IN BEST VALUE

ROSES, from 3-inch pots.

CARNATIONS, for fall delivery.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

SMILAX.

VIOLETS.

WOOD BROTHERS, FISHKILL, N.Y.

Cocos

Healthy Growing Plants Samples for Stamps

Weddeliana...

246-inch pots, $6.00 per 100.

VIGTOR GARNATION

From sand. $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. The best pink on the market!

B. REDFIELD. JUNE PA.

AND

150 Tremont Building. BOSTON, MASS.

BRILLIANT GREEN AND BRONZE

GALAX LEAVES.

For Decorating and all Florists' Designs. CHAS. H. RICKSECKER, Linville, Mitchell Co., N. C.

EVERGREENS

FLORISIS AS WELL AS NURSERYMEN HANDLE MY NURSERY-GROWN EVERGREENS AT A BIG PROFIT

Leaders for this season. 300,000 transplanted Hemlocks. Over 1,000,000 of the beautiful Rocky Mountain Evergreens. 200,000 Red Cedar from northern seed and millions of the old standard sorts, such as Spruces, Pines, Balsams and Arbor Vit.es. My trade list costs you nothing but a postal card.

D. HILL, Evergreen Specialist, - Dundee, III.

Pittsburg.

The florists' business continues fairly good, with nothing of any novelty or extra event to report in the line of decorative efforts. Owing to a very sad disaster, in the shape of a large fire entailing a loss of twenty lives and nearly $2,000,000 loss, the florists generally were kept busy for a couple of days furnishing floral funeral designs, many of those killed being prominent in police and secret order societies. Strange to say none of the firemen were killed, although several were severely injured.

The Pittsburg and Allegheny Florists' and Gardeners Club held a meeting on the night of the 10th inst. It is very probable that the club will change both their meeting nights as well as the place of meeting. As soon as this is settled the new committee on entertaining projects will get down to work.

Mr. M. Rice, of Philadelphia, was a visitor this week.

REGIA.

Rochester, N. Y.

The market is now fairly well supplied with flowers of all sorts, excepting A1 roses. The demand for the past week has been really good, and everything available was used up to good advantage.

Some very elaborate dinner decorations were called for on several occasions since last report, and several more of equal importance are booked for the end of this and the beginning of next week. Orders for funeral work were unusually heavy, and on Valentine's day fancy boxes filled with select flowers were in good demand, more so than on former occasions.

Our florists are very much pleased with the steadily increasing custom of sending floral valentines, and nearly all had made ample preparations to meet the demand, which is mostly for best quality of finest flowers tastily arranged in a fancy box. People do not send bulky flowers, nor great quantities, but are willing to pay a reasonable price for good varieties. Blooming plants also were disposed of quite freely on that day, azaleas, genistas, cinerarias, cyclamens and a large assortment of bulbous stuff in pans found ready purchasers, causing a very acceptable increase in the volume of business. J. B. K.

Everybody Wants Them!

THE BEST FOUR IN THEIR RESPECTIVE CLASSES TO DATE:

FLORA HILL. The Best White. MAYOR PINGREE, The Best Yellow. VICTOR. The Best Pink. LILY DEAN, The Best Fancy.

Sure Money=Makers Everyone!

Rooted Cuttings Now Ready.

Also Maud Deau, Jubilee, Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt, Triumph, Mrs. McBurney and other standard varieties. . . . . .

Also all the new varieties being introduced this Spring. Write and tell us your wants and we will give you estimates as low as anyone for first quality stock.

We are in receipt of many letters from customers regarding the quality and selection of our stock of which the two following are a fair sample:

52d and Market Streets,
Philadelphia, Jan. 25th, 1898.
WM. P. Craig, Dear Sir—I am highly pleased with the 2,500 Flora Hill rooted cuttings you sent me yesterday. They were as well rooted as any carnation cuttings I ever handled, and perfectly healthy. Such stock will do you credit no matter where you send it. Yours truly,
JACOB BECKER.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 24th, 1898, WM P. Craig. Dear Sir—The 1000 Flora Hill cuttings came down in good shape and are very satisfactory. Please book our order for 1000 Mrs. Bradt and 500 Mayor Pingree and ship when ready. We thank you for the personal attention given our order. We must say the stock shows careful selection. Respectfully yours. HALLIDAY BROS.

CATALOGUE READY SOON.

Wm. P. Craig, Market and 61st Sts. Phila., Pa.

GARNATIONS

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 11, 1898.

(COPY)

THE AMERICAN JADOO CO.,

815 Fairmount Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

I have experimented with JADOO FIBRE in a small way for propagating CARNATIONS and FIND THAT THEY ROOT WITH ORDINARY CARE ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

NEXT SEASON I SHALL USE IT ALMOST EXCLUSIVELY FOR PROPAGATING MY CARNATIONS.

> Respectfully Yours, (Signed) ALBERT M. HERR.

JADOO FIBRE AND JADOO LIQUID

Offer" of Carnations

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

All of the following are grown from clean vigorous stock and in Al condition. For full description see our Wholesale Price List.

| Novelties and Varieties of Recent Introduction |         |         |                         |         |         |  |  |
|------------------------------------------------|---------|---------|-------------------------|---------|---------|--|--|
| doz.                                           | 100     | 1000    | doz,                    | 100     | 1000    |  |  |
| Bon Ton$2.00                                  | $10,00 | $75.00 | John Young$2.00        | $10.00 | $75.00 |  |  |
| Empress 2.00                                   | 10,00   | 75,00   | Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt 1.00 | 6,00    | 50,00   |  |  |
| Flora Hill                                     | 5,00    | 40,00   | Mrs. James Dean 2.00    | 10,00   | 75.00   |  |  |
| Gold Nugget 2.00                               | 10.00   | 75,00   | New York 2.00           | 10.00   | 75,00   |  |  |
| Harrison's White                               | 5.00    | 40,00   | White Cloud 2.00        | 10.00   | 75.00   |  |  |
| Jack Frost 2.00                                | 10.00   | 80.00   |                         |         |         |  |  |
|                                                | STAN    | DARD    | VARIETIES               |         |         |  |  |
| doz.                                           |         | 1000    | doz.                    | 100     | 1000    |  |  |
| Anna Webb                                      |         | $15.00 | Lawrence Thompson35     |         | $15.00 |  |  |
| Alaska                                         |         | 15.00   | Orange Blossom          |         | 25.00   |  |  |
| Armazindy                                      |         | 25,00   | Portia                  |         | 12.50   |  |  |
| Buttercup                                      |         | 35,00   | Rose Queen              | 2.00    | 15.00   |  |  |
| Daybreak                                       |         | 15,00   | Thos. Cartledge         | 2.00    | 15,00   |  |  |
| Eldorado                                       |         | 25,00   | Tidal Wave              | 2.00    | 15.00   |  |  |
| Helen Keller                                   |         | 25,00   | Wm. Scott               | 1.50    | 12.50   |  |  |
| Lizzie McGowan                                 |         | 12.50   | W. D. Sloane            | 2.00    | 15.00   |  |  |

HENRY A. DREER, 714 CHESTNUT STREET, Philadelphia. Pa.

Do Not Buy Carnation Cuttings At a less price than it costs to grow them and expect good stock. Our prices are as low as good stock can be sold for.

At a less price than it costs to grow them as low as good stock can be sold for.

| White Cloud  | $ 2 0010 0075 00 | per        | 100. |
|--------------|---------------------------|------------|------|
| Painted Lady | $ 2.00                   | perper | 1000 |

| C. A. Dana | $ 5.0040,00 | per | 1000 |
|------------|------------------|-----|------|
| Nivea      | $ 3.00          | per | 100  |
|            | 25.00            | per | 1000 |

| Alaska  | $ 1.50 | per        | 100         |
|---------|---------|------------|-------------|
|         | 12.00   | per        | 1000        |
| Triumph |         | perper | 1001000 |

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass.

FVFIIN

Send your name and address and receive illus-trated and descriptive price list of Livelina...

Is the grandest mid-winter carnation extant. This is the unanimous opinion of all who have seen it growing and predict for it a grand future. & Surpasses Wm. Scott.

R. WITTERSTAETTER, Sedamsville, O.

50,000 Flat-Grown CARNATIONS

| STRONC               | STOCK.     | per 100 | per 1000       |
|----------------------|------------|---------|----------------|
| Eraytirenk           |            | $2 (4) | $15.00 |
| Scritt               |            | 210     | 15 00          |
| Rose Otteen          |            | 210     | 15 00          |
| Tida, Wave.          |            | . 1.0   | 32.00          |
| Portla               |            | 1.50    | 12 (4)         |
| Rob Roy (new)        |            | 111 (#) |                |
| Jubilee              |            | (18)    |                |
| Hipote Uspenia       |            | 115101  |                |
| Hilver - pray        |            | . 1.43  | 12,00          |
| L. McLinwan          |            | 1.41    | 12,00          |
| Eldorado Meteor      |            | 2.141   |                |
| Flora III            |            | 5.00    |                |
| Triumph Armazinds    |            | 11 U.J  |                |
| Parto new and I note | Sam bew, h | oth     |                |
| remeties             |            | {U-00   |                |

Cash with order HENRY A NIEMEYER, Erie, Pa.

NATHAN SMITH & SON

Wholesale Florists

Specialties work ADRIAN, MICH.

> CHRYSANTEMUMS CAPNATIONS 4344 AND VIOLETS. 4.4

. . . CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITEO . .

Premium-5 Red Wave with every 100

IS a much more substantial dower than Daybreak; color a shade or two darker and en-tirely rust proof. Can be seen at Vaughan, McKeller & Winter-son's every Wednesday and Saturday.

HOPP & LEMKE. Paul P. O., E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

FIREF

A RUST PROOF CARNATION FOR BUSINESS.

Bright searlet and POSITIVELY RUST PROOF. As productive as Scott. Rooted Cuttings Feb. 15th, $10 per 100, $75 per 1000. Send for descriptive list of Firefly and fifteen other movelties of '98, fifteen varieties of '97 and older standard sorts.

GEO. HANCOCK & SON. GRAND MAVEN, MICH.

will be naid for any RUST found in our Carnations.
All Pure and Healthy. Throw out that old RUSTY
Stock, begin anew with clean stock.

RAVE NICE ROOTED CUTTINGS, A NO. 1.

$1.50 per 100

McDONALD & STEELE, 109 S. Washington St., Crawfordsville, Ind.

Nashville, Tenn.

Flowers of all kinds, which for a while were searce as the proverbial hen's teeth. have begun to come in more abundantly and in excellent quality.

Valentine's day found all florists with a good supply, and what was of more importance, an excellent demand. Violets, of course, were the favorite, and some few violet hearts were sent as tokens to fair lady loves, but the great majority of sales were for loose violets or loosely tied in bunches. Violets have been very fine, especially the California variety.

At a recent funeral of a young girl in this city, the words "Please omit flowers," was inserted at the end of the funeral notice, but while friends were barred from sending these dainty tokens of their sympathy, the relatives, whose name was legion, were permitted to lay their offerings upon the altar. The prevailing and preferred flower was the violet, and these, double and single, small and large, light and dark, were made into beautiful wreathes and garlands, completely covering the easket of the dead girl. A pretty conceit, but rather sombre for the early dead.

In a few short weeks, or from present indications, days, all the spring flowers will be in bloom, or at least the jonquils and golden-eandlesticks will be showing their yellow blossoms. It takes away all the sentiment, in this section, to call these early harbingers of early spring by the prosaic name of "Trumpet majors."

M. Č. Dorris.

New Castle, Ind.

1 paid E. G. Hill & Co. a visit this week, especially to see the much talked of Painted Lady and other fine seedlings which he is growing. In Painted Lady he has one of the finest, that he has yet sent In color, it is of a bright and very out. pleasing shade of pink, with outer petals slightly lighter. The calvx and stem are strong and perfect, the flowers of fine size, and the plants perfectly healthy and free from rust. The profusion of bloom is another good quality which adds much to its value as a commercial flower. Psyche is much on the order of Helen Kellar. Probably not so heavily penciled. America is a very magnificent red not yet disseminated, but will ereate quite a sensation when it is, on account of the immense size of the flowers. It is slightly lighter in color than Jubilee, and is also said to be rust proof. Flora Hill is here seen in all her glory. It is indeed hard to beat. Herbert Heller.

50,000 ROOTED GUTTINGS

Rose Queen, $1,25 per 100, or $1000 per 1000; Jubilee, $2.50 per 100, or $2.00 per 1000; H. Keller, W. Schtt. Thos. Cartledge, $1.00 per 1000; H. Keller, W. Schtt. Thos. Cartledge, $1.00 per 1000; H. Keller, W. Schtt. Thos. Cartledge, $1.00 per 100, or $5.50 per 1000; Hisrison's White, Eidorado, $2.00 per 100 or $15.00 per 1000; Lizzle Multe, Eidorado, $2.00 per 100 or $15.00 per 1000; Two-lnch pots

Major Bonnaffon, $3.00 per 100 or $20.00 per 1000; The Queen, Pink Ivory, $3.00 per 100 or $15.00 per 1000; President Sulth, Eda Prass, $2.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000.

Marle Louise $6.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000.

Marle Louise $6.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000, reference.

PAXTON GREENHOUSES, C. E. Taube, Prop. Herrisburg, Pa.

Carnations Chrysanthemums

NEW AND STANDARD VARIETIES

Our new Trade List will embrace the leading novelties of 1898 and 1897 as well as the best standard sorts. Address

H. WEBER & SONS. Oakland, Md.

NEW GARNATION

"Mrs.S.A.Northway"

A soft shell pink, developing to nearly pure white.

OUR MASTERPIECE.

We shall commence shipping soon.

Orders booked now and filled in rotation....

PRICE: PER 100. $10.00.

Newer Geraniums.

Mme. Bruant, Mme. Jaulen, Fleure Poitevine, J. Sallier and J. Ricaud. Fine stock from 2<sup>1</sup>4-inch pots, $5.00 per 100*****
ROOTED CUTTINGS, $3.00 per 100: $25.00 per 1000. Net cash.

GENERAL LIST OF GERANIUMS.

A superb stock in quality and variety of all the finest sorts, from 21/4-in. pots, named. $25 per 1000; unnamed, $20 per 1000. Net cash.

Fuchsias.

A grand lot of summered-over stock in small pots that will make early blooming plants, $3 per 100.2222

W. P. SIMMONS & CO.

Make the following statement to the readers of the American Florist & & & & &

> As originators and introducers of "Silver Spray,"

"Tidal Wave,"

"Daybreak," and "Rose Queen,"

each of which has, we believe, proven even better than we claimed for them. We NOW say for 1898 that possesses all the good points that go to make up a first-class and profitable cut flower sort, and that we introduce it with even more confidence than we did the others.

"Mrs. S. A. Northway"

It is an extra strong grower. It is free from rust or disease. It is a profuse bloomer.

It has excedingly strong stiff stems.

It is of exquisite form full and double. The flower is high built. petals serrated.

The calvx does not burst.

It is delightfully fragrant (a quality lacking in many new

OUR PRICE LIST now ready, contains prices on many other plants.

SEND FOR

W. P. SIMMONS & CO., Geneva, Ohio.

NEW PINK CARNATION

SEEDLING from McGowan x Wm. Scott; tested for four years. It is of an exceedingly pleasing color and proved itself an early and most prolife bloomer. It makes in a short time a fine busby plant, and has the form and habit of what carnation men say make an ideal plant. Positively free from rust. The stem is strong and heavy enough to carry the large flower erect without tying of any sort. Calyx perfect; never bursts. It is a good keeper and a good shipper. You will make no mistake by trying a few. Rooted cuttings ready now. All orders filled in rotation. As the sale of the stock of this Carnations will be limited, it is advisable to order early if you want any. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Price, $2 per doz.: $10 per 100; $75 per 1000.

C. BESOLD, MINEOLA, Long Island, N. Y.

SOUTH PARK FLORAL CO., New Castle, Ind. ROOTED CUTTINGS.

We grow prize winners. Try our fine strong 🚜 stock and grow fine flowers.

We are wholesalers of Fine Cutllowers, Roses, Car-nations, Violets.

$15.00 per 1000.

Notice the report of the meeting of the Indiana florists Jan. 20, and see .* who got the awards

When you write to any of the advertisers in this paper please say that you saw the advertisement in the American Florist.

Erie. Pa.

Uncle Sam, Rob Roy, Pluto and Snow Queen are the latest seedlings introduced by Mr. Henry A. Niemeyer.

Like its namesake, Uncle Sam is "bold" and erect, promising to hold its ground against all odds. Pluto, of a pleasing plum color, may not suit the popular fancy at first sight, though a closer aequaintance with the nature of this seedling, and it has many good points, would no doubt win it many admirers. Snow Queen, as its very name implies, is Snow Queen, as its very name implies, is a white one, and if it does as well else-where as it does with Mr. Niemeyer its future is assured. Mr. Niemeyer grows a house full of this variety, and that house is decidedly a paying one. Rob Roy, a red one, is of the "bread and butter" kind. A glance at the two benches fully convinced me that this variety is well worthy of all the space given it. Номо.

New CARNATIONS.

WHITE CLOUD—White,
GOLD NUGGET—Yellow,
NEW YORK (Ward)—Bright cerise pink,
MRS. JAMES DEAN (Ward)—Clear silvery pink,
JOHN YOUNG (Ward)—White,
BON TON (Ward)—Scarlet,
Prices for above varieties: $2.00 per doz., $10.00
per 100, $75.00 per 1000.

We will also have Cerise Queen (Breitmeyer), Argyle (Stollery), Jack Frost (Swayne), Em-press (Swayne), Evelina (Witterstaetter), Fire-fly (Hancock), Pyche (Hill), Panted Lady (Hill), and Mrs. S. A. Northway (Simmons). All good 1897 novelties and other standard varieties

New Chrysanthemums.

at reasonable prices.

MRS. C. H. PEIRCE—Vellow.

35c each. $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

SNOW QUEEN—White.

54c each. $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

MERRY CHRISTMAS—Late White.

35c each. $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

Send for Descriptive Price List. Ready January, 1898.

F. DORNER & SONS CO. LAFAYETTE, IND.

Experiences ...with... CARNATIONS The next number ready March I, will be cultural as we I as descriptive and sent free to all applicants. I Guarantee all cuttings sent out and offer a Special Guarantee to all buyers of Flora Hill and Iriumph. ALBERT M. HERR, .... LANCASTER, PA.

NEW CARNATION ....

Empress

Send for price list of above, New and Standard Sorts....

WM. SWAYNE, Box 226, Kennett Square, Pa.

TELEGRAPH CODE

AM. SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION BR.OO.

I either stiff r Bexis e cuver

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO.

The habit of growth is attractive. It grows healthy and vigorous.

It transplants very easily.

It excels also in such qualities as:

Good Size, Good Stem, Good Calyx, Free Blooming, Fine Flowers.

IT IS OFFERED ON A TESTED REPUTATION.

All about it in a handsome, illustrated and priced 12-page circular Free to the Trade.

DAN'L B. LONG, Sales Agent, BUFFALO.

THE NEW AND COURSE QUEEN

The best dark pink we have seen or grown. Orders booked now. $10 per hundred.

Mayor Pingree STOCK STOC

JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS. DETROIT, MICH.

WANTED Carnation growers to look into the merits of and be convinced that it is the coming commercial variety of its color. READY MARCH 1st, Price, $2.00 per dozen; $10.00 per 100: $75.00 per 1000.

Send for circular for full description and a select list of money makers in Chrysanthemums.

STOLLERY BROS., Argyle Park, CHICAGO.

STRONG, HEALTHY ROOTED CUITINGS Ready Feb. 1st and Later

Incording Morello, Flora Hill, Daybreak, Win-Scott Lizze McGowan, Ivory Silver Spray, Emily Purson Goldflinch, Eldorado, and others. Send-me a list of what you want and get prices before you have We also have a fine lot of Carnation and Violet Ideous for sale. Write for prices.

CHAS. CHADWICK,

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. Lock Box II.

FROM SAND OR SOIL

DATBREAK TIDAL WAVE M-GOWAR WM-SCOTT 41 25 per 100, $10 00 per 10 1 to per 100. 10 00 per 1000 1 00 per 100. 9 00 per 1000 sec per 100. 3 50 per 1000

CASH WITH ORDER.

LAKE GENEVA FLORAL CO. . Lake Geneva, Wis

BAKER'S NEW CARNATIONS.

Orown and tested five years.

ONEIDA Pure pink, healthy; no rast; continuous producer; largest size bloom.

RED JACKET—Bright red, time stem and calyx; continuous cropper. $10.00 per 100.

Orders booked now to be filled in rotation as fast as roted.

C. F. HARBIE. Utlos, N. Y.

CARNATIONS Scott, Metox ROSES Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors, $1,50 per 100.

Very best commercial varieties of 'Mums, Write for prices.

W. H. GULLETT & SONS, - Lincoln, III.

Say "saw your ad, in the Florist" when you write advertisers.

Worcester, Mass.

We have recovered from the effects of the blizzard and everything is going along smoothly, although the storm was the worst we have had since 1867. Very little damage to greenhouse property resulted. Sargent had a carnation house cave in, and the timely use of considerable propping averted a like catastrophe at Hixon's, but at the other places a few broken lights of glass was the only damage reported.

During the blizzard week trade was at a standstill, but since then we have had good business and plenty of high grade flowers; carnations and violets, especially, are very fine.

February 14 brought us a nice valentine, in the shape of good business. Violets, carnations, valley and lilac were most in demand; and in plants, cyclamen and azaleas had the call.

A visit to W. J. Wood's houses after the storm found everything serene and looking well. Violets are the specialty at this place, and they are looking very fine, with a large crop of blooms in sight. Marie Louise is the variety grown, also a few Lady Campbell, but the darker variety is the better seller. The carnations were also looking well, Nivea and Daybreak are the leaders, and Scott and Alaska are grown in medium quantity. Scott has developed considerable stemrot and in the opinion of Mr. Wood is running out.

H. Bayersdorfer was in town the other H. Bayersdorier was in town the other day and paid us a visit. Harry has developed into quite a dog fancier and during his stay here picked up a highbred dog that has quite a local reputation; "Reuben" out of "Dutchman" by "Filthy Lucre" and of the breed known as "Sooner." Reuben left town with a collar of Bridesmaids and violets, and collar of Bridesmaids and violets, and will make his home in the City of Broth-A. 11. L. erly Love.

Verbena King

ONE MILLION

to offer the following season in 55 of the latest and best mammoth named varieties in cultivation, free from rust or mildew. Satisfaction and safe arrival maranteed in every way to all parts of the U. S. and Canada (a 60e per 100; $5.50 per 1000; 5000 for $25; 10,000 for $45; 25,000 for $100. Express prepaid. HELIOTROPES, rooted cuttings, 10 named vars... $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000. Express prepaid.

CASH PLEASE.

C. HUMFELD, - Clay Center, Kan.

| Rooted cuttings.                             | 2-Inch.  |
|----------------------------------------------|----------|
| Per 10tl                                     | Per 100  |
| Roses, Bride and Bridesmaid$                | $3.00   |
| Verbenss, 12 variettes                       |          |
| Vinca. (Major)                               | 3.00     |
| Mme Sallerot Geraniums                       | 2.00     |
| Ageratum, blue and white                     | 2.00     |
| Coleus in variety 1 00                       | 2.50     |
| Rudbeckia, (Golden Glow)                     | 4 (10)   |
| Abutllon, Souv. de Bonn and Eclipse          | 3.50     |
| Moonvines (white and blue)                   | 4.183    |
| Salvia Splendens                             | 3.00     |
| Solanum (white)                              | 4.10     |
| Umbrella Plants                              | 4 (1)()  |
| Calla Lilles                                 | 2,00     |
| Parla Daistes, white                         | 3 00     |
| Hellotrope, blue                             | 3,00     |
| Begonia Vernon, red                          | 3.00     |
|                                              | .,,,     |
| Stock ready now. Terms cash or approved refe | erences. |

INDIANAPOLIS FLOWER AND PLANT CO., Central Ave. and 34th St., Indianapolis, Ind.

100,000 VERBENAS. THE CHOICEST VARIETIES IN CULTIVATION

Fine pot plants, $2.50 per 100; $20 per 1000. Rooted Cuttings, 75c per 100; $6.00 per 1000; $50 per 10000. NO RUST OR MILDEW.

PACKED LIGHT, AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. We are the Largest Growers of Verbenas in the country.

Our plants cannot be surpassed.

J. L. DILLON, Bloomsburg, Pa.

***VERBENAS.

The finest collection in America, 35 varieties, every one a gem—mammoth size, striking colors, green as grass. Strong rooted cuttings, 60c per hundred; $5.00 per thousand; five thousand, $20.00. New Yellow Marguerite finest variety, strong 2-in, pot plants, 3c; rooted cuttings, 2c.

STRICTLY CASH WITH ORDER.

SOUTH SIDE FLORAL CO., Springfield, III.

The New Imperial Violet.

Perfectly bealthy, very dark green follage, makes few runners, dowers royal purple, on long stiff stems, exquisitely fragrant, very prolitic and the most enormous double flowers ever seen on a Violet. A splendid keeper and shipper; not over two doz. sent to any one order. Price $2.50 per doz. Plants by mail. Address the originator

W. L. MINOR, Brockton, Mass.
Come and see the most superb lot of violets ever grown

GERANIUMS BEGONIAS

and FUCHSIAS

SELECT NEW and good old standard sorts, the best to be found, up-to-date. * * * * 40 Varieties Geraniums, * * 25 Flowering Begonias, and a good assortment of Market Fuchsias. A Let us know what you want and we will quote you prices low enough.

J. NICOL & &

Oak Street, & JERSEY CITY, N. J.

GREEN AS GRASS.

MAMMOTH VERBENAS

Fine selected stock in separate colors, Rooted cuttings, per 100, 75c; per 1000, $6 00. Cash with order.

FRANK S. PAYNE, Barnard Crossing, N. Y.

CLEMATIS Jackmanni, Henryii doz. 100 and others......$3.00 $20.00

DOWNING, best for general crop, special prices.

F. A. BALLER, Bloomington, III.

PELARGONIUMS

12 LEADING KINDS, $4.00 per 100,

VERBENAS 25 of the best named varieties, Rooted Cutorder. Express prepaid. Cash with

S. D. BRANT THE CLAY CENTER FLORIST, CLAY CENTER, KAN.

FREESIA GROWER!

Mammoth and medium bulbs ready June. Also seed of Freesia, Giant Vellow Marguerite, Smilax, Mandevilla, Dablia, Agapanthus, and Bermuda Buttercup Oxalis bulbs.

J. E. BOYCE & CO. SANTA MONICA, CAL.

BOUGAINVILLEAS.

Beautiful for "cutting" or pot sale.

Free and durable, and blooming for four to six months of the year. Very easily handled and not subject to any insect pests.

Send for "Comments and Facts." THEO. F. BECKERT, Glenfield, Pa.

9 miles below Pittsburg. Pa.

KLONDIKE

Cold Fields at your door. - CERANIUMS.

Cold Fields at your door.—CERANIUMS.

Grown in soil in flata, ready to shift into 3-inch pots, $15.00 per 1000. S. A. Nutt. Beaute Poitevine, Mrs. E. G. Hill, Van Daei and Rubt. Brett; the same in 2½-inch pots, $20.00 per 1000.

Standard sorts, such as double Grant. Bruanti, La Fayette, La Favorite, Le Pilot. Gloire de France, Hoff Beech, Wonder, Mrs. J. M. Gaar, Jules Ferry Centaurean and others, $2.00 per 1000. In 2½-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Show. In 2½-inch pots, $2.50 per 1000 Mms. Sallerol from flats, $1.25 per 100 $10.00 per 1000.

Agerstum blue and white, from flats, $1.50 per 1000, $12.00 per 1000. Feverfew Little Gem, from flats $1.50 per 1000, $12.00 per 1000. Feverfew Little Gem, from flats $1.50 per 1000 slot (and the second short of the second short

J. E. FELTHOUSEN, Schenectady, N. Y.

AZALEA INDICA We have an immense stock of all the best varieties, extremely full budded, of the following large size: 12 to 15-inch, $6.00 per dozen: $45.00 per 100. CINERARIAS, 5-inch, bud and bloom, $1.25 per dozen. Double Golden Marguerite Cultings, by mail, $1.50 per 100.

WHITTON & SONS, Wholesale Florists, City and Green Sts., UTICA, N. Y.

WHY NOT....

Advertise and sell some rooted cuttings or other surplus stock.

*********

THIS SIZE "AD." ONLY $1.00.

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO.

GOLEUS.... ROOTED CUTTINGS WELL ROOTED

Scarlet Verschaffeltii, Golden Verschaffeltii, Fire King, Fire Brand, Tam O'Shanter, S. P. Gem, Alhambra, Golden Crown, Midnight, Salvator, John Goude Nigger, 15c per doz.; 75c per 100; $5.00 per 1000; express paid.

S. T. DANLEY, Macomb, III.

5,000 SMILAX...

From thats, by mall, 50c per 100, $4 00 per 1000 From 2-inch pots, $1 50 per 100, $13 00 per 100 From 3-inch pots. $3 00 per 100 Send for samples. Cash with the order.

FREO BOERNER. Cane May City, N. J.

ALWAYS mention the AMERICAN FLO-RIST when writing to advertisers.

Cincinnati.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cincinnati Florist Society was held February 12 and called to order by President Witterstactter. The meeting was well attended, and the monthly exhibit brought out a goodly number of visitors, although the attendance at the latter was not as large as on former occasions.

The collection of plants from the city greenhouses were much admired, especially the specimen plants of cyclamen, which were exceedingly well done. Notable at the Sunderbruch collection, were several vases of calla and Harrisii lilies, also some large specimen plants of Kentia and Areas, their Bridesmaids and Meteor roses were the Creme de la Creme. Messrs. George and Allen made a creditable display of roses and bulbous flowers. Their Valley are surely grand, and several vases of roses deserve special mention. Messrs, Corbett and Wilson took the lead in violets. A vase of the new carnation Empress from Mr. Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, is a very large and well formed flower, held in a strong calvx, stem eighteen to twenty-four inches, and foliage showing no signs of disease, color a dark crimson. John Young (C. W. Ward), pure white, flower large and full with very heavy petals; the flowers arrived rather poorly. James Dean, (C. W. Ward, Queens, L. l.), deeper than Daybreak in color and a decided improve-ment over Daybreak, with stiffer stem and larger flower. Mr. Will Murphy made the best general display of standard earnations; Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt being especially fine. A vase of the new rose, Mrs. Robert Garrett, from 11. Weber & Son caught the eyes of every visitor.

The sole topic of the evening was the earnation convention at Chicago, and by the time these lines appear, we will know who carried off the plum. It will be a most memorable event to those interested, and no doubt some will go home satisfied, feeling that all went well, while others must be disappointed.

H. SCHWARZ.

W WILMORE, Box 382, OENVER, COLO.

line collection of varieties including Wm. Agnew Aymphaea, John Bragg, Ohan, Julu, Beauty of Brentwood, etc. etc. Our selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $50,00. Furcharer's selection, twenty sametres to a thousant 100 00,

Wm. H. Moon Co.

filenwood Aurseries

MORRISVILLE.

Chrysanthemum

The SENSATION Of the Season & Frank Hardy

Certificated by the committees of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

First prize among whites wherever exhibited.

The best mid-senson white to date and indispensable to every grower whether for exhibition of the cut flower trade. Plants ready March 1st and orders filled in rotation.

Price, per plant, 50c; per dozen. $3; per 100, $20; per 1000, $150.

25 at 100 rate. 250 at 1000 rate.

A. HERRINGTON.

Florham Farms,

MADISON, NEW JERSEY.

Two Great Sports CHRYSANTHEMUM CARNATION PENNSYLVANIA

Undoubtedly the best Pink Carnation in commerce and certainly the most prolitic bloomer, perfectly healthy and of vigorous growth. Rooted cuttingt now ready. $4.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000. Come and see this estimation growing.

The finest yellow for cut blooms or exhibition pur poses ever produced. Plants ready March 15, $5.00 per doz.; $35.00 per 100; $250 00 per 1000.

HUGH GRAHAM, 104 South 13th Street, PHILADELPHIA.

PEACOCK'S PRIZE WINNING DAHL

at Philadelphia out of seventeen entries? And at the American Institute, Madison Square Garden, New York, the seven first prizes (all that were offered) and two special diplomas for Clifford W. Bruton and Wm. Agnew? That last vear (1897) at New York, they were awarded six of the seven first prizes and The Medal of Superiority of the American Institute, the highest award ever given Dahlias in America? That at Philadelphia—well, we won't say anything, as they were not in competition; but, read what the Philadelphia Record of Sept. 22, 1807, says:

Prominent above all the other exhibits is that of the Dahlia Society itself. It includes an almost perfect assortment of all the Dahlias known in this country, grown by W. P. Peacock, of Atco. N. J., but it was not in competition for prizes

New Illustrated Descriptive Wholesale Catalogue now ready; send for it before placing order elsewhere.

W. P. PEACOCK, ATCO. N. J.

"IBOSS" Chrysanthemums WM. H. CHADWICK - the grandest white novelty of the season. THE YELLOW FELLOW Winner of $100 Stearns bleyele prize. MADELINE PRATT - "As pretty as her picture."

Grove P. Rawson, Elmira, N. Y.

Jardinieres, Pots Pedestals

ADAPTED TO Florists' Use.

Artistic Shapes and Decorations.

råmåmåmåmåmåe

Write us for Illustrations

BURLEY & TYRRELL, 42=44 Lake St., CHICAGO.

Buffalo.

The market seems to be well stocked with flowers and business is quieter than last week, if that is possible. Carnations are plenty and good, the top price being for the new white "Genesee." This earnation is attracting so much attention that I went out to Corfu to see it growing. Scott has a house of it looking A1. It makes a very fine appearance on the bench, being very vigorous and even in growth, with abundant blooms about two and a half inches in diameter, and an average stem of about eighteen inches. It seems to be a continuous bearer, clean and free from disease, and has the ear marks of a "bread and butter" carnation. It is said to be the result of a cross between Daybreak and McGowan, and it resembles the latter somewhat in its manner of opening. Mr. Scott tells me that it is even better with the originators, Harmon & Burr, of Darien, N. Y., than with him.

Scott's house of his namesake is very fine also, and the Daybreaks were in good form. Mr. Scott grows considerable Jubilee and likes it. Portia he has no use for, but is highly pleased with "Dazzle," which is larger and even brighter. Those violets, about which I once made rather disparaging remarks, are looking pretty fair on a close inspection, and are yielding well. A house of Laetuca seariola, garden variety, promises an abundance of bloom if it is allowed to mature.

After having inspected everything on the place, from the windmill to the natural gas, we entered the chariot and drove to Mr. Webb's. Here we found about all the glass given up to carnations, only one house of roses to be seen. Alaska is grown extensively for a white, and is good but rather too short in the stem. The most interesting thing on the place at the present time is a house of a new red seedling—Hector x Spray. It is quite promis-ing. It is a better color than Jubilee, but perhaps not quite as large. Good stem and calyx and apparently a free bloomer. will be heard from next year. All the old stand-bys are grown here and are looking well.

Mr. William McMillan has just returned from an extended tour through the country to the west of us, having visited Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Louisville.

The latest arrival in town is a son to Mr. Bloy, of Forest Lawn.

Aster, Verbena & Pansy Seed

Truffant's perony-flowered Perfection, mixed, ¼ oz. 30 cts. 1 oz. $1 00.

Truffant's perony-flowered Perfection, mixed, in separate colors, pure white, light blue, rose and white, and bright red, ½ oz. 30 cts., 1 oz. $1.50, or 1 oz. of each of the 4 colors for $5 00.

Princess or Snowball (Aster), pure white, ¼ oz. 73 cts. 1 oz. $2.50.

Manimoth Verbena, 100 colors mixed, ¼ oz. 31 cts. 1 oz. $1.50.

Mitting's Pansy, large flowering, choice, <sup>1</sup>4 oz. $1.00. 1 oz. $4.00.

PLANTS.

Alternanthera airea namand P. major, 2<sup>1</sup>4 lm., strong $2.00 per 100 $15.00 per $1000.

800 Robin Hood Carnation Cuttings to spare, strong and healthy, large scarlet, $3.00 per 100.

500 Mrs. Chas. Dubme @ $4.00 per 100.

2000 C. A. Dana @ $4.00 per 100.

2000 Wm. Scott @ $1.00 per 100.

5000 Clous. 20 choice bedders. 2<sup>1</sup>4 lm., $1.50 per 100.

Lycopodium Denticulatum, 2<sup>1</sup>4 lm., $2.00 per 100.

Our Crowers' Trade List now ready.

THE MORRIS FLORAL GO. Morris, III.

Mention American Fiorist.

JAPAN

IN QUALITY AND CONDITION PAR EXCELLENCE.

Large Direct Importation Just Arrived.

| AURATUM        | 100           | 1000            | RUBRUM        | 100    | 1000            | ALBUM          | 100            | 1000    |
|----------------|---------------|-----------------|---------------|--------|-----------------|----------------|----------------|---------|
| 8 to 9 inches. | 8 3.75 | $ 35.00 | 8 to 9 inches | .84 75 | $4 0.00 | 8 to 9 inches. | $ 6 50 | $55.00 |
| 9 to 11 "      | 5.00          | 45.00           | 9 to 11 ''    | 6.25   |                 |                | 7.50           | 65.00   |
| 11 to 13 "     | 8.00          | 75.00           | 11 to 13 " .  | 9.00   | 85.00           | 11 to 13 "     | 10.00          | 95.00   |

W. W. BARNARD & CO., Seedsmen.

CHICAGO.

FLOWER SEEDS FOR PRESENT SOWING See our "BOOK FOR FLORISTS." Write for copy if not received. " VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE 14 Barclay St., NEW YORK. 84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

404 E. 34th St ..

It will be better for everybody if you mention the American Florist when writing advertisers on this page

WRITE

R. & J. FARQUHAR & CO.

**SEEDSMEN.*.*

16 and 19 South Market Street, BOSTON

FOR THE CHOICEST AND BEST NEW CROP

FLOWER SEEDS

Neponset Paper Flower Pots, Pure Sheep Manure, and All Florists' Supplies. 444

Catalogues mailed free

EXTRA CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS.

List free on application. FRED. ROEMER, Seed Crower, ... Quedlinburg, Germany.

Cleveland Florists' Club.

RESOLUTION CONCERNING GOVERNMENT DISTRIBUTION OF PLANTS.

The following was adopted at a meeting of the above club held January 24,

WHEREAS. The practice of distributing plants and cut flowers, grown at the publie expense, has become so general as to amount to an abuse of the public money, paid in part by the florists of the country at large, thereby giving them a direct and personal interest in such abuse of the functions of government, and

WHEREAS. The said distribution works a direct and serious injury to the florists and gardeners of the city of Washington, 1) C., by bringing the servants of the government, maintained at the public expense, into direct competition with the said florists of Washington, to the detriment of their business, be it hereby Resolved, By the members of the Cleve-land Florists' Club that the members of the eraft in Washington are entitled to the earnest sympathy and support of florists throughout the country, in their fight to overcome this abuse, and that the said Cleveland Florists' Club hereby protests against the misuse of public funds and facilities for the production of plants and flowers for gratuitons distri-bution in competition with legitimate trades of any description, and the secretary is hereby directed and authorized to forward copies of these resolutions to the congressmen of this district, and to the senators from Ohio, and also the trade papers and to the Commercial Florists' Association of Washington, D. C.

Freesia Bulbs for 1898.

I have cudeavored to secure reliable data about the crop of freesia bulbs in Southern California, and can say that there are more freesias planted in this vicinity than ever before: In some places the frost has been so severe as to injure the foliage seriously, while others have escaped entirely. One grower expected to have 2,000,000 marketable bulbs. The trust killed all the growth above ground To-day I have seen another large lot coming into bloom nicely, and no trace of trost in the vicinity. Pad it not been for the cold, freesia bulbs would have been a drug in the market before the season was over. The outlook at present is, it warm weather follows the present rain, there will be more than enough to till all orders, and prices will be lower than last season. Reliable growers will not quote prices now, and guarantee to fill orders, preferring to wait a few weeks and section growth progresses

D. R. Woons, Los Argeles, Cal.

NEW FORCING ROSE MRS. ROBT. GARRETT

Hybrid tea rich soft pink, buds very long, flower ertra large de gittus y fragrant, rivaling Hridenmail color but arger and much more produc-tive. A sturity vag rous grower, a money maker and a trough of American skill. The best from ofther earty are investing in it. It has seen a decrease process and has excited the most favorable extremely and the excited the most favorable extremely and the extremely are an extremely besched now de very Marco - Deter Corren-poste de very tello Alfreis

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

Rooted Cuttings...

Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V. Kaiserin, Perles, Belle Siebrecht, Meteors. Same in 2-in. pots ready Feb. 15th to 20th. Send 50c for samples and get prices.

GEO. A. KUHL, Pekin, III. Carnation Cuttings ready Feb. 1st.

MAIDS, BRIDES, METEORS, KAISERIN, HOSTE, MOK-GAN, CARNOT, Grafted on Manetti and

ONLY TO ORDER.

Prices: ($15 00 per 100. No orders accepted after this month.

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass. Mention American Florist.

New American Rose ____

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT

As one of the syndicate holding stock in this rose we offer first class plants, from 2%-inch pots, to be delivered on and after March 15, 188, at the agreed price of $3.50 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

AMERICAN ROSE CO.

YOUNG ROSES 300,000 300,000

Ramblers, Climb. Malmaison, Climb. White Pet, Climb, Wootton, Pres. Carnot and 100 other leaders in Teas, H. Teas and Climbers.

Send for prices.

The National Plant Company, Dayton, Ohlo.

ROSES ...ROOTED

| No scrub wood used. All stock the           |                              |                         |                                             | From 21/2                           |                  |
|---------------------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|------------------|
| arefully packed when sent out.              | •                            |                         | 1000                                        | Per 100                             | Per 1000         |
| AMERICAN BEAUTIE                            |                              |                         | 2.00                                        |                                     | $35.00   |
| BRIDESBRIDESMAID                        |                              | 1.50 1:1.50 1:      | 2.502.50                                |                                     | 20.0020.00   |
| METEOR                                      |                              | 1.50 1:                 | 2,50                                        | 9.95                                | 20.00            |
| KAISERIN                                    |                              | 1.50                    | 2.50                                        | 0.05                                | 20,00            |
| PERLE                                       |                              |                         | 2.50                                        | 2.25                                | 20.00            |
| Terms cash with order of                    | r goods sent C. O. D.        |                         |                                             |                                     | March L          |
|                                             |                              |                         | _                                           |                                     |                  |
| J. A. BUDLOI                                | VG sт.                | ATION X                 | . CHI                                       | CAG                                 | O.T              |
| ,, II. DODIO                                |                              |                         |                                             |                                     | o,               |
|                                             |                              |                         |                                             |                                     |                  |
| Lebererererere                       | reerererere                  | ZRIRIRIRIRI             | irrerere                                    | REFERE                              | RRRRR            |
| Vergerand and a control                     |                              | 2.4.4.4.4.4             | : C. C. C. C. C. C. C.                      | Q.E. P. E. B. B.                    | 2.2.2.2.2        |
|                                             |                              |                         |                                             |                                     |                  |
|                                             |                              | / 14/h.                 | alacala (                                   | Grawar .                            | of               |
|                                             |                              | / Wh                    | olesale (                                   | Grower (                            | of 🛰 🛰           |
| IAHN                                        |                              | V Wh                    | olesale (                                   | Grower (                            | 0f ⊶ .⊀          |
|                                             | $N_{-}MA^{*}$                | V ₩h                    |                                             |                                     | 0f ي⊀ ي⊀         |
| JOHN N                                      | N. MAY                       | / Wh                    |                                             |                                     | 0f ৣ ৼ ৣৼ |
|                                             |                              |                         | R                                           | oses,                               | 0f ુ⊀ુ•¢         |
|                                             |                              |                         | R                                           | oses,                               | 0f ৣ ৼ ৣৼ |
|                                             | tions, Chi                   | y ==rysan           | Rthem                                   | oses,ums,                       | 0f ¸ᆇ ৣ ᆇ |
|                                             | tions, Chi                   | y ==rysan           | R                                           | oses,ums,                       | 0f . **   |
|                                             | tions, Chi                   | y ==rysan           | Rthem                                   | oses,ums,                       | 0f .⊀ .⊀  |
| Carnat                                      | tions, Chi                   | rysanan             | Rthemd Car                          | oses,ums,inas.              |                  |
| Carnat  All the best new                    | tions, Chi                   | rysanan             | Rthemd Cai                          | oses,ums,inas.              | k now            |
| Carnat  All the best new ready for delivery | and old variet  Parties wish | rysanan ies in ening to | Rthemd Caixtra selepurchase | oses,ums,nnas.cted stoc | k nowd it to |
| Carnat  All the best new                    | and old variet  Parties wish | rysanan ies in ening to | Rthemd Caixtra selepurchase | oses,ums,nnas.cted stoc | k nowd it to |

JOHN N. MAY, Summit, New Jersey.  $\mathbb{V}_{r}$  de excepcio de compara de compara de compara de compara de compara  $\mathbb{V}^{\mathbb{N}}$

REINBERG BROS.

Growers of Gut Flowers

500,000 FEET OF GLASS. We can fill all orders on short notice with all leading varieties of Roses and Cernations. We ARE Headquarters for Fine AMERICAN BEAUTIES. Give us a trial and convince yourself......

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

ROSES.

Bridgemaid

| Perles La France Meteors Kniserio                                                 | $1.50 per 100,$12.50 per 1000Cuttings. |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|
| CARNATIO                                                                          | NS.                                              |
| William Scott Nancy Hanks Tidal Wave Portia Lizzie McCowan Kohinoor Mrs. Thompson | $1.00 per 100.$7.50 per 1000               |
| Emma WocherMeteor                                                             | 51.50 per 100.                                   |

Moteor S1.50 per 100.

Coldfinch S12.50 per 1000

Harrison's White Brideamoid Niven $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000.

Jubilee $2.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000.

So order for less than 1810 fone variety accepted

FINE ROSE PLANTS

Out of 2 1-2 Inch Pots.

|              | Per 100   | Per 1000       |
|--------------|-----------|----------------|
| Meteor       | $3 00    | $25.00 |
| Perle        | 3,00      | 25 00          |
| Bride        | 2.50      | 22.50          |
| Bridesmaid   | 2 50      | 22,50          |
| La France    | 2.50      | 22.50          |
| Kaiserin     | 2.50      | 22.50          |
| Ready for si | nioment N | larch ist.     |

Reinberg Bros.

51 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

When writing mention the American Floriat.

Cleveland.

Flowers are now coming in a little more plentifully. The quality also shows an improvement in most instances. Business has been very fair on the whole, although we have, within the last day or two, seen the first of the "fire sales" that usually are delayed until near the advent of lovely spring. There has not been until now sufficient difference between supply and demand to encourage many ventures in that line.

The weather has again moderated from the stiff temperature of a week or two ago, and is reasonably mild.

Harrisiis seem still to be in rather short supply, at least from local sources. At this writing it is impossible to find out just who and how many will go to the carnation exhibition at Chicago. There will probably be half a dozen or so, may be more if all who have made threats in that direction carry out their intentions. E. J. Paddock, W. H. Beaumont and Chas. Erhardt must abandon their present quarters on Eriestreet to help make room for a ten-story business block, the erection of which will begin about April 1.

Fern Notes.

Doryopteris Duvali appears to be a very distinct and useful variety. In habit it somewhat resembles D. nobilis, but is it somewhat resembles D. nobilis, but is devoid of the pale silvery grey variegation, the fronds being of a uniform deep green, with a bright surface. It seems likely to prove much less difficult to manage than nobilis. I find plants may be divided and do not suffer, that is if they are carefully handled, and it is altogether a most vigorous grower. I am not yet able to say if it will come true from spores, but if it does no doubt it will soon be among our most popular. it will soon be among our most popular market ferns.

There are few more strikingly distinct ferns than D. nobilis, and this may be raised from spores, though I have never seen any large batches. A friend of mine showed me a fair batch of seedlings a year or so ago, but although they had every attention most of them perished during the winter.

D. Indens is a distinct and desirable species, the broad deep green fronds of young free growing seedlings show up so well among other ferns. After the plants get older and begin to throw up prants get older and begin to throw up fertile fronds, which are divided almost as much as in D. palmata, and have long stipes, the broad basal fronds begin to go off, and it is difficult to keep plants in good condition, but as spores germinate freely young plants may always be had to succeed those that have become shabby.

D. palmata is more generally grown for market, and makes a useful plant; it well repays for good treatment. It is one of those ferns which, if kept in good health, will give little trouble, but if once it gets stunted or sickly the stock may as well be thrown away, for they never seem to make a good start again.

D. pedata, somewhat after the same habit, but of smaller growth, is worthy of culture where a collection is grown.

D. sagittifolia and D. hastata are aiso worthy of note, but the last named varies very much when raised from spores

All those referred to above succeed best when grown in a moderate stove temperature; they like more shade than we give most ferns, and a light compost. Although I do not find it necessary to use peat for most ferns of the Pteris section, I find all the above do better in a compost consisting of about one-third peat, though where really good leaf mold can be had peat may be dispensed with, good fibrous loam and sand with a little well rotted manure will make up the remainder of the compost. Over potting should be avoided, but when the pots are filled with roots manure will prove beneficial. close moist atmosphere is desirable, but the fronds should not be wetted overhead, and during the winter, if cold water drips from the roof, it will discolor the fronds; this causes much mischief among many ferns, particularly lomarias.

I may here mention that we seem likely to get Lomaria ciliata major true from spores, having raised a number of seedlings which already begin to show character, but it is too early to determine positively what they may develop into.

L. ciliata grandis, another fine variety raised at the same time as major has not proved so productive, though among seedlings raised we may yet find some of the true variety. I am not sure if I have referred to these lomarias before. I may say that grandis received a first-class certificate and major an award of merit from the Royal Horticultural Society, and were raised by Mr. H. B. May. If we can only get seedlings to come as good as the parent plants they will be welcome additions to our market ferns.

A. Hemsley.

BUCKSPORT, ME.-Everything is buried deep under the snow, the average depth of which is three feet. The storm of last week was the heaviest for a quarter of a century and only the most vigorous measures saved the greenhouses from rnin.

NEW SWEET PEA ...The

> Originated by M. Lynch, Mento Park, Calif.

THE BRIDE This beautiful large, white-seeded variety is the best White Sweet Pea to date. It is a pure white selection from Mrs. Eckford and is the strongest germinator among all the white-seeded varieties—so often poor growers. Grown for the ent-flower market of San Francisco in competition with the other high class whites, it has brought the highest figures over them all, taking first rank among all the whites. The flowers are pure white of fine substance, large and of true grandifloratype. Beside this every seed will grow. Perfect flowers were cut as early as April 16 last year. Price, per lb., $2.00; 1-4 lb., 60c; 02., 20c; pkt., 10c.

20c; pkl., 10c.

The Cornell Bulletin in naming the best Sweet Peas of each color, classes The Bride tirst as a white, with Emily Henderson second and Blanche Burpee third.

Frank Pelicano, a leading florist of San Francisco, stated: "We can sell more Bride Sweet Pea blooms than those of any other variety which we have ever handled."

Prof. Tracy, in a recent review of some of the newer Sweet Peas says: "The especial merit of this variety (The Bride) is in its length, strength and grace of flower stem, and the disposition of the booms thereon, being one of our best sorts in these respects, and forming an exceedingly graceful bunch."

Mr. Lynch has sent us his entire stock which we offer to the trade as above.

14 Barclay St.. NEW YORK.

84 & 86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

SOW NOW

BEGONIAS of the Semperllorens type, of which "Vernon" is a shining example. We have some improvements upon the good old Vernon that we desire everyholy to try. Here they are:

CRIMSON GEM

CORAL

One of the most effective Begonias of the Semperflorens type; excel-lent for bedding; the flowers are of a rich red, and the foliage crimson brouze. $1 00 per trade pkt.......50c per half trade pkt

GEM DUCHESS OF

EDINBURG

MIXED

An exceedingly beautiful and profuse blooming Begonia. The plant is robust and has proved to be almost a continuous bloomer. Flowers white, suffused with pink, and twice the size of the ordinary B. Semperflorens. $1.00 per trade pkt.; 50e per half trade pkt

$1.00 per trade pkt.......50e per half trade pkt

This is American saved seed, and the germinating tests are most satisfactory. It comes up quickly and the little plants grow with great rapidity. Seed sown now will make line plants for Spring sales. Order at once, and a leaflet "How to Grow Begonia Semperflorens from Seed" will be sent with each order.

Cash with the Order. Money Order P. O. Station H.

A. H. LONSDALE & CO..

PHILADELPHIA, PA. Specialists,

Catalogues Received.

W. W. Rawson & Co., Boston, Mass., seeds; Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, Ill., seeds; D. Landreth & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa., seeds; B. O. Curtis, Paris, Ill., trees, shrubs and fruits; W. W. Barnard & Co., Chicago, Ill., seeds; Buell Lamberson, Portland, Oranged, The Lamberson, Oranged, The Lamberson, Oranged, Oranged, The Lamberson, Oranged, Ora & Co., Chicago, III., seeds; Buell Lamberson, Portland, Orc., seeds; Theodosia B. Shepherd, Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal., seeds; John N. May, Summit, N. J., plants; L. L. May & Co., St. Paul, Minn., seeds; A. W. Livingston's Sons, Columbus, O., seeds; W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa, seeds; Phenix Nursery Co., Bloomington, Ill., trees, shrubs and plants; Isaae C. seeus; rinemix Nursery Co., Bloomington, Ill., trees, shrubs and plants; Isaae C. Rogers, Danville, X. Y., fruits; Schisler-Corneli Seed Co., St. Louis, Mo., seeds; W. X. Scarff, New Carlisle, O., fruits; Carpenter & Son, State Line, Miss., trees, shrubs and fruits; Japanese Vincent, Dec. shrubs and fruits; Japanese Nursery, Boston, Mass., trees, plants and bulbs; Wm. E. Hand, Jr., Argos, Ind., fruits; E. Gill, Onkland, Cal., trees, shrubs and fruits; E. E. Burwell, New Haven, Conn., seeds; S. T. Walker. Forest Grove. Ore, seeds; S. T. Walker. Forest Grove. Ore, seeds; J. E. Jackson, Gainesville, Ga. plants; E. J. Hull, Olyphant, Pa., fruits; J. L. Schiller, New York, seeds: J. C. Suffern, Voorhies, Ill., seeds; R. Witterstaetter, Sedansville, O., plants; Theo. Bock, Hamilton, O., plants; J. R. Johnson, Dallas, Texas; fruits. A. B. Davis & Son, Purcellville, Va., roots; D. M. Andrews, Boulder, Col., parks, Vilnogia Andriews, & Co. Paris va., roots; D. M. Andrews, Boulder, Col., seeds; Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., Paris, France, seeds; Chicago House Wreeking Co., Chicago, Ill., building materials; Page Woven Wire Fence Co., Adrian Mich., wire fences; A Branson, New Shanghang, Guilley Medical, Machanian ron, Iowa, fruits; Mark II. Wetherbee, Charles City, Iowa, plants and seeds; Chesnore-Eastlake Mercantile Co., St. Joseph, Mo., seeds; J. Whittier, Beverley, Mass., plants.-106.

THIS IMPRINT ON AN ENCRAVING

MANZ CHICAGO

IS A CUARANTEE OF SATISFACTORY QUALITY....

Manz makes illustrations for this paper

NEW & SECOND-HAND MATERIAL,

purchased from Sheriff Receiver, and Assigned sales at less than one-half prices. Pipe and Fittings, Hose Florists Wire Hot Water Hosters Greenhouse Bollyes and Englases Bose, Light Wrought Iron Pipe, Glass-and and thousands of other articles, for sale by

CHICAGO HOUSE WRECKING CO Largest Mail Order Depot for New and Second-Hand Miterial in the World W. 35TH & IRON STS., CHICACO. Write for our free flustrated catalogues

THE ESLER HOSE IS THE BEST

It is used by the leading Elirists and is giving satisfaction. Iry it and be convinced. For price Address.

J. G. & A. ESLER, Saddle River, N. J.

Hot=Bed

Tenons white-leaded. Corners seeured with iron dowel pins, Every detail of construction perfect. Made of Clear Cypress Lumber.

Quick Shipments.

We have in stock and can ship immediately:

ft. x 6 ft., 3 rows 10 in. glass. 3 ft.3 in. x 6 ft.,4 " 4 ft. x 6 ft.,5 " S in. S in.

Not glazed, 134 in. thick.

Delivered Prices

Quoted on application. State size and quantity wanted. No order too small to receive eareful attention, and none too large for our facilities.

LOCKLAND LUMBER CO.,

Lockland, Ohio.

Boilers

OF HIGH GRADE..

For GREENHOUSES.

See our Catalogue.....

Steam and Hot Water Giblin & Co., Utica, N. Y.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO.

Greenhouse * Boiler. 29 to 59 Erie St., CHICAGO.

Bollers made of the best of material, shell, Brebox sheets and heads of steel, water space all around (front, sides and back). Write for information.

Mention American Florist.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY HAVING ME

BUILD AND HEAT YOUR GREENHOUSES

HENRY W. GIBBONS 134-136-138 LIBERTY STREET,

EXPERT ADVICE AND PLANS FURNISHED.

ESTIMATES FREE.

Established 1859.

Thos. W. Weathered's Son

Greenhouse Wood-work. Greenhouse Iron-work.

...

...

Red Galf Cypress free from Sap.

Get my prices on everything needful for the erection er repairing of Green houses.

ND send four cents in stamps for my latest catalogue, circulars, etc., showing the best and most economical

OILERS for heating, from the smallest self-feeding for small conservatories, stores, etc., to the largest sectional for large commercial establishments or Public Parks.

► YPRESS greenhouse material free from sap, of all sizes, shapes, etc., as desired, from the smallest sash-bar to the largest sill-plate. Clipper sash-bars as well, kept in stock ready for shipment.

OORS of the best clear Cypress made especially for greenhouse purposes always in stock.

AVE Plates of Cypress, the very best; all shapes, as well as Sills, Ventilating Sash, Ridge, Ridge Cap, Gutters, Purlins, Headers, etc.

trtings of every kind, from the smallest for Purlins, to the largest for a heavy 4-inch Greenhouse Pipe, also Valves, Expansion Tanks, etc., always ready for shipment.

UTTERS of cast iron or of clear Cypress, for outside "Ridge and furrow" houses, or any and all kinds. Glazing Points of all kinds from the patent to the zinc nails.

EATING. After forty years' experience, devoting it all to the heating of greenhouses, from a small conservatory to the largest, such as the Schenley Park Greenhouses at Pittsburgh, Pa; Central Park, New York City; Druid Hill, Balti-more, Md; Prospect Park,

Brooklyn, N.Y., as well as supplying complete heating plants in England and Japan, that you can have sufficient confidence to expend two cents in a stamp and time writing me your wants in that line.

Thos. W. Weathered's Son 141 Centre St.

Youngstown, O.

"Roses" was the subject of a very entertaining chat with Mr. Hippard during my recent visit. It is his unqualified opinion that any man can grow roses, if "How?" I asked naively.
"Yes," replied mine host, "in the 'how' lies the whole secret of the successful rose grower," and assuming his inimitable smile he continued, "healthy young stock planted in the right soil at the start, with an even temperature, proper ventilation, and above all constant care and attention will insure dollars and cents in the end."

A stroll through the houses sufficed to convince the scribe that the Meteors, Brides, Bridesmaids and Perles were dollars in disguise, every one of them, and of the kind that would pass in all markets at their full "par value" with no discount. As a rose grower Mr. Hippard is preeminently successful, and whether it be in the soil or in the method of growing the results are most gratifying.

I may mention in passing that I noticed several houses devoted entirely to  $2^{1/2}$  and 3-inch pot stock.

Nor do his carnations take a back seat. Flora Hill is no exception to her general rule, that is, to do well wherever planted. Lizzie McGowan, though relegated to a second place in the category of whites, still seems to be holding her own, and is doing nobly. As to the other varieties which I noticed, such as Scott, Daybreak, Jubilee, etc., all are in the best of condition, showing no set back of any Market conditions are favorable, and business shows a steady improvement. From the inquiries which Mr. Hippard receives regarding ventilating machines, one may easily infer that the "boys" throughout the country contemplate making extensive additions during the coming spring. The more the merrier.

Los Angeles, Cal.

California recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of gold. At present the entire state is rejoicing over a gentle rain which if continued for several days and then followed by warm weather will make the whole state a veritable garden of flowers.

Last year at this time carnations were in heavy supply and retailed at 15 cents to 20 cents per dozen; now they are selling at 35 cents to 50 cents per dozen. Roses have likewise advanced from 50 cents per dozen until now the choicest are being sold at $4.00 per dozen. demand for choice flowers is very good and much more "house-grown" stock will be prepared for next winter than hereto-

Large shipments of trees are being made from the state forestry stations near Santa Monica and Pomona, The railroad companies are expected to report how the different varieties grow under the varying conditions. Such reports to be for the benefit of future planters.

W. W. Perkins, El Modena, has made another large shipment of 15,000 fieldgrown roses to the Jackson & Perkins Co., of Newark, N. Y.

II. J. Vatcher, formerly with the Packard Floral Co., is now assisting R. G. Frazier in making millionaire Ladd's home place the finest in Pasadena.

Henry Feder, proprietor of the Redondo Nursery, has a little Klondike of his own. Mr. Feder has four acres in carnations, and as frost touched him but very lightly he is now reaping a rich harvest.

Mr. E. Walker has twenty-five acres devoted mainly to bulbs and flowering plants. He has been making heavy sales of Roman hyacinths, field-grown, and now is ready to furnish everybody with parcissus.

Howard & Smith, though but a young firm, and composed of young men, have already a reputation extending to They are now shipping choice Europe. cactus in large lots to Germany.

The Packard Floral Co., of Highland Park, have issued a finely illustrated pamphlet showing views of the interior of their model place.

The conservatories in East Los Angeles park are well filled with choice plants. The display of orchids, hyacinths and other blooming plants is very creditable and draws hundreds of visitors every day, while on Sundays they are simply crowded.

Alfalfa seed is now grown largely in this state, one thresher has just cleaned 14,000 pounds.

S. P. Rees, 222 S. Jefferson street, is having plans made for a greenhouse to be used largely for experimental purposes. Leavenworth, Kan.

Fire destroyed the greenhouses and residence of Kirkpatrick Bros., of this city, last week. Owing to the bad roads it took the fire department fully half an hour to reach the scene of the fire. The loss is estimated at $7,000 or $8,000, and not a dollar's worth of insurance.

(Copyrighted)

Kraft's Plant Tonic

For PLANTS, PALMS and FLOWERS

... A Wonderful Preparation for the Promotion of Plant Life, Destruction of Insects and Scale..

This is one of the greatest preparations for the use of Florists and Plant Growers ever compounded. It gives to the foliage of plants treated the bright, fresh color of healthy, growing vegetation. It destroys all insect life infecting the plant and eradicates scale.

Besides improving the color of the plant, it effects a general betterment of its condition, aiding nature in disseminating and retaining the sap and life of the plant. The Tonic makes the foliage of the plant soft and pliable, and a beautiful bright green.

Price per bottle, 25 cents.

84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO. VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

14 BARCLAY STREET, NEW YORK.

Jadoo Fibre and Jadoo Liquid

are to-day being sold by the leading SEED HOUSES and are used by prominent GROWERS and FLORISTS.

You Cannot Afford to Grow

Plants Without Them

14444BBBB666

Send for particulars and be convinced

The American Jadoo Co.

815 FAIRMOUNT AYE.

...PHILADELPHIA, PA.

STEMS DUST

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

Chicago. New York.

A COMPLETE AND JATIVE GUANO NATURAL FETILIZER

FOR . . . (Desiceated Night Soll)

Gardeners and Florists. SOLUBLE, QUICK TO ACT, PLEASANT TO HANDLE.

STANDARD FERTILIZER CO. Inc.

1822 Filbert Street, Philadelphia.

Scollay

Sprinkler.... INDISPENSABLE

J. A. Scollay, Maker,

71 Myrtle Ave.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Gen'l Western Agents, 84 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Omaĥa.

Negotiations for floral displays at the Trans-Mississippi International Exposi-

Trans Anssissippi International Exposi-tion are now complete.

The horticultural building is already under way, and will be ready for occu-pancy by the middle of April. It is con-sidered by far the most artistic building on the grounds with the exception of the government building.

Prof. F. W. Taylor, Superintendent of the Bureau of Agriculture, Horticulture and Forestry of the Department of Exhibits, has arranged for many interesting floral features. One of the most striking spots will be the aquatic basin just north of the horticultural building This basin has already been excavated, and is about 100 feet in diameter and about four feet deep in the center. Henry A. Dreer has agreed to take full charge of this basin, and will fill it with aquaties.

The grounds about the buildings on this tract will be laid out in flower beds, and these will be taken in charge by the prominent plant men of the country

J. C. Yaughan will exhibit caladiums, coleuses, roses, pansies and gladioli, but it is probable that his canna beds will be the center of attraction. F. R. Pierson & Co., The Lovett Co., A. Blanc, W. Atlee, Burpee and Peter Henderson will also exhibit largely. The latter expects to have some experimental plots of grasses.

The Division of Agrostology of the United States Department of Agriculture also propose to put in from one-half to L. D. two acres in grass seeds.

Sharon, Pa.

There is something fascinating about a seedling; and the more so if it has some good points in its favor. Uncle Harvey, a scarlet one grown with marked success by Mr. John Murchie, is a new debutante and from all appearances it has come to stay. Portia in color, Jubilee in size and Scott as to freedom of bloom—these are its chief traits. A second seedling, a cross between Helen Keller and Meteor, looks equally promising and as a "fancy" earnation will no doubt take place in the front rank.

Seedlings, seedlings and seedlings! This will about describe the sight 1 beheld at Florist McConnell's place. His white one, designated as 19A, is a fine specimen of its kind. The bloom, calyx and stem are all that could be desired, and as a commercial variety it may well vie with the best of the standard sorts extant, 5B and 5C, both good pinks, seem destined to make their mark. The average size of the former is from two and three-fourths to three inches

Carnations, however, were not the only flowers that attracted my attention. To say that Mr. Murchie has "some idea of growing orchids, would be expressing it in his own modest way. If his own Cerlogyne cristata, Lacha anceps, Phains granditolius and Dendrobaum Phalamopsis may be taken as a criterion to judge by, I would rank him among the best orchid growers in the land. His orchids are well worth soring.

The anticipated pleasure of seeing the genial Mr. I. M. O. Brien has been doomed to disappointment. It was a case of being confared to his bed with a spell of "mider the scather galment. The usual welcome was extended to your corre-spendent by his obliging foremen and a stroll through the houses was in no wise disappeariting. His general stock is in splendid condition

Busines - Ahead of List season is the zoner direport.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO. Flower Pots

Bulb Pans, Hanging Baskets and Saucers

OUR FLOWER POTS are standard measure and all first-class and we assure you they will give good satisfaction. We call your attention to our new pots, 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch, called the "Poro Pot." They are more Porous than any pots, smoother inside and outside, perfect drainage, and are easily washed and cleaned. Give them a trial and you will not want any other. Remember these Pots are as cheap as any other Pot on the market. Write for price list.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

We are general agents for all varieties of flower pots and make a specialty of FLORISTS STANDARD POTS

Manufactured by BRAZIL POTTERY & CLAY MFG. CO, Brazil, Ind. Being centrally located we can save you freight. Also head-quarters for FLORISTS SUPPLIES. Write us for price lists and we know we will get your order. VAIL SEED CO., 150 No. Delaware St., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

STANDARD FLOWER POTS.

Send for our new price list, with extra discounts. All of our Pots from 7-inch and upwards have our Patent Excelsior Bottom, which is a great advantage as it insures perfect drainage. A FULL LINE OF BULB PANS.

THE WHILLDIN POTTERY COMPANY, 713 to 719 Wharton Street, Philadelphia, Pa. BRANCH WAREHOUSES: { Kearney and Westalde Aves., Jersey City, N. J. Jackson Ave. and Pearson St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Standard Flower

OUR POTS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY.

We ship all goods from Cincinnati, guaranteeing lowest freight rates and prompt delivery.

Write us before placing your orders elsewhere......

CAMBRIDGE TILE MFG. CO., Covington, Ky.

STANDARD POTS.

We Michigaeture a full line of Standard Flower Pots, Hanging Vases Lawn Vases, Seed Pans and Cylinders, glazed and with handles.

SEND for our price list before ordering else-where and save 25 per cent. Address

Hilfinger Bros. Pottery, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

FLOWER POTS

A SPECIALTY STANDARD POTS

List and SAMPLES EDEP

J. G. SWAHN'S SONS, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

FI LL SIZE AND WIDE BOTTOMS BULB PANS AND AZALEA POTS

DETROIT FLOWER POT M'F'Y, HARRY BALSLEY, DETROIT, MICH.,
Rup. 490 HOWARD ST.

Standard Pots

Good Railroad Facilities KELLER BROS. For shipping.
Special Attention Given to Mail Orders, and Special Sizes Made to Order.

NORRISTOWN, PA.

Price Lists Furnished on Application.

🛌 GEO. KELLER & SON,

Flower Pots. Hefore buying write for prices.

361-363 Herndon Street, near Wrightwood Ave., CHICACO, ILL.

Mention American Floriet

Standard 🛰 🤏 FLOWER

If your greenhouses are within 500 miles of the Capital, write as we can save you money.

W. H. ERNEST.

Station M, N. E.

WASHINGTON, D. C

Helpful Reminders.

Had I been reminding you last October, you would have been advised to secure a number of plants of Deutzia gracilis. Good strong roots usually fill 5 or 6-inch pots, and they should be packed in a cold pit, bringing a few into heat each week, as they are required. The number depends on the size of your business.

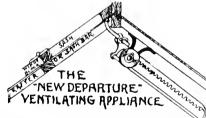

Those brought in January 1 are in bud February 10, and will be pretty for use in six or eight days more; the flowers are very much like lily of the valley, and can be cut in sprays six to eighteen inches long. They are as valuable as any hardy plant, and are beautiful forcut flowers, made up work, or the pots for decorations; there is no work in which they can not be used. You can get them at from $6 to $10 per hundred, and use them year after year.

For next year's use a few seeds of Draeæna indivisa and Grevillea robusta should be sown now; those which you started last year want a shift for your spring use. Petunia, lobelia and centaurea should be sown now. As watering newly sown seed is a "ticklish" business, set your pans or flats in the shade secure from They have no use for light until leaf shows, and the evaporation is less rapid in the shade. If you have camellias they should be syringed every evening, and do not let them dry at root; although you do not expect a crop before next fall, a fine growth should be secured this spring.

Next July, August, September and October you will want choice flowers for decorations. Secure now bulbs of auratum and speciosum lilies, pot them at once, set under bench, keep a trifle dry in a cold house, and you are safe for a summer crop after all your Harrissii are gone. As soon as they are started three to four inches bring to light.

The first warm day take a careful look at your fall planting of pansies, if they are O. K. shut them up and leave well enough alone for six weeks, but if you find the field mice or some other cause has destroyed many sow more seed at once, C. B. W.

You can not get a GOOD THING for nothing. But the price of this apparatus is next to nothing. Send for price and description to

J. D. CARMODY, Evansville, Ind.

Write for Estimates.

Butted Glass.

This is no longer an experiment, it has come to stay. There are various ways of making Butted Roofs, but the best way is with the

Clipper Bar.

With this bar you can make a roof that is absolutely free from drip, and glass cannot be torn out by the wind. Butted glass makes a tight roof, a warm house and sayes fuel. It lasts longer, looks better and costs less than the old-fashioned lasts longer, looks betterand costs less than the old-lastified roof. But do not think that this is the only bar we sell, for it is not; we furnish what people want and there is nothing in greenhouse material that you cannot get from us, and all of open-air-dried Cypress clear of bright sap, stained sap, knots and all other defects.

Lockland Lumber Co.

Write for Circulars or Estimates

Lockland, Ohio.

STANDARD

NONE EQUAL IT Strength Durability

Send for Catalogue.

VENTILATING MACHINE.

NOTHING Flimsy OR Complicated about it.

HIPPARD, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

NEVER DECAYS.

A. DIETSCH & CO., 619 Sheffield Ave., MFR'S OF RED CEDAR AND CYPRESS GREENHOUSE MATERIAL

CHICAGO.

Wheeler-Stenzel Co.

IMPORTERS AND JORRERS

399号号号号号号号号号号666

Make your contracts for next season now. We can deliver to any part of the country and Save You Money .....

)))]]]]]]

Greenhouse Glass

72 Sudbury St., BOSTON, MASS.

FOR SALE CHEAP.

GLASS for Greenhouses, Conservatories, Hotbeds, etc. Also Hotbed Sashes and Mats. Paints, Oils, etc. THE REED GLASS & PAINT CO., 456 W. Broadway, NEW YDRK.

Everybody is more pleased if you say "saw your ad. in the American Florist" when writing.

| Index to A                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | dvertisers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Advertising rates 187                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Lang Julius791                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Alien J.K                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Lang Julius                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| American Rose Co >*                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Amiltag E C 730 745                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Lord & Burnnam Co. 812                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Advertising rates  Auten J K 191  American Jadoo Co721899  American Rose Co. 8*  Amilia E C 190 740  Auil Bros Paper and  Box Co 190  Baker C F 190  Baher F A 843  Barnard W W X Co. 845  Barnlett Geo S 266                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Louisville Tobacco Co. sup                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Baker C. F 90                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Lucas J & Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Barnard W W & Co. St                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Manning Jacob W?8                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Barnard W & Co. Sci. Bartlett (160 S                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Masz J & CoSIS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Bayersdorfer 11 & Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | McCarthy N F & Co791                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Beckert Theo F                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | McDonald & McManus791                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Besold C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | McDonald & Stelle 800                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Bobbink L.C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Millang Frank                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Boerner Fred Nil                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Minor W L                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Borce J E & Co No.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Moon W II Co84                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Brague L B 720                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Morris Floral Co85Mound City Flo Co88                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Breck Jos & Son 796                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | National Flo Board of                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Breitmeyer J & Sons Sid                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | National Plant Co No                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Barley & Tyrrell 34                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Niemeyer II A800                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Beckert Theo r Besold C Besold C Blanc A x Co. 286 Bobbink L C. 286 Bobbink L C. 386 Boerner Fred 465 Boeton Letter Co. 366 Brakue L B. 370 Brakse L B. 370 Brakse L B. 370 Bretmeyer J x Son. 376 Budlong J A. 386 Burley & Tyrrell. 444 Burpee W Atlee & Co. 376 Cambridge Tile Mfg Co. 310 Contion H B. 374                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Londale A H. Sci. Lord & Burnam Co. 812 Loalsville Tobacco Co. 840 Locas J & Co                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | N Y Cut Flower Co791                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Cariton B. R                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Parlor City Flo Co797                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Chadwick Chas NE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Paxion Greenhouses. 801                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| ful Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Peacock W P804                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Clark, Everett B Co., 730                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Pennock Sam'l S791                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Burpée W Atlee & Co. 746 Cambridge Tile Mg Co. 810 Cariton H R. 744 Carmody J D. 811 Cartino E R. 744 Carmody J D. 811 Chadwick Chas 847 Chicago House Wreck- ling Co. 746 Clierk Everett B Co. 746 Clierk Everett B Co. 746 Clierk Everett B Co. 746 Clierk E & Co. 746 Conert & Jones Co. 746 Conert & Jones Co. 786                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Quaker City Mch Wks.812                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Cole theo F. & Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Randall A L 335                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Cole tieo E & Co. 712Cole tieo E & Co. 712Conard & Jones Co. 718                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Paxion Greenhouses. 801 Payne Frank S. 803 Peacock W P. 804 Pennock Sam'l S. 791 Prince A G & Co. 750 Quaker City Mc'n Wks. 812 Randall A L. 705 Rawson Grove P. 804 Kaynor J 1 751 Reddield B. 708 Regan Printing House of Steel Glass Paint Co. 811 |
| Conley John & Son                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Regan Printing House 702                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Cratz Robt                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Cunningham J H                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Reinberg BrosStillice M & CoStilli                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Danley S.T StS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Ricksecker C H 788                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Dickinson Albert Co 736                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Rogers P'k Floral Co .790                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Dillon J L                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Schiller J L38 86                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Conard & John & Son                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Reinberg Bros. Skir ilde M & Co. Sto Sto Stockescrer C H                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Ebret F                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Shepherd Mrs T B 75%                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Elliott W. H 725                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Stehrecht & Son                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Ernest W R $10                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Simmons W P & Co .801                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Farquhar R & J Co 805                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Skabeura Dip Co St. Skabeura Dip Co St. Smith Nath & Son St. Smith Wc 791 South Park Floral Co St. South Side Floral Co St. South Side Floral Co St.                                                                                                  |
| Faxon M B                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Smith W C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Flo Mut Fire Ins Co. 32                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | South Park Floral Co. 501                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Galvin & Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Standard Fertilizer Costs                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Gibbons II W                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Stearns Lumber Co 812                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Faryular R & J Co. 815 Fatron M B 233 Felthousen J E 844 Felthousen J E 844 Fle Mut Fire Ins Co. 122 Ford Brus 791 Glibbos II W 848 Gliblin & Co 848 Gliblin & J. 848 Gliblin & J. 848 Hart M A 791 Heckerkamp & Blaes Ling 784 Horrid & R. 848 Horri | St Louis Cut Flower Cors                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Gullett W.H.X. Son SE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Stollery Bros34 803Stolek J.N. & Bro 811                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Hall Ass n                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Sunderbruch 11 L Co. 189                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Hart M A 50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Suzukl & Ilda                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Heckenkamp & Blaes-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Swanna Sona J GSlo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Herr Albert M No                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | syracuse Pottery Co510                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Ing                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Vall Seed Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 11th D. 1 25 25                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Vaughan I C.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| HILLE G & CO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Vanghan, McKellar &                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Hitchings & Co 512Holton & Hinkel Co . 751                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Winterson,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Ho ker H M Cosil                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Wabash R R                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Hopp & Lempke vii                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Watson G C 732                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Hant E H                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Weathered's T W Son MS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Illinois Cut Flower Co 7 o                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Weeber & Don795                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Indianapolis Flower and Plant Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Wheeler Stenzel CoSil                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Jennings E B 186                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Whilidin Pot Co                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Jennings E B                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Willmore W W 84                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Keiler Bros 10Keller Geo & Sons 50Kennicott Bros Co. 130King 1 M                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Winter & Glover30                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Kennicott Bros Co 10                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Witterstaetter R 800                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| King J M                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | South Park Fiorni Co. 80 South Side Floral Co. 80 Standard Fertilizer Cosin Stearns Lumber Co. 81 Steffens Emil                                                                                                                                       |
| Kroeschell Brog Co. 328Kuchn C.A. 189                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Wors C.W                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Kucan A                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Wood Bros                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Kuhl Geo A Sec.Lawer & Hurrell Cos.Lake Geneva Flacto, Sg.,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Young John Welsh798                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

THE NATIONAL Florists Board of Trade

American Florist

r of observate l

Hitchings ESTABLISHED 50 Y

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS

GREENHOUSE HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

THE HIGHEST AWARDS RECEIVED AT THE WORLD'S FAIR FOR HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTURE, GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND HEATING APPARATUS.

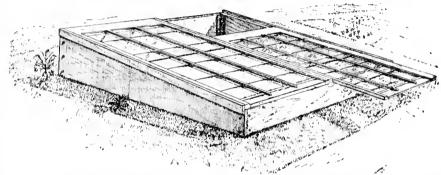

Conservatories, Greenhouses, Palm Houses, etc., erected complete, with our patent Iron Frame Construction. Send four cents postage for illustrated catalogue.

233 Mercer Street, NEW YORK.

LORD & BURNHAM CO.'S

CYPRESS HOT BED SASH and FRAMES

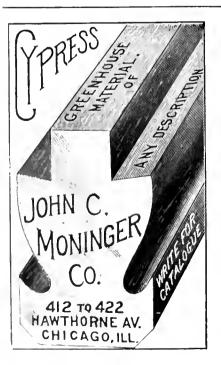

"The Best is the Cheapest."

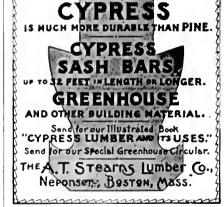

FREICHT ALLOWANCE covers Freight to most points in Eastern and Middle States. Send 4 cts. postage for entalogue of Patent Iron Greenhouse Construction Estimates furnished for Cypress Greenhouse Material Send to New York Office or circular and price list. Send 5 cts postage of latest catalogue of Creenhouse Heating and Ventilating.

New York Office: 160 FIFTH AVE., Cor. 21st St.

Ceneral Office and Works: IRVINCTON-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.

OT BED SASH of Red Cedar, Cypress and Pine. A. DIETSCH & CO.

Manufacturers of Greenhouse Material. 615-621 SHEFFIELD AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

America is "the Prow of the L'essel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 26, 1898.

No. 508.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Copyright 1898, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY,

324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.
Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2.00.
Subscriptions accepted only from the trade.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

ORNAMIENTAL HORTICOLOUSIS.

OFFICERS—WM F. GUDE, Washington, D. C.; president; A. DONAGHUE, Omaha, Neb., vice-president; W. J. STEWART, 67 Bromfield St. Boston, Masse, secretary; H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer. The fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Omaha, Neb., August, 1898.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Philadelphia, February, 1899. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

| William Nicholson (portrait)                                                                |      |       |       | ٠     | 813               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|-------|-------|-------|-------------------|
|                                                                                             |      |       |       |       | 813               |
| . Moisture the plant's greatest re-                                                         | qui  | 1.00  | ne i  | 1t    | 813               |
| The banquet.  -Notes. Details of the certificate scores.                                    |      |       |       |       | $\circ\iota\iota$ |
| -Notes.                                                                                     |      |       |       |       | 815               |
| Details of the certificate scores .                                                         |      |       |       |       | 815               |
| Late awards                                                                                 |      |       |       |       | 815               |
| Echoes                                                                                      |      |       |       |       | 815               |
| House of Mrs. McBurney carnation (                                                          | ill  | us. l | ١,    |       | 815               |
| Yan Vanl                                                                                    |      |       |       |       | 816               |
| Carnation Bon Ton, Grown by F.                                                              | .١.  | - 13  | lal   | ie.   |                   |
| (illus.),                                                                                   |      |       |       |       | 816               |
| (illus.)                                                                                    |      |       |       |       | 816               |
| PhiladelphiaRose Clara Watson (illus.)                                                  |      |       |       |       | 817               |
| Roston                                                                                      |      |       |       |       | 818               |
| Boston                                                                                      |      |       |       |       | 818               |
|                                                                                             |      |       |       |       | 819               |
| A correction.Tulips, narcissus and Dutch hya                                            | cin  | ths   | f     | or    |                   |
| Postur                                                                                      |      |       |       |       | 819               |
| Easter                                                                                      | •    |       |       |       | 819               |
| rufering parames                                                                            | - 1  |       | Ċ     |       | 819               |
| Split ealyx. Bugs on carnation blooms Wood ashes as a fertilizer for earnat                 | ٠    |       | Ĭ.    |       | 819               |
| Bugs on Carnation blooms                                                                    | tion | n s . |       | •     | 819               |
| Sleepy Helen Keller carnations                                                              |      |       | •     | •     | 819               |
| Rose, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan                                                                  |      |       | ٠     | ٠     | 819               |
| Rose, Mrs. Pierponte alorgan                                                                |      | • •   | •     |       | 821               |
| Chicago                                                                                     |      |       | •     |       | 824               |
| Paris                                                                                       |      | ٠.    | •     | •     | 805               |
| Cleveland                                                                                   | -    |       |       | •     | 200               |
| Lenox, Mass. Yard culture of roses. The seed trade Helpful reminders. Diseased rose foliage |      | ٠.    |       | •     | 820               |
| And culture of roses                                                                        |      | •     |       | ٠     |                   |
| The seed trade                                                                              | •    |       |       | •     | 14-14             |
| Helpful reminders.                                                                          |      | •     |       |       | 14-34             |
| Diseased rose foliageCanadian horticultural association                                 |      |       |       | ٠     | 5-19              |
| Canadian horticultural association                                                          | •    |       |       | ٠     | 530               |
| How to build rose housesDwarf herbaceous perennials for edg                             |      | é i   | 1     | lor   | 521               |
| Dwarf herbaceous perennials for eag                                                         |      | 1 111 | 11.11 | 16. 1 | 831               |
| Florists win a victory The growing of mushrooms Form notes                                  |      |       |       | ٠     | 833               |
| The growing of mushrooms                                                                    |      |       |       |       |                   |
| Fern notes.                                                                                 |      |       |       |       | 434               |
| Purplish pink geraniums                                                                     |      |       |       | •     | 834               |
| Fern notes. Purplish pink geraniums                                                         |      | •     |       |       | 435               |
| Cincinnati.                                                                                 | ٠.   | ٠     |       | ٠     | 830               |
|                                                                                             |      |       |       |       |                   |
| Worcester, Mass                                                                             |      |       |       |       | - 537- 537    |
| Bloomington, Ill.                                                                           |      |       |       | •     | 535               |
| Newport, R. I.Florists' Hail Association of Amer                                        |      |       |       |       | 838               |
| Florists' Hail Association of Amer                                                          | dea  | 1     |       |       | 838               |
| Pittsburg                                                                                   |      | ٠     |       |       | 0.01              |
| Rochester, N. Y.                                                                            |      | ٠     |       |       | 25.31             |
| Pittsburg Rochester, N. Y. Society of American Florists The plant swindler in Tacoma—sai    |      |       |       |       | 75,51             |
| The plant swindler in Tacoma—sar                                                            | me   | 21.   | 110.1 | :11   | - 711             |
| St. Paul                                                                                    |      | -     |       |       |                   |
| MILWRIECE                                                                                   |      |       |       |       |                   |
| Indianapolis                                                                                | ٠.   |       |       |       | 51                |
| Grand Rapids, Mich                                                                          | ,    |       |       |       | ×1:               |
| Los Angeles, Cal                                                                            |      |       |       |       | × 1.              |
| Alarm invention                                                                             |      |       |       |       | ~ 13              |
|                                                                                             |      |       |       |       |                   |

WILLIAM NICHOLSON.

President-elect of the American Carnation Society

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY

Moisture the Plant's Greatest Requirement.

That which is most common usually provokes least attention. The fact that water is connected with all kinds of life, that it is a universal solvent, and that it is aken up freely by organisms, and evaporated from their surfaces in large amounts, encourages indifference toward the subject rather than excites interest. Water hides under no disguises; it is always separable and recognizable; it does not partake of the mysteries of the food supply.

The man who undertakes to protect plants from the accidents of outdoor life by housing them under a canopy of glass, becomes the step-parent to nature, and will succeed best when he most fully understands the needs of the charges entrusted to his care. It does not follow that the greenhouse cultivator is to imitate nature in her methods of supplying the wants of the plant; more economical, more direct, and more efficient methods are often possible, and in fact are often necessary to secure commercial success.

Because out of doors it rains on the just and unjust alike is no reason why the florist should drench everything within his houses daily. Overhead watering under glass may be a good imitation of nature, but it is not necessarily the way to bring about the result the florist has in view, healthy plants with a maximum development of flowers. The watering-pot and its substitute, the spray nozzle, are to be considered primitive implements, which are to be laid aside as soon as improved methods can be devised. A move in this direction has been made by carnationists in using a modified nozzle and applying the water to the soil without wetting the foliage.

It is because the carnationists have shown themselves progressive, and willing and ready to test promising innovations, that I venture to advocate to-day a radical change in watering the greenhouse, and one that requires some expense to inaugurate. I remember with pleasure the reception of my paper before this society at its Buffalo meeting, in which I suggested watering earnations between the rows and keeping the foliage dry as far as practicable. Although the wraith of the red spider seemed to hover over the assembly and threaten grave disaster to such a course, yet the suggestion was tested, approved, and under various modified forms became a part of standard carnation culture. I now come before you to advocate watering the benches from beneath the soil and practical abandonment of surface watering and spraying. It has sometimes been called subirrigation, but a better term is subwatering.

The essential feature of this method, which was originated at the University of Ohio and has been tested in a number of places for various glass-grown vegetable crops, consists of a water-tight bench with a layer of open material on the bottom through which water moves readily, and the filling of the bench completed with soil in the usual manner. The bench is kept moist by supplying water to the porous layer bencath, from which the soil takes it by capillarity. No water is applied directly to the soil, and all use of the nozzle is done away with. Before giving the working details of this method, I wish to call attention to some of the reasons why watering plants should be considered a matter of great importance and worthy of the most careful study.

In the first place every plant, generally speaking, consists of three parts of water to one part of all other kinds of substances. This proportion is quite universal for all living things. It is equally true of trees, grass, mosses and molds. It also holds for animals. A cabbage plant and the body of a dog do not vary much in the proportion of water to solids.

Immature organs contain more water than when matured. Although the water in a whole carnation plant, roots, stems, leaves and flowers amounts to about 75%. of the total weight, yet in the young shoots, such as would be suitable for cuttings, it rises to 90%, and in the halt formed leaves is even greater yet. It we remember that the chief growth of the plant takes place in the parts where the largest amount of water occurs, we shall be reasonably safe in inferring that water is a very essential factor in growth.

It has been ascertained, in fact, that the tissues must not only be saturated with water, but they must be supersaturated, that is, contain so much water that every cell is distended with the pressure, before growth will proceed. Each cell must be stretched by the internal pressure of the water, as a toy balloon is distended by the air forced into it. It is this by no means inconsiderable tension that renders young parts firm and brittle, and when it is removed they wilt. No appreciable growth can take place in leaves and stems that are wilted, or in a wilted condition. In the carnation the cell structure is so compact and the walls so rigid that the loss of water is often very considerable before visible wilting takes place. At this point lies a danger, for the plants may suffer for water for some time before the attendant notices their condition. Withideal treatment the plants should never wilt, and never lack for water to enable them to

Not only must a certain amount of water be present in the plant to secure its active development, but a stream of water must be passing through the plant constantly, from the roots to the leaves. This upward flow of water is essential to most plants. It is the means of taking in the various fertilizing materials, or food substances, from the soil and transporting them to the upper parts of the plant, where they enter into the solid structures forming the tissues. The root hairs on the fine roots suck in the soil water, and its burden of nutritive material and force it forward into the larger roots and the stem, with pump-like activity, so long as water is available. The leaves dispose of the water by allowing it to escape from their surfaces as an invisible vapor, leaving behind all substances held in solution.

In some instances the water passes out through any part of the surface, but there are always stomata, minute openings, sometimes called breathing pores, which permit it to escape much more readily. The carnation has the surface of all green parts, both stems and leaves, overspread with a layer of white wax, which is impervious to moisture. All transpiration must therefore be through the stomata. These openings are very numer. ons, there being from one to five hundred thousand on every leaf Unlike most points, the carnation shows no material difference in the namute structure of the appearand lower surfaces of the leaves. they coeff in no sporgy tissue, and have the stomate distributed evenly through but both above and below. If one bould look through glasses that magnihould be through glasses that magni-red as reaches a common uncroscope, we lear reach appear to be thickly studded with reard openings, like hi-the reds, and petring into one, some way to ow the surface would be seen way to ow the surface would be seen way to ow the surface would be seen way to the after that automatically per mediclose in chairs the lips open adjust to per storic prevent the expectation to per storic prevent. The three redsections and when they in his stress constraints are also as a first or a first or the conditions per constraints of the conditions per constraints of conditions.

This is a fortunate arrangement, for it tends to prevent loss of moisture at a time when the roots for some reason are no longer able to supply the needs of the The second condition closing the stomata, is when water is dashed over the plant. A drop falls into each opening and causes the guard cells to swell until they effectually fill the passage. It matters not how much water the roots are taking in at the time, the whole water system of the plant is clogged and development is retarded.

Sometimes the movement of water through the plant is stopped, even when the stomata are open; for when the atmosphere is satuated it is evident that evaporation from the plant must necessarily come to a standstill. Perfect saturation of the atmosphere is probably rare even in a closed greenhouse, but partial saturation must in a measure check the internal water stream, and in so far must be detrimental to the best development of the plant. If there is anything that the structure of the carnation plant and the known function of the organs clearly teaches, it is that there should be a never failing supply of moisture for the roots, and a fairly dry atmosphere for the foliage. I venture to say that these conditions can not be better met than by sub-watering. The present method of surface watering, even when most skillfully done, probably never gives the plants the full amount of water they would use. The soil is alternately too wet and too dry, and besides often suffers from a lack of water at the bottom of the bench although the surface seems wet enough. The difference between the amount of growth when an ample and constant water supply is provided, and that secured from the usual surface method of watering is always a source of astonishment when fairly tested and the results clearly set forth. I have no data to present in growing carnations by the new method of sub-watering; and will not detain you with figures taken from erops of vegetables. But that the carna-tion will respond to this method as have other plants, there can be no doubt.

One other point needs mention in this connection. The physical character of the soil has much to do with successful cultivation. Some writers maintain that it is quite as important an item as the food supply. With sub-watering the soil supply. With sub-watering remains light and friable, readily perme-ated with oxygen from the atmosphere, easily penetrated by roots, and at all times in the best of condition for serving the plant. The soil of the bench once suitably prepared for the reception of the plant remains so, or even improves on account of the apward movement of the water through it. This is in marked contrast to the compacting that follows every application of water to the surface. Surface watering drives out the air from the soil at each watering, keeps the upper layers wetter than beneath, and makes it difficult to provide for the needs of the deeper roots

Beside the advantages in sub-watering, which I have mentioned, there are others which are incidental features, but by no means unimportant. One of these is the treedom of the surface of the soil from weeds, moss and slime. The surface layer can even be kept quite dry, and act as a mulch, it desired, and at any rate it will be the dryest soil in the bench. The dryness of the surface of the benches, and the an throughout the greenhouse, will have a marked effect in preventing and holding in check all lands of parasitic diseases, both fungous and bacterial, a desirable result that the carnationists are fully able to appreciate. The causes which prevent the inroad of germs, promote the functional activity of the leaves on the lower parts of the plant and they remain green and healthy much longer than usual, greatly to the advantage of the plant.

It is evident that the writer believes that the proposed system of sub-watering is in many way a good thing, and nowise injurious. He also believes that it can be made commercially profitable. The trial bench at the Indiana Experiment Station. which has been in use two years, chiefly for lettuce, is fitted with a water-tight lining of zinc, on which soft building brick are placed edgewise, their lower angles having been chipped off to permit freer movement of water between them. On this layer of brick the soil is placed in the usual manner. The water is run into the bottom of the bench through vertical tubes at intervals along the front, and at the rear overflows are provided at an inch above the bottom to guard against accidental flooding. Gauges, consisting of a simple bent tube, show when the water is exhausted. The bricks take up the water, and pass it on to the soil above, slowly and uniformly. By runring a water pipe along the bench opening into each vertical tube, the whole bench or the whole greenhouse, can be watered at once by turning a single stopcock, and thus do away with one of the time-consuming features of greenhouse work. Whether this be the best way in which to provide for sub-watering, time will reveal; but it is efficient, lasting and not expensive beyond profitable returns.

I have pointed out that the plant's greatest need is water; that three-fourths of its substance is made up of water; that it directly controls growth by maintaining internal pressure; and that a constant stream through the plant is required for healthful development. I have called attention to the disadvantages in supplying the plant, especially carnations under glass, with water in the usual manner, and not wishing to be opprobriously called a theorist, lacking practical ideas, have pointed out a better method, which has had some preliminary trial. I shall feel that I have not misjudged the importance of the matter to commercial growers, if any members of this society should find it profitable to make practicable application of the suggestions of the paper.

The Banquet.

The Egyptian banquet half of the Anditorium hotel was prettily decorated for the banquet tendered the American Carnation Society by the local florists on the evening of February 18. Groups of palms were placed at the entrance and other portions of the room, with large vases of carnations at the base.

The main table was decorated with a plateau of single narcissus, edged with tulips and large trumpet-shaped vases of Jubilee, Mayor Pingree, Mrs. McBur-ncy and Bridesmaid carnations. Longstemmed American Beauties were laid on the table, the flowers and foliage covering the table and hanging over the edge. There were four tables extending from the main one, and they were treated in different colors one with plateau of Brides and vases of Flora Hill carnations, one with plateau of Meteor roses and vases of Meteor carnations, one with plateau of Bridesmaid roses and carnations of the same name in vases, and the fourth with

Exhibitor

Mr. Heinl has recently added a seed busi-

Details of the Certificate Scores.

points awarded the different varieties in the competition for certificates.

allowed in the scale.

Variety

The following table gives in detail the

Every variety in the preliminary certificate classes scoring seventy-five points, or more, received a certificate, as there were no plants required in these classes, although ten points on plant were

In the three-year class it was unfortunate that Mr. Niquet failed to stage a plant of the variety Maud Adams, as he lost all of the ten points by doing so.

PRELIMINARY CLASS POSSIBLE 90

* Mrs. T. Lawson. 15 15 15 15 10 10 5 85 Fisher

Wellesley...... 10 10 15 12 8 8 5 68 Tailby *America...... 12 44 15 13 9 8 9 80 Hill

George M. Kellogg, of Pleasant Hill, ness to his flower store.

afternoon.

plateau of American Beauties and vases of carnations.

The bouquets were of Mrs. Bradt and Gold Nugget carnations. Instrumental music was furnished by a mandolin orchestra stationed in the balcony, and the Florists' Club quartette, Messrs. Me-Kellar, Winterson, Kissel and Balluff, aroused much enthusiasm with their selections during the evening.

The plants for the occasion were kindly furnished by Geo. Wittbold, the plateaus by E. Wienhoeber, the carnations by the late exhibitors, and the arrangements carried out by John Gormley and P. J. Hauswirth.

The banquet was served in the best style of the Auditorium, and in duc season Toastmaster G. L. Grant called upon President Rudd to respond for the American Carnation Society. Mr. Rudd was received with long continued and enthusiastic applause, and his hopeful predictions of the inture of the society were cordially endorsed.

Adam Graham, of Cleveland, whose name was associated with the Society of American Florists made very kindly references to its thriving auxiliary, and predicted a great future for it and all kindred organizations.

President-elect Nicholson's earnest words of promised work were warmly applanded.

Mr. Ilill answered to the toast, "The Future of the Carnation," and gave a rosy outlook anticipating the early realization of Mr. Thorpe's four-inch flower.

Mr. Scott replying to the toast, "The Whole Thing," made a characteristic speech touching on the good-comradeship enjoyed at this gathering, and said that it was worth coming 2000 miles to par-ticipate in this convention and exhibition, which he asserted was the greatest show of this flower the world had ever seen.

W. J. Vesey, secretary of the Fiorists' Mutual Fire Insurance Association, gave a very earnest and convincing talk on the merits of this plan and urged the support

Mr. Thorpe responded to the sentiment.
"The Old and the New," and he gave some very interesting reminisences of the early history of the S. A. F. and the natural branching out of the auxiliary ship of the entire assemblage.

C. W. Ward was called on to speak for "The Carnation in Greater New York, and referred to the high prices willingly Albert M. Herr spoke of the progress made by the society during the past year.

Mr. Dorner responded for "The Divine Flower" with all his old-time fervor.

Alex. Wallace put in a word for "The Hostianthyral Props."

R. Witterstaetter discoursed on "The Carnation in Ohio" calling attention to the progress being made there as else-

J. S. Stuart responded for "The Carnation in Indiana," claiming for that state a prominent place in carnation affairs.

much delight in referring to the pleasures of the evening, and dispersed at a late

Notes.

Joseph Heinl, of Jacksonville, Ill., was an interested visitor at all the sessions.

of all that a practical trial be given to it.

Mo., one of the enthusiastic supporters of the next national meeting of the S. A. F. at Omaha, who was present, takes a hopeful view of the coming meeting there. Saturday was given up to business calls at the various city stores and to excursions to the large greenhouse establishments at nearby points.

Alex Wallace, E. G. Hill and Wm. Scott did not get away till late Saturday natural branching out of the auxiliary societies from the parent source.

E. H. Giesy spoke to "The Voice of Prophecy," and succeeded in conveying to his hearers the information that "There's a good time coming."

Mr. Chadwick responded for "The Horticultural Societies," and the happy vein of his remarks won him the friendship of the auticus assemblaces.

paid for good stock.

Horticultural Press.

where.

The members of the society expressed

*Arbutus....... 15 14 15 14 9 8 5 80 Hill *Scarlet Queen.... 15 15 12 13 10 10 5 80 I(i)] Prima Donna... 15 13 14 10 8 8 5 73 Hill THREE YEAR CLASS, POSSIBLE 100. Color Size Culyx Stem Substance Form Fragrance Exhibitor Maud Adams 14 12 14 13 10 10 7 B 80 Niquet *Empress.... 15 15 13 15 10 10 10 8 96 Swayne *Eyelina...., 15 15 14 15 10 10 | 5 10 94 Wit'staetter Fort Wayne, 12 13 14 13 8 10 4, 6 80 Vesey *Argyle..... 45 14 14 14 10 9 5 10 91 Stollery

*G. H. Crane, 13 15 15 15 10 10 5 9 92 Dorner

B. No plant exhibited. *Certificate.

Late Awards.

A delayed package of carnations, from Geo. A. Rackham, Detroit, Mich., reached the exhibition hall on the closing day (Friday), and the judges awarded second prizes for fifty blooms of Wm. Scott and fifty Alaska.

Echoes.

Adam told Scott about the Duke of Argyle again, and they both laughed.

Dean Palmer and Chadwick lingered long by the Genesec, so did Long.

Peterson came pretty near h trouble with the Princess of Wales. having Somebody asked Balsley if he was not afraid of getting lost "Not with this suit on and I have no bell either", said Harry. Gurney has scarlet fever in a very pronounced form.

Egan told Weber twice that Mrs. Rob ert Garrett is very beautiful. Dorner has a new variety (carnation of course) built on entirely new lineslookout

HOUSE OF MRS. McBURNEY.

Michel handled those South Park roses like a pro.

Swayne was with the Empress nearly all day.

Bertermann or somebody else said Wiegand and Langstaff could not be both spared from home at the same time; Langstaff won the toss

Tailby was badly handicapped by distance, coming from the Hub.

Ward's Bon Ton is quite sparkling.

Coles may add another branch to his buisness-to grow tishing rods-several sporty men talked with him during the day

Craig's flowers unfortunately were not in the best condition.

Witterstaetter held a whole day's levee with his Evelina.

Cincinnati's was the banner crowd, Breitmeyer still smiles for Mayor

Pingree.

Some lessons in packing are still needed -several packages of seedling came in the worst possible condition. J. T. A saidwell he didn't laugh.

There are several other Richmonds in

If Edgar Sanders' rule had been used before, one of those Frisco flowers would have gone four inches. The rule was new and inexperienced.

The ladies admired the other two ladies, Mrs. Bradt and Mrs. McBurney.

Evans said the Challenge would have kept the temperature lower.

Phil Hauswirth began to place carnation supports on ice a week before convention.

Hart says he has his eye on five or six of the new ones all right.

Elliott thinks he has been well paid for tishing pole business, too.

his trip from l'ittsburg. It may be Bassett will go into that

New York.

BUSINESS GOOD,—SMILAN SCARCE.—A BIG WEDDING — CHANGES IN RETAIL AND WHOLLSALE ESTABLISHMENTS. - THE ANNUAL DINNER, HITCHINGS & CO'S EM-PLOYES BALL - ISMES AS A JURYMAN.

Up to Wednesday, when Lent began, trade has been quite good here. Bulbous stock has been moving better, which is a good indication of activity all through the list Smilax is getting scarce, as usual at this season of the year. Asparagus Sprengern seems to be gradually making a place for itself and is frequently called for It is available in limited quantities at a dollar for three bunches,

Monday next one of the largest wedding orders of the season will be executed by Hantt Bros. It is the wed ding of Geo. Lhret's daughter. Large quantities of hly of the valley, Bridesmaid roses and smala's used.

There will be several changes in retail stores towards spring [1] W. Scallen will move to rest door on Broadway Aleisch can will be associated with Mrs. Warend att at the store on latty much street and Madison come teamerly occupied by Chis Mitter

The Alades der will see some changes also. If A. Hoffman retries from busi ness in I wents might treet, the present cell. It is runnered that M. V. Hart is to cover how. If remoth to I wenty eighth STREET

The club direction is finday evening all to being the control of Prot John R. Smith, will be a large to a Proof John B Smith, less the officers of the Lenex Heathcult and Selective from a speed in vitations to be present [1,8]. We is listed to respond [1,8] are the same and the bill will be reported with this amendment. An effort should now be made by flower to have uniform legislations.

CARNATION BON TON, GROWN BY F. A. BLAKE.

for the S. A. F.; John Morris for "Our Night;" Prof. Smith for the Experiment Stations: Prot. Britton for the Botanical Gardens; C.B. Weathered for our Society's Influence and John Young for the Whole-

The fourth annual ball of the employes of Hitchings & Co. was held at Jersey City on February 15. Eight sets participated and the occasion was an unqualified success in every feature.

Ernst Asmus gets especial mention in the force (ity fournai as a model juryman. He is serving on the Simpson-Noonan conspiracy case. His "stylish equipage and well-matched horses" attract attention.

The committee representing the New York Florists' Club appeared before the Schate Committee at Albany on Wednesday and succeeded in having an amend ment adopted exempting florists' greenhouse plants, flowers and cuttings com-monly known as florists' stock from the provisions of the bill relative to the prevention of diseases in trees and pests that intest the same and the bill will be

Valettort should now be made by flo-

tion on this subject. In states where laws are already in force bearing upon this subject the florists should unite with the experiment stations in an effort to have the laws amended or interpreted as exempting florists' stock. The action of the Michigan authorities in admitting florists' plants without certificates or examination, provided the experiment station is notified by consignor and con-signee that florists' plants are being forwarded, also of the legislatures of New York and New Jersey and of the house committee in Washington in accepting amendments exempting such stock may be cited to strengthen the florists' posi-

Clarence, son of James Purdy, died at Sing Sing, February 25, aged 15; Mrs. Owen McDonald died the same date.

Philadelphia.

STOCK SCARCE.—PRICES ABOUT THE SAME. GREENS SELL WELL.—LADIES' NIGHT AT THE CLUB-PRIZES FOR BOWLING AND SHUFFLEBOARD.

The social season wound up all right, everybody seeming to be busy; growers are the only ones to complain, as flowers have been so scarce that they have not for the past week been able to send in their usual quota. "If demand and supply would only keep pace with one another what a delightful business this would be," remarked a grower theother day. When we have plenty of flowers the price is very low, and it is a hard job to get rid of the stock, but when they get scarce what a difference; there don't seem to be trains enough to get in the small installments the dealers must have, and the telephone is ringing all the time for more of this or that until one is almost distracted.

In spite of the scarcity of stock, prices have remained about the same for roses. Carnatious, however, stiffened up a bit, and $2 was asked for quite ordinary flowers. Daffodils, valley and tulips remain about the same, there being about enough for the demand. Violets have been plentiful at about the same prices.

Greens have sold well, very little adian-

Tuesday evening was a great success. There was a good attendance of the fair sex and all present expressed themselves as much pleased with their entertainment. President Harris opened the exercises with a few well chosen words in which he welcomed the ladies and expressed the hope that there would be many occasions of a like nature; he paid a glowing tribute to fair woman, likening her to a rose, the most beautiful of flowers. Poetry was also a feature, which we regret we cannot include in these remarks, not having the address at hand. Mr. Lonsdale accepted the position of chairman of the entertainment at Mr. Harris' hands. There were songs by Mr. Dumont, who has a fine songs by Air. Dilliont, who has a mic-voice, and by some other gentlemen out-side of the trade. John Walker sang an original song to the tune of "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-Night" that brought down the house. Robt. Kift also sang an original song for the Miss Nellie Hinckle, while the booby prize was taken by Mrs. Craig with a score of 000. Each contestant was allowed nine balls each at a full frame.

balls each at a full frame.
At the shuffle boards Miss Gloster won the first prize, Miss Carey the second and Mrs. John Burton the third, while Miss Annie Lonsdale won the booby. Every one present was immensely pleased with the entire entertainment, John Westcott particularly, as he was largely instrumental in bringing it about, and worked hard to make it a success.

Mr. P. H. Meehan who for several years past has served in the capacity of foreman for Myers & Sautmann, is now open for a position. Mr. Meehan has had great success with Beauty and Bridesmaid roses, his stock being equal to any coming to this market. He has also been quite successful in raising new varieties of roses, several of his seedlings having considerable merit.

ROSE CLARA WATSON.

tums going to waste, and asparagus, in bunches particularly, being always behind the demand. The Sprengerii is a good seller, and is being used considerably for table decorations: it certainly seems to have a future.

Blooming plants are now largely in evidence and brighten up the stores considerably. Azaleas, rhododendrons, lihaes, cinerarias, eyclamens, genistas, hyaeinths, daffodils and tulips are all to be had in quantity, and as a rule the quality is fine. The demand for this class of stock varies with the weather, a nice spring-like day seeming to put flower buyers in the humor to get a plant for the window.

The first ladies' night, or reception to the ladies, given by the Florists' Club last benefit of the bachelors. Mrs. Dr. Goebee played beautifully on the piano, and the "Brave Old Duke of York" was given in Mr. Lonsdale's best style.

After refreshments had been served bowling and shuffleboard for prizes was indulged in by the ladies and thoroughly enjoyed, particularly the bowling, as watching the balls slowly edging over to one side of the alley or the other, and going oil gracefully into the gutter before they touched the pins, was great amusement to all except the fair bowler, whose look of disgust would have done credit to a veteran. Some ladies took part in this game. High score, sixty-one, was made by a Miss Stewart; second, forty-seven by Mrs. Dr. Goebee; third, forty-three by

Don't forget the lily symposium at the next meeting of the club; it is a matter of interest to all growers of these bulbs, and now is the best time to discuss it. K.

The Clara Watson Rose.

This excellent variety has given much satisfaction recently and it is likely to be much sought after in the immediate future. It is a strong grower, and affords good results outdoors or under glass. The large flowers, of a beautiful soft pink with salmon shading, are produced in great abundance, and hold out to a remarkable extent for a rose of this delicate color

Boston.

LECTURE ON STREET TREES BY W. R. SMITH. -A NOTABLE BANQUET, +POETRY AND ORATORY. - NOTES FROM WABAN ROSE CONSERVATORIES. -- A BEAUTIFUL GREENHOUSE CLIMBER.

The announcement that W. R. Smith, of Washington, was to lecture before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on Saturday, February 19, on the subject of street trees, attracted an immense audience, nearly filling the lower hall. The paper was of the high character that would be expected from such a source, earefully prepared, well thought out and full of the garnered knowledge of half a century of devotion to this subject, and was followed by an animated discussion of the points touched upon. injury done to shade trees by electric wires was strongly dwelt upon by a number of speakers. On the exhibition tables were some interesting collections of flowers from James Comley, Mrs. E. M. Gill and others. Certificates of merit were awarded to W. W. Lunt for Cypripedium Lathamianum, and to James Comley for a handsome double pink prunus of Japanese origin. Wm. Thatcher showed plants of single violet St. Augustine, and donble primulas.

W. R. Smith was in the hands of his friends on Saturday evening. The banquet hall in the Brunswick was once more the scene of an enthusiastic gathering of the lovers of horticulture, who had come to do honor to their distinguished guest. The decorations of the tables and mantels were superb, rich material being contributed from many commercial and private establishments, and the work being done by Messrs. M. H. Norton and Carl Blomberg. Over the mirror was a canopy of the lovely Clematis indivisa which made such a sensation when similarly used at the time of the carnation society's entertainment here. The buttonhole bouquets were sprigs of heather, and appropriate quotations from Burns adorned the menu.

After the dinner had been duly disposed of, Mr. M. H. Norton rapped for order and briefly expressing his appreciation of the occasion, introduced Hon, C. W. Hoitt as toastmaster, who, in turn, presented the guest of the evening. Mr. Smith said he wished that he had words to utter what his heart felt. He told of the pleasure he always experienced in coming to Boston and meeting his friends there, and in describing his first visit, thirty years ago, dwelt upon the beauty of the grounds and surroundings at Mr. Hunnewell's place and the kindness of Mr. Harris to him. His witty allusions to certain experiences of late years with some of the gentlemen present were greatly emoved

Before beginning on his list of orators Judge Houtt gave them the timely admoni-

Maria

Mr. J. D. W. French, long identified with the library management of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, was the first speaker. He told in an interest ing manner of the importance of the great forest reservations of the state and the nation and wished that Mr. Smith night be brought here oftener. Prof. Louis C. Lison of the New Lingland Conscivatory of Music followed. He had been lecturing in a remote part of Pens, vivanic and lind traveled in the caboose of a freight trainfall. the previous might in order to participate in this occasion. He reterred to the great number and many concret of Smiths in the world, which he never could account for until he saw recently in New Jersey a sign inscribed "Smith Manufacturing and that explained it all. But this is the gowd, for a' that." He then one "is the gowd, for a' that." read a poetical effusion which he had composed while riding in the aforesaid caboose, in which the follies and accomlishments of some of the local craft were cleverly hit, the concluding verses of which were:

Then welcome to our good old friend. Then welcome to our good old friend.
Who traveled from afar,
The hand of greeting we extend
To our seort's Lochinvar.
To-night we are his kin and kith,
We're glad to meet you. Mr. Smith,"

So here's to him who is our guest. 'So here's to him who is our guest, With whom we come to dine. We greet him with our very best Because of 'And Lang Sync,' 'And this is of my verse the pith, 'Here's all good luck to Mr. Smith.'"

Messrs. Oakes Ames, E. M. Wood, W. J. Stewart, W. H. Manning, E. L. Beard, E. O. Orpet, J. Ph. Rinn, W. W. Lunt, J. W. Manning, W. J. Hargraves and others all spoke in appreciation of Mr. Smith's eminent services to horticulture, his honorable record, his attainments in his special field, his worth as a man and the pleasure they found in his acquaintance and friendship.

Mr. Jackson Dawson talked very interestingly of the trees he had noted in his recent trip to Europe, mentioning particularly the grand cedars of Lebanon in Scotland and the remarkable fact that the finest specimens of some of the Pacific coast trees are to be seen there. Fota Island, he declared beats the world for the great variety of its trees. Lawrence Cotter claimed Foto Island as the land of his nativity and corroborated Mr. Dawson's description of its beauties. He referred eloquently to Massachusetts horticulture, too. Warren Ewell was horticulture, too. reserved, like good wine, for the last. He said that he was relieved to find that he had not been left out and remarked that his favorite tree was the pine which is easy to climb in case of fire. Warren spoke but a few moments but succeeded in putting the entire company in a state of hilarious collapse before he got through. Then came "Auld Lang Syne" led by Prof. Elson and rendered with grand

At Waban Conservatories Mr. Montgomery has a house of Carnot roses which have just been cut back and are now beginning to break, after a dry rest, and are expected to yield a fine crop for Easter time. Mr. Montgomery says that Carnot is identical with Kaiserin in behavior and is of little value as a mid-winterrose. It has to be forced to keep it in bloom and then it loses color. They are cutting now from the first house of Brunners, good flowers for the season, and other houses are ready to follow in succession. The new rose Sharman Crawford is being tried in a limited quantity and looks promising now. Mr. Montgomery asserts that Mrs Pierpont Morgan is gradually gaming ground. A regular and increasing call for it has been experienced this season. It has been rather slow in blooming up to I chruary but will give a good cut from now on A handy device in use here is a quantity of tin sheets cut a fraction wider than the glass panes in the various houses which can be sprung into place at a moment's notice, from inside the houses, when a light of glass gets broken. These came in very useful after the recent blizzard. A number of these tin squares are proyided in each house

Chimatis indivisa is in bloom at Mr Hunnewell's and is a picture worth going.

Another prime a long distance to see. attraction is Begonia Gloire de Lorraine which has been constantly in bloom since November 1, and is still a perfect mass of pink flowers, in a house that frequently goes as low as 40° temperature at night.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society held a meeting on February 19th to decide whether it would remove from its present location to one better fitted for its needs. While there is undoubtedly a sufficiently strong sentiment in favor of a better location, with modern halls, etc., vet the society is not prepared to commit itself to any scheme for carrying it off a couple of miles from the center of business as the recommendation of the building committee provided, hence the whole matter was voted down and, for the present, there is not likely to be any change made.

The Massachusetts Forestry Association has been organized. Many prominent gentlemen have already signed the membership roll. Membership fee is $2. and life membership $50. Applications for membership should be sent to Allan Chamberlain, Winchester, Mass.

E. Sutermeister has been appointed assignee for Fred. W. Hiatt.

Louisville, Ky.

Business continues to be brisk here, with roses and carnations very scarce. season has been a very poor one for both, very few growers have cut as many roses this year as last, and all claim their carnations have done poorly; the writer himself having twice the amount of space in carnations and not cutting any more blooms than last year. This is no doubt caused by the continued cloudy weather we have been having here.

In my last letter I spoke of the need of a commission house here, since which time I have received several letters from retailers claiming I was mistaken and that we were receiving more money for our flowers than if they went through a commission house; also that it would be the means of introducing the fakir in our eity, which would injure our business very much. I would like to hear from some of our brother florists in cities that have both the commission men and the fakir to know what they think about it.

Mr. Rice, of Philadelphia, is in our city at present, and seems to be getting some good orders.

Geo. Schulz is sending in some very fine California violets, of which he has a large С. Н. К.

WILLIAM McMullax, recently of Buffalo parks, has been appointed superintendent of the Essex county (New Jersey), park system

CHAMPAGN, ILL.-Thursday morning February 17, the boiler room and a portion of the greenhouses belonging to the East Side Floral Co. were damaged by fire. The origin is unknown, and the loss will be about $2000. A large force of men were put to work at once, and everything is again in running order.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAIL -- The Salt Lake Plorists' and Gardeners' Association held its regular meeting at the Huddart Floral Company's office, February 16. was a large attendance. Addresses were made by the presiding officer, Mr. John, Reading, Mr. James Williams and Mr. H. F. Thornp. The next meeting will be held March 3, when officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Agate; $1.00 per inch. Cash with Order. No Special Position Guaranteed. Disconnts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

The Advertising Department of the AMERICAN FLORIST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in wares pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted.
Advertisements must reach us by Wednesday to secure Insertion in the Issue for the following Saturday.
Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

A Correction.

Mr. F. A. Chapman advises us of a mistake in the statement in our Grand Rapids notes in a recent issue that his "violet house was frozen." He says no such accident occurred.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Chapman's house is still in good shape and we trust that it will continue to bring him in many dollars till the end of the season.

Tulips, Narcissus and Dutch Hyacinths for Easter.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—In the issue of February 12, page 753, your correspondent "B." in answer to "A. V." states that in order to have tulips, narcissus and Dutch hyacinths in bloom for Easter (April 10), just seven weeks from date, it will be necessary to place them in a temperature of 45° at once, increasing the heat gradually to 65° or 70° in the course of the next two weeks.

Surely there must be some mistakehere, for if the bulbs are in the right condition for this season of the year, they will be well advanced, and should need but half that time to properly develope them, and a temperature of 60° would be ample, and if they get too forward, a lower temperature still will do, especially for tulips, for if allowed to expand fully many times, which they are bound to do in a high temperature, they will be useless as cut flowers.

There is no better place for tulips and narcissus at this season of the year than under the benches of a carnation house, where the drip from watering will not spoil the flowers.

NARCISSUS.

Forcing Paeonies.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—Will you please state through your columns whether it is possible to flower Pæonia tenuifolia fl. pl. by Easter? Would a violet house be the right place for them? They are now in a violet house in 5-inch pots. Would they need drawing up to get long stems? Imported from Holland last fall.

W. Dunman.

I am afraid all the flowers Mr. Dunman will get on imported pieces in 5-inch pots for next Easter will be quite easily disposed of. It is quite possible to flower Pæonia tenuifolia, but as they are gross feeders, I would shift them at once into 8 or 9-inch pots with good drainage, using the richest loam procurable, increasing the temperature from that of the violet house to about 60° at night with a further rise of 10° in the daytime, giving plenty of air on all favorable occasions. When the flowers begin to open, the plants should be moved back to the violet house and hardened off properly before using.

My advice is not to force them this year, but plant them out in well prepared ground, and after they have made about three years growth they will be fit subjects to force, if they will stand the climate.

LAWRENCE COTTER.

Split Calyx.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—Would you kindly tell me through the columns of your paper the cause and remedy of split in carnations. I have Portia and Silver Spray in one house and Portia and Wm. Scott in another. The Silver Spray and the Portias in both houses are splitting. Wm. Scott came in first-class flowers under the same treatment. I keep them at a night temperature of 52°; on cold nights the temperature falls a little lower; day temperature 60° to 66°. Would a too heavy liquid manure dressing cause split?

The gentleman wants to know the cause and remedy of split in carnations, especially with the varieties Portia and Silver Spray. As I understand it he means by split the bursting of the calyx. The cause of bursting the calyx is a problem difficult to solve; the fault lies in the calyx not being strong enough to allow the flower to push up through it and properly expand; and some varieties are weaker in that respect than others, among them the two varieties named, hence they are being discarded for varieties that show the improvement that is being made in this line by the various seedling raisers, and many a fine variety in other respects has to be turned down for this one failing. It can be guarded against to a certain extent, however, as careless treatment by over-watering, stripping the plant of too many cuttings, and overfeeding with liquid manure, together with a close atmosphere are great factors in causing a carnation to burst its calyx.

Bugs on Carnation Blooms.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—Will you please tell me how to get rid of a little bug that is eating the color out of the flowers of my carnations? It is about the sixteenth of an inch long and the thickness of a very fine needle.

MARY J. WALLACE.

I should judge by the description given of bug that mars the color of the petals of carnations, that it is a species of thrip. We have been troubled with the same thing at times in the summer when it was very hot and dry, but never at this season of the year. It would be a difficult matter to get rid of them now, after they have once got a good foothold, without destroying the flowers, as they are generally found down in the body of the flower before it is fully expanded. I would advise the lady to apply a light dose of sulphur and lime to one of the steam pipes and to keep an even temperature, avoiding a high, close temperature, and give ample ventilation on every favorable occasion; this, together with funnigating once in a while, may help to keep them in check.

Wood Ashes as a Fertilizer for Carnations.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—How would you use wood ashes as a fertilizer for carnations? What proportion, also what kind of ashes, leached or unleached, is best?

DILLON MYERS.

Unleached wood ashes is a good fertilizer for soils that are lacking in phosphoric acid and potash, and our experience with it is that it is best to mix it with the soil before filling the benches, using about 100 pounds to enough soil to fill a house 18x100, with benches five inches deep, adding the ashes about a month or so before, giving it a chance to work through the soil. This has proven a sufficient quantity for our soil here, but as there is a great difference in the nature of various soils, it is a difficult matter to state any definite amount for general usage. It can also be used as a light top dressing for carnations, but should be used with caution until the nature of the soil is thoroughly understood, and must never be applied when the beds are in a very dry condition, or it is liable to burn the foliage.

Sleepy Helen Keller Carnations.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—What is the trouble with my Helen Keller carnations? They make a clean healthy growth and produce good stems, but fully three-fifths of the flowers go to sleep when about half developed. This is my first trial of this variety. Would say that Storm King in the same bench, with same soil, treatment, etc., is doing first-class. McGowan in next bench is very good. Have given all the plants a light top-dressing of fine soil and bone-meal. Night temperature 55°, in very dull weather a little lower. Could you kindly point out eause of my failure.

THE FOREMAN.

The gentleman is having the same trouble with Helen Keller that seems to be universal, and the variety has been disearded by a great many growers for this one reason more than anything else. It seems to get affected more in mid-winter during dark cloudy weather, hence it would appear only natural that it needs a warmer temperature than most varieties, the soil to be kept on the dry side. There are some varieties of carnations that develop their seed-producing parts before the flower has had a chance to to properly mature, and self fertilization is likely to occur, which may be the cause of Helen Keller going to sleep so quick, but I have not studied this one particular variety.

C. W. Johnson.

Rose Mrs. Pierpont Morgan.

For two years we grew a small a house of the rose heading this note. It was not a great favorite, for some unaccountable reason, with the city retail florists.

reason, with the city retail florists.
We do not encourage retail trade here on our own place, eatering exclusively to the wholesale trade. Some persons will drop in, however, occasionally wanting flowers, and because the dealers in Philadelphia did not take very kindly to Morgan, this was the rose offered to retail customers. So well did it please them that we secured orders for delivery at regular intervals-twice a week. In addition to its other good qualities it is an excellent keeper. These customers an excellent keeper. These customers frequently remarked that the flowers when three or four days old were still in good condition, and when the fresh ones were delivered the older ones were forwarded and presented with evident great pleasure to some less fortunate person who did not have flowers often. For this reason, if for no other, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan ought to be grown to a greater extent than it appears to be, especially in the smaller towns where a florist is a combination of grower and retailer.

This year we are growing Carnot in the house occupied by the "Morgan" for the two years previous, and at this writing the change does not appear to be a profitable one. We must wait until the 1st of July, however, before making up our mind thoroughly whether we erred or not by the change.

L.

Cut Flower Price Lists Received.

Ellis & Pollworth, Milwaukee; W. A. McFadden, Cincinnati; John Fay Kennell, Rochester, N. Y.; Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwankee: Illinois Cut Flower Co.,

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE.

Advertisements under this head will be inserted at the rate of lil cents a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accumpany order. Plant advs. not admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the AMERICAN PLORIST for the year 1861s entitled to a tive-line want adv. free to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED By a dirst-class rose grower; 15 years' experience. Good references. Address D.W. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By competent grower in private or commercial place. Best of references. JOHNSON, 48 W. Huron St., Chicago.

SITUATION WANTED - By a competent store man, Siate with Freidman; reference given by Chicago wholesale florists R.A. care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By young married man; S good grower; lu years experience; second man, large place. Address L.A. care Am. Florist.

OITUATION WANTED—By rose grower as foreman; expert in all leading varieties of cut roses, 'mums, carnations, etc.; plants, nums, palms,etc. O.S., care american Fiorist.

STITUATION WANTED—By A-1 general cuttlower grower; good decorator Recommendations furnished; German American; 30 years old. Address V.G., care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED -A No. 1 grower of roses, carnations, 'mnms, etc.; sober and stendy, competent to take charge; prefer the west. Address N.N., care American Florist.

ITUATION WANTED-As assistant florist, single, age 25.7 years experience; sober and reliable. STUATOR ....
References. Address
1 H A. IIs Poinfret St., Carilsie, Pa.

OTTUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener of and florist to take charge of private or commercial place; age is married. Best of references.

CHICAGO care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By young man to learn the florist trade; suber and reliable; state terms.

Address W. C. GREGORY.

Box & Markham P. O., Ontarlo, Canada.

VITI'ATION WANTED—On dist-cl-ss commercial oline as rose grower, by young man, age 22. References are strictly first-class Please state particulars. Address.

PIERCE, one American Florist.

OFFICIATION WANTED—A competent seedsman wants situation with a reflatle seed house; can speak Futch, German or English; correspondence solleited. H. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED By experienced gardener and florist, German, to take full charge of private 37 and florist, German, to take full churke of private place. References. Al. Address, stating particulars, L.M. care. J. i. Schiller, 494 E. 44th St., New York.

SITUATION WANTED As foreman in first-class of establishment, specialities, roses, mums, carnations orchids etc. life experience; well up in other branches of the profession. C.O., care Am. Florist STITATION WANTED By practical forfst age 10, German single good grower of cut flowers and German single good grower of cut flowers ar general bedding plants, good wages expected. Refe ences. Fiolics: Cleveland State Hospital, Ohio.

STITATION WANTED To take charge of nursery of first class private place. References, Europe and this country. Middle age, single; I years as foreman in last place. CARDENER, Glen View, JR.

STITATION WANTED By practical florist of 17 years experience good cut flower grower, roses, carrentions etc. Competent to take charge; would work on shares. Reference and bond given. Address REFIABLE care American Florist STITATION WANTED As foreman on gentleman's pace near some bly city, gardener and florist, narried man, events old with small family, and best of freferences. Address with full particulars.

CAPABLE, care American Florist

STITATION WANTED As foreman by practical Cortal and grower specialty No. 1 roses earns there makes violete general stock etc., now discussing agest ages. Beet references Address. W. II. care 104 E. Main et. Allannes, O.

STIT ATTOS WANTED. By young man of good char acter cocommercial place in New England states towers experience or der flost class growers, capable taking clarge of bonses age 21. Good references Flow Will stric w Piessant wi Wakefield Mass

CITE ATION WANTED As foremen with some s) refined part) to a practical ground general atomic there whose a normer palms ferres and general atomic forcing of nulss as the experience references O Address
FOLOMAN Care American Floriat

who has devoted his lifetime to rose enture, well posted in our fit were designs and beingueta, able to take enture of any content of the content of the posted in the content of the cont

SITUATION WANTED—As manager of pork or private place; young German-American desires engagement; thoroughly experienced in all branches (an furnish best of references; married, family of two. Address RSL, care American Florist.

Oltruation wanted—a gardener experienced in propagating, culture of palms and terms foliage plants, roses, carnations, etc.; also in landscape gardening, botany and designing, would like a situation as foreman in a florist's establishment, park or college. Address CHR. Marken.

CHR. MARXEN, 76 Jefferson St., Battle Creek, Mich.

OlTUATION WANTED—By a landscape gardener and florist. German, married, 25 years old; 20 years' experience in flowers, vegetables, fruits, care of pleas ure grounds and bothouses; position in private park, cemetery or gentleman's place in city or country. Best of recommendations. Address II SCHERWAT, care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED—By Scandinavian-American, 25, single, as foremun or manager; 10 years' experience to principal countries of Europe and U. S.; roves, carnations and orchids; 'mums, paims, terms, bedd'ng stuff, etc.; Al propagator; new running 25,000 feet of glass; California preferred.

NEW YORKER, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman in cut thower setablishment, mostly roses and carnations: must be up to date in conveniences; by all-round man, single, American, nine years experience; don't use to-bacco or drink; west preferred; good wages expected, References. References.
240 Cottage Grove Ave., Des Moines. Ia.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman or manager in large commercial place by a first-class grower of roses, carnations, 'mums and general stock: life experience, married, age 30; has been foreman in large establishments for the past ten years; only reliable parties who wish a first-class man need answer; best of references. Address

ROSE GROWER, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman in good dorlsts' setablishment; tirst-class rose grower, niso palms, ferns, carastions, 'mums, violets and general stock; or take charge of a gentleman's good private place; oyears' experience in England and America, strictly temperate; good wages expected; married; disengaged about March lat, Good references, Address GEORGE NORTON, ISI Center St., Bridgeport, Conn.

WANTED-The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amager. Address L. JENSEN, South Butte, Mont.

WANTED Single man for general greenhouse work. Address, stating wages desired, etc.
HUNTSMAN & (O., Clacinnati. O.

WANTED-Young man to take charge of florist business and take interest in business. Address NEW YORK, care American Florist:

WANTED-Prices on 16x24 double thick A ginss.
Also rooted petunia and rose cuttings. Address
W. T. HEMPSTEAD, Boomington, 111.

WANTED-Trade list and catalogues of plants, bulbs, seeds and nursery stock,
MRS. W. E. FULLERTON, Whitman, Mass.

WANTED-The address of H. C. Bucheler; send immediately to MRS. H. C. BUCHELER, Oconomowoc, Wis.

WANTED Three or four young Borists, good workers, at once, for steady work; state wages with board H, care American Florist.

WANTE 1-California and Russian violet runners in exchange for 1000 American Beauty rooted cuttings.

P. K., care American Florist.

WANTED-A good, steady man to do general green-house work: married man preferred. Apply to JACOK MEYER, Morton Grove, Ill.

WANTED-Reliable man for roses and general floral work: good pay for good work. Address J. T. WILLIAMSON, Prop. La Rose Gardens, P. O. Box E. Memphis, Tenn.

WANTED On a large wholesale place in the west, two young men who understand packing and fill-ing plant orders—Address—Packing Deitt, care American Florist

WANTED Gardeaer where only one man is kept; palms, ferms, etc., and especially orchids; private place, Chicago, lawn, lires, cow; single man preterred. Address—C. H. W., care American Florist.

WANTED Experienced florist for general green-house work and decorating: a married man pre-ferred. Must have good'r ferences. state wages ex-pected. A.B. Postmaster, Memphis, Tenn.

WANTED After March 10 single man, A No 1 roses, entinations "mains, violets and general stock; must give good references, German preferred; state wages with board Address 8 K.W. care American Florist

WANTED To rent, with privilege of buying, green-houses. (1991 to 1049) feet of glass, perfectly heated that water preferred, and plenty of water and good soll, near Philadelphia Address. W.N.L. Box 23 Lancaster Pa.

WANTED A German gardener single man who understands growing and planting of vegetables to the hand outdoors. Give references. Must not be alread of work, wages paid from $15 to $20 per month and board. K.S.W. care American Florist

WANTED Foreman on commercial place, Call forals, must be experienced in handling men; with a repositionable knowledge of propagating and growing both hashle and out-competent to take charge tood habits and best of references. Address Cymyytrox, care American Florist

WANTED-A competent man for cut flower de-partment and making up floral designs and bou-quet work; also one that understands decorating and general greenhouse work. Apply CHARLESTON GREENHOUTSES, 339 Meeting St., Charleston, S. C.

WANTED-Young man thoroughly experienced in the best class of retail itorist business; must be first-class in window, table and wedding decorations, also design work. Apply with references, ability, etc., stating wages expected.

J. H. Duwlor: 445 Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

WOR SALE—One Alaska refrigerator in first-class condition.

JOHN H. ORTH & Co., Mckeesport, Pa.

FOR SALE OR RENT—Greenhouse and cottage on C. & N. W. R. R., 35 miles from Chicago: will make easy terms on sale or low rent. E. W. UPHAM, Waukegan, III.

POR RENT-Seven greenhouses, stocked: dwelling and land, siemn beat; convenient for Baltimore wholesale market, and fair local trade. Address MARYLAND, care American Florist

FOR RENT—Greenhouse, 6 000 feet of glass on Main street: street cars pass the door; store and dwell-ing house connected with same place 835 per month, P. N. SOETGA, 1822 Cedar Ave.. Cleveland, 0.

FOR SALE-Greenhouse plant of 5,000 feet of glass in Jamestown, N. D.; price $1,500; ½ cash, balance may be paid in cut flowers Address W. W. SEEKINS, 921 E 3rd St., Dulnth, Mion.

TO EXCHANGE

Cinerarias ready for 4-inch pots for Variegated Geraniums, Colens, Cyclamens, Verbenas, or five cents a piece, C. LAYER, Gilman, III.

FOR SALE.

A bargain never before offered: Five well-stocked greenhouses, brick dwelling, $69 and acres land in the beautiful city of Oconomowoc. Poor health is the only cause for disposing of same.

MRS. H. C. BUCHELER, Oconomowoc, Wis.

WANTED.

Situation as grower or salesman in commercial establishment. Can furnish excellent recommendations. Eight years with Fred C. Becker. ANDREW.

45 Hancock St.. Cambridge, Mass

WANTED

A large quantity of Boston Fern. State size and lowest cash price per thousand. Address . .

S J, care American Florist, Eastern Office, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good investment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health

For particulars ELLIS & POLLWORTH, write Milwaukee, Wis.

A Business Chance

FOR any one who wishes to buy at a reasonable rate, a flower store located on one of our buys streets; don't apply un-less you mean business, address all communicutions to

Wm. F. Kasting, 495 Washington St., Buffalo, N.Y.

Situation Wanted.

A COMPETENT MANACER of thorough ability and over 20 years' practical experience desires a position to take earlier charge of private estate, purk or itsk-chase commercial place: an experienced cultivator or paine, orchids, itorists' stock in general, shrubbery, truli and vegetables; a good floral decorator. Thoroughly reliable, married, with small family. Good wages required. Address

FLORIST, care S. J. Nelson, 206 E. 28th St., New York,

Never Fail to say "saw your ad. in the Florist."

Chicago.

Trade continues good; much more business could be done if the stock could be got to do it with. Bridesmaid roses and all varieties of carnations are especially scarce; extra select Bridesmaids were sold this week for 15 cents. The demand exceeds the supply for all kinds of flowers, except bulb stock, which is in good supply and comparatively cheap. It is expected that trade will slack up a little at the beginning of Lent, and that stock will soon be sufficient for the demand. Carnations are not coming in very plentifully, and it is doubtful if there will be any surplus in the market for some time.

Geo. Swoboda, of Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, Neb., was in the city Monday on business; Mr. Swoboda reports business good in Omaha. Thefloriststhere expect a much better spring trade next season than usual on account of the Exposition next summer.

At the meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club Thursday night, the committee on the entertainment of the carnation society, reported that the bills for the entertainment as far as they knew had been paid, there might be a few small accounts still unsettled, and that there would be a fur-ther small expense of the committee but that they felt certain that they would have surplus funds left after all accounts were settled to be able to return to the donators 25% of the money. The committee received a vote of thanks from the club for the very efficient manner they had done their duty; all present were highly elated with the grand success of of the carnation society meeting and the financial report of the committee. The order of the evening was the reading of a paper on marketing cut flowers by J. T. Anthony. The paper was well received and favorably commented upon by all

Mr. C. E. Sevey, of Fort Wayne, Ind., is in the city on business connected with greenhouse insurance.

Mr. Evans, of the Quaker City Machine Works, is still here.
C. W. Ward, of Queens, N. V., left for home Thursday night.

Plumosus Nanus.

Strings 8 to 10 feet long, 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

MARINETTE, Wis,-Geo. Vetter expects to enlarge his floral gardens, and has purchased the Eggner property on State

Wholesale Flower Markets

| CINCINNATI, Feb. 24.                                              |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Roses, Beauty select                                              |
|                                                                   |
| medlum                                                            |
|                                                                   |
| Didermands Juke 1.00                                              |
| Meteors 6065 8 00                                                 |
| " Peries                                                          |
| Carnations                                                        |
| " fancy                                                           |
| Valley 3 00                                                       |
| Pornana 0.000 v.00                                                |
| Romans 2 00@ 3.00                                                 |
| Narclssus                                                         |
| Daffodfls 4 00                                                    |
| Violets                                                           |
| Harristl                                                          |
| € allas $,00@ 10 00                                              |
| Tulips 3.00@ 4 00                                                 |
| Smilax                                                            |
|                                                                   |
|                                                                   |
| Asparagus 50.00                                                   |
| St. Louis, Feb. 24.                                               |
| Roses, Beautles 5 00@35 00                                        |
| Meteors                                                           |
| Pridge Dridgemelds 2.002.10.00                                    |
| Brides, Bridesmaids 3 URA III.IN                                  |
| Peries                                                            |
| WOOTLOH 3 000 5 00                                                |
| La France                                                         |
| " Kalserine 3.00@10.00                                            |
| " Kalserine 3.00@10.00Carnot 4.00@10.00                       |
| Carnations 2,50@ 5 00                                             |
|                                                                   |
| Violets, California                                               |
| " single                                                          |
| Valley 3 (0 a 4 00                                                |
| Harrisll                                                          |
| Callas                                                            |
| Tuffps 3 10 a 5.00                                                |
| Narcissus, Romans 2 00@ 3 00                                      |
| Smtlax                                                            |
| 54454                                                             |
| MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.                                               |
| Roses, Beauty                                                     |
| " Brides, Bridesmalds 3 00@ 8 00                                  |
| " Perle, Belle                                                    |
| " Meteors 3 00@ 8 00                                              |
| Carnations. 1.50 a 3.00                                           |
|                                                                   |
| Violets                                                           |
|                                                                   |
| Vailey 3.00@ 4.00                                                 |
| Freeslas                                                          |
| Tulips, Hyacinths                                                 |
| Tulips, 11 yacinths. 2 000a 4.00 Von Sions, Jonquils. 2 000a 3 10 |
| Callas. Harrish                                                   |
| Smllax                                                            |
|                                                                   |
| BUFFALO, Feb. 24.                                                 |
| Roses, Beauties                                                   |
| " Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors, 6 056 10 00                       |
| " Perles                                                          |
| " Niphetos 4 00@ 6 00                                             |
| " Kaiserin, Mermets 6.00@12.00                                    |
| Carpations extra                                                  |
| Carnations extra                                                  |
| v-1.50@ 2 50                                                      |
| Valley 3.00 a 4.00                                                |
| Violets 1 (10 a 2 00                                              |
| Romans                                                            |
| Romans 2.00@ 4.00Harristi                                     |
| Smilax                                                            |
| Adlantum 1.25                                                     |
| Asparagus                                                         |
| Toheragas                                                         |
|                                                                   |

CONSIGNMENTS CINCINNATI. O. SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO SHIPPING ORDERS

DIRFCIORY

SIXTH EDITION

Completely revised and greatly enlarged. * * * PRICE $2.00

Send us your business card or letter head at once, if you wish to get your name and address correct.

American Florist Company,

GHIGAGO, ILL. 324 Dearborn Street.

C. A. KUEHN. Wholesale Florist.

1122 PINE STREET.

ST. LOUIS. MO.

A complete line of Wire Designs.

MOUND CITY CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists.

Headquarters for the South West ....

When writing mention American Florist

ST. LOUIS CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists

E. H. MICHEL

1620 Olive St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

ROSES, CARNATIONS, AND ALL KINDS OF SEASONABLE FLOWERS IN STOCK.

F. KASTING WHOLESALE COMMISSION FLORIST....

495 Washington St., Buffalo. N. Y. Also Dealer in Florists' Supplies and Wire Designs

W. A. MCFADDEN.

CINCINNATI.

Producers and Shippers of every description of High Class Floral Supplies.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS. JARDINIERE FERNS.

Quotations issued weekly, forwarded

HOLTON & HUNKEL CO.

The Wisconsin Flower Exchange. Fresh Cut Flowers, Florists' Supplies Manufacturers of WIRE DESIGNS

Consignments Solicited.

Phone Main S74.

457 Milwaukee St., MILWAUKEE.

Hunt

THE "OLD RELIABLE" FOR

WHOLESALE

Hunt's Flowers Go Everywhere

76 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

Bassett & Washburn. Successors to J. B. DEAMUD & CO.,

CROWERS and WHOLFSALE DEALERS in

88 Wabash Avenue.

CHICAGO HEADOUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

Consignments Solicited.

19 & 21 RANDOLPH STREET. Fine Stock a Specialty. CHICAGO.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| CHICAGO, Feb. 25.                            |
|----------------------------------------------|
| Roses. Beauties per doz. 2.00@6.00           |
| " Brides 1 (0)(a) 8 00                       |
| " Meteors, Bridesmald, Kalserin., 4,000 8,00 |
| " Perle. Gontlers 3,000a (i.0)               |
| " La France Testout 5.(00:10.00              |
| Carnations, common 2 00kg 3 00               |
| " fancy 2,60a 6 00                           |
| Violets50@ 1.00                              |
| Narcissus, Romans 2 000 3 00                 |
| Callas                                       |
| Harresti                                     |
| Valley 2,006a 3 00                           |
| Tollps 1 00 a 5.00                           |
| Von Sion                                     |
| livacioths                                   |
| Adlantum 1.00                                |
| Smilax                                       |
| Asparagus                                    |

Always mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers.

WHOLESALE CUT FLOWERS WIRE WORK ASPECIALTY, 88 WABASHAVE CHICAGO.

E. C. AMLING. WHOLESALE

Consignments Solicited. CHICAGO.

Prompt attention to shipping orders.

A. G. PRINCE & CO.

ROOTED GARNATION GUTTINGS

Albertini and Bridesmaid, $2.00 per 100; Daybreak, $1.50 per 100, Lizzie McGowan, Ivory, Lizzie Gilbert, Fred Dorner and Rose Queen, $8.00 per 1000.

88 & 90 Wabaah Avenue.

Telephone Main 3208.

CHICAGO.

WINTER & GLOVER,

21 Randolph St., CHICAGO,

GRADE UU

PACKED RIGHT,

so they will reach you in just as good condition as they reach us.

WIRE DESIGNS: A Full Line. Write us for our lituatrated Catalogue. Mention American Floriat.

N. Y. CUT FLOWER EXCHANGE

404-412 E. 34th St. Near Ferry. Open for Cut Flower Sales at 6 o'clock Every Morning.....

DESIRABLE WALL SPACE TO RENT FOR ADVERTISING.

JOHN DONALDSON, Secretary.

Wholesale Florists

III West 30th Street, NEW YORK. Consignments Solicited. Telephone, 260 38th St.

5999999999999999999999999999999999999

ROGERS PARK FLORAL CO..

Wholesale Growers of

FLOWERS.

51 WABASH AVENUE.

- CHICAGO. HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

Now or Never

- at charge for getting your name it address into the PSe Directory. Do not be too article In addition to critically a complete a phase test of the incidence of any second of the incidence of high particle in a complete a phase test of the incidence of high particle I for incidence of high particle I for incidence of the property of the incidence of the property of the incidence of the book SPICIAL LITORIS are being put to be a first of the incidence of the phase section of the incidence of the i

American Florist Company,

324 Dearharn Street, CHICAGO.

Wholesale Florist

DON'T LORGET that we are at the old number. 126 Dearborn St, Chicago. Write for special quotations on large orders

Please mention the American Florist

MacDONALD & McMANUS

Supply Orchids every day.

Only House in New York handling Extra Fancy Stock for Special Occasions.

Telephone 2778--38th Street.

≥== 50 West 30th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

FRED. EHRET.

No. 1403 Fairmount Avenue.

Telephone, Long Distance.

PHILADELPHIA.

CONSIGN TO

BUY FROM

M. A. HART. Commission Dealer Cut Flowers.

113 WEST 30TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE BEST MARKET IN NEW YORK.

TRAENDLY & SCHENCK. Wholesale Florists,

Control the stock of many celebrated growers and are prepared to quote prices on First Grade Cut Flowers. All varieties,

38 West 28th St., and Cut Flower Exchange, Tel. 961 18th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| Now work Eak 00                         |
|-----------------------------------------|
| NEW YORK, Feb 23                        |
| Roses, Beauty,                          |
| Dr des, Bridesmaid a com in co          |
| Teatout, Carnot 4 000212.00             |
| Morgan, Meteor                          |
| Carnations 1.00@ 2.00                   |
| " fancy                                 |
| Valley 1.00 & 4.00                      |
| Mignonette                              |
| Violeta                                 |
| Harristi                                |
| Tullps 1.50@ 3 0)                       |
| Smltax                                  |
| Cattleyas                               |
| Daffodits, Jouquils 1.00@ 3.00          |
| BOSTON, Feb. 23.                        |
| Roses Beauties                          |
| " Perle, Niphetos 2 00@ 4 00            |
| " Bride. Bridesmaid, Morgans 4 00@12 (0 |
| " Carnot Meteor 6.00@12 00              |
| Carnations, ordinary 1.50 2 2 50        |
| " fancy 3 00@ 4.00                      |
| Valley, Daffodils                       |
| Violeta35@ .75                          |
| Hyacinths, Narcisaus, Freesia           |
| Tuilps 2.00@ 3 00                       |
| •                                       |
| PHILADELPHIA Feb 27                     |
| Roses, Beauties, per dezen 3.00@8.00    |
| Teas, Dista                             |
| ae rect                                 |
| Carnationa                              |
| Valley 3 00@ 4.00                       |
| Violets                                 |
| Narcisaua 2.50@ 3.00                    |
| Hyacintha                               |
| 10 mm all 10 mm a 19 m                  |

John I. Raynor,

49 WEST 28th STREET.

NEW YORK.

SPECIAL EXTRA STOCK OF AM. BEAUTY, METEOR,

Record Breaking Carnations ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

BRIDESMAID, BRIDE.

THOS. YOUNG, JR.

* * Wholesale Florist

43 West 28th Street, New York.

WALTER F. SHERIDAN. WHOLESALE

FLORIS

39 West 28th Street. NEW YORK.

Roses shipped to all points. Price list on application.

ose (irowers

Will find a good market and good returns for their stock at...

JULIUS LANG'S

53 W. 30th Street. - NEW YORK.

Edward C. Horan. 34 W. 29th Street, NEW YORK,

WHOLESALE • FLORIST.

Careful Shipping to all parts of the country, Price list on application.

9 Chapman Place, 15 Province Street. BOSTON, MASS.

assigned separate space in our market. We guarantee payment for all Flowers sold. Sales reported weekly; payments monthly, or oftener if required.

THE NEW ENGLAND HEADQUARTERS FOR THE BEST GRADE OF FLOWERS AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

J. K. ALLEN, ${f W}$ holesale Florist.

57 West 28th Street, NEW YORK, near 6th Ave. Elevated R. R.

BEAUTIES AND VIOLETS, SPECIALTIES. Consignments Solicited.

Commission Dealer in

Good Money for your Flowers. Good Flowers for your Money. NEW YORK. 49 WEST 29TH ST., NE TELEPHONE 1675 38th St.

THE NEW YORK CUT FLOWER CO.

119 and 121 West 23d Street, II2 and II4 West 24th Street,

Telephone 733—18th.

NEW YORK.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED. Special Attention Given to Shipping Orders.

GEORGE A. SUTHERLAND, Cut Flowers # Florists' Supplies WHOLESALE.

67 Bromfield St.,

BRIDESMAIDS.

BOSTON, MASS.

Wholesale Florists

JOBBERS IN FLORIST'S

FLORISTS' VASES. Horticultural Auctioneers.

84 HAWLEY STREET, • BOSTON. VIN&CO.

Wholesale Florists AND DEALERS IN ALL

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES,

4 Ordway Place, BOSTON, MASS.

Cut Flower Consignments Solicited. Best market.

JOHN YOUNG. ROSES, CARNATIONS, VALLEY

and all other choice cut flower stock.

NEW YORK. 51 W. 28th Street,

Price list on application.

FRANK MILLANG, CUT FLOWERS. WHOLESALE COMMISSION.

408 E. 34th Street.

Cul Flower Exchange,

NEW YORK,

WM. C. SMITH, Wholesale Florist,

40 So. 16th St., PHILADELPHIA.

Consignments Solicited. Special attention given to sbipping orders Long Distance Telephone 5008 A.

Paris.

Since my letter of January 14, the weather has changed very little around us. We continue to have a good deal of fog and rain, with scarcely any frost worthmentioning. The prevalence of the unseasonably mild weather induced our advance guards, snowdrops, ficarias, etc., to unfold their blossoms earlier than usual. It has been stated by our papers that in the central part of France a plum tree in the open ground was in full flower over a week ago. This is rather early as the tree may learn later on, to the detriment of its yield.

It one of the enclosed gardens at Dijon the hepaticas had, some time ago, their flower buds sufficiently developed to expand their nice blossoms before this date. Such an early flowering shows an advance of four to five weeks over the normal season, if we consider that in the district referred to, vegetation, besides snowdrops and ficarias, is very late in starting.

Notwithstanding the mild weather we experience, the trees and shrubs stick to their dull wintry garb and the blossoms of the plum and cherry trees do not seem to be auxious to emerge from their winter coating. They have learned often enough that the atmospheric eccentricities at this time of the year are pretty dangerous and often convert the brightest prospect into utter failures.

At the meeting of the National Horticultural Society held on January 27 last, some plants of the curious Cyclamen Papilio were shown, which attracted the attention of all the florists. The committees awarded to this sensational cyclamen a first-class certificate with a high commendation. The great feature of the C. Papilio is that its petals are very handsomely fringed and so distinct from any other of its congeners, that were it not for the foliage few persons would take them for cyclamens. A florist next to me was right in saying that the flowers hore some resemblance to pinks or dianthus plumarius of the cyclop type, with their dark eyes in the center of the corollas and general characteristics of the

The Cyclamen Papilio is not entirely new, the first variety, of a fine red color, having been exhibited two years ago under the name of Brussel's Best, by Mr. De-Langlie Vervaene, at the meeting of the Casmo at Glient, when an award of merit was adjudged to it.

It is a sport from the Cyclamen Persicum giganteum, and a few flowers grown by Mr. Draps, florist at Lacken, Belgium, have been illustrated in the Illustration Hortnovetor 1896. How is it that no more interest was centered on it at the

May be because the introducer asked 30 cents (American money) for each seed without giving any guarantee as to growth or constancy. Since the above date of its introduction, Mr. DeLaughe has improved to a great extent, the new race and obtained several new colors, a mong which Pas e Partout, white, Elec tric (esc. On arbus, pink. He claims that the strain is very constant, that every cell langs he true type, but may vary a little en color

Cyclames Papilio is a most remarkable deporture from all the cyclamens known up to date and is destined to take a fore most position among pet plants. Cul-ture same as that of C. Persicum gigan teum. A colored plate of it will be pub fished in the next issue of the Moniteur d. Hortnullure

Flowers in pots are a drug just now on our market. Hyacinths retailing at 4 cents and the best at 8 cents apiece. How can the growers afford to pay for the bulbs and grow the plants at such figures without losing money? On our central cut flower market large sprays of almond flowers coming from around Toulouse are just now sold. Parisian.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—A legal fight is in progress between the village authorities and a number of property owners here over the payment of taxes assessed last year. Among the number is F. R. Pier son, who disputes the assessment on his greenhouses and land.

Pedigree Cannas.

Our new Cannas. Rosemawr, Golden Pearl, Maiden's Blush, Duke and Duchess of Marl-borough Glorlosa, Sunset. Augusta, Baitl-nore, Philadesphia, Xc., are the very best. Write for list of new and standard varieties.

THE CONARD & JONES CO. WEST GROVE, PA.

GERANIUMS that will please you and prices that will suit you

8. A. Nutt. LaFavorite. Heteranthe, $2.50 per 100; $20.00 per 1000; Beaute Poitevine, Mary Hill, $3.00 per 100; Mme, Bruant, Frances Perkins, $5.00 per 100, 10 varieties Colens, 4 varieties Carnations, 2 varieties Ageratum. Prices upon application.

H. R. CARLTON, Willoughby, O.

DREER'S SUPERB

Double Fringed Petunias.

FOR thirty-five years we have made a Specialty of the PETUNIA. This year we again offer a set of lifeten varieties, unsurpassed either in this country or abroad. The plants are well established in three-inch pots full of vigor and will furnish quantities of cuttings in a short time.

These plants must not be compared in price with rooted cuttings or plants just potted off. The set is composed of the linest colors, especially suited for the retail trade, $1.00 per doz.; $8.00 per 100. The set of 15 varieties for $1.25.

Double Fringed Petunia Seed,

Double Fringed Petunia Seed, our own saving, 75 cents per 500 seeds; $1.50 per 1000 seeds.

HENRY A. DREER, Philadelphia, Pa.

Geraniums

We offer a superb lot of 85,000 Geraniums in line condition. All are well established, in 25 mech pots, just ready for shifting to 35 and 1-meh pots, in perfect health and strictly true to maine. We were awarded Medal of Merit on Geraniums by American Institute 25 at 100 rates; 250 at 1000 rates. Rooted cuttings at half the price of plants, for cent discount for cash.

At $2.50 per 100; $20.00 per 1000.

Sariet, Sariet, Bed of todd Biskop Wood Black Knight California Double Grant (true) Double Grant Light King Linst Kelway Litust Kelway
Lite Brand
Frod Kaust
Gene Grant Gaugler
Grand Chimeellor
Leonard Kelway
Mine A Maine
Mine Dupont
M. Louis Fago
Bonard ado
Sain Soan
W. A Chiffant San Sach San Sach W. Chalfant Win Kelwa, Fink and Salmon Barbazet Besser

Besute Pointerine

$20.09 per 1000.

Pink and Salm
Glory of France
Granville
Kate Pitterson
Mine, Chas M
Mine, Dunlap
Mine, Thebant
Mary Hill
Mirs V Blane Mary Hill Mrs. A. Blane Mrs. E. G. Hill Mrs. Willard Naomi Ruy Blas H. hite.

Alpine Beauty Glorie de Gorraine La Lavorite La Contione Mine A Chevaliere Mis J. M. Gurr Pe al White Perfection J. Sallier Mine: Hoste

Whole Swin

At $3.50 per 100,

Mine Broscot (new) ext Mine de la Croix ntexto Pink Bedder (new) Loreka, he vi Elent Points van

At $3.00 per 100.

Bruanti Coperine C, de Harcor C de la Baum Montesquin L de Girardin Pierre Crozy S A Nutt

Hedwig Buchner (new) C. de Harcourt (new)

At $4.00 per 100 all new. Alphonse Rieard

Mine. Jonlin

John Doyle M. Pointer Wm. Phizer Wonder

IVY GERANIUMS $2.50 per 100. Light sorts, including Souv, Chas, Turner

SCENTED GERANIUMS.

$3.00 per 100

Special circular, describing all except the Scented-leaved varieties, mailed free.

THE LOVETT COMPANY, Little Silver, N. J.

Cleveland.

BUSINESS STEADY.—FLOWERS POPULAR ON ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.-RETURN OF THE DELEGATES FROM CHICAGO.-A VISIT TO DORNER & SONS' .- MILD WEATHER.

Business has been as usual with the demand about equal to the supply.

The use of flowers on St. Valentine's Day is increasing each year. This year there was a very marked increase in business over any preceding anniversary of the day. The demand was mostly for fine dainty flowers of all kinds, and many florists did a rushing business in flowers of that class. One or two remarked that it was "like a little Easter." A few more A few more similar days would go far to ease the financial burdens of many a florist.

Flowers continue to improve in quality and quantity. Roses are now very good indeed. Carnations also are getting better in stem and more are being offered. Bulb stuff is coming in first class shape without much waste so far.

Prices, wholesale and retail, have not materially varied from rates quoted for some time past, although the fact that Lent is now here, combined with the probable increase in supply, will almost certainly bring about a change shortly unless business should hold up in quite an unexpected way. Roses show some slight inclination toward a drop of about a cent, which would make good grades come at about 5 cents instead of 6, which has long been the going rate for good stuff.

The party of five, Messrs. 11art, Eadie, Graham, Smith and Pentecost, who left here to go the Carnation Exhibition, got back during the week and reported a most enjoyable time and a magnificent show of blooms.

A visit to Dorner & Sons' establishment at Lafayette, Ind., was a revelation as to the possibilities in carnation culture. Mr. Dorner was a most hospitable host as well as an instructive expositor in all mat-ters pertaining to his favorite specialty. A house of seedlings in full bloom was a sight not easily forgotten.

The winter of 1897-8 promises to go down into history as one of the mildest on record unless it takes a sudden and violent spurt very shortly. The weather so far has been almost phenomenal in point of high temperature, there having been only one very short spell of zero weather, and that of exceedingly short duration. Α.

Lenox, Mass.

The last regular meeting of the Lenox Horticultural Society was held on Saturday, February 19. Mr. Geo. H. Thompson presided. There was a good attendance, considering the condition of the roads. The chief event of the evening was a paper on orchids read by John E Lager. The essay was listened to with interest and pleasure by the members, Mr. Lager exhibited some exceedingly well grown cattleyas of beautiful form and color, which were much admired. There were also exhibited a splendid bunch of violets, Princess of Wales, by Mr. C. R. Russell (certificate); a vase of mignonette, Allen's Defiance, having extra large flower spikes, by Mr. A. J. Loveless (diploma); a well flowered plant of Cattleya Trianæ by Mr. Wm Griffin, and a vase of sixteen Brides and Bridesmaids by Mr. Geo. H. Thompson for which he was awarded a diploma. These roses had remarkable fine stem and foliage supporting large flowers of good substance. E.

BEROUS BEGONIAS

Belgian Strain, per 100. . $2 00 English Strain, per 100. 4 00 The English Strain of Bego-nias are rich in color and large in bloom.

LILIUM SPECIOSUM RUBRUM, $3.50 per 100 LILIUM SPECIOSUM ALBUM, $4.50 per 100

Fine Nursery Stock such as Rhododendrons. L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Azaleas, Clematis. H. P. and Tree Roses. Branch of The Horticultural Co., Boskoop, Holland.

READ WHAT THOSE THAT ARE GROWING IT HAVE TO SAY:

MOUNT GREENWOOD, ILL

MOUNT GREENWOOD, ILL

MR. FRED BREITMEYER,
Mt. Clemens, Mich...

DEAR SUR:—In reply to yours for our experience of Cerise Queen, will say that under our treatment the color, form and substance is all that can be desired; we have also found it a very free and continuous bloomer and have never found a bursted callyx the whole season; it is a little weak in the stein, but we lay that to the poor place in which it is growing also we think one should be careful and not overfeed it, as it does not need it, but produces a fine flower under ordinary care.

Yours truly. C. W. JOHNSON.

H. DALE, Cut Flower Grower, Brampton, Ontario.

MESSRS, J. BREITMEYER & SONS,
Mt. Clemens, Mich.,
Gents:—The plants of Cerise Queen which you sent me hast spring for trial have done well; the tlower is of very pleasing color, stem medium length, 15 to 18 inches; habit of plant good. I shall plant it again next year.
Your truly, H. DALE.

DAILLEDOUZE BROS.

DAILLEDOUZE BROS., TABLESH, BROKKLYN, N. Y. JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS.
Mt. Clemens, Mich..
Gents: —We have a few plants of your No. 16. Cerise Queen, on trial; the flower is medium size, but fine color, in fact the only fault we find is its dwarf habit; we should like to grow some for side benches, as we believe it far superior to Tidal Wave for that purpose, and should make a commercial variety, but not high priced. —Please give us your best price on 1000 roated cuttings.

Very truly yours.

DAILLEDOUZE BROS.

GEO, A. RACKHAM, Wholesale Grower, DETROIT, MICH.

DETROIT, MICH.

J. BREITMEYER & SONS.
Mt. Clemens, Mich..
DEARSIRS:-In reply to yours asking as to my success with your No. 16. Certse Queen, will say that I consider it the ideal Carnation of its type, very productive, continuous, stiff stem, of medium length, and holds its color longer on the plant than any Tidal Wave ever grown. I shall plant a house of it, if I am able to procure the stock.

Yours, GEO, A. RACKHAM.

We predict CERISE QUEEN is the coming Dark Pink Commercial Carnation. Orders booked and filled in rotation. Price, $2 per doz.; $10 per 100; $75 per 1000.

Masor Pingree—the best of all yellows. Buy your stock from the Originators. Our stock is in excellent condition; $5 per 100; $40 per 1000, R. C.

JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS, Cor. Gratiot and Miami Aves DETROIT, MICH.

CARNATION

It sells because there is nothing in sight to at all equal it. It speaks for itself where-ever grown. It is fragrant. It is the largest bloom. It puts all others in the shade. Nothing past or present to equal it. We have four thousand plants exclusively for propagating from; don't allow them to bloom. Send at once and get the best stock ever offered. $5.00 per 100; $40.00 per 1000.

Our trade list is issued. If you have not received one send for it.

E. G. HILL & CO., Richmond, Ind. =

For Spring of '98 Now Ready

EVELINA, per 1000 $80. MRS. S. A. NORTHWAY.

WHITE CLOUD. ARGYLE.

GOLD NUGGET. BON TON.

Price for strong, well-rooted cuttings, per doz., $2.00; per 100, $10.00; per 1000, $75.00,

VARIETIES OF 1897

FLORA HILL.
JUBILEE...
MAYOR PINGREE...
MRS. C. H. DUHME...
MORELLO
VICTOR

Strong, rooted cuttings from flats, per doz., 75c; per 1000, $40..... ALASKA....
DAYBREAK
LIZZIE McGOWAN
MINNIE COOK.
WILLIAM SCOTT.
EMMA WOCHER

Transplanted plants from flats, per doz., 30c; per 100, $2; per 1000, $15.

CALADIUMS, Fancy Leaved, choice bulbs in named sorts, per doz., 75c; per 100 $12 00.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

NEW YORK, 14 Barclay St.

84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

STANDARD VARIETIES

Yard Culture of Roses.

There are three important things to be considered to be successful with the cultivation of out-door roses: First, a suitable location; second, suitable soil, and able location; second, suitable soil, and last, but not least, suitable varieties. I know of many persons who go to the woods to get light soil from old tree stumps which they use for preparing a bed for roses, and, after planting their roses in this soil and watering them carefully, feel discouraged that they do not make a strong growth.

In order to grow roses in the yard the first important thing is a good open exposure, if thirty or forty feet away from large trees so much the better. vellow, rather heavy fibrous loam with good drainage is considered the ideal soil for roses. Spread two or three inches of well-rotted cow manure over the bed, thoroughly mix same to the depth of one foot or a triffe over. A bed prepared in this manner should grow first class roses; if your soil is a hard, sticky clay it should be removed to the depth of fifteen inches and replaced with soil such as the above.

I have often been asked the best varieties for outdoor culture, and if I was to be confined to but three varieties. I should plant Clothilde Soupert, Mme. Caroline Testout and Kaiserin Augusta Victoria; these are three gems of the first water. perfectly hardy here, good growers and of good color. I do not wish to convey the idea that these three varieties are the only sorts we should grow as there are many handsome and satisfactory kinds which should be in every collection. I will name twelve of the varieties which have given the most satisfaction here: Clothilde Soupert, pink shading to white; Mme. C. Testout, clear pink; Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, white shading to light yellow in center; Meteor, velvety erimson; Belle Siebrecht, rosy pink; American Beauty, deep rose; La France, pink; Champion of the World, rosy pink; Mignonette, very dwart, carmine pink; Wootton, light red; Mine, de Watteville, white with pink shadings, very beautiful; Souv. de la Malmaison, flesh color.

These varieties are all hardy in this vicinity, (except Mine, de Watteville) if planted in a well drained soil; a light covering of manure, mostly straw, thrown carelessly over the plants late in fall will be beneficial. In a later issue I will give my views on summer treatment of yard W. W. Colles. or outdoor roses.

Indiana

Palmer's Hot Bed Mats

FROST

WILL not harbor mice or vermin. Easily handled. Dry out quickly after rain. Have now been in practical use three years, cost less than old-fashioned straw mats and entirely take their place.

MADE IN FOLLOWING GRADES:

No. 1—Burlap Cloth, filled with combination wood and quilted, seams 3 inches a part and edges firmly bound.

Size 40x76 inches, 50 cents each. 76x76 ... 75 ... ...

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 12 cents per running foot. پين

2

No. 2 Duck Cloth outside, filled and quilted

No. 2 Duck Cloth ones... same as No. 1.
Size 40x76 inches, $0.75 each.
2.76x76 1.00 "
Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 16 cents per running foot.

No. 3-Waterproof, made of oil duck, filled and quilted same as Nos. 1 and 2.
Size 40x76 inches, $1.00 each.
76x76 * $1.25 to $1.50 each.
Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 20 cents per running foot. يعن That these mats are a much needed improvement over anything heretofore used for the same parpose, is demonstrated by the large demand and many testimonials from prominent men in the trade. Everyone using flot Bed Mats should give them a trial.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

QUILTED HORSE BLANKETS the Cheapest, Warmest and Strongest in the World.... WE ALSO MAKE

The R. T. Palmer Co.

Or New London, Conn.

— 113 Worth Street, NEW YORK

Address all correspondence to The R. T. Palmer Co., New London, Conn. Agents wanted—pay good commission.

H. BAYERSDORFER & CO.'S

Seasonable Specialties: MOSS WREATHS.

FERNERIES AND JARDINIERES:

Norman Style in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Tuscan, in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Milan, in Sprays.

OUR LEADING NOVELTY: LACE VIOLET HANDKERCHIEFS.

H. BAYERSDORFER & GO.,

50, 52, 54 and 56 N. 4th St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

FLORIST WANTS EVERY DAY 🛰 🧀 Our Pelargoniums

AND STUFF THAT THE EVERY DAY

Our Verbenas

Are 10 11 in the and Rooted Cuttings, 75 per 100 sci 00 per 1000 POI PLANIS, $1.50 per 100 $20 per 1000

Our Hydrangea Hortensis

1111

Our Carnations

Our Four New Heijotropes

Our Begonias

Our Ivy Geraniums

AT OUT THE TOUR

Our Petunias

S 41 Sec. 100

WHOLISALL TRADELISE READY.

Our Coleus

Are very fluc. Record Cuttings. $1.00 per 100 - $6.00 per 1000. Per Plants, $3.00 per 100 - 200 for $5.00 - $20.00 per 1000

Our Cinerarias

Are cost right to polarie for Laster [33 on pair 100]

Our Roses....

Are right in ( - We shall have a special of the monthly little later - See catalogue.

Our Geraniums

•3 00 per 100 read the briest cost-

Our Umbrella Plants

Are a free a need by $3.00 per 100

Our Oleanders

victor is White and pink (96,00 per 100)

Our Vincas

W. h. e. oc.-psantst — 3-meh. *10-00 pc.; 190 - Emeh. *La 00 pc.; 100

Are very strong. A letter and F. Heinl. $6,00 per 100, mixed, $3,00 per 100.

Our Chrysanthemums Are of the very linest sorts grown. See entalogue, §3,00, §4,00 and §5,00 per 100,

Our Farfugiums Are Bue $10.00 per 100.

Our Rose Geraniums Are as sturdy as oak trees 32 00 per 100.

Our Feverfew Little Gem

Are strong, bushy little fellows, $3.00 per 100.

Our Otaheite Oranges

In bird. 3-tirch pols, extra fline, $10.00 per 100. 1-inch pols, $2.00 per doz

Our Moon Flowers

Are good - $1.00 per 100.

Then we have thousands upon thousands of other still too numerous by far to meation to takend 1, see up car spring Trade hat for what you want. Keep watch of our ads. We shall from time to time after stuff that is bound to be of interest to you.

L. SMITH, Aurora, Illinois.

THE SEED TRADE.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

JEROME B. RICE. Pres.: E. B. CLARK, 1st Vice-Pres.; S. F. WILLARD, Wethersfield, Conn., Sec'y and Treas.

J. C. McCullough, Cincinnati, reports trade as being fully up to his expectations.

MR. LEM BOWEN, of D. M. Ferry & Co., spent a few days last week with relatives in Chicago; he reports 1898 trade quite satisfactory and outlook good.

THE Atlantic Coast Canners Association closed a successful meeting at "The Genesee," Buffalo, the last week. Representatives from nearly all wholesale seed houses were in attendance.

Newburgh, N. Y.—The annual meeting of the Hudson Valley Horticultural Society was held here on February 3 and 4. One of the most important acts was the vote to change the name of the organization to the Eastern New York Horticultural Society. The papers and discussions were confined to subjects of interest to fruit growers, mainly, but on Thursday evening Prof. Van Brunt gave a beautiful stereopticon exhibition of "Oldfashioned garden flowers."

1878-

NEW Price List for If you have not re-Will mail you list illustrated descrip-

SPRING and SUMMER ceived, send Postal, and beautifully tive Catalogue.....

——ADDRESS—
H. H. BERGER & CO.. 22J Broadway, NEW YORK.

ESTABLISHED 1878.

(Branch for Pacific Coast, San Francisco, Cal.)

Hort.cuttural Imports and Exports from Europe, China, Japan, Australia, Mexico etc

NEW . GIANT . ESCHSCHOLTZIAS, "THE GOLDEN WEST."

New Giant Fancy Cosmos, six splendid varieties, separate, $1 oz.; Giant Cosmos, splendid mixed, 65c oz.; Calliopsis "Califoroia Sunbeams." $1 oz. Special rates given on Cosmos in quantity; Apple Geranium, fresh, $1 per 1000 seeds; New Large Flowering Zonale Geranium, $2.50 oz.; Ipomaa, "Heavenly Blue." $1 oz., $12 lb.; Laurustinus grandiffora, $1 oz.; Zinnias, "New Curled and Crested," 50c oz.; $5 lb.; Nasturtium Good Venture Mixture, 60c lb.; $8 per 15 lbs.; Seaforthia elegans (Palm) 40c per 100 seeds, $3 per 1000 seeds. Send for trade list of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs and Cacti.

MRS. THEODOSIA B. SHEPHERO.
Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal.

SHARPE'S "STANDARD" SEEDS

Bear a Century's Reputation for Uniform Good Quality.....

Introducers of....

SHARPE'S QUEEN PEA SHARPE'S TRIUMPH PEA SHARPE'S VICTOR POTATO Earliest of all earlies and best for forcing.

CHARLES SHARPE & CO., Limit-d, are prepared to make Special Offers of their Celebrated Stocks of Farm and Garden Seeds.

Sharpe's "Standard" MANGOLD Seed. Sharpe's "Standard" RUTA-BAGA or

Swede Seed.

Swede Seed.
Sharpe's "Standard" TURNIP Seed.
Sharpe's "Standard" GARDEN PEAS.
Sharpe's "Standard" GARDEN SEEDS.....
New seeds; well cleaned; carefully selected; skillfully packed in the most approved method, and delivered free to Shipping Ports.

CHARLES SHARPE & CO., Limited,

Seed Growers and Merchants (for Export), SLEAFORD, ENGLAND.

It is good business policy to mention the American Florist when you write to our advertisers.

5,000 SMILAX...

rom flats, by mall, 50c per 100, $4,00 per 1000 rom 2-lach pots, $1,50 per 100, $13,00 per 1000 rom 3-lach pots. . . . . . $3,00 per 100 end for asmples. Cash with the order.

FRED BOERNER.

Cape May City, N. J.

| -                                      | Trade |
|----------------------------------------|-------|
| ½ ∩z,                                  | pkt.  |
| Aster Queen of the Market, white$ .50 | .10   |
| " " light blue50                       | .10   |
| " " mixed 40                           | .10   |
| Candytuft Empress                      | .05   |
| dwarf, large flowering hybrida,        | .00   |
|                                        | .10   |
| Dew                                    |       |
| Imperial Japanese morning glory        | .05   |
| Mignonette Machet, true                | 05    |
| " Allen's Deflance                     | .05   |
| 1 '' Yelfow Glant                      | .30   |
| Lobelia Erinus Gracilis                | .05   |
| " Speciosa                             | .05   |
| Marigold Eldorado                      | .05   |
| Phlor Onef Core                        |       |
| Phlox Graf Gero                        | .10   |
| Prince Bismark 150                     | .15   |
| Salvia Splendens 1 50                  | .10   |
| Penduja 225                            | .15   |
| Verbena Mammoth Mixed 1.50             | .10   |
| August Rölker & Sons                   |       |

52 Dey Street, New York.

Write for our Seed Catalogue; examine Novelty Chapter.

Seed Stores and Flower Stores Can profitably handle our Packages of Plant Food Attractive, take little & & hooklet free. Good profits.

The WALKER FERTILIZER CO. Clifton Springs, N. Y.

. Padadaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa

THE ALBERT DICKINSON CO.

RASS SEEI

Parks, Tennis Courts, Lawns, &c.

In fancy I and 2 pound packages and bulk.

SPECIAL PRICES TO THE TRADE.

CHICAGO, ILL.

Why Not Try

Pure Eastern-grown Corn and Seeds. Contract with the EVEREITB. CLARK CO. for 1898 Crop. Sole Manufacturers and Proprietors of the Genuine Trowbridge Grafting Wax, now ready in 1-1b. bars at He; 32-1b. bars, 12c; 14-1b. bars, 13c.

(STRICTLY WHOLESALE DEALERS)

THE EVERETT B. CLARK CO. MILFORD, CONN.

BEST OF ALL'S TOMATO

"ENGLISH" MELONS

(FOR PORCING)

FLOWER SEEDS FOR FLORISTS
Catalogues on application

WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchants and Growers, 114 Chambers St., NEW YORK, N. V.

Manufacturers and Dealers COTTON SEAMLESS, BURLAPS, ETC. SECOND HAND BAGS BOUGHT AND SOLD.

CINCINNATI BAG CO. Second and Walnut Sts., CINCINNATI, D.

RAFFIA BEST QUALITY.
LONG MADAGASCAR
Ifaving purchased on a very favorable stock quickly, make the following special low quotalions for prompt orders:

special low quolations for prompt orders:
In bale lots (about 225 ibs.) at 8c 100 lbs. or over at. 9c 50 lbs. or over at. 10c 25 ibs. or over at. 11c 10 lbs. or over at. 11c

Grafting Wax
Troubridge's celebrated Grafting
Wax, the gennine article, 1 lb. bars at 190; ½ lb. bars at 20c; ½ lb. bars at 21c per pound. Rebates: 10 lb. lots, 5 per cent; 25 lb. lots, 19 per cent; 50 lb. lots, 15 per cent; 100 lb. lots, 20 per cent.

G. C. WATSON,

Juniper, below Walnut, - PHILADELPHIA.

FOR THE TRADE ONLY.

MARK.

WE import all kinds of Japanese Bulbs, Plants and Seed, and have our own Nurseries and Farms in Japan. We expect large shipments of Lilium auratum, L. spec. album, rubrum, Melpomene Cycas stems and Maples. Prices on application.

SUZUKI & IIDA,

No. 15 Broadway. NEW YORK.

No. 3 Nakamura. YOKOHAMA, JAPAN

BURPEE'S SEEDS PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Price List for Florists and Market Gardeners.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON CO.

Importers and Exporters of

Seeds, Bulbs 🔊 Plants, 501 TO 503 W. 13TH ST.

NEW YORK CITY.

Send for quotations on all Florists' Bulb Stock.

E. F. C. YOUNG, Pres. V. P. SNYDER, Vice-Pres. Jos. D. Bedle, Secy. R. S. Fowler, Treas. S.  $M_1$  Pease, Gen'l Mgr.

The Cleveland Seed Co.

Contract Growers of

and General

JOBBERS IN SEEDS.

Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Helpful Reminders.

Anything which is naturally dormant in the winter, that you will have use for at Easter, should be in growing position now, there is no time to spare; all bulbs which are rooted, shrubs which have been potted, lilies which show the little buds, and the various special stock which you desire for that date should be in such houses as you can best regulate. The temperature should be held steady. Particular care should be taken to have good fires on from 2 to 6 a.m. daily; that is the time of day to which most failures are charged, fires go down, and the delicate growths are damaged; and from 8 to 12 a. m. take special care of watering: your crops will not be a success unless you are most careful to comply with these two suggestions. There is not the danger of over firing now that there was in December; you may run it up if you can keep it there, but do not let temperature have a wide range. As soon as pots become fairly well filled with roots, and foliage is abundant, increase supply of water and keep sheep manure or some other good tertilizer in your barrels.

Your adiantums are starting now; elean off all the old fronds, fill in all cracks, if there be any in bed, with fresh soil; give them a top dressing, and put some sphagnum moss around any root that may be bare of old fronds; be careful that they are kept watered at the under side or the bottom. Wet the ground under heating pipes thoroughly so as to insure a constant vapor with the heat rising from the pipes to under side of bench.

Hybrid perpetual roses should be coming out in leaf now; attend closely to watering; don't syringe unless you are sure to have it fully as warm or warmer for two or three hours after. To syringe young foliage while the temperature is on the decline is dangerous.

Don't drag long pieces of hose around; iron pipes costs about one fifth as much as hose, lay it to all convenient points and carry twenty five feet of hose easily and attach it to the different cocks; it is cheapest and much less labor. C. B. W.

Diseased Rose Foliage.

Replying to the inquiry of "Subscriber," Lawrence, Kan., in regard to the rose tolloge received by mail. I think he hardly realizes how difficult it is with the meagre details turnished, and a few dried up leaves, to make any satisfactory reply. The rose grower is generally far too busy, at least I am, to spare the time needed to give such specimen a micro-scopic examination, and in order that I may arrive at any definite conclusion with regard to diseased plants it is important that a whole plant, stem, roots tolinge, soil and all be lurnished.

I judge the tolinge in question to be that of American Beauty. I have several times seen leaves of this variety similarly affected. The trouble may spring from a variety of causes and whether or not the places safter in homeonsequence will depend largely on the cause itself. Some times malching the benches with power to be above or applying a top dressing of wood as less or bone meal, will cause all the lease of the waver part of the plants to turn by which shridly and fall, in such instances I think there has been an ir terference with the regular flow of sap, either a quickering or the reverse. Thave never been able to determine which. The orly result will be the loss of a certain amount of the old toliage of care is taken to keep the surface of the benches clean, and the scalar accordation temppropriate the full benefit of contact with sunlight and air.

I would advise "Subscriber" around some of the poorest looking plants and examine the roots very critically, to make sure that there is no eel worm at work; if the search is negative, the plants should speedily recover and be very little worse for the ordeal through which they have passed.

ROBT. SIMPSON.

Paterson, N. J.—J. M. Hunter, of Hempstead, N. Y., has been appointed superintendent of Paterson parks.

CANNAS NEW AMERICAN Finest in the World Our Novellies for 1898

|                                           | Lifet, Total |
|-------------------------------------------|--------------|
| DUKE OF MARLBORO, darkest crimson         |              |
| DUCHESS OF MARLBORO, only pure pink       |              |
| TOPAZ, only absolutely large pure yellow. | 50.00        |
| LORRAINE, pink, edged white, finc         | 30 00        |
| MAIDENS BLUSH delicate fiesh color        | 15.00        |
| GOLDEN PEARL, yellow, nearly double       | 30.00        |
| UBA linest and largest gilt edged         |              |
| GLORIOSA, very dwarf. March delivery      | 12.50        |
| PHILADELPHIA glowing crimison             |              |
| CHAMPION, largest, glowing scarlet$5     | 00 each      |
| KLONOIKE, only large pure orange $2.     | .50 😬        |
| Send for complete list of 50 novelties    | and 200      |
| standard registing at learner urious      |              |

OUR CANNAS IN FRANCE.

OUR CANDAS ...

To Messrs A Blanc & Co.
Your new cannas of last year gave me much satisfaction. Please seed me a complete set or your coveties for ISB8 as soon as ready. Also 12
Glant Crimson, etc. Signed CH MOLIN,
Lyon France, Jan. 3, 188

ASPARAGUS SPRENGERI

Fine plants in 6-inch pots, ready for Sinch $5 per 12.

AMARYLLIS .....

Veltch's Hybrids. $1 per 12; Equestra, $4 per 100; Formostssima, $3 per 100.

CALLAS
Spotted Leaf, $3; Black, $5; Yellow, $30; all per 100. Golden, $2 each.

DAHLIAS

LILIUM AURATUM.

Il prizes out of 22 at the last Dahila exhibition. First prize Dahila, GULT EDGE, $15 per 100. Send for special list.

A. BLANC & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mention Am. Florist when writing.

SPRING BULBS

| 9-11 inch                    | - 000        |       |     | 5,00 | 45,00                                   |
|------------------------------|--------------|-------|-----|------|-----------------------------------------|
| LILIUM RUBRUF                |              | ecios | um) |      |                                         |
| 7-9 meh.                     |              |       |     | 1.75 | -10,00                                  |
| 9-11 inch.                   |              |       |     | 6.75 | 60,00                                   |
| LILIUM ALBUM                 | (Spec        |       |     | 6.50 | 55,00                                   |
| 9-11 meh.                    |              |       |     | 7.50 | -65,00                                  |
| BEGONIASSingle, separate | TUBEROOT | ED.   |     | 3.50 | 30.00                                   |
|                              |              |       |     | 9,00 | *************************************** |

TUBEROSES....

True Excelsior Pearl. "Hallock strain" First Size

GLOXINIAS Per doz. 85e, per 100, §5.00 CALADIUMS.....

Finey leaved, choice failles, per doz. $1.75; per 190-$1230.

CALADIUM ESCULENTUM

| (  | () | ı   | ı, | 1  |   | 10 | 1 | ļ  | į  |   | 4 | 1 / | 1 | ) ] | Ħ   | d |   | 1  | 11 | 1 | 11 | ,, | ٩  | 1   | W | 1  | 1  | 1 |    | ı | ľ | Ų, | ľ   | ŧ  | e)   | ıı | ۴, | Γ  |
|----|----|-----|----|----|---|----|---|----|----|---|---|-----|---|-----|-----|---|---|----|----|---|----|----|----|-----|---|----|----|---|----|---|---|----|-----|----|------|----|----|----|
| ~  | 'n | ı,  |    | ŗ, | ĸ |    |   |    |    |   |   |     |   |     |     |   |   |    |    |   |    |    |    |     |   |    |    |   |    | 1 | h | 1, | 1.  |    |      | 1  | () | () |
|    | t  | 0   | i  |    | n | 11 | ٠ | le | į. | h | 1 | ı   |   | ď   | i   | г | r | 11 | 11 | n | fı | 1  | ٠, | 1   | н | ٠, | ·  |   | 4  | 1 |   | ì  | ķ   | )  | 91   | 1  | b  | () |
| i  | ŧ  | . , | 1  | í  |   |    |   |    |    |   |   |     |   |     |     |   |   |    |    |   |    |    |    |     |   |    |    |   |    |   |   | ŧ  | V   | ,  | i,   | ı  | 5  | () |
| 9  | ŧ  | c,  |    | 1  | ř |    |   |    |    |   |   |     |   |     |     |   |   |    |    |   | ٠  |    |    |     |   |    |    |   |    |   | Ĺ | 1  | ĸ   | ı  | - 1  | i  | 5  | 41 |
| bi | į, |     | ı  | ū  | ı |    | i | И  | }  | ŀ |   | ς,  | 4 | ŧ   | . , | r | 1 | î  | 9  | ı | ŀ  | ī  | ı, | - 1 | ı |    | 11 | 1 | ul |   | ş | i- | - [ | .: | - li | n  | ٠  | i. |
|    |    |     |    |    |   |    |   |    |    |   |   |     |   |     |     |   |   |    |    |   |    |    |    |     |   |    |    |   | ٠, |   |   |    |     |    |      |    |    |    |

GLADIOLUS XXX Florists Mixture

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

NEW YORK 14 Barciny St.

CHICACO 84-86 Randolph St.

$15,00

A SET OF &

Long's Florists' Photographs

Will please you in your business and bring you profits. & Sets, $1.75 up.

CATALOGUE FREE.

Publisher. DAN'L B. LONG. -BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE Regan Printing House CATALOGUES SEED FLORISTS

87-91 Plymouth Place, *** CHICAGO

GEO. E. COLE & CO. Blank Book Makers. Stationers and Printers

86 and 88 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO.

THIS IMPRINT ON AN ENCRAVING

CHICAGO

IS A CUARANTEE OF SATISFACTORY

Manz makes illustrations for this paper.

Application Blanks and Prospectus Ready.... Write now. Delnys are dangerous.

W. J. VESEY, Sec'y, - Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE WABASH R. R. COMPANY

The Short and Quick Line between the East and West connecting Buffalo, Detroit and Toledo with Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

The Walash is the Only Line running sleeping cars and chair cars (free) between furfialo and St. Louis and kansas City.

Through sleeping cars between New York and Boston and St. Louis and Chicago run every day.

cago run every day.

For further information apply to the nearest Railroad Ticket Agent, or to

H. B. McCLELLAN, G. E. A.,

3B7 Broadway, New York Cily,

J. D. McBEATH, N. E. P. A., 6 State Street, Boston, Mass.

C. S. CRANE, Gen Pass. & Tkt. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

Do the American Florist a small favor. Mention the paper when writing to advertisers.

Canadian Horticultural Association.

REPORT OF MEETING HELD IN ST. GEORGE'S HALL, TORONTO, FEBRUARY 10.

The minutes of the meeting held in November last, for the purpose of drafting a constitution and code of by-laws for final discussion and adoption, were read and passed.

The president pro tem, Mr. W. Gammage, of London, then briefly laid the objects and aims of the meeting before those present: He opened his address with a grateful acknowledgment of the work accomplished by the Society of American Florists, and no less by the trade papers in forwarding and uplifting commercial horticultural interests in America. He referred to the simple and apparently insignificant commencement of the S. A. F., the remarkable strides it has made in the past thirteen years and predicted a proportionately large increase in the interest in and value of the commercial interests in Canada. The need of an organization such as the one proposed for Canada was obvious, and while he hoped nothing would be done to form a combine in the matter of prices or of labor, the best commercial interests of the trade could be best safeguarded by such an organization.

A grant he thought could be secured from the government to aid in the exhibitions to be held by the association. Another subject well worthy of attention was the credit system which should be thoroughly threshed out and some agreement arrived at as to what limit should be set and to whom the trade will extend credit.

At the conventions the first matter should be business—entertainment, after business was completed.

The secretary protein read the minutes of the last meeting, which were received and adopted.

The subject of the constitution was next taken up, and each article discussed. The changes made in the draft being so slight as not to require mention. The following officers were then elected: Wm. Gammage, London, president; F. G. Foster, Hamilton, vice-president; Jos. Bennett, Montreal, second vice-president; Hugh C. McLean, St. Thomas, secretary; John H. Dunlop, Toronto, treasurer; E. H. Carter, Toronto, vice-president for Ontario; Jos. Bennett, Montreal, vice-president for Quebec; Jas. H. Harris, Halifax, vice-president for Nova Scotia. Executive board elected for one year: A. H. Ewing, Toronto; Walter Muston, Toronto; Orlando Johnston, Kingston. Elected for two years: Harry Bale, Brampton; Chas. Serim, Ottawa; Geo. W. Mills, Toronto. Elected for three years: Thos. Manton, Toronto; Fred Mitchell, Innerkip; H. H. Groff, Simcoe.

The place of first convention was decided on as Toronto, during the second week of the Industrial Fair in September.

The secretary was instructed to have the constitution and by-laws as amended, printed and sent to the members of the association. Also to write the editor of the Florist for the kind wishes expressed in his letter to the association. The meeting then adjourned. Hugh C. McLean.

MR. NIEMEYER'S CARNATIONS.—In our report of exhibits at the American Carnation Society Convention the carnations Pluto, Uncle Sam and Goliath were erroneously stated to have been exhibited by Mr. Chas. S. Baker. They were shown by Mr. Henry A. Niemeyer, of Erie, Pa., who also exhibited Snow Queen, white, and Rob Roy light red.

WOODEN LABELS for FLORISTS and NURSERYMEN

Being located at the head center of this country for White Pine Lumber we are able to buy our stock right and furnish our customers with goods of the best quality and at prices which will put them at your station lower than the lowest. Our factory is thoroughly equipped and turning out promptly the most uniform, smooth and best painted goods made in this country, put up in neat packages, guaranteed full count and nicely crated.

SEND FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES.

WOODEN GOODS COMPANY, 83 Western Ave., MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Folding Boxes and Wax Paper

The Aull Bros. Paper & Box Go.

&&&DAYTON, OHIO.&&&

REED & KELLER.... Florists' Supplies

122 W. 25th St., NEW YORK CITY.

John Conley & Son,

Manufacturers of

TIN FOIL

2 AND 4 DOMINICK STREET,

New York.

Boston Florist Letter Co.

FLORISTS' LETTERS.

This wooden box nicely stained and varnished, 18x30x12 made in two sections, one for each size letter, given away with first order of 500 letters.

Block Letters 1 & or 2-inch size, per 100, $2.00. Script Letters $4 Fasterer with each letter or word. Used by leading florists everywhere and for sale by all wholesale florists and supply dealers.

N. F. McCARTHY, Treas. and Manager, 84 Hawley St., BOSTON, MASS.

Always mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers.

How to Build Rose Houses.

ED. AM. FLORIST:-Will you kindly inform me how to build two rose houses on a lot which is 60x240 feet, twelve foot drop in the 240 foot slope to the south? I would like to know the length of bars, the height of walls, and how the benches should be arranged for growing roses; and how high should they stand from the ground, and what varieties of roses grow best together in the same house?

SUBSCRIBER.

To build two rose houses on such a lot as above described, and get houses the best suitable for growing roses would be very difficult matter unless they were simply short houses which could be built across the short way of the lot; these of course could only be forty-eight to fifty feet long, as I presume there would have to be a drive-way left at one end.

But judging from "Subscriber's" question he wants to build his houses running from south to north; in that case I should advise him to build them equal span sixteen feet wide from face of post, leaving a walk two feet wide on each side and a center walk two feet wide. This will give him two benches five feet wide each; these if two feet six inches above the ground level make it very easy to work from all points without any board walks what-ever in the houses; but the greatest difficulty to overcome in his case is the elevation of his ground at the north end. 'Subscriber" does not mention how much he wishes to cover either in length or width, so that one cannot form any idea of his wants, but can only give approximate figures. Presuming that he would want to have the houses each 150 feet long, he would have a rise of one toot in twenty, or a total of seven feet six inches 150. To heat this satisfactorily he will have to place his boiler or boilers at the south end.

For such houses as given above they should stand five feet out of the ground, running on an even grade from the lowest point to the highest, and all on a level erossways of the houses, and should have at least sixteen feet between them to give all the light possible. Set the first row of posts solidly in the ground as near the tence on one side of the lot as is safe, then set those for the other side of same house exactly sixteen feet from face of these. The sides when finished should be five teet, the bars for roof nine feet six inches long, this will give a good pitch to same. The benches should be about two feet six inches from grade level. The heating pipes should have the flows next to the onter walls and the returns under the benches somewhat distributed, as it will be a very difficult matter to keep the high end of these houses at an even temperature with the lower, and I should advise continuous run of ventilators so that the whole or any part of it could be always under control as desired. Such houses would be better for two rows of light (rot over one meh) columns, one on either side about four or four feet six mehes from the ridge, with same size pipe for purios strapped rightly to each har this will keep the root perfectly rigid at Il times faithermore, the bars should be is light a possible, not over two inches deep cone and one tourth inches wide, and hould advise glass staten inches with to give all the light possible, the hours being placed it, disadvantage for lear and gill. It such houses any or all the belowing a metics can be grown the to locency are tess can be grown together, Brule Budesmand Mine Hoste,

Perle Abotton Morgans, Pres Carnot,

American Beauty, Clara Watson, Caroline Testout, etc., etc.

llouses longer or shorter can of course be made on the same principle.

JOHN N. MAY.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA.—The wife of G. A. Nichle, the florist, died on Sunday evening, February 13, aged 50 years.

ORCHIDS

Our Special y. Correspondence Solicited. LAGER & HURRELL, - Summit, N. J.

HARDY

Herbaceous Perennials

THE MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN AMERICA.

PÆONIES, PHLOX, IRIS, DELPHINIUMS, ETC., ETC.

JACOB W MANNING,
The Reading Nursery, READING, MASS. ESTABLISHED 1854.

When writing mention the American Florist.

FEBRUARY OFFER.

| 1'                                   | er 100 |
|--------------------------------------|--------|
| Alternanthera, Yellow, $1.50; Red$ | 2.00   |
| English Tvy                          | 3.00   |
| Begonias, 5 var                      | 3.00   |
| Oxalis Floribunda                    | 2.50   |
| Ceraniums, 16 Var., 2-in. pots       | 2.50   |
| Pansy Plants                         | 1.00   |
| CASH WITH ORDER                      |        |
|                                      |        |

JOS. H. CUNNINCHAM, Delaware, O.

BOSTON FERN

Nephrolepis Evaltata Bostoniensis. Strong plants, 6-inch pots, $1,00 each; $12,00 per doz., also three varieties of PTERIS, bushy plants, 5-inch pots, 200 each; $2,40 per doz.

JOHN WELSH YOUNG, .... CERMANTOWN, PA.

DWARF PAPAYAS

M<sup>OST</sup> magnificent beguns and a palm in beauty plant known. Liquid to a palm in beauty and manner of growth, grows with the ease of the Bicings and endures drought with imaginity. Plants from Ein Tots set out June 1st attained a height of 10 feet and though not watered once, remarged fresh ctel agreement throughout the extreme drought All a produces a delicious fruit as easily grown as clonate. Cor plants are propagated from a free which has produced this winter 192 lbs. of fruit, the the tweeping 12 lbs. Send for hulf-tone illo tration from plada slawing hed of these plants. I say florist needs it. Price $2.25 per 12 or 3 in pot ready May 1st. We tre headquaror trajacul prants - Send for list

Martin Benson,

ILLINOIS.

HARDY CUT FERNS

Do not order any ferns unless you are willing to pay this price as my stock is very limited and I have hardly enough now to carry my old stand-by customers to Easter.

L. B. BRAGUE, Hinsuare, ... PROBERT CRAIG Palms Ros. And Novelties in Decoration Market and 49th Street, PHILAL PERSONNELL TYPE CIALT ST VARIETIE

and Novelties in Decorative Plants.

Market and 49th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CARNATIONS, for fall delivery, CHRYSANTHEMUMS. SMILAX.

Prices low. Send for list.

WOOD BROTHERS, FISHKILL, N.Y.

Cocos

Healthy Growing Plants

Samples for Stamps

Weddeliana...

VIGTOR GARNATION

From sand $1.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. The best pink on the market!

.⊀. GLENSIDE. PA.

AND

LEUGOTHE of all wholesale florists-or write the introducer for free

150 Tremont Building. BOSTON, MASS.

BRILLIANI GREEN AND BRONZE

GALAX LEAVES.

For Decorating and all Florists' Designs. CHIS, H. RICKSECKER, Linvilla, Mitchell Co., N. C.

ROSE HILL NURSERIES. SPECIAL OFFER

Cocos Weddeliana $6.75 per 1000.

SIEBRECHT & SON. New Rochelle, N. Y.

BEGONIAS

Single, separate enlors Bouble, Gloviums, mixed

fraid

J. L SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., New York. Side Agent for Louis van Orleische, Ghent.

Dwarf Herbaceous Perennials for Edge of Border.

ED. AM. FLORIST:-Will you kindly inform me, through the columns of your paper, what you consider a few of the best hardy herbaceous perennials to use around flower beds in place of sods; something that will stand 20° to 25 below zero, and at the same time not be very tall.

Leominster, Mass.

Your correspondent does not give any information in regard to soil or situation, which are important items in estimating the hardiness of species, so I can only name a few that generally do well in his latitude.

There are a dozen or more genera that furnish us with low dense growing, but still manageable plants, for such uses.

As one of the best in every respect I should take Phlox subulata, which gives, in addition to its mat of perennial green, a sheet of bloom in the spring. Of this there are several good varieties varying in color from pink to white. A little taller are P. amœna, P. ovata and P. reptans.

The genus Dianthus gives us some very desirable border plants; the dwarfest of which is D. deltoides, a lovely little thing which makes a low dense mat of foliage, and is literally covered with a mass of small rose or white blooms for several months. Then there is the old "sweet May pink" which used to be so common as an edging the old-fashioned New England gardens. D. cæsins, D. cruentis, D. dentosus, and D. petræus are all good and all hardy with us on well drained ground. Of the taller growing species there are several. The pinks nearly all have the advantage of being evergreen, and so are of value in winter as well as in summer.

Campanula Carpathica makes a very neat plant for edges and is beautiful in both leaf and flower.

The dwarf irises are excellent plants for the purpose; for instance I. cristata and I. pumila. Some of the taller ones like 1. Ĝermanica are admirable. Some of the yarrows are useful, too; the red flowered form of the European A. Millefolium, the yellow flowered A. tomentosa and others. And then we have the sedums in half a And then we have the sedums in half a dozen or more species, thrifts, arabis, Saponaria ocymoides, aubrietias, Crucianella stylosa, which is very good, several low-growing veronicas and the cotyledons, such as C. tectorum, C. Ruthenicum, C. sempervivum and C. Verlotti.

JOHN F. COWELL.

Botanie Garden, Buffalo.

Florists Win a Victory.

The commissioners favor the bill now before the House to prohibit the sale of flowers from government greenhouses. They reported to Chairman Babcock to this effect. The verdict by the commissioners is considered a victory by the florists, although they are not entirely satisfied.

| Rooted Carnation | Cuttings,    | Pure, H  | ealthy,     |
|-------------------------|--------------|----------|-------------|
| Daybreak                |              | per      | 100, $1.09 |
| Alaska                  |              |          | 1 00        |
| Lizzie McGowan          |              |          | 1 00        |
| Albertini               |              |          | 1.50        |
| Jubilee                 |              |          | 1.50        |
| Della Fox               |              | 41       | 1 (21)      |
| Ivory                   |              | "        | 1.00        |
| Triumph                 |              |          | 1 (34)      |
| Well packed and         | delivered at | American | Express     |
| Office. Cash with ord   |              |          |             |

LE MARS CREENHOUSES,
W. F. Will, Manager, Le Mars, Iowa.

50.000 ROOTED GUTTINGS

CARNATIONS

Rose Queen, $1,25 per 100, or $10.00 per 1000; Juhilee, $2.50 per 100, or $20.00 per 1000; H. Keller, W. Scott, Tbos. Cartledge, $1.00 per 100, or $7.50 per 1000; Electronic Miller, $2.50 per 100, or $5.50 per 1000; Hardson's White, Eldorado $2.00 per 100 or $5.50 per 1000; Hardson's White, Eldorado $2.00 per 100 or $5.00 per 1000; CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Two-Inch pots

Major Bonnaffon, $3.00 per 100 or $20.00 per 1000; The Queen, Plnk Ivory, $3.00 per 100, $20.00 per 1000; President Smith, Eda Prass, $2.00 per 100, or $15.00 per 1000.

VIOLETS

Warle Louise $6.00 per 1000. Double Alysaum. 2-inch reference.

PAXTON GREENHOUSES, C. E. Taube, Prop.

50,000 Flat-Grown GARNATIONS

| STRONC STOCK. per 100                |                |
|--------------------------------------|----------------|
| Daybreak $2.00                      | $15 00 |
| Scot1 2 00                           | 15 00          |
| Roae Queen 2 (0)                     | 15 00          |
| Tidal Wave 150                       | 12.00          |
| Portia                               | 12 00          |
| Rob Roy (new) 10 00                  |                |
| Jubilee 3 00                         |                |
| Snow Queen 10 00                     |                |
| Silver Spray                         | 12.00          |
| L. McGowan                           | 12.00          |
| Eldorado. Meteor                     | 14100          |
| Flora Hill 5 00                      |                |
| Triumph, Armazindy                   |                |
| Pluto, new, and Uncle Sam, new, both |                |
| varietiea 10 00                      |                |

Cash with order. HENRY A NIEMEYER, Erie, Pa.

NATHAN SMITH & SON

Wholesale Florists

Specialties & & AG ADRIAN, MICH.

> CHRYSANTEMUMS CARNATIONS & & & AND VIOLETS

· · · CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED · ·

PALMS

Large Healthy Stock.

ALL MEASUREMENTS ARE

Areca Lutescens

| 3 p | lants, | , 4-in. | pot, | 12 to | 15-in. | high | , pei | 100   | $  | 20 00       |
|-----|--------|---------|------|--------------|--------|------|-------|-------|-----|-------------|
| 3   | 41     | 5-in.   | 44   | 15 to        | 18-in. | 4.4  |     |     |     | 40 00       |
| 3   | 46     | 6-in.   |    | 24 to        | 32-in. | "    | eac   | h     |     | 1.00        |
| 3   | 4.6    | 7-in.   | 66   | 32 to        | 36-in. | " 1  | ery   | bus'y | ea. | 1.50        |
| 3   |      | 8-in.   | 44   | 36 to        | 42 in. |      | 4.6   |     |     | 2 00        |
| 3   | 4.4    | 8 in.   |    | 42 to        | 48-in. | 44   | 4.4   |     | 64  | 2 50 |
| 1   | 44     | 10 in.  |    | 4 t€         | 5-1t.  | 44   | 44    | * 6   | 44  | 5 00        |

Latania Borbonica

| 2½-in. | pot,  | 3 | 10   | 4 leaves, | per  | 100,  | 11: | per  | 1000 | 35.00 |
|--------|-------|---|------|-----------|------|-------|-----|------|------|-------|
| 3-in.  | 44    | 4 | to   | 5 "       |      | 4.4   | s;  |      | 4.4  | 70 00 |
| 4-in.  | 44    | 4 | to   | 5 "       | 44   |     | 20  | .00  |      |       |
| 6-in.  | 44    | 5 | to ( | 5 "       | 18 t | o 20- | in. | high | and  |       |
| •      | wide. |   |      |           |      |       |     |      |      | .75   |

Cocos Weddeliana

1 plant, 5-in, pot, 25 inches high, each.....

Kentia Belmoreana

2½-in. pot, 3 leaves, 8 to 10-in. high, per 100... 14 00 3-in pot, 4 to 5 " 10 to 12-in, " " " ... 20.00 5-in. pot, 5 to 6 " 18 to 20-in. " each...... 1 (0

Kentia Forsteriana

5-in. pot, 4 to 5 leaves, 24 to 30 in. high, each, 1.00 6 in, pot, 4 to 5 leaves, 30 to 36-in, high, each, 1.25

JOSEPH HEACOCK,

Mention the American Florist.

WYNCOTE, NEAR PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Growing of Mushrooms.

The preparation of material and selection of good spawn are the two essentials necessary to a good crop. The growers around Kennett Square have to depend on city stables for good fresh horse manure, which is obtained by the carload, commencing early in October. This is turned three or four times to sweeten up and allow the violent heat to escape before putting under the benches of our carnation houses. Some growers use about one-fifth loam mixed with the manure, a little at each turning, but equally as good results are obtained without this extra bother. Both systems have their advocates about equally divided, with the chances of success or failure nearly the same.

The manure is thoroughly pounded down, and when the beds are completed, they are about eight to ten inches deep. These are allowed to remain in this state until the thermometer falls to 90°, and are then spawned.

A brick of spawn is cut in twelve pieces, which are inserted nine inches apart each way, about one to ten inches below the surface. Some growers case at once with two inches of any good soil; others wait ten or twelve days, or until the spawn can be seen running in the manure. After casing, the beds are usually covered with a light sprinkle of hay or straw, to prevent them drying out too much. Nothing further is done until crop commences to show, which often varies considerably; sometimes in four weeks, sometimes not until eight weeks, when a thorough watering (warmed to 80° or 90°) is given, after which water should only be given when beds are dry.

The mushrooms are picked just as they are about to unfold, packed in four pound baskets and shipped every day to our near markets. They must be handled quickly when ready, and are generally consigned to commission produce dealers. The crop when growing requires constant care in keeping beds cleaned of old roots, and seeing that the proper moisture is WM. SWAYNE. retained.

Price $1.50 per 12; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

Premium-5 Red Wave with every 100 Kathleen Pantlind.

Is a much more substantial flower than Daybreak; color a shade or two darker and entirely rust proof. Can be seen at Vaughan, McKeller & Winterson's every Wednesday and Saturday. HOPP

Paul P. O., E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

A RUST PROOF CARNATION FOR BUSINESS.

Bright searlet and POSITIVELY RUST PROOF. As productive as Scott. Rooted-Cuttings Feb. 15th, $10 per 100, $75 per 1000. Send for descriptive list of Firefly and fifteen other novelties of '98, fifteen varieties of '97 and older standard sorts.

GEO. HANCOCK & SON,

GRAND MAYEN, MICH.

will be paid for any RUST found in our Carnations.

McDONALD & STEELE, 109 S. Washington St., Crawfordsville, Ind.

New Carnation

Wins Certificate at Chicago. delay your orders and get left.....

Cuttings from sand, $2.00 per doz.; $10 per 100; $75 per 1000.

Twenty-five ($25) dollars will be offered for the best 50 blooms at November Show held in Chicago.

STOLLERY BROS., ARGYLE PARK.

Do Not Buy Carnation Cuttings FLORA HILL.....

At a less price than it costs to grow them and expect good stock. Our prices are as low as good stock can be sold for.

Gold Nuvget Empress $ 200 per doz. Mrs. Frances Joost. 10.00 per 100 Wellesly ..... 75 00 per 1000. Conen Shell . Psyche Jubilee 3 50 per 100, 30 00 per 1000 Eldorado ...... $ 2.00 per 100 Meteor 15,00 per 1000 Bridesmaid

| C A Dana              | I                                 |  |
|-----------------------|-----------------------------------|--|
| NiveaEdith Foster | $ 3.00 per 10025.00 per 1000 |  |

Alaska ..... $ 1.50 per 100 Scott ..... 1200 per 1000 McGowan..... Triumph ..... Mrs McBurney..... $ 2.50 per 100 H. Keller ..... 20 to per 1000 Armazindy.....

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, Worcester, Mass.

Is the grandest mid-winter carnation extant. This is the unanimous opinion of all who have seen it growing and predict for it a grand future. * Surpasses Wm. Scott.

R. WITTERSTAETTER, Sedamsville, O.

Fern Notes.

Osmundas. All of this family may be recommended as being very useful for decorations, the only drawback being that they take a long time to make plants of any size, and with the exception of O. palustris they are deciduous; besides being evergreen, this is also one of the handsomest ferns we have. It is grown to some extent for market work, and is found very useful either in a small state, or when grown on into larger specimens. It is of light and graceful habit, the young fronds prettily tinted with bronzy red. The North American O. gracilis (spectabilis of some) somewhat resembles palustris but is deciduous, it is also of more spreading liabit. I have seen two distinct varieties, one with quite pale green fronds the other having a dark bronzy shade. Our native royal fern, O. regalis makes a fine plant when well established, it is also useful in a small state, some of our growers go in for it extensively, chiefly for selling in 2½ or 3-inch pots. The soft pale green being a nice contrast to most other ferns.

As I have previously stated, the osmundas are very slow, they are also very uncertain about the time of making their first fronds, sometimes remaining some months in the prothallia stage. It is not difficult to distinguish them before they make their first frond, the prothallia being large and very distinct in appearance. I should mention that to ensure saving good spores, they must be taken while the capsules appear green; the true spores are of a dark green color, and drop out before they have the appearance of being ripe, consequently it often happens that only the brown capsules, which rub off in a dust-like powder are sown, hence

O. cinnamonea, and O. Claytoniana are both handsome ferns, but I have not yet succeeded in raising seedlings, and should be glad to hear if any difficulty is experienced in raising these in America. It may be that I have failed through not being able to get perfectly developed spores. I find with some of the tree ferns that spores taken from comparatively young plants grown in a close atmosphere will invariably fail, while there is little difficulty in raising seedlings from spores collected from more matured specimens, which have been growing in a dry, airy position. I believe this also applies to many other ferns. I might refer to the beautiful Onychium auratum. I once received quite a small portion of a fertile frond from India and from this I raised quite a nice batch of seedlings, but I have rarely succeeded so well since, though I have had what appeared good spores in great abundance. In Onychium Japonicum, it is quite the reverse, for spores are never very plentiful, though they rarely fail to germinate. I have had other instances of failure from what, to all appearances, were good spores. Of course failure often occurs through some fault in treatment, but where after repeated trials, failure follows, with one particular sort, while all others under the same conditions succeed, it can hardly be the treatment that A. Hemsley. is at tault.

Carnations Chrysanthemums

NEW AND STANDARD VARIETIES

Our new Trade List will embrace the leading novelties of 1898 and 1897 as well as the best standard sorts. Address

H. WEBER & SONS, - Oakland, Md.

NEW GARNATION

"Mrs.S.A. Northway"

A soft shell pink, developing to nearly pure white.

OUR MASTERPIECE.

We shall commence shipping soon.

Orders booked now and filled in rotation....

PRICE: PER 100. $10.00. $75.00.

R

Newer Geraniums.

Mme. Bruant, Mme. Jaulen, Fleure Poitevine, J. Sallier and J. Ricaud. Fine stock from 214-inch pots, $5.00 per 100 *** ** ROOTED CUTTINGS, $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000. Net cash. ***

GENERAL LIST OF GERANIUMS.

A superb stock in quality and variety of all the finest sorts, from 2½-in. pots, named. $25 per 1000; unnamed. $20 per 1000. **
ROOTED CUTTING, $12.50 per 1000.
Net cash. *****

Fuchsias.

A grand lot of summered-over stock in small pots that will make early blooming plants, $3 per 100.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO.

Make the following statement to the readers of the American Florist

As originators and introducers of
"Silver Spray,"
"Tidal Wave,"
"Daybreak,"
and "Rose Oueen,"

each of which has, we believe, proven even better than we claimed for them. We NOW say for 1898 that

"Mrs. S. A. Northway"

possesses all the good points that go to make up a first-class and profitable cut flower sort, and that we introduce it with even more confidence than we did the others.

It is an extra strong grower. It is free from rust or disease. It is a profuse bloomer.

It has exeedingly strong stiff stems.

It is of exquisite form full and double.

The flower is high built, petals serrated.

The calyx does not burst.

It is delightfully fragrant (a quality lacking in many new ones.)

OUR PRICE LIST now ready, contains prices on many other plants.

SEND FOR IT,

W. P. SIMMONS & CO., Geneva, Ohio.

A carnation that anyone can grow.

The New Commercial White GENESEE.

A year ahead of 1898 competitors.

Offered strictly on tested merits.

You are not asked to rely on speculative ideas as to probable future success But instead, we give you FACTS from SEVEN RELIABLE GROWERS who tested it in the past season in so many sections of this great country of ours.

All about it, with prices, in our handsome 12 page illustrated circular FREE.

DAN'L B. LONG, Sales Agent, BUFFALO.

SOUTH PARK FLORAL CO., New Castle, Ind.

American Carnation Society
WE GOT FIRST PRIZES ON .... W NOT SO NEW # # # # #

ALBERTINI HELEN KELLER AND ALASKA

as some, but the flowers were so fine they attracted a great deal of attention.

We have very fine rooted cuttings of the above for sale. Write for prices on them and other varieties, & & &

Purplish Pink Geranium.

ED. AM. FLORIST:-Can you or any of your readers tell me the name of a double geranium which is very common in the Cleveland market, and described as a 'purplish pink?" SUBSCRIBER.

The question is too indefinite, as the conception of color varies too much to convey any accurate impression as to what is meant by purplish pink. It might be anything between Emil Girardin and Dr. Kirtland, and would include some salmon pinks when grown outdoors. Bailey's Pink, a new one of local origin and darker than Girardin, might possibly be the one meant, although in the absence of any specimen of the flower one cannot be at all certain. Арам Сканам.

Cleveland.

Not Puritan.

ED. AM. FLORIST:—I see by your last issue there is quite a belief that the carnation Harrison's White is believed to be the Puritan. I say it is not the Puritan but a sport from Wm. Scott. Mr. Woods also stated that it was not be the light and the content of the light and th the Puritan, and he was the originator of the Puritan. The same day that Mr. Woods was here Mr. Ward was here also. I showed Mr. Ward a plant that I had photographed, and he said that if he had seen that plant before he formed his opinion, he would never have come to the conclusion that it was the Puritan. I believe there were some blooms analyzed. As far as I heard they proved to be identical in many respects with Scott.

John Harrison.

CARNATIONS.

WHITE CLOUD—White.
GOLD NUGGET—Yellow.
NEW YORK (Ward)—Bright cerise pink.
MRS. JAMES DEAN (Ward)—Clear silvery pink.
JOHN YOUNG (Ward)—White.
BON TON (Ward)—Scarlet.
Prices for above varieties: $2.00 per doz., $10.00
per 100, $75.00 per 1000.

will also have Cerise Queen (Breitmeyer), Argyle (Stollery), Jack Frost (Swayne), Em-press (Swayne), Evelina (Witterstaetter), Fire-fly (Hancock), Pyche (Hill), Painted Lady (Hill), and Mrs. S. A. Northway Simmons). All good 1897 novelties and other standard varieties at reasonable prices.

New Chrysanthemums.

MRS, C. M. PEIRCE—Yellow.

3bc each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100,
SNOW QUEEN—White

4c each $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100,
MERRY CHRISTMAS—Late White.

35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100,

Send for Descriptive Price List Ready January, 1808.

F. DORNER & SONS CO. EAFAYETTE, IND.

NEW CARNATION....

The argument bright r h r

Empress

Send for price list of above.

WM. SWAYNE, Box 226, Kennett Square, Pa.

TELEGRAPH CODE

AM. SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION

*M.OO,

Азывное опыкае то

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO.

Send for circular with description and photos showing the beanties of this grand white.

Suderba

You will find upon trial to be an all round good carnation, with the qualities required in a money-maker. It is pure white. Never bursts its Calyx. Good size. Free and perpetual bloomer, and in length and strength of st.m has no superior.

Plants Ready March 1st. $10.00 per 100 $60.00 per 1000

A. R. St.

John Burton

PHILA., PENNA.

A WINNER EVERYWHERE.

$2.00 per dozen; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000. Cash with order.

C. BESOLD, Mineola, L. I., N. Y.

, Keekeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeee

Experiences ... WITH ... CARNATIONS The next number ready March I, will be cultural as we'l as descriptive, and sent Iree to all applicants. I Guarantee all cuttings sent out and ofter a Special Guarantee to all buyers of Flora Hill and Triumph. ALBERT M. HERR, .... LANCASTER, PA.

.... LANCASTER, PA.

WANTED Carnation growers to look into the merits of and be convinced that it is the coming commercial variety of its color. READY MARCH 1st, Price, $2.00 per dozen; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

Send for circular for full description and a selectlist of money makers in Chrysanthemums.

STOLLERY BROS., Argyle Park, CHICAGO.

STRONG, HEALTHY ROOTED CUTTINGS Ready Feb. 1st and Later

Including Morello, Flora Hill, Daybreak Wm. Scott Lizze Mctiowan, Ivory, Silver Spray, Emily Pierson Goldfinch, Eldorado, and others. Send me a list of what you want and get prices before you love We also have a fine lot of Carmaton and Violet Idoons for sale. Write for prices, Address.

CHAS. CHADWICK,

Lock Box II. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

CARNATIONS

FROM SAND OR SOIL

DAYBREAR TIDAL WAVE $1.25 per 100, $10.00 per 1000 1.25 per 100, 10,00 per 1000 1.00 per 100, 3.00 per 1000 75c per 100) 7,50 per 1000 SCOTI

CASH WITH ORDER.

LAKE GENEVA FLORAL CO , - Lake Geneva, Wis

BAKER'S NEW CARNATIONS.

Grown and tested five years.

ONEIDA Pure pink, healthy; no rust; continuous producer: hargest size bloom.

RED JACKET—Bright red, fine stem and ealyx; continuous cropper $10.00 per 100.

Orders booked now to be illed in rotation as fast as

C. F. BAKHA, Ution, N. Y.

SELECT

FROM STRONG HEALTHY STOCK.

CARNATIONS Scott, McGownn, Cartledge, Tidal Wave... $1.50 per 100. ROSES Brides, Bridesmids, Meteors-$1.50 per 100.

Very best commercial varieties of 'Mums. Write for prices.

W. H. GULLETT & SONS, - Lincoln, III.

Say "saw your ad, in the Florist" when you write advertisers.

Cincinnati.

CUT FLOWER TRADE BETTER. -SUPPLY SHORT.-REMARKS ON THE CARNATION CONVENTION .- D. R. HERRICK SICK.

Cut flower trade has been better the past few days, and the shortage in supply still continues. There has been a brisk demand for all good stock of roses and carnations, and the outlook for an increase in the supply is not very flattering. Dinners, weddings and the natal day of this nation's first president, which was fittingly observed in and about the Queen City with imposing street parades and several swell banquets, made a good call for quantities of cut flowers. Violets and bulbons stuff are plentiful.

Mr. Frank Ball, of the H. L. Sunderbruch Co., when asked regarding trade, gave the following reply: "Business good, stock very scarce."

The delegation of thirteen (the unlucky number) came back from the convention all well pleased, and spoke in the highest terms of the treatment they received at the hands of the Chicago brethren. Mr. Will Murphy was the first to make his appearance, and said, when approached about the banquet, "Well, the boys up there had wine at the banquet, which was an improvement over ours." Mr. A. Sunderbruch was well pleased with the arrangements of the hall and the display of carnations.

"The vase of American Beauty I saw there, will linger in my memory as long as I live," said Ben George. "Flora Itill will be grown extensively," I heard Mr. J. Paterson say; she looked at her best. "Evelina was right in it, a pity Dick didn't enter it for the 100 bloom contest, was the remark made by E. G. Gillett.

D. R. Herrick, of the S. S. Jackson nursery, I regret to say, has been confined to his bed with a severe attack of kidney trouble, and from latest reports is seriously ill. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. M. Rice, of Philadelphia, was a caller this week. II. SCHWARZ.

FORT WORTH, TEX., Feb. 16.-Baker Bros., florists, have suffered loss by fire.

HOW TO GET RICH.

By Wm. K. Harris.

Stop here, my dear friend, and read this bright inge, It tells how to provide for ripe old age. The ridde is plain, just give it a thought, 'Tis selling goods high that were cheaply bought.

That active manhood may provide for old age, I offer the following plants at a reduction of from 20 to 25 per cent, less than my autumn price, after many months time has increased their size and beautified their growth.

Philadelphia is the center of the nation for decorative plants, and my stock is the Standard of Excellence by which all others are measured; so when you buy my stock at a low price, you are buying cheap indeed. One may say, "You know the secret that provides for old age. Why give me that which you lodd within your own grasp?" The answer is—"I must have room for Easter bloom, that fragrance may blend with the heanty of the day.

|         |               |          |    |         |     |      |      |     | each  |
|---------|---------------|----------|----|---------|-----|------|------|-----|-------|
|         | ıa Veitchii i |          |    |         |     |      | alze | tur | $210 |
| Cocos W | eddellana,    | 3 plants | tn | 5-ln. p | οt. | 75c  | 4.5  | 60  | File  |
|         |             | 1        |  | 4-1n.   | •   | aac  | 1.6  | ú,  | 25e   |
| 4.6     | *1            | 1 "      | •• | rmall   |     | 20c  | 4.4  | (a  | 15e   |
| Areca L | utescens      | 3 "      |  | ti In.  | * 6 | 1.00 |    | (4) | 75c   |
|         |             | 3 "      |  | 4-1n.   |   | 40e  | * *  | (17 | 30e   |
| Latania | Borbonica.    |          |    | 8-in.   | ••  | 2.00 |    | (it | -1.50 |
| ••      |             |          |  | 3-in.   | • • | Sc   |    | in  | tie   |

Dracaena Sanderiana (new). Livistona Rotundifolia, Rubber (Ficus Elastica), Pandanus Utilis, Large Areca Lutescens. Olaheite Oranges in bloom and in fruit, and much other fine stock at usual prices.

WM. K. HARRIS,

55th St. and Springfield Avenue, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

100,000 VERBENAS. THE CHOICEST VARIETIES

Fine pot plants, $2.50 per 100; $20 per 1000. Rooted Cuttings, 75c per 100; $6.00 oer 1000; $50 per 10000. NO RUST OR MILDEW.

PACKED LIGHT, AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. We are the Largest Growers of Verbenas in the country, Our plants cannot be surpassed.

J. L. DILLON, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Ser VERBENAS. Ser

The linest collection in America, 35 varieties, every one a gem—mammoth size, striking colors, green as grass. Strong rooted cuttings, 60c per hundred!; $5.00 per thousand: live thousand, $20.00. New Yellow Marguerite linest variety, strong 2-in. pot plants, 3c; rooted cuttings, 2c.

STRICTLY CASH WITH ORDER.

SOUTH SIDE FLORAL CO., Springfield, III.

|                                          | _       |
|------------------------------------------|---------|
| 1(0)                                     | 1000    |
| CANNAS, Crozy, Brouvier, Marquant$2.75  | $25,00 |
| Italia Austria 4 (0)                     | ¢*0.00  |
| Italia Austria 4 (ii)                    |         |
| IVY, English strong 2-year 5.00          | 45,00   |
| CREVILLEA, atrong. 2-feet                |         |
| DAHLIA, long stemmed, white 5.00         |         |
| HELIANTHUS multiflorus, from open., 5.00 |         |
| EULALIA Japunica zebrina, strong 5.00    |         |
| EULALIA Japonica variegata, strong 5.00  |         |
| CASH WITH ORDER                          |         |

WM. McROBERTS, Jr., Govanstown, Md.

GERANIUM*S* BEGONIAS

and FUCHSIAS

SELECT NEW and good old standard sorts. the best to be found, up-to-date. 4 4 40 Varieties Geraniums, 4 25 Flowering Begonias, and a good assortment of Market Fuchsias. Let us know what you want and we will quote you prices low enough.

J. NICOL & &

Oak Street, & JERSEY CITY, N. J.

GREEN AS GRASS.

MAMMOTH VERBENAS

Fine selected stock in separate colors. Rooted cuttings, per 100, 75c; per 1000, $6.00. Cash with order.

FRANK S. PAYNE, Barnard Crossing, N. Y.

| CLEMATIS    | Jackmanni, Henryii doz. 100and others$3.00 $20.00 |
|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------|
| H. P. Roses | Strong, 2 and 3 yearsown roots$1,50 $10,00        |

REO JACKET GOOSEBERRY, only large prices.

PAEONES, fine ass't of colors and kinds $1.25 $8.00 $2.50

F. A. BALLER, Bloomington, III.

PELARGONIUMS

12 LEADING KINDS, $4,00 per 100.

VERBENAS 25 of the best named varieties, Rooted Cut-order. Express prepaid. Cash with

S. D. BRANT THE CLAY CENTER FLORIST, CLAY CENTER, KAN.

PELARGONIUMS.

VICTOR and MME. VIBERT, the two great tarket varieties, $4.00 per 100. It also have a lot market varieties, $4.00 per 100. I also have a lot of fine stock plants of the above and others which will make fine specimens for 6 or 8-meh nots. Just the thing for Easter; 25 cents each; $3.00 per doz.

A. C. LAMPRECHT, Ashland, Ohio, Mention American Florist.

BOUGAINVILLEAS.

Beautiful for "cutting" or pot sale. Free and durable, and blooming for four to sale, months of the year. Very easily handled and not subject to any insect pests.

Send for "Comments and Facts."

THEO. F. BECKERT. Glenfield, Pa. 9 miles below Pittshirg, Pa.

KLONDIKE

Cold Fields at your door. - CERANIUMS.

Gold Fields at your door.—CERANIUMS.
Grown In soil In flats, ready to shift into 3-inch pota.
$15 00 per 1000.
S. A. Nutt. Beaute Poltevine, Mrs. E.
G. Hill, Van Dael and Robt. Brett; the same in 2½inch pota $20,400 per 1001.
Standard sorts, such as double Grant. Rruantl, La
Fayette, La Fayorite. Le Plint. Glorre de France, Hoff
Beech. Wonder, Mrs. J. M. Gyar, Jules Ferry Centaureau and others. $12.00 per 1000. In 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mountain of Snow, in 2½-inch pots. $2.50 per 1000. Mrs. Salierol from this. $1.25 per 100 $10.00 per 1000.
Ageratum blue and white. from flats. $1.50 per 1000. S10.00 per 1000. Feveriew little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Gem, from flats
$1.50 per 1000. Stone better little Stone
1000. S12.00 ner 1000. Varlegated Vinca, rooted cuttings
$1.50 per 100. Stone better little $1.50 per 100.
COLEUS. assorted 2-inch pots $15.00 per 1000 rooted cuttings $1.50 per 1000: C. Versebaffeltil and Golden Queen, 2-inch pots $15.00 per 1000; rooted cuttings
$1.50 per 1000. Stone per 1000; rooted cuttings
$1.50 per 1000.

J. E. FELTHOUSEN, Schenectady, N. Y.

AZALEA INDICA
We have an immense stock of ieties, extremely full budded, of the following large size: 12 to 15-inch, 86.00 per 100. CINERARIAS, 5-inch, bud and bloom, $1.25 per 10.291. Route Cold. per 100. CINERARIAS, 5-inch, bud and bloom, $1.25 per dozen. Oouble Golden Marguerite Cuttings, by mail. $1.50 per 100.

WHITTON & SONS, Wholesale Florists. City and Green Sts., UTICA, N. Y.

WHY NOT....

Advertise and sell some rooted cuttings or other surplus stock.

THIS SIZE "AD." ONLY $1.00.

American Florist Co., Chicago.

LETTUCE AND OTHER... VEGETABLE PLANTS

LETTUCE -Blg Boston, Boston Market, Tennis Ball Grand Rapids and Relenner's Forcing, 15 cts per 100; $1,00 per 1000

TOMATO, CABBAGE and CELERY-Small plants for transplanting now ready. 15 cts. per 100; 81 00 per 1(0). Pepper and Egg Plants-25 cts. per 100; $2 (0) per 100.

CAULIFLOWER, Snowball—35 cts per 100; §2 50 per 1000; It by mall add 10 cts, per 100 for small plarts, and 50 cts, per 1000. Send for price list. Cash with order.

R. VINCENT, Jr. & SON, White Marsh, Md.

Say "saw your ad, in the Florist" when you write advertisers.

Detroit.

A recent hurried look in the retail places of business was made one day last week. We noticed as follows: Geo. Leadley looked good natured in his always neat and attractive store. The choice stock seen in his windows could hardly be called on to divide any honors. Trade he calls good this season. and incidentally mentioned a renewed demand for tulins, he recently making use of 1200 of them at one occasion.

Breitmeyers' showed the usual animation invariably going with this establishment, all hands fairly busy, with flowers none too plenty. Their new and fancy kinds of carnations, which Fred. Breitmeyer, at their Mt. Clemens houses, so well knows how to grow, this season are an especially attractive feature.

Andrew Ferguson on Willis avenue has a well equipped place for custom trade. He shows some well flowered double tulips in pots thus early. Two-foot square flats of other kinds of tulips show to good effect, being a departure of a certain attractive character compared with ordinary smaller boxes. We saw here also some fine treesia blooms.

B. Schroeter was busy delivering azalea "boarders." He has reduced the feature of the care of plants for customers to a system, in methods of handling, so it is done reliably to patrons and satisfactory in remuneration to himself.

We here met W. J. Pearce, of the Pontiac
Floral Co., growers, of Pontiac, Mich.

Mr. P. claims good success with Daybreak this season, a fact attested to by the good color and sturdy make-up of the blooms he showed, and Silver Spray is still doing fairly with him. Several houses of rose stock received a foul almost knock-out blow-from a wrongly applied stimulant.

J. F. Sullivan claimed a busy week, and to all appearances is prospering. His roomy store and connected conservatory gives ample facilities for easy handling of a large business. He is a steady pat-ron of Chicago growers for roses. Bulb stuff in Roman hyacinths, valley and tulips are a leading item of his own growing, which have sold well this season.

Robert Flowerday, of the Detroit Floral Co, was next to ill-humored from the scarcity of bloom, with additional orders coming in for attention. Naturally be called trade good.

Worcester, Mass.

We are in the midst of an ice storm, the most destructive that we have experienced for many years. In many cases huge clusthat have stood nearly a century are entire y ruined, the damage to the various parks in the city must be very great, but at this criting, it is impossible to ascer-

The completely gutted the block adjoining the property of the horricultural society but fortunately was confined to the Buon Theatre block, and the only damage to the society's property was by smole in d water. The loss has not been adjusted yet, but will probably amount to $200 or $400, fully insured. Win Goode and wife, who were sleeping on an apper the ar, had a narrow escape from

Trade is running, along evenly, and florists are disposing of about all they can grow at regular prices.

Dark weather has shortened up the supply considerably especially in carna

We have had considerable funeral work A H L

Fine collection of varieties including Wm. Agnew, Nymphaea, John Bragg. Oban, Zulu. Beauty of Brentwood, etc., etc. Our selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $50,00. Purchaser's selection, twenty varieties to a thousand, $60.00.

Wm. H. Moon Co.

Glenwood Nurseries

MORRISVILLE,

Bucks Co., PA.

30,000 DAHLIAS

Before ordering your Dahlia stock be sure and send for my catalogue noveltles and standards of the best quality and at the lowest prices. All stock goaranteed true to name.

W. W. WILMORE, Box 382. DENVER, COLO.

Two Great Sports

CARNATION

VICTOR

Undoubtedly the best Pink Carnation in commerce and certainty the most prollide bloomer, perfectly healthy and of vigorous growth. Rooted cuttingt now ready. $4.00 per 100; $55.00 per 1000. Come and see this carnation growing.

CHRYSANTHEMUM PENNSYLVANIA

The finest yellow for cut blooms or exhibition pur poses ever produced Plants ready March 15, $5.00 per doz.; $55.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000.

HUGH GRAHAM, 104 South 13th Street, PHILADELPHIA.

PEACOCK'S PRIZE WINNING DAHLIA

Did you know that in 1896 Peacock's Dahlias were awarded sixteen (16) first prizes at Philadelphia out of seventeen entries? And at the American Institute, Madison Square Garden, New York, the seven first prizes (all that were offered) and two special diplomas tor Clifford W. Bruton and Wm. Agnew? That last vear(1897) at New York, they were tor Clifford W. Bruton and Wm. Agnew? That last year (1897) at New York, they were awarded six of the seven first prizes and The Medal of Superiority of the American Institute, the highest award ever given Dahlias in America? That at Philadelphia-well, we won't say anything, as they were not in competition; but, read what the Philadelphia Record of Sept. 22, 1897, says:

"Prominent above all the other exhibits is that of the Dahlia Society itself. I includes an almost perfect assortment of all the Dahlias known in this country grown by W. P. Peacock, of Atco, N. J., but it was not in competition for prizes

New Illustrated Descriptive Wholesale Catalogue now ready; send for it before placing order elsewhere.

W. P. PEACOCK, ATCO, N. J.

**BOSS** Chrysanthemums WM. H. CHADWICK - the grandest white novelty of the season. THE YELLOW FELLOW Winner of $100 Stearns bicycle prize. MADELINE PRATT- "As pretty as her picture."

Distributed March 1st by leading firms and the grower. ..... Grove P. Rawson, Elmira, N. Y.

Jardinieres, Pots@Pedestals

ADAPTED TO

Florists' Use.

Artistic Shapes and Decorations.

ιδειδειδειδειδειδειδε

Write us for Illustrations

BURLEY & TYRRELL, 42=44 Lake St., CHICAGO.

Mention American Florist.

Bloomington, Ill.

Of course the recent carnation exhibit held in Chicago proved an interesting subject and Mr. Washburn, like many other carnation growers who have studied the nature of the divine flower, speaks enthusiastically as to its future. four-inch carnation on a correspondingly long and strong stem is, in his opinion, within the reach of the average florist. In retailing the results of its experience the carnation society, as a body, is doing a noble work and its services to the craft are inestimable. Petty jealousy and malice as shown by the New England contingent for example can never check the progress of the society's lofty aspirations. It goes without saying that I fully coincide with Mr. Washburn in his opinion.

Since my last visit, things in general have assumed a much brighter aspect. Choice stock is in demand and fair prices rule the market.

Mr. Washburn has added a handsome and commodious conservatory to his flower store and has likewise equipped the latter with a complete seed department.

Mr. M. T. Hempstead will add fifty feet to one of his houses and will give his cutire plant a thorough overhauling.

Помо.

GENEVA, O.-W. P. Simmons, the well known florist of this city is dead. He was 81 years of age, and was a resident of Geneva for thirty-seven years. Mr. Simmons was head gardener at Eaton Hall, England, before coming to this

ANSIES
The Jennings Strain of Finest Mixed Pansies....
Medium size, $5 per 100 be express; 75c per 100 be mail. Seed of above. $1 packet; $6 per ounce. Aster Seed, Semple's & March 20th. Cash with order. pink, $1.50 per ounce. Large Pansi ready March 20th. Cash with order.

E. B. JENNINGS, Southport, Conn. Lock Box 254. Grower of the Finest Pansies.

WHITE, PANSIES. FAXON'S

The hest mixture in cultivation, flowers very rge, thick and velvety; of superb colors and arkings. The perfection of form and texture. In Trade Packets at $1.00 each.

M. B. FAXON,

Lock Box 1528. Boston, Mass.

Aster, Verbena & Pansy Seed

Truffaut's peony-flowered Perfection, mixed, ¼ oz. 30 cts. 1 oz. $1 00.

Truffaut's peony-flowered Perfection, mixed, in separate colors, pure white. Hight blue, rose and white, and bright red. ¼ oz. 50 cts., 1 oz. $1.50, or 1 oz. of each of the 4 colors for $5 00.

Princess or Soowball (Aster), pure white, ¼ oz. 75 cts. 1 oz. $2.50.

Mammath Verbook, 100 cts.

1 oz. $2.59. Mammoth Verbena, 100 colors mixed, ¼ oz. 30 cts.

Mammoth vergena, the colors inixed, 32 oz. 30 cts. 10z $1.00.

Mitting's Pansy, large flowering, choice, 14 oz. $1.00.

1 oz. $4 00.

PLANTS.

Alternanthers aurea pana and P. major, 24, 10., strong $2.00 per 100, $15.00 per $1000.
800 tobbin Hood Carnation Cuttings to spare, strong and healthy, large scarlet, $3.00 per 100, 500 Mrs. Chas. Duhme @ $4.00 per 100.
500 CA. Jana @ $4.00 per 100, $7.00 per 1000.
500 OWM SCOTT @ $1.00 per 100, $7.00 per 1000.
500 COlebus, 20 choice heddors, 24, 1n., $1.50 per 100.
Lycopodium Denticulatum, 24 (n., $2.00 per 100.

Our Crowers' Trade List now ready.

THE MORRIS FLORAL GO.

Morris, III.

Gladiolus Bulbs FOR FLORISTS.

WE HAVE THEM!

WE HAVE THEM!

Columbian Medal. S. A. F. Certificate of Merit. First prizes wherever shown. Cushman's Celebrated Seedlings. A light mixture. No. 1, $1.25 per 100, $10.00 per 1000. No. 2, $1.00 per 100, $8 00 per 1000. Our No. 2 are fine bulbs, 11/2-in.

CUSHMAN GLADIOLUS CO.. Euclid. O.

FLOWER SEEDS FLORISTS Special Florists' Price List ......Ready LATANIA BORBONICA FRESH SEED & Lb., 50c; 25 lbs. and up, 40c. COCOS WEDDELIANA $7.00 per 1000 Seeds. Tuberose Bulbs Dwarf Pearl. LILIUM AURATUM. SWEET PEAS for Florists. J. M. THORBURN & CO. 15 John St. NEW YORK.

FLOWER SEEDS FOR PRESENT SOWING See our "BOOK FOR FLORISTS." Write for copy if not received. ** VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE 14 Barclay St., NEW YORK. 84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

FRESH ON HAND per 100 1000 3000 COCOS WEDDELIANA. . $1.00 $7.50 $20.00 LATANIA BORBONICA. . 50 3.00 7.50 KENTIA BELMORFANA . 1.00 7.00 20.00 "FORSTERIANA . 1.00 7.00 20 00 GUS PLUMOSUS NANUS 1.50 12.50 35.00 CANARIENSIS . 1.50 12.50 35.00 SPRENGERII . 1.50 12.50 35.00 FORSTERIANA 1.00 7.00
ASPARAGUS PLUMOSUS NANUS 1.50 12.50
CANARIENSIS 1.50 12.50
SPRENGERII 1.50 12.50

J. L. SCHILLER. 404 E. 34th St., NEW YORK!CITY. WRITE

R. & J. FAROUHAR & CO.

**SEEDSMEN.*.*

16 and 19 South Market Street.

BOSTON

FOR THE CHOICEST AND BEST NEW CROP

FLOWER SEEDS

Neponset Paper Flower Pots, Pure Sheep Manure, and All Florists' Supplies. 4 4.

Catalogues mailed free,

Newport, R. I.

The ball given by the Newport Horti-cultural Society at Masonic Hall on February 17 proved to be a social as well as a financial success. The gardeners and their friends turned out in goodly numbers and there were also present members of the city government. The entertainment was in the hands of a committee consisting of Arthur Griffin, Robert Laurie, John Allan, John Butler and Joseph Gibson, who left nothing undone to make the affair a complete success. The grand march was led by Prof. Alexander Grey, from New York, who is a bagpipe player of merit, and his rendition of the "Cock of the North" for the march was everything to be desired; he also played during the intermission and for some of the dances. At midnight a collation was served, after which the dancing was resumed until "wee" hours in the morn-This affair was the most successful of its kind ever conducted by the society, and it has resulted in reimbursing the treasury of the society to no little extent.

Since the society adopted its exhibition schedule, chrysanthemum cuttings and plants have been much in demand by the members, for the reason that the schedule is so made up that it makes it an easy matter for small, as well as large growers, to compete in almost every class.

At the next meeting of the society Prof. L. F. Kinney, of the agricultural station of Kingston, R. L., will deliver a lecture. the subject being the "Influence of Horticultural Societies.

Mr. Carl Jurgens is cutting extra fine lily of the valley and of which he is shipping large quantities; his Roman hyacinths and narcissus are also extra fine. His experience with rose houses built short span to the south has not been as satisfactory as the older system. Beauty roses on this place planted last spring

NEW FORCING ROSE MRS. ROBT. GARRETT

Hybrid tea, rich soft pink, buds very long, flower extra large delightfully fragrant, rivaling Bridesmaid in color, but larger and much more productive. A sturdy, vigorous grower, a money maker and a triumph of American skill. The best firms in the country are investing in it. It has won numerous prizes and has elicited the most favorable comment from critical judges. Price trong plants from 2 --inch pots, $25,00 per 100 in lots less than 1000, $225.00 per 1000. Orders booked now, delivery March 15 18th, Correspondence solicited. Address have made a wonderful growth, and have in every respect discounted those of this variety that were planted on benches.

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

John R Johnson, gardener on the estate of the late Ogden Goelet, will sever his connection with that place on the 1st J. J. BUTLER. of next month.

Florists' Hail Association of America.

An occasional florist reminds me that old line companies are offering him a low rate. The good book says: "What profiteth a man if he gain the whole world

Rooted Cuttings...

Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V. Kaiserin, Perles, Belle Siebrecht, Meteors. Same in 2-in. pots ready Feb. 15th to 20th. Send 50c for samples and get prices.

GEO. A. KUHL, Pekin, III.

ROSES

PERLES ...

Guaranteed first-class. Stock grown in low temperature.

THE E. HIPPARD CO., Youngstown, Ohio.

and lose his own soul?" Paraphrased we might make it: How much will you gain if you get a low rate from the old line companies for a year or two, and pay an exorbitant rate the balance of your life? Before the Florists' Mutual Fire Insurance Association was organized the old line companies refused to recognize us, unless we paid them exorbitant rates. The Florists Mutual is planned to give you insurance at first cost, and it is the duty of every florist to stand by it, and furnish the business to make it a grand success without delay. IOHN G. ESLER.

New American Rose_

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT

As one of the syndicate holding stock in this rose we offer dist class plants, from 2½-inch pots, to be delivered on and after March 15, 188, at the agreed price of $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

AMERICAN ROSE CO. WASHINGTON, D. C.

300,000 YOUNG ROSES 300,000

Ramblers, Climb. Malmaison, Climb. White Pet, Climb. Wootton, Pres. Carnot and 100 other leaders in Teas, H. Teas and Climbers.

Send for prices.

The National Plant Company, Dayton, Ohio.

..ROOTED

CUTTINGS

| No scrub wood used. All stock thoro | ughly ro  | oted and    |         |                  | From 25    | 6-Inch Pots |
|-------------------------------------|-----------|-------------|---------|------------------|------------|-------------|
| carefully packed when sent out. Sen | id for sa | niples      | Per 100 | Per 1000         | Per 100    | Per 1000    |
| AMERICAN BEAUTIES,                  | Roofed    | Cuttings.   | $2.50  | $22.00          | $4.00     | $35.00     |
| BRIDES                              |           |             | 1,50    | 12.50            |            | 20.00       |
| BRIDESMAID                          |           | * *         | 1.50    | 12.50            | 2.25       | 20.00       |
| METEOR                              |           | * *         | 1.50    | 12,50,           | 2.25       | 20.00       |
| KAISERIN                            |           |           | 1.50    | 12.50            | 2.25       | 20.00       |
| PERLE                               |           |           | 1,50    | 12.50            | 2.25       | 20.00       |
| Terms each with order or g          | oods ser  | if C. O. D. | Plant   | s from 21/2-inch | pots ready | March 1.    |

J. A. BUDLONG, - STATION X. CHICAGO, ILL.

lew Plants of special menti fund the live florist & &

Carnations

 $Roses \dots$

Lily Dean, Flora Hill, Mayor Pingree and Victor at $5.00 per 100; $40.00 per 1000; extra selected well-rooted cutt ngs. These are all A1 varieties and money makers.

CLARA WATSON, one of the best varieties for general florists' use. $8.00 per 100, strong plants, and President Carnot, $6 00 per 100 .....

All the new and best Chrysanthemums at advertised rates. . . . JOHN N. MAY, Summit, New Jersey.

REINBERG BROS.

Growers of

is 11

Cut Flowers.

500,000 FEEL OF GLASS. We can fill all orders on short notice with all eading varieties of Roses and Carnations. We ARE Headquarters for Fine AMERICAN BEAUTIES. Give us a trial and convince yourself.

Fine Rose Plants

1500 Real, 10 5, pme. t March 1st

|            | 1 (.) 1(0) | Last traver |
|------------|------------|-------------|
| METEOR     | 4,5 00     | $155,000   |
| PERLE      | 3.180      | 25 00       |
| BRIDE.     | 9.50       | 22,500      |
| BRIDESMAID | 2.50       | 22.50       |
| LA FRANCE  | 2.50       | 27.50       |
| KAISLRIN   | 2.50       | 22.50       |

REINBERG BROS., 51 Wabash Ave., GHIGAGO.

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

ROSES.

$1.50 per 100, $12.50 per 1000 Cuttinge.

CARNATIONS

| CAHNATIO                                                                                                       | INB.                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| Willam Scott. Nancy Henke Tidal Wave Portia Lizia McCowen Kehinnor Mre, Thompson                               | $1.00 per 100.$7.50 per 1000     |
| Daybreak Emma Wocher Meteor Goldfinch Lizzle Cilbert Harrison's White                                          | $1.50 per 100.$12.50 per 1000    |
| Nivea$3.00 per 100;Jubilen$2.00 per 100;Flora Hill$4.00 per 100;No order for less than 100 of o | $15.00 per 1000.$35.00 per 1000. |

Pittsburg.

With the approach of the Lenten period trade improved enough so that it could really he called good. The stock of flowers has only been fair, roses and carnations, particularly in this section, have been none to plenty, the long-continued dark weather having had its usual baneful effect. Prices with the wholesalers have been up to holiday figures, they reaping the henefit of a short crop, as the retailer's prices were not advanced in any marked degree. The demand for funeral work still keeps up with but little variation in either designs or quantity.

Mr. Wm. Flemm who was the late Mr. N. Patterson's right-hand man, and who has been the manager for the estate in the florist's business, has, in connection with Mr. Walter Breitenstein, purchased the business from the estate, and will continue it under the firm name of Breitenstein & Flemm at the old stand, corner Market street and Liberty avenue. Mr. Breitenstein will remain at his place on Smithfield street until April 1 (our general moving day); after that date will be at the firm's store. The new firm will undoubtedly be successful as they both are artistically capable of furnishing up-to-date floral work in any line, and will have the advantage also of an established business to start with and have the good wishes of many friends and the trade for their success.

Mr. Gus. Ludwig reports trade good with him in all branches, and among his late orders for funeral work was one that is new here. The walls of the room were covered with muslin, covering entirely all pictures etc., and this foundation was covered with smilax and asparagus; the body of the child lay in a floral cradle, with palms and decorative plants arranged in profusion around it, all having the effect of a garden. This is the custom in the part of Europe where the parents of the child

Mr. L. I. Neff, of Sixthstreet, says trade has been better for the last week than for a month before, also that the trade at his old stand on Butler street, now managed by Mrs. Neff, is also good. Mr. H. Streif, formerly with Mr. Dell, is now engaged by Mr. Neff at the Sixth street store.

Superintendent Falconer, of Schenley Park, has gone on a trip to Florida. REGIA.

Rochester, N. Y.

It is likely that prices, which have kept up so steadily in this market, will decline now to some extent, especially if the supply should keep on increasing as it has done lately.

In the past weck every day was a busy one. February 22 called for a number of table decorations in various quarters, there was also a lively demand for flowers of every description to be used on the tables at smaller gatherings. An ample supply was on hand this time, with the exception of good roses, which all through this winter have been very scarce in this market, only a limited quantity of first class stock came in from local growers; the supply had to come from distant points, and was not always as good in quality as expected. Some of our growers are inclined to blame the sunless winter months for their failure to produce good flowers, and it may be true that we had a few more cloudy days than in other years, but then if the dark weather had anything to do with this, all growers in the neighborhood would have been affected alike, which is not the case, for Salmon's roses, for instance, are as fine as ever, and in a few other places they are cutting some excellent blooms while their near neighbors have not been able to coax their plants into vigorous growth; the want of success must be looked for somewhere else, in my opinion.

I do not know that any of our retailers have seriously suffered by this insufficient supply; instead of recommending the lavish display of roses in a table decoration; they usually suggested something different, for a change, and the innovation was favorably received by a majority, so that now, instead of merely ordering a hunch of roses for their tables, people will ask for suggestions in some other line. However, roses will always be in demand, and those on hand are readily disposed of every day; it is only a clever trick of our florists to suggest fancy carnations, a special shade of tulips or some other flowers when they are unable to supply the roses on short notice, but it cannot be denied that the sales in these other flowers have increased considerably over the ordinary, and that there is as much profit in one as in the other. Orchids have never been used extensively here, but had a better run this winter than ever before, just on account of the prevailing scarcity of good roses. J. B. K.

Society of American Florists.

The meeting of the Executive Committee has been called at Washington, D. C., for March 15th. In accordance with the usual custom the meeting should have been held at Omaha but the expense being very great and the Exposition management at Omaha not showing any disposition to assist in the matter of transportation, the change was made in the interests of economy. The president and secretary will probably find it necessary to go to Omaha later.

IT'S ENGLISH, YOU KNOW!

Drop a postal and get a leathet "How to Grow Begonia Semperflorens from Seed." Vernon is a shining example of this type. Sutton's, the celebrated English Seed House, offer improved selection of Semperflorens, of which the following are of great merit: Crimson Gem, Coral Gem and Duchess of Edinburgh; the colors are red, rose and blush. We offer liberal trade packets of American saved seed at $1.00 each; one-half packets at 50 cents.

CASH WITH ORDER.

A. H. LONSDALE CO., STATION H. Phila., Pa.

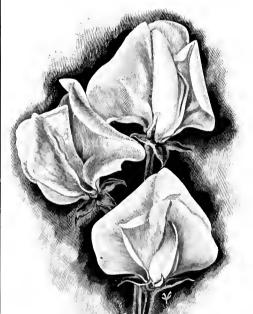

THE BRIDE

Put a dollar bill in an envelope and get a ½ trade packet of each of the above, or if you only want to experiment we will send you a mixed packet for a quarter, silver or one cent stamps. Our tests show the vitality much better than imported seed. These Begonias are great, either for bedding or pots—always in bloom—S mperforens means evenblooming. Seed sown now will make fine plants for Spring sales.

Cash with the Order. Money Order P. O. Station H.

A. H. LONSDALE CO...

Specialists, Station H, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Originated by M. Lynch, Mento Park, Calif.

M. Lynch, Menle Park, Calif.

THE BRIDE This beautiful large, white-seeded variety is the best White Sweet Pea to dute. It is a pure white selection from Mrs. Eckford and is the strongest germinator among all the white-seeded varieties—so often poor growers, Grown for the ent-flower market of San Francisco in competition with the other high class whites, it has brought the highest figures over them all, taking first rank among all the whites. The flowers are pure white of fine substance, large and of true grandifloratype, Beside this every seed will grow. Perfect flowers were cut as early as April 16 last year. Price, per lb., $2.00: 1-4 lb., 60c: 02., 20c: pkt., 10c.

The Cornell Bulletin in naming the best Sweet Peas of each color, classes The Bride Brat as a white, with Emily Henderson second and Bianche Burpeethird. Frank Pellcano, a leading florist of San Fran-cisco, stated: "We can sell more Bride Sweet Pea blooms than those of any other variety which we have ever handled."

Prof Tracy, in a recent review of some of the newer Sweet Pens anys: "The especial merit of this variety (The Bridei is in its length, strength and grace of flower stem, and the disposition of the blooms thereon, being one of our best sorts in these respects, and forming an exceedingly graceful bunch."

Mr. Lynch has sent us his entire stock which we offer to the trade as above,

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

14 Barclay St., NEW YORK. 84 & B6 Randolph St., CHICAGO.

The Plant Swindler in Tacoma-Same Scheme.

11. Manieke, a florist at Sixth and M streets, was swindled in the same old way recently. The smooth-tongned way recently. The smooth-tongued stranger called and asked to have some plants left at 712 D street for use at a ball. When Mr. Manicke called for the plants, he found they had been sold to residents in the vicinity.

St. Paul.

TRADE GOOD.-PRICES HIGH.-ROSES AND CARNATIONS SHORT, - PERSONAL.

The week ending February 22 was one of the busiest on record. The funeral of of the busiest on record. The function of a prominent physician called for an immense display at the hands of the florist—one of the largest ever seen here.

Numerous social gatherings of more or the provided in the property of the provided in the provid less note, a few weddings, and a general desire for flowers, assisted in rolling up sales, while shipping trade to country towns made the round-up one of the best recorded.

Retailers, however, complain of high prices, in many eases exorbitant, while the growers are correspondingly happy. In fact, this winter has been exceptionally favorable to the growers in this section. No snow, plenty of sunshine, no severe cold, thereby saving fuel, have all combined to give the grower some old time enthusiasin, and to stimulate trade in general.

Retail prices are well maintained, though not as correspondingly high as the wholesale. Stock has been and is very scarce. The cut here has been wholly inadequate to the demand, and large shipments from Chicago and Milwankee are arriving daily. The numerous growers there are the brake which keeps prices from soaring skyward here.

The principal shortage has been in roses and carnations. Our home growers supply about all the violets needed-but in other lines the supply is sadly deficient. Bulbous stock, excepting Harrisii, is in fairly good supply. This class of stock is exceptionally fine this year. Better daffodils, Romans, Paper Whites, valleys, tulips and hyacinths were never seen in this market. If this is due to the better class of bulbs shipped in on account of the tariff increase, we say all hail to the bingley bill. Let the good work con-tinue. Harrisii while not badly affected by disease, are not as good in general as in former years. Longiflorums from Japan, on the contrary, are exceptionally good, clean, healthy stock.

Plants have sold fairly well, though bulbous stock goes slowly.

The demand will be less during Lent, though indications point to a continued good trade.

Our first fall of snow this season came the 19th and is disappearing rapidly under the sun's rays.

NEW & SECOND-HAND MATERIAL,

CHICAGO HOUSE WRECKING CO.

Largest Mail Order Depot for New and Second-Hand Material in the World W. 35TH & IRON STS., CHICACO. Write for our free Illietrated entalogues.

Stock for Easter will be plentiful and good. Harrisii are not as good as in former years, though fully 80% to 90% are all right. It looks as though this grand Easter plant were doomed, as the inroads of the disease are worse each year.

of the disease are worse each year.

Callers during the past week: Mr.
Greenlaw, representing N. F. McCarthy
& Co.; Mr. Roberts, of S. A. Weller & Co.,
Zanesville; the genial representative of J.
Kranss, New York, and Mr. Lipman, with T. Ollesheimer.

Neponset Flower Pots

Terms-Net cash with order. If ordered shipped by FREIGHT, ADD 50 CENTS CARTAGE.

|        |     |   |   | ł | 3 | ι  | k  | e   | d  | 1  | n |    | ti    | ro  | 88   | W   | e            | lg) | ht |   |   |    |     |      |     |                     |   |
|--------|-----|---|---|---|---|----|----|-----|----|----|---|----|-------|-----|------|-----|--------------|-----|----|---|---|----|-----|------|-----|---------------------|---|
| 81:    | ze  |   |   | ( | ì | 'n | t. | e   | 8  | 0  | f |    | I     | er  | . 10 | 00  | $\mathbf{p}$ | ot  | 8  |   | F | 'e | r   | 100  | Per | 1000                | į |
| 21-1-1 | nch |   |   |   |   |    | 11 | K!  | O  |    |   | ٠. | , | aь  | ou   | t 2 | Ð.           | lb  | 8. |   |   |    | $0 | . 25 | ,   | $ 2-20      | • |
| 216    |   |   | Ü |   |   |    | 1  | Οŧ  | H) |    |   |    |       |     |      | 1   | 3            |     | ٠. |   |   |    |     | .30  | )   | $\frac{2.50}{3,90}$ | į |
| 3      | 8.4 |   |   |   |   |    | 1  | (K  | X) | ١. |   |    |   |     |      | - 3 | 4            | 4.4 | ٠. |   |   |    |     | .45  | )   | -3.90               | 1 |
| 316    |   |   |   | ì |   |    | 1  | Ō.  | X) | Ė. |   | i  |       |     | ٠.   | 4   | 5            | 41  |    |   |   |    |     | .60  | )   | 5, 15               |   |
| 4      |     |   |   |   |   |    |    |     |    |    |   |    |       |     |      | 7   | ti           | 44  |    |   |   |    |     | .80  | )   | 6,90                | į |
| 5      |     |   |   |   | ì |    |    | 50  | X) | ů. |   |    |   |     | 44   | 10  | Ю            | 41  | ٠. |   |   |    | - 1 | . 20 |     | 10.35               | 1 |
|        | 4.  | · |   | Ī |   |    |    | Si. | Ö  |    |   | i  | i |     | • 6  | 15  | Ó            |     | 1  |   | · |    | . 1 | .65  | ,   | 14.55               | , |
|        |     |   |   |   |   |    |    | u.  | ٠. |    | - | á. |       | a E | 201  | -   | 1/           | 000 |    | à |   |    |     |      |     |                     |   |

Standard Pot Measure.

Less quantities than full crates at 100 rates.
Full sample dozens of a size malled on receipt of 10c 12c 15c 22c 30c 45c 60c for 2½-1n. 2½-1n. 3-1n. 3-1n. 4-1n. 5-1n. 6-1n. pots.
F. W. BIRD & SON, Manufacturers.

Address atl orders to our General Agents,

August Rölker & Sons

52 DEY STREET, NEW YORK. Our Eastern Agents are

R. & J. FARQUHAR & CO., Boston, Mass.

GREEN-HOUSE HEATING. MYERS & CO.

1518 & 1520 S. 91h St. PHILADELPHIA. Send for catalogue and price list.

Boilers

OF HIGH &

For GREENHOUSES.

See our Catalogue.....

TW Steam and

Giblin & Co., Utica, N. Y.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO.

Greenhouse * Boiler,

Bollers made of the best of material, shell, firebox sheets and heads of steel, water space all around (front, aldes and back). Write for information.

SYRINGE WITH COLD WATER.

It lowers the vitality of your stock, but write for particulars of my tempering Apparatus.

HENRY W. GIBBONS, 134 LIBERTY STREET.

When writing mention American Florist.

Established 1859....

THOS. W. WEATHERED'S SON

Horticultural Architect and Builder.

Greenhouse Wood-work. Greenhouse Iron-work.

Red Gulf Cypress free from Sap.

. . .

Get my prices on everything needful for the erection or repairing of Greenhouses.

T will always give me pleasure in answering correspondence relating to the Heating, Building and Ventilating of Greenhouses, and none of your wants will be too small or too large to receive my immediate and careful attention.

OINTS in all Ventilating and Hot Bed Sash are made with white lead and iron dowel pins at corners.

NOTS there are none in my lumber, it being carefully se-

UMBER of the best Red Gulf Cypress strictly free from sap. Use no other.

ATERIALS of all and every kind entering into the Heating, Building and Ventilating of Greenhouses.

THOS. W. WEATHERED'S SON

141 CENTER STREET.

NEW YORK.

Milwankee.

The past week has been a busy one among florists here, stock became quite scarce at times; dinners, receptions, etc. have been quite numerous, with a few funerals interspersed. All good flowers sold; when the variety asked for could not be furnished something else was used as substitute. All must have fared well until the 19th, 20th and 21st when the north-east snow storm set in; flowers that were engaged for certain occasions didn't arrive on time; orders were counter-manded in some cases, the streets being impassable almost; new business fell off and the wholesale men have received several consignments that were left unused. A revival of activities started in on the 22nd, and bids fair to round up the week in good shape.

One of the largest decorations of the winter was for the Deutscher Club, Monday evening; the florist had use for all his grit in transporting the large palms and other material during the blinding snow storm Sunday and Monday, but he finished on time a job that was much admired. One striking feature was the use of the Alabama smilax, wired to bamboo fish poles; several of these stood up, being wired together at base, they arched over and drooped, being an exact representation of Bambusa vulgaris, fifteen to eighteen feet high at one end, around the balcony they extended up to the ceiling and arched over the dancers; the corners of the hall were partitioned off by a low hedge of bamboos and gate-way of two standard laurels in which were spread rugs and a parlor set of lurniture. Latania palms and kentias twelve feet high were used at intervals, it was like a real palm garden.

One ingenious contrivance noticed at a funeral last week is worth mentioning on account of its simplicity. Two letters had been sent in, E and C, twenty inches long, some very pretty plant work had been arranged. The florist procured two common adjustable music racks, placing the base in between pots and wired a letter on each rack placing one near the head and the other near the foot next to the wall, so the wrong side was not visible; with the thumb-screw the height was easily adjusted, a little smilax trimming and the two letters were suspended over the bed of ferns very daintily and easily. These music racks are very convenient for this kind of work, every florist who makes a business of decorating should keep two or three of these and an easel or two close by.

The only catastrophe reported occurred Saturday night at Whitnall Floral Co.s' greenhouses; thirty feet of the north end of a palm and fern house collapsed. There was not a plant or roof to be seen. It caused no interruption to business.

C. B. W.

Indianapolis.

Business in this city continues to be very satisfactory in stores as well as on market. St. Valentine's day was a good day for everybody. Cut flowers sold best, although there was a good demand for blooming pot plants, and pans filled with bulbous stuff and ferns.

On the 10th inst. a committee of the State Florists' Association met with a committee of the Commercial Club regarding the chrysanthemum show. Although a good deal was said on both sides, nothing definite was accomplished, excepting that the committees arranged to meet again in the near future.

Very few of the Indianapolis men found time to attend the carnation meeting at Chicago. Wm. Bertermann, Wm Ashlach, and Wm. Langstaff were the only ones who managed to get away. They report having had a good time, and speak enthusiastically of the meeting and exhi-

H. Junge, who has been confined to his bed with scarlet fever, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Brown, florists, of Shelbyville, were in the city this week.

SPORT FROM ALBERTINI.—The South Park Floral Co., Newcastle, Ind., reports a fine red sport from carnation Mme. Diaz Albertini.

(Copyrighted)

Kraft's Plant Tonic

For PLANTS, PALMS and FLOWERS

... A Wonderful Preparation for the Promotion of Plant Life, Destruction of Insects and Scale..

This is one of the greatest preparations for the use of Florists and Plant Growers ever compounded. It gives to the foliage of plants treated the bright, fresh color of healthy, growing vegetation. It destroys all insect life infecting the plant and eradicates scale.

Besides improving the color of the plant, it effects a general betterment of its condition, aiding nature in disseminating and retaining the sap and life of the plant. The Tonic makes the foliage of the plant soit and pliable, and a beautiful bright green.

Price per bottle, 25 cents.

84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET. CHICAGO.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

14 BARCLAY STREET, NEW YORK.

HAMMOND'S TOBACCO EXTRACT. THE OLD ORIGINAL.

GEO, S. OSBORN,
OLD TOWN FARM GREENHOUSES,
COR. SARGEANT & ATWOOD STS.

For sale at

HARTFORD, CONN., Jan. 25, 1898.

Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Flahkill-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Gents—I send check for amount of enclosed bill, and think I shall need more of the Tobacco Extract for further trial. TWENG FARAS CAN BEJUIGED IT IS THE BEST EXTRACT I EVER HAD. Let It come by freight at once, as we have two houses longing for a dose.

Yours truly, GEO. S. OSBORN.

SOLD BY WHOLESALE SEEDSMEN.

Jadoo Fibre and Jadoo Liquid

are to-day being sold by the leading SEED HOUSES and are used by prominent GROWERS and FLORISTS.

You Cannot Afford to Grow

Plants Without Them

33333BBBBB

Send for particulars and be convinced

The ____ American Jadoo Co.

815 FAIRMOUNT AVE.

...PHILADELPHIA, PA.

STEMS DUST EXTRAGT

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

Chicago. New York.

A COMPLETE AND IATIVE GUANO NATURAL FETILIZER 10R . . . .

(Desiceated Night Soil)

Gardeners and Florists. SOLUBLE, QUICK TO ACT, PLEASANT TO HANDLE.

STANDARD FERTILIZER CO. Inc.

1822 Filbert Street, Philadelphia.

Scollav Sprinkler....

INDISPENSABLE

J. A. Scollay, Maker,

74 Myrtle Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Gen'l Western Agents, 84 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

The Grand Rapids Florists' Club held a meeting at Alfred Hannah's on East street near Burton avenue, Tuesday afternoon. February 15. The meeting was called to order by Henry Smith, in the absence of N. B. Stover, the president. Chas, Chadwick was admitted to membership. Henry Smith read an able paper on "Roses." A great diversity of opinion was expressed about the advantages and disadvantages of growing on solid beds versus benches. Mr. Grey once remarked to the writer that he had wasted $2000 per year in unnecessary expenses of labor new stock by adhering to the old method. Some considered it advisable to keep part of the plants in two years; similar to the method persued by some Detroit florists, thus having one-half the stock one year old, the other two years old. The majority, however, wereinfavor of the present bench systems.

The cause of black spot was assigned to everal conditions, over-watering, sudden changes of temperature, drafts, mulching too early, while the wood was in a soft, sappy condition and in such rapid growth that the plants could not assimilate it when the cold nights arrived. While all florists must grow some American Beauty roses it is not a profitable variety in this vicinity.

Henry Smith and Geo. F. Crabb were appointed a committee to secure as many contributions of new carnations from the originators as possible, for the carnation meeting, to be held Tuesday afternoon, March 1, at Crabb & Hunter's, 509 Madison avenue, all flowers sent to be consigned to Crabb & Hunter. The meeting closed with a banquet. After passing Mr. and Mrs. Hannah a vote of thanks, an hour was spent in getting acquainted with each other. better

GEO. F. CRABB.

Los Angeles, Cal.

The decoration arranged by the Redondo Floral Co. for the wedding of the Queen of the Fiesta of 1897 was most notable. At the end of the double drawing room where the bridal party gathered was represented a portion of the bell tower of the old San Gabriel Mission, the frame work being made of smilax, ivy and ferns, starred with numerous carnations, and the three bells were decorated with Roman hyacinths and adiantums. Above were poised four white doves. The elaborate arrangements in other parts of the house were exceptionally beautiful.

The funeral of Father A. Meyer, president of St. Vincent's College, gave all the florists a number of designs and church decorations.

A few weeks ago it looked as though Los Angeles would not indulge in a Floral Liesta and week of gaiety this year, owing to the difficulty in securing money. Now, however, the money is assured, and the atty will try to excel all past successes.

The South California Floral Co is to remove from 257 South Spring street to the corner of Lourth and Spring streets.
The Central Park Floral Co, have done

m unusually large business in shipping cut Howers eastward.

OT BED SASH

of Red Cedar, Cypress and Pine. A. DIETSCH & CO.

Manufacturers of Greenhouse Material.

615-621 SHEFFIELD AVE, CHICAGO, ILL

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO. Flower Pots,

Bulb Pans, Hanging Baskets and Saucers

OUR FLOWER POTS are standard measure and all first-class and we assure you they will give good satisfaction. We call your attention to our new pots, 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch, called the "Poro Pot." They are more Porous than any pots, smoother inside and outside, perfect drainage, and are easily washed and cleaned, Give them a trial and you will not want any other. Remember these Pots are as cheap as any other Pot on the market. Write for price list.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

make a specialty of FLORISTS STANDARD POTS Manufactured by BRAZIL POTTERY & CLAY MFG. CO., Brazil, Ind.

Being centrally located we can save you freight. Also head-quariers for Fi.ORISTS SUPPLIES. Write us for price lists and we know we will get your order. VAIL SEED CO., 150 No. Oclaware St., INDIANAPOLIS, INO.

Send for our new price list, with extra discounts. All of our Pots from 7-inch and upwards have our Patent Excelsior Bottom, which is a great advantage as it insures perfect drainage. A FULL LINE OF BULB PANS.

THE WHILLDIN POTTERY COMPANY, 713 to 719 Wharton Street, Philadelphia, Pa. BRANCH WAREHOUSES: { Kearney and Westelde Aves., Jersey City, N. J. Jackson Ave. and Pearson St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Standard flower

OUR POTS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY.

We ship all goods from Cincinnati, guaranteeing lowest treight rates and prompt delivery.

Write us before placing your orders elsewhere. . . . . . .

CAMBRIDGE TILE MFG. CO., Covington, Ky.

STANDARD POTS.

We Manufacture a full line of Standard Flower Pots, Hanging Vases Lawn Vases, Seed Pans and Cylinders, glazed and with familles.

SEND for our price list before ordering else-where and save 25 per cent. Address

Hilfinger Bros. Pottery, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

FLOWER POTS

A SPECIALTY STANDARD POTS

List and SAMPLES FREE.

J. G. SWAHN'S SONS, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

"STANDARDS"

FULL SIZE AND WIDE BOTTOMS BULB PANS AND AZALEA POTS

DETROIT FLOWER POT M'F'Y, HARRY BALSLEY, DETROIT, MICH., Rop. 400 HOWARD ST. Rop.

Good Railroad Facilities KELLER BROS.

For shipping.
Special Attention Given to
Mail Orders, and Special
Sizes Made to Order.

NORRISTOWN, PA.

Price Lists Furnished on Application.

🛌 GEO. KELLER & SON. MANUFACTURERS OF

Flower Pots.

Before buying write for prices. 361-363 Herndon Street, near Wrightwood Ave., CHICAGO. ILL.

Mention American Florist.

Standard 🛰 🦗 FLOWER

If your greenhouses are within 500 miles of the Unpitel, write us we can save you money.

W. H. ERNEST,

Station M, N. E.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Alarm Invention.

There has been invented an alarm which can be attached to any kind of heating apparatus, and as soon as steam or heat begins to leave the pipes it will ring until it is cut out of circuit by some person. It is a neat contrivance, bell, battery and switch being arranged on a board similar to a telephone. It can be placed in any room of the house and be an ornament as well as a true watchman, which never fails. Mr. Yeats will be at the S. A. F. convention to exhibit his invention and show all its merits.

CYPRESS

DESCRIPTION.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

You can not get a GOOD THING for nothing. But the price of this apparatus is next to nothing. Send for price and description to

J. D. CARMODY, Evansville, Ind.

LOUISIANA Cypress Green House Material.

Write for Estimates.

The Right Cypress for Greenhouse Material.

Have you heard of Cypress Greenhouse Material that has not been satisfactory? If you have it does not follow that Cypress is not the best lumber to use. There is White Cypress, Yellow Cypress and Red Cypress; there is Cypress that grows on the high lands and Cypress that grows in the swamps.

All of these different kinds are not suitable for greenhouse purposes. Do you know which kind is best and do you know that kind when you see it? If not you would better buy from those that do know and will deliver exactly what they sell. We introduced Cypress for greenhouse construction and pushed it to the front. We know all about it. For fifteen years we have made a specialty of furnishing it, and during this time we have built up a reputation that we can not afford to jeopardize. We send out the best only.

Write for Circulars or Estimates.

Lockland Lumber Co.

LOCKLAND, OHIO.

STANDARD

VENTILATING MACHINE.

NONE EQUAL IT Strength Durability

Send for Catalogue.

NOTHING Flimsy Complicated about it.

PARD, YOUNGSTOWN. OHIO.

RED CEDAR

NEVER DECAYS.

A. DIETSCH & CO., 619 Sheffield Ave.,

MFR'S OF RED CEDAR AND CYPRESS GREENHJUSE MATERIAL.

CHICAGO.

Vheeler-Stenzel Co.

Make your contracts for next season now. We can deliver to any part of the country and Save You Money .....

************

Greenhouse Glass

72 Sudbury St., BOSTON, MASS.

FOR SALE CHEAP.

GLASS for Greenhouses, Conservatories, Hotbeds, etc. Also Hotbed Sashes and Mats, Paints, Oils, etc. THE REED GLASS & PAINT CO., 456 W. Broadway, NEW YORK.

Everybody is more pleased if you say "saw your ad. in the American Florist" when writing.

Index to Advertisers.

Advertising Rates S19
Anien J K S23
American Jados Co...S13
American Rose Co...S33
Amiling E C S22
April Bros Paper and
Box Co...S39 .519 Berker II II & Co. ST.
Besold C St.
Besold C St.
Besold C St.
Blanc A & Co. St.
Blanc A & Co. St.
Bobbink L C St.
Bobbink L C St.
Boerner Fred St.
Boston Letter Co. St.
Brann S D St.
Brann S D St.
Breltmerr J & Sons St.
Budlong J A St.
Burler & Tyrrell. St.
Burler & Tyrrell. St.
Burler & Tyrrell. St.
Burler & Tyrrell. St.
Cambridge Tile Mig
Co. St.
Carlton II R St. Cambridge Tile Mfg (O 12)
Cariton II R 24
Carmody J D. 55
Chadwick Chas Si
Chickey House WreckIng CO 51
Clark, Everett B CO 52
Cleveland Seed CO 57
Clocas & Boddington
CO 82 Keller Bros Kons Keller Geo A Sons Keller Geo A Sons Kennloott Bros Co. Kinz J M Kraft's Plant Tonic Kroeschell Bros Co. Kuchn C A Kuhl Geo A Hurrell Lake tecneva Flo Co. Lav g Julius Lamprecht A C Layer C has Young Jno Young Thom Jr Young John Welsh

Littleffeld H. F. Lockland Lum Co.

Hitchings & Co.

ESTABLISHED 50 YEARS.

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS

GREENHOUSE HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

THE HIGHEST AWARDS RECEIVED AT THE WORLD'S FAIR FOR HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTURE, GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND HEATING APPARATUS.

Conservatories, Greenhouses, Palm Houses, etc., erected complete, with our patent Iron Frame Construction. Send four cents postage for illustrated catalogue.

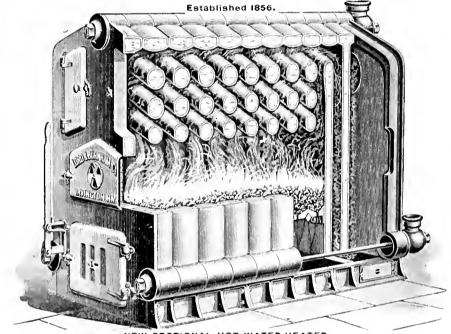

233 Mercer Street, NEW YORK.

& BURNHAM CO., LORD

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

Plans and estimates furnished on application for heating and ventilating apparatus erected complete, or for material only. If Highest awards at the World's Fair.

Send 4 cts. postage for catalogue of Patent Iron Greenhouse Construction.

NEW SECTIONAL HOT WATER HEATER. Specially adapted to brace ranges. Will hear up to 16,500 ft. og plass. HICHEST ECONOMY.

MODERATE COST. Also Heaters for smaller work. Front 5 ets. postage to New York office for Intest entalogue of heating and ventilating apparatus.

Estimates furnished for Cypress Creenhouse Material.

NEW YORK OFFICE, 160 FIFTH AVE., cor. 21st St. GENERAL OFFICE AND WORKS, IRVINGION-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.

For Insurance against damage by hail, Address

JOHN G. ESLER, Sec'y, F. H. A., Saddle River, N. 2

THE NATIONAL MAN Florists Board of Trade

C. S. LODER, Sec'y, 271 Broadway. New York. -

SHEET G

Kinds. $\mathbf{A}\Pi$

GET OUR PRICES.

John Lucas & Co.

PHILADELPIA.

THE AMEDICAN FLORIST

America is "the Prow of the Lessel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, MARCH 5, 1898.

No. 509.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Copyright 1898, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, 324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.
Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2.00,
Subscriptions accepted only from the trade.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

ORNAMMENTAL HORITOGETOKISTS.

OFFICERS—WM. F. GUDE. Washington, D. C., president: A. DONAGHUE. Omaha. Neb., vice-president: W. J. STEWART. 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass., secretary; H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer. The fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Omaha, Neb., August, 1898.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Philadelphia, February, 1899. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

| Trees to adorn streets                                                                                     | 843  |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Decorative cactus dahlia, Clifford W. Bruton                                                               |      |
| (illus.) Dalhlins Kaiserin Augusta roses (illus.) Profitable mushroom growing                              | 841  |
| Dahlias                                                                                                    | 840  |
| Kaiserin Augusta roses (illus.)                                                                            | 843  |
| Profitable mushroom growing                                                                                | 847  |
| Germantown and The Neck                                                                                    | 842  |
| Germantown and The Neck .A corner of Albert Woltemate's store (illus.) .                               | 848  |
| The American Carnation Society House of Jubilee carnations (illus.)                                        | 54   |
| House of Jubilee carnations (illus.)                                                                       | 849  |
| Now York                                                                                                   | 845  |
| Grouphouses in the west (illus.)                                                                           | Sat  |
| Philadelphia                                                                                               | 856  |
| London                                                                                                     | 85   |
| Worcester, Mass                                                                                            | 85   |
| Diseased geraniums                                                                                         | 85.  |
| Diseased geraniums A border of herbaceous plants                                                           | 85:  |
| Boston,                                                                                                    | 85:  |
| Chicago                                                                                                    | 856  |
| Carnation notes                                                                                            | Sə   |
| A bouter in a FaceBoston.ChicagoCarnation notesKennicott's mongrel carnation               | 30   |
| Greenhouse Imilding.                                                                                       | 857  |
| Cleveland                                                                                                  | 35   |
| "Garden-Making"                                                                                            | 100  |
|                                                                                                            | 85   |
| The seed trade                                                                                             | 56   |
| Melons and cucumbers in adjoining fields                                                                   | 56   |
| A disclaimer from Bloomington, Ill                                                                         | SG   |
| Cut flower price lists received                                                                            | Stil |
| The Michigan nursery law.  Ever-blooming climbing roses                                                    | 86   |
| Ever-blooming climbing roses                                                                               | 56:  |
| Renches for forcing roses Roses grafted on Manetti stock Stocks for Easter Forcing steam through the soil. | 56   |
| Roses grafted on Manetti stock                                                                             | Hi   |
| Stocks for Easter.                                                                                         | 56   |
| Forcing steam through the soil                                                                             | Sti  |
| New Haven, Conn                                                                                            | Sti  |
| New Haven, Coun. The Omaha exposition                                                                      | 4151 |
| Harrisburg, Pa.Buffalo.Cincinnati.Executive committee meeting of the S. A. F.                  | 56   |
| Butfalo.                                                                                                   | 50   |
| Cincinnati.                                                                                                | 568  |
| Executive committee meeting of the S. A. F                                                                 | ×155 |
| Ricen nates                                                                                                | 86   |
| Rochester, N. Y                                                                                            | 471  |
| Rochester, N. Y                                                                                            | 87   |
| San Francisco                                                                                              | 87   |
| Baltimore                                                                                                  | 81   |
| Helpful reminders                                                                                          | 71   |
| San Francisco. Baltimore Helpful reminders. Omaha San Jose, Cal.                                           | 71   |
| San Jose, Cal                                                                                              | 76   |

The gardeners of the New York parks have formed a union under the title of the Catalpa Labor Club, which will be subject to the Knights of Labor organization.

Trees to Adorn Streets.

[Address delivered by Wm. R. Smith, Botanic Garden, Washington, D. C., before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.]

In Washington, where the soil is generally poor, we usually remove two or three good-sized cartloads from a hole and replace with the best top soil to be had. We do this in dry weather for obvious reasons; we stir up the bottom and avoid compacting the sides of the same. Do not plant too closely. The character of the trees selected must determine the distance apart. One important aid to success is the tree box. It is doubtful whether by shading the stem of the tree from the sun to prevent sealding, or holding the newly planted tree steady, is its most valuable service. Do not attempt to go into the woods or uncultivated ground for trees, except as a dire necessity. We were compelled to do this at first, for some things, and were moderately successful with American sycamores, elms, searlet maples and tulip trees. It is my deliberate opinion that in the interest of economy it is better to get nursery-grown trees. Every city, village or suburban town ambitious for distinction for being well planted with trees, should have a nursery of its own, where healthy trees can be reared. Get clean seedlings from some reliable source, cultivate, prune and train them in the way they should grow, in the best ground obtainable. This last suggestion is of great importance. Trees from a poor, thin, gravely soil, or from a wet, sour, undrained one, are worthless.

That queen of American trees, the sugar maple, when bark-bound from any cause, should be dispensed with and a young healthy one substituted. It refuses to do duty as a curbstone tree. The Norway maple is one of the best curbstone trees, less self-assertive than some others. From a rare volume styled "Hand-book of Ornamental Trees," by Thomas Mechan, I find the following under Aeer dasyear-pum (white maple): "One of the finest of our native trees. It is so often seen in a half-starved, stunted state, as a street tree, that one might be incredulous of its beauty, when under proper circumstances, from a mere description." One would think the editor had recently visited Washington. His description suits the actuality at the present time. The limited supply of moisture and food obtainable makes it necessary that this large growing tree should be judiciously pruned. With roots eaged and confined, it is not possible for it to sustain a large top, Intelligence should take this whole situation into consideration and act accordingly. The gorgeous autumnal tints of the swamp maple make it an object of interest to every lover of trees. Not being able to obtain this tree in the nurseries, we went to the woods, with only moderate success. Ilad we cut the small trees to the ground when planted in the nursery, I think the result would have been better.

The ash-leaved maple (Acer Negundo), a herald of spring, with its beautiful green foliage, and its rapid growth, would be an excellent street tree, were it not for the bag-worm and web-caterpillar being so fond of it. It should be skillfully pruned to keep it in good health. With the sycamore maple, we have had only moderate success. It soon gets covered with seeds, indicating its arrival at maturity, a desirable condition in a fruit, but not in a street tree. Some fine specimens of Acer campestre planted on the Capitol grounds have been tomahawked lately, agreeable to an uninstructed, semi-popular request. A variety of this English maple grows more freely and is altogether a larger, different appearing tree, and may, when more abundant, make a street tree.

The tulip tree is not, in my opinion, a good eurb tree, although the parkway is planted with it. If the trees are well cared for it will make the handsomest avenue in Washington. Permit me to introduce one which I think is among the best as a curb tree, the Ginkgo or maidenhair tree. Two of these interesting trees have flourished in Washington for sixty years or more. Several streets are now planted with them, where they are very fine, and fruit freely. I have never seen an issect near them.

an insect near them.

The western rock elm (Ulmus racemosa), is a tree worthy of more attention. A dozen or more as curb trees mixed with other elms are not attacked by an insect as far as my observation goes. It is a good street tree. The "wahoo" (Ulmus alata) is another not attacked by insects. It is worthy of trial in the North. I have only to mention the majestic American elm and say, give it room; it must have room. To say more in New England would be supererogation. Another remark we might make—it bears the knife when young, but not the saw. In aftertime, only dire necessity should be the excuse.

The plane tree (Platanus orientalis) in Washington is one of the best all-around street trees. They are greatly improved when severely trimmed; even the hollow-stemmed old specimens on Pennsylvania avenue, when so treated, were greatly renovated in appearance. Another tree not troubled with insects is Gleditschia triacanthos (three-thorned acacia). It bears pruning and is improved by it. The sweet gum or liquidamber is only a moderate success as a curb tree. It is attacked by insects. Of the genus querens (oak) I have my doubts as a curb tree. As lawn trees, or in lines in the park they are grand. The American linden has been planted and is doing well, although not a perfect tree; it is much better than the European, which is apt to be destroyed by the borer. The same may be said of the ash, especially the European. which is a very variable species; none of its forms escape this terrible enemy. With the American species the borer is not quite so successful in disfiguring and destroying the trees. Fraxinus pubescens and F. quadrangularis, where there is good soil, are worthy of trial. With the horse-chestnut we achieve satisor three years. The members of the willow family affect damp, swampy, aguebreeding places, and in various ways are candidates for the high honors of quinine, as a cure for intermittent fever.

as a cure for intermittent tever.

I have never been in favor of spending large sums of money for moving trees; even to satisfy public demand. I have looked in vain for permanent success in this matter. It usually takes a young, healthy tree about the same time to grow up as it does a large one to die, after being removed. Much more might be said on this subject, but it is enough if I show you that it is better to observe and think before spending money on trans-planting large trees.

DECORATIVE CACTUS DAHLIA CLIFFORD W. BRUTON.

factory results owing to the opportunity attorded by heavy filling where the trees were used. In poor soil, with no chance to root deep, by the last of the summer it is not beautiful to look upon Permit me here to name a few probationers for the other of street decoration, and as samitary cooling agents Phello-dendror Amurcuse I think would fill both others Zelkersacrimata, and Z. acumunata, Celus a cidentalis (American nettle tree) and Cornssitolia (hard berry) we would all noossary trees. Birds get the fruit in and seather and for this reason we rec contrained the cita be planted in part saind cannot the corresponded in parts and other pare. The Japanese catalpiers of core aparght from than the American period and a Third as probable street (see the core extron Cotrya Virginical depth of see a trong Cotrya Virginical depth of see a correspondence street tree from a trend period Cotronial and a doubt raily as halace from treet decoration. In the code tree that much treed tree to the code tree code that much treed tree to the code tree to the code tree to the tree to the code tree to the tree to the code tree than the code tree to the code tree than the code tree to the code tree than the code tr

By cutting back severely, careful watering when necessary, and cultivating with the assiduity of a good farmer towards his corn crop, we reached a phenomenal success in the early days of tree planting in Washington. Another suggestion; do not let dudeism drive from your street trees the white washer. It he uses lime, blue or other colored clay, sulphur, lamp black, salt or other material, he will greatly improve your trees, and add to the health of the neighborhood, perhaps killing the much dreaded microbes of discases as well as scale insects and fungoids. It will not stop horses' nibbling at the bank, woven wire must be used for that. I on had hove who injure tices, and for gas leaks at is difficult to suggest remedies. I can only say, mend the latter and try to improve the former. Albor Day and memorial tree planting should go hand memorial, creating a sentiment of lose and veneration for trees.

There sows painsies give promise of to see the painsies of the lutine. It is the per to raise them in this way

Dahlias. COLORADO METHODS.

At the solicitation of numerous friends I will here state my methods of dahlia culture. And while my methods are not elaimed to be perfect, yet they represent twelves years of practical experience among the plants and tubers.

In the FLORIST of January 8 I was much interested in an article on dahlias by Mr. Miller; especially interesting was that portion giving the culture as practiced by Mr. Peacoek. But before going further let me say that my surroundings and conditions are probably different from those of any other dahlia grower (commercially speaking) in the country, and certainly very much different from those of Atco, N. J. Yet I believe that the dahlia, when given a reasonable chance, will adapt itself to its surroundings. My altitude is about 5300 feet and I know nothing about "dry spells" that often give trouble elsewhere. With a perfect system of irrigation drouths are robbed of their terrors, but notwithstanding this, rain is very acceptable; it washes the leaves and helps to hold the red spider in check. Our days are dry and hot and our nights are quite chilly, on account of the nearness of the mountains and snow. These latter circumstances, however, seem to be very satisfactory to dahlias. They thrive and produce flowers of wondrous size, frequently six inches in diameter, and plants sometimes reach a height of nine feet. Just at how high an altitude the dahlia will grow, I have not yet discovered in this latitude, but I have customers in Georgetown, Colo., at an altitude of 8500 feet, who grow them nicely.

For my own planting I use small roots; as large as a man's finger is preferable. The size, however, varies considerably in different varieties. In planting I lay the tuber on its side covering it five inches deep. This is very important and should not be overlooked. Planted on the end, as is so generally practiced, or where the germ end is near the surface, is ruinous. When so planted the roots start from the other end, and the germ end being so near the dry surface will not start roots readily, if at all. The evil is not at once noticeable, but as fall comes on, and the old tuber becomes hard and woody, the plant will loose its thrift, and the flowers will be small and inclined to be opencentered. But if planted as suggested above—on the side—new roots will be thrown out from the new stalk before it is fairly out of the ground, and then the plant will have but little use for the old better. I plant in rows 21 gras feet, with a five toot space every fifth row for convenience in walking through. Where dahlas are grown for the tubers only, they may be planted 11<sub>2</sub>x3 feet apart.
In cultivating 1 use a cultivator so adjusted as to throw the soil well up to the plants; this leaves a depression in the center for a small stream of irrigation water, which in dry weather I turn through about twice a week. Several advantages are thus gained; the ridges help to support the plants, and the loose dry surface prevents evaporation and fewer weeds start. I stop the cultivator as soon as the blossom buds appear. Planting the tuber direct to the open ground is preferable to starting in pots for the reason that where pots are used the tubers are so often in a vertical position. This does not apply to plants raised from cuttings and potted, as their roots are in proper shape. Cutting plants will bloom just as early and freely as those grown from tubers only they will not produce as many roots.

My time for planting tubers is the first week in May. These begin to bloom about July 10 to 15, and by August 20, are in full bloom. I noticed with surprise, while reading a recent bulletin on dahlias from Cornell University, that some of the varieties were reported as not blooming until along in October. Why this delay I fail to see. I generally have my stock all dug and put away by October 20, and vet I count on a good three months of bloom. Contrary to the general practice I do not advocate heavy manuring. I have seen many plants and beds ruined by too much manure. Where this is the case, it is shown by a too rank growth, the flowers are under-sized, the stems weak and lacking the woody fiber; in fact a dahlia, like the sweet pea, can be grown all to top. Just how much manure to use practice alone will tell, as the soil varies so in strength, drainage, etc. My soil is a medium loam, with some clay in the subsoil, and I consider a plat well adapted to dahlia growing if it has been well mannred the previous year, except that I always give a light dusting of pure bone in the furrow when planting. In connection with heavy manuring I should also have said that where there is a rampant growth the tubers seldom mature well. They have too much sap and will often rot during the winter.

Dahlia growers should keep a sharp lookout for red spider—the worst enemy of the dahlia. All dead flowers should be kept off the plants that are intended for late blooming.

In closing this article let me say that I have but little sympathy with the popular cry for dwarfs, and at the same time the cry is for long stems. Short men don't as a rule have long arms, neither do short dahlias have long stems as a rule. A dwarf compact dahlia plant is like the old-fashioned bouquet aster, pretty but not graceful.

W. W. WILMORE.

Denver.

Coles' Kaiserins.

The accompanying illustration shows some Kaiserins as W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., grows them. This vase was exhibited at the recent convention of the American Carnation Society in Chicago, and attracted much favorable comment. Mr. Coles has been unusually successful with the Kaiserin since its introduction five years ago, and has won so many premiums with it in various sections as to become familiar under the name of the Kaiserin King to many in the trade.

Profitable Mushroom Growing.

Mushroom growing has got to be a fad in this section. Many of the merchants and business men are attempting to grow them in their cellars during the spring and summer months, with some successes and many failures, and 1 am sure the growing of mushrooms would be profitable to the florist or market gardener in any city with 25,000 inhabitants, as every year they are more in demand; and in the months of August and September the small boy makes quite a stake gathering and peddling them from door to door.

This is the best time of year for beginners to try mushrooms, and an ideal place would be a shed built on the north or back wall of a three-fourth span rose house, which is usually about seven feethigh, the front wall of the shed being four feet, the roof double boarded, the ends glass, this would give enough light to work by; seven feet is wide enough; and the bed formed by setting two unre-inch boards on edge, the back one six inches from the front wall, and the front one two feet six inches from the wall of rosehouse, making a four foot bed, and gives plenty of room for a wheelbarrow.

Success depends on the preparation of the manure and the spawning of the bed. For manure, get fresh horse droppings; this is easy to obtain by making arrangements with the stablemen at the livery stables, have them save it in barrels, so that if put outside it can be covered. This should be gathered every second day, and kept turned over to prevent violent heating. When enough manure has been collected to make the size of bed required, mix with about one-fourth its bulk of good fresh loam from sod that has been piled for two years, such soil as nsed for potting, and be sure it is free from other fungi. Turn it over five or six times to get it thoroughly mixed, and as soon as it has begun to heat it will be in right shape to put in the bed. Put in a layer and tramp evenly, making about three layers to the bed, getting it even with the top of boards. If the beds are slow in heating, boards laid on top of the manure will soon start it, when they should be removed at once. The great point is to get it firmed evenly, so that it will heat evenly and not settle unevenly. When the temperature of the bed is on the decline and the thermometer has fallen below the 100 mark, the bed is ready for the spawn.

Take the bricks and break them into pieces the size of walnuts, make a hole in the manure about three inches deep, drop in the spawn and cover up firmly; plant in rows ten inches apart each way; in ten days or two weeks the bed will be ready to cover with soil, the same as used to mix with the manure. The covering need not be as heavy at the sides of the bed as in the center. Make it two and one-half inches in the center so that the center is a little higher than the edges; put it on as evenly as possible, and firm smoothly with the back of the spade. When all is completed, wait patiently for the mushrooms and look closely after the temperature and moisture in the shed. A steam or hot water pipe from the rose house is sufficient to maintain a temperature of 60°, and when the roses require heat the mushrooms will and vice versa. The atmosphere of the shed should always be kept charged with moisture.

KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTORIA ROSES.

I well remember the first mushroom bed I assisted in making in "Auld Scotland," and anxious I was to see the modes, and watched day after day for mushrooms, and thought it was a failure; but the old laborer who bossed the job would say, "have patience, man; have patience." It was just thirteen weeks until they began to show, and soon there were lots. The test we had for moisture was to hang a piece of writing paper from the roof and make a mark on it with ink. If the ink would run the air was moist enough; but if the ink did not run, we sprinkled the floor and sometimes the beds with "milk warm water." With four beds, or even three if they do well, mushrooms can be cut every day of the year, and I believe the profits would more than pay for the shed in a year.

Germantown and The Neck.

Those who know anything about Philadelphia know that it is a far ery from "The Neck" to "Germantown." In a city of some fourteen hundred thousand inhabitants there is necessarily much of the commonplace in a fourteen mile stretch. The focus of the best in retailing is crowded in a radius of about two miles from the magniticent city hall, and one does not expect to find much that is interesting in retailing outside of this limit. But in the course of my travels recently I have found two green spots far in the desert of the outlying city. One is the establishment of Albert Woltemate, in Germantown, the other John A. Shellem's, in "The Neck."

Just because Albert rides a bicycle, plays shuffleboard, rolls a good game at tenpins, and does not talk you to death, you must not run away with the idea that he is a case of brawn versus brain. Go out to his place in Germantown, see the large area of glass he has got, and the immense variety and excellence of his stock, but above all notice the store in front of the greenhouses, and facing on the main street and you will quickly realize that you have found a man with original ideas and gifted with the executive ability to put them into force. The proprietor was personally waiting on a lady cus-tomer when I walked in. He did it well, 100, I thought the right honorable had a space of garety about him I had never noticed before but you don't find out all about your young benedicts in a day, you know. I pretended not to be listening to the conversation the conversation. Ah me, how nice! How softly modulated the voice, how agreeable the pose! All business, you say? No sir! I consider at a clear care. Why? Well, because corrything pointed that ways and be sides, and here's the clinicher—when the all was figured up and the amount stated the lady looked so delighted and said. Why Mr. Woltem ite! Is that all?" in a gurgle that would have made a nightingale turn green with envy. By and by she departed, and with her the sunshine. Then my turn came. But his lordship was all dignity and business now; a big change, I can tell you. I found I could sell him neither timothy seed nor bulbs, nor any other old thing. Then I got reckless and said something about his prices being very reasonable sometimes, provided the lady was attractive. He went into an elaborate explanation about the value of doing the big-value-act as an advertisement once in a while, and I let him go on and flounder. By and by he saw that he had been and gone and given himself away, so he abruptly switched off and eaught up a shield with growing ferns on it, and began to rail at the man who invented such a troublesome thing to manage. I suppose the moral to this tale is, look out that you charge the ladies enough when the drammer is However, Mrs. Blue Blood goes away, and John immediately becomes a demoerat again, orders out the team and drives his visitor down to his greenhouses about a mile further into the gullet of "The Neck." There are seventeen houses, all of modern construction, and one is surprised to find such extent and variety of stock as is here grown. Carnations are extensively grown; I noticed fine batches of Scott, Daybreak, McGowan and others, as well as the newer sorts, such as Victor, Flora Hill, Mrs. Bradt, etc. The crotons were a surprise; very fine, healthy, vigorous, large variety, and all sizes. No wonder they took first prize at our last flower show. Palms, especially areeas, are a big item and are well done. Roses were not at their best during my visit. Rubbers and Asparagus Sprengerii were worth noting for excellence of culture, and are extensively grown. One thing that took my fancy around. But chaff aside, you will find Mr. Woltemate's place well worth a visit at all seasons, with a warm welcome that makes up in sincerity what it lacks in effusiveness. I can't tell you any more about him just now because my other oasis in the desert has to get a few words.

A CORNER OF ALBERT WOLTEMATE'S STORE.

Mr. Shellem's store is at Seventeenth and Tasker, and has two display greenhouses behind. It is not a large store, but is well arranged and fitted up with all modern conveniences. There is an air of brisk business around; always some customers being waited on, mostly of the middle class, although occasionally a stylish turnout is seen to stop in front. Mrs. Drexel Biddle, in all her splendor, walked in yesterday and put an abrupt end to a pleasant conversation between the pro-prietor and the drimmer. This may be a democratic country all right, but when the Cadwalladers and the Biddles and the Rittenhouses come around your wideawake florist is a worshipper of the aristocracy pretty quick, and the drummer takes a back seat, no matter who he is - were he like Artenus Ward's kungaroo, "the most amoosin' cuss in the whole menagerie," or even like William Scott's ideal drummer-that St. Albans Englishman who blends instruction with amusement and tales. I mean gets--your order without your knowing it.

greatly was a house of Luxonne violets; most charming sight, such a beautiful dark violet, of large size and very fragrant.

I must not spin my yarn too long, however, else my story of "The Neck" may get it in the neck (if you'll excuse that this once) when it reaches the editor, so will bid adieu to Mr. Shellem for the present.

G. C. Watson.

The American Carnation Society.

On October 15, 1891, this society was born and named in the City of Brotherly Love. About three weeks later it met and completed its organization in the city of New York. The chrysanthemum show, which was held that year in Madison Square Garden, was in progress at the same time.

at the same time.

In the year 1899 this society will again meet in the city of its birth. We bespeak for this beneficient organization a hearty welcome. This society has certainly, in the few short years of its existence, improved its patron flower, and all floriculture has benefited thereby. We say this because we believe that the production of flowers of superior quality benefits everybody who is connected with the sale of flowers. It was rarely indeed that we heard of carnations selling at wholesale at from $3 to $4 per hundred; now we frequently hear of their bringing double that amount. It is true that only novelties bring the larger price named at present; but I am inclined to the belief that the quality of flowers of some of the future standard varieties will be so far improved that $8 to $10 will readily be realized for them wholesale. Not only have the varieties been improved since the organization of the society, but the methods of culture have been improved also. Systematic grading has been another factor in the right direction.

Perhaps the most surprising fact under the circumstances is that the society itself is said to be not self-sustaining. Is the annual fee too high? Would three times as many carnation growers who have been either directly or indirectly benefited by the society pay $1 annual dues than now under the $2 fee? Would a registration fee enough to pay at least for the time and trouble of doing the necessary work be paid without any thought of creating a fund? Something ought to be done to give the society enough money to sustain itself. The question is, whether we, the beneficiaries, can afford to accept all that the society is doing for us without contributing something for what we receive. It hardly seems to be right to expect so much from the society and render so little to its support, as many carnation growers are doing. The trade papers might contribute something substantial for the very practical matter which this society has been the cause of said trade papers publishing in their columns for their readers. The writers have given their best thoughts and experiences freely. The withholding of the essays from their columns was opposed by the trade papers simply because they were getting something for nothing, and frequently better than they could by purchase, even if they were ever so willing to payfor it. I repeat there must be something wrong when a society like the American Carnation Society is doing so much good and yet is poor. According to the secretary's report numerous carnation growers-who are not members-write him, for information valuable to them, and yet are sufficiently thoughtless, or worse, to not enclose a 2-cent stamp to pay the postage on the reply. It seems strange that such things should be. There is one thing we can all do, and that is to hereafter enclose a 2-cent stamp to the secretary when writing to that official and a reply is expected. That will be one step towards reform. It is ten chances to one, when writing to the secretary, we are seeking information which is directly interesting to ourselves, and of no benefit whatever to either the secretary or the society.

Mr. Shelmire's idea of only offering cash prizes, or prizes of value, for only standard varieties would hardly benefit the carnation as a flower so much as offering inducements for the improvements of varieties as well as improvements in culture. Let the society's work be broad and deep even if it makes no cash by the operation. Let us devise ways and means for the American Carnation Society to make enough money to pay its way, and not throw the whole burden upon the willing few.

E. L.

New York.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL DINNER OF THE NEW YORK FLORISTS' CLUB.—DECORATIONS AND SPEECHES.—BUSINESS FAIR FOR THE SEASON.—LOCAL NOTES.

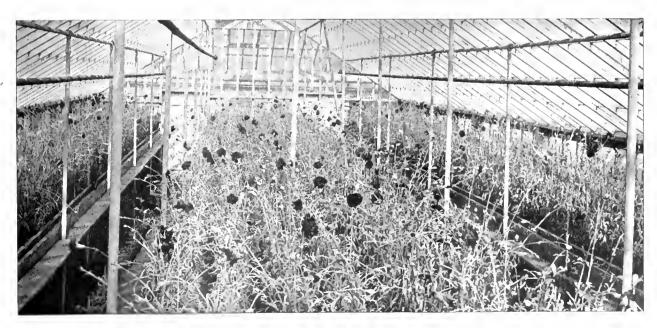

The Florists' Club dinner at the Arena on Saturday evening was the great event of last week. For a number of years interest in this affair has appeared to be dying out, but the effect of the active management so noticeable in the club this year seems to have been to waken up the members and so there was a double row of smiles, sixty-eight in number, lined up at the long table when the welcome "Gentlemen be seated" was spoken by President Plumb. Down the center of the table was a fine array of the choicest flowers to be found in the New York market contributed from the cream of their product by many generous hearted members of the organization. It was a great combination; orchids and dress suits, lilacs and oratory, roses and wit, daffodils and laughter, carnations and music all sandwiched in between courses of solid and liquid refreshments until the resultant expansion forced the partakers who had at first sat elbow to elbow, to sit sideways.

President Plumb made a few brief introductory remarks when the oratorical course was reached. He referred to the present prosperity of the club as due to the fact that the members had put their shoulders to the wheel, and hoped that it would continue until the club should have a home of its own. He then introduced Mr. Patrick O'Mara as toastmaster. Mr. O'Mara first read a number of letters from various gentlemen and the representatives of several clubs, some of them undoubtedly genuine, others so full of sparkling humor as to be attributed to the fertile brain of the witty gentleman who presented them. According to these effusions, the absence of the representatives of the Philadelphia organization was due to a set-to between the Duke and the Tall Sycamore of Darby Road; the non-appearance of the Boston club was owing to the fact that its members, including Warren Ewell, were still shoveling snow, and the Baltimore club was too busy manning the oyster fleet for protection against Spanish attack. A very giddy communication from the San Jose scale, some heavenly verses by J. Austin Shaw and a volley of applause for the grand old man of Flatbush, Mr. Chas. Zeller, who was the sole representative of that once influential borough, concluded the overture and the regular performance then began.

then began.
"Our Night" was the first toast and Mr. John II. Taylor to whom it was referred handled it well. "The Society of American Florists" brought W. A. Manda to his feet whose sentiment that only one aim should actuate all, viz., the general good, even at some self sacrifice, was received with great applause.

Next came Prof. J. B. Smith, his subject being the "American Experiment Stations." He proclaimed himself an entomologist, until recently regarded as a "mild sort of hunatic" because of his interest in bugology and gave such an interesting account of his profession and the classification of bugs in variety, including gold, silver and straddle bugs, that it was manimously declared that he had "no flies on him" nor "scales" either. He referred to the recent enactments for the exclusion of insect-infested plants as impracticable and said that the growers should depend more on their own efforts than on the law for protection. Knowledge, he declared to be what is most needed and this the experiment stations seek to impart.

W. N. Rudd, president of the American Carnation Society responded next for the "Sister Societies" and Dr. Britton of the New York Botanical Garden for the "Botanical Gardens." "Our Club, its Effect upon Society" was Treasurer C. B. Weathered's theme. "Charlie" divided his discourse into three heads, like a real minister, and proceeded with romantic logic to enlarge upon the glories of the social side of the club's life. The growers and the retailers were severally called upon to say a good word for themselves, The wholebut no response was clicited. salers being next called upon, John Young was presented as their spokesman, but he asked the band to respond for him, which asked the band to respond for him, which they did by playing a combination of "Streets of Cairo" and "Hot Time in the Old Town." Mex. Wallace spoke for the "Horticultural Press." R. W. Chucas for the "Seedsmen" and Mr. Brogan for his friends in general.

Mr. Herrington took care of the gar-deners' reputation and Mr. Imbert performed a similar service for the amateurs. Then came reciprocal compliments to the chairman, the toastmaster, John Turner and his assistants in the musical department and the decoration committee, tollowed by "Auld Lang Syne" and a medley of patriotic music, and the curtain was finally rung down somewhere between midnight and dawn.

Trade has started in very unsatisfactory this week. Large quantities of everything in the cut flower line are coming in and prices are very low on lily of the valley, carnations, roses, etc. Von Sion daffodils are improving. Smilax is still scarce. Violets badly in the dumps. Cut of Beauty roses is getting heavier and prices must soon take a drop.

M. A. Hart has taken the store at 44 W. Twenty-ninth street just vacated by H. A. Hofman

Cleary & Co. will begin their series of pring auction sales on March 16, with the usual stock of dormant imported trees, shrubs, etc., and will thereafter hold regular sales every Tuesday and Friday

The American Profest has just erected a handsome advertising sign at the Cut Flower Market on East Thirty-fourth street, directly opposite the entrance, and it attracts much attention.

Mr. A. T. Dela Mare is not in sight and c is whispered that he has quietly slipped away on his honeymoon.

V. Low who has been here on a brief isit sailed for Lingland on the Teutonic, Lobrnary 23.

Alfred Immock arrived from England on Saturday 26th

Preent visitors. W. N. Rudd, Chicago, and P. J. Bonoghue, Lenox, Mass.

Greenhouses in the West.

The location of the greenhouses of L.F. Wiley, of Council Blutts, lows, is certainly an ideal one. They are built on a failly an ideal one. They are ount on a fallside, facing solith, and are protected from the north and northwest winds. Mout one fourth of the houses are built equal span, running north and south, and are mostly used for palms, forms and bedding steel. The balance of the houses are three quarter span, long span to the south. These are used for the growing of roses, carnations and smilax.

The system of feeding is claimed to be very complete. Having a hill that gives about eighty-foot fall, two large eisterns are placed on the top. The manure is hauled there by the wagon-load, put into one and allowed to ferment, and then drawn off into the other, where it can be diluted to the proper strength for use. When this is required, the water is allowed to drain from the pipes, the hose then attached, and the liquid manure used with as much ease and as little trouble as though it were city water.

Philadelphia.

BUSINESS QUIET.-EASTER LILIES IN DE-MAND.—INTERESTING MEETING OF THE FLORISTS' CLUB,-W. P. CRAIG JOINS HIS FATHER IN BUSINESS.

Business is a trifle quieter and stock is commencing to accumulate. Prices have fallen very little as yet, however, those of last week being about the average. The quality of most of the flowers is quite up to standard. Early in the week Maids were off color, the sun burning it out of the soft buds formed during the cloudy days of last week. Brides are now coming in with that pretty blush tint so much admired by many, and the strong shoots now being thrown up by these teas are producing many specials. Car-nations are blooming a little more freely, and a fairly good flower can now be had for $1.50 per 100. Varieties that can be called standard in this market are Mc-Gowan, Portia, Scott, Cartledge, Tidal Wave, Eldorado and Davbreak. These Wave, Eldorado and Daybreak. are the everyday always to-be-had kinds. Victor, Flora Hill and quite a few of the new ones are seen in limited quantities and are fine, but we doubt if any of the above mentioned list will be crowded out for the next year or two. We could not pick out the ones to be laid away. Quite a few Brunners are now coming in, Anderson, Burton and Heacock cach having a house in good condition. Four dollars per dozen is high, although we hear that one grower says that his best must bring $5 or home they go to enrich his compost heap. There is nothing like independence; it was that which made this country what it is, and indifference to the appeals of the dealers has made some growers what they are. It is rumored that one grower has sold his house, or all the good flowers at least, to an out of town firm; lucky grower! his compost heap is safe for this season at least.

We hear of a firm from out of town who want 5000 Harrisii eut lilies for the end of March. This will take about 1000 plants and carry off quite a few that escaped the disease. Although quite some distance away it behooves the dealer to get about if he desires the best for his Easter stock, as the particularly pretty plants are all too soon guarded with the label "sold."

Rambler roses will no doubt be in great demand, and the problem as to whether there will be lilies enough to go around will be settled in the next few weeks.

The March meeting of the club was all right; there was a good attendance and the proceedings were of such a character that none of the members were found asleep when President Harris declared the motion to adjourn carried. One active and three associate members were elected. It was decided by vote to arrange for a shad dinner and all present were declared responsible for any deficit in connection with the affair as no one voted in the negative. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the meeting of the convention of the Carnation Society in 1899. The paper on carnations, by Wm. P. Craig, was one of the best on the subject ever read before the club. He told about varieties and their peculiarities as he knew them in a bold and fearless manner, and his essay should be read by all those intending to plant new varieties the coming season.

Mr. W. N. Rudd, of Chicago, who was present, said, in speaking of the recent carnation meeting and the varieties exhibited, that two very good kinds labored under difficulties and failed to get certificates, one the Wellesley, on account of arriving too early, and Maud Adams, because a plant did not accompany the exhibit. Both these varieties were very good and he thought deserving of certifieates, and probably failed to get them for the reasons given. Mr. Herr coincided with Mr. Rudd and said be thought Maud Adams a particularly fine variety and worthy of a certificate. Mr. Burton spoke of the variety Harrison's White, a supposed sport from Scott. He said that the introducers were being blamed unjustly for the failure of this kind the present season, as without exception all who had seen it growing last year were much pleased and purchased for the most part on their own judgment. This year it had failed everywhere and he thought it wrong to lay the blame on those who sent it out. as it was thought so good by all who had seen it. He could not account for the reversion of form. Mr. Robert Craig said it had seemed singular to him how this promising kind had turned out so badly. proving such a disappointment everywhere; he could not explain it. Mr. Burton said that to say it was not a sport from Scott was not enough, there must be something more. Mr. F. A. Chapman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was at the meet-

GREENHOUSES OF J. F. WILCOX, COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA.

The lily question is to be discussed at the April gathering, and great preparations are being made to make it of much interest to growers of these plants.

William P. Craig, oldest son of Robert Craig, of Philadelphia, has been admitted to an interest in his father's business. On and after March 1 the firm will be Robert Craig & Son, and will combine the establishments at Forty-ninth and Market streets and Sixty-first and Market streets, the former being devoted mostly to commercial plants such as palms, rubbers, ficus, etc., and the latter to cut blooms, and young stock of roses and carnations. William P. Craig is 26 years of age and besides having been born and bred in the business, and actively identified with his father at the old homestead, he served an apprenticeship under John N. May at Summit, N. J., an able and energetic tutor whose influence on the young man's development has evidently been very marked.

London.

Chrysanthemums now take up so much attention and go so far in the way of supplying cut bloom throughout the winter that many other useful subjects seem in danger of being entirely neglected; however, if we get a few autumns like the past one, growers will get tired of going in for such large quantities of 'mums, for the prices realized cannot have been remunerative. In fact many growers must have sustained a considerable loss; for our markets were considerably over-stocked. As is always the case, some special sorts sold fairly well. Among yellows I may mention Modesto as being a general favorite. Western King proved to be one of the grandest whites, though at the national chrysanthemum society's show it was not so prominent as I expected to see it. Niveus was shown in grand condition, being far ahead of all other whites for size. Growers do not seem to make much advance in potchrysanthemums for exhibition; but for market work there is considerable advance shown, and these have been considerably better trade during the past season than cut blooms. think if our societies would encourage the culture of useful market size plants, by offering good prizes for collections of well-grown plants, it would be dwarf better than encouraging the large specimens, which are of little use except for exhibition. The same may be said of the large blooms on the tops of long single stems.

The weather being mild poinsettias have been used freely and few things found a more ready sale. I believe if the supply had been double what it was they would have all been cleared up. It is rather surprising that growers do not go in for these more extensively for they take a short time compared with most flowering plants, and give little trouble. A common mistake is, perhaps that they are often started too early in the season, in which case they get too tall and are also more liable to lose their leaves. Strong cuttings put in early in July I find make the best plants. During the warm weather they are better without artificial heat, but as soon as the nights begin to get chilly heat must be given. They may be kept cool for a considerable time and will not appear to suffer, but as soon as they are given a higher temperature the leaves will drop off. When required only for cutting they may be planted out with advantage, and with good treatment will make larger bracts than when confined to pots.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine is the most popular addition to our winter flowering plants that we have had for many years. It has been in commerce longer than many seem to think. It received a first-class certificate from the Royal Horticultural Society in 1893, and I believe it had then been in this country two or three years. Begonias usually drop their bloom so soon, that growers generally are prejudiced against them, but the above is quite an exception. Under fair conditions the bloom holds on well; this is perhaps owing to the absence of female flowers. However this may be, one thing is certain, that is, it would be difficult to find a more profuse and contimual flowering variety, the color is also of such a pleasing shade of pink. Mr. II. B. May was probably the first grower to popularize it. During last autumn a large house filled with it was a grand sight. The largest plants were in 6-inch pots, and measured a little over two feet in diameter, and about the same in height; these were perfect balls of pink. The first plants were well in flower about the middle of September, and now at the time of writing (February 8), there are still plants well covered with bloom. I may add that in spite of the prejudice against begonias, some thousands have been sold, and from first to last commanded a good price.

I lately saw a fine batch of Ficus radicans variegata at Mr. W. Bull's nursery. It is not yet in commerce, but I understand Mr. Bull intends offering it this spring. Good variegated plants edging are not too numerous, and this pretty drooping ficus will undoubtedly become a great favorite. Ficus repens is extensively used for covering walls, for hanging baskets and for the edging of groups; radicans is not so well known but is equally useful; the leaves are rather longer and more pointed. The variety referred to above has a broad marginal band of pure white. In a large batch of plants 1 saw no sign of its reverting to the green form. Some of the pots were suspended from the roof of the house and were beautifully covered with the bright green and white foliage. Dracena Sanderiana is a fine plant for florists' work; the beautiful silvery grey foliage has a pure white margin. The leaves are small and short compared with most of the genus, and the plant grows quite erect. Singly there is not enough of it for a table plant, but three or more grown together in the same pot are very effective. Smaller plants are also very useful for mixing with ferns in baskets and Asparagus Sprengerii does not seem to take as a pot plant, but for suspended baskets it is one of the finest plants we have, and it seems to thrive better when grown in this mannerthan when confined to pots. It makes such a quantity of thick, fleshy roots that it is difficult to get a good plant in a moderate sized pot. I have seen several specimens in flower, but it does not appear to set freely, though I have seen plants well berried, and when ripe the berries are of a bright coral red and add much to the beauty of the plant. It is when plants are grown cool and well exposed to air that they flower and set their berries best.

A friend of mine recently showed me a photograph of a monster chrysan-themum which he had received from Japan. It represented a single plant grown in a tub. It had 812 blooms, the smallest of which measured nearly nine inches across; the plant appeared to be of oval shape and tied out symmetrically. The measurements given were 10x15 feet and six and one-half feet high. This certainly beats the record as far as anything I have seen or heard of.

Few industries have made such rapid strides as horticulture under glass. The acres and acres of ground which have been covered with glass within the last few years indicate that the trade must be in a flourishing condition, for in addition to new firms springing up, all the leading growers add extensively every year. In traveling from nine to fifteen miles north London one sees new glass houses springing up in all directions. The modern glass houses are quite a different class of buildings to older erections; and though not so durable, a maximum amount of light is gained at a minimum cost. As an instance of the progress being made I may mention that one grower is adding fifty-two houses to his already extensive erections. These are upwards of 200 feet long and thirty feet wide. Grapes, tomatoes and cucumbers, command the greatest share of attention, though plants, both for cutting and pots, are by no means neglected. Mr. Thomas Rochford (an account of whose nurseries apeared in the AMERICAN FLORIST Some time ago) has long been known as one of our most suc-cessful plant growers, and has proved equally successful in his latest venture, orchid growing. He has now one of the healthiest and most extensive stocks in the country, and among importations some grand varieties have turned up.

LONDON CORRESPONDENT.

Worcester, Mass,

There has been considerable public interest in the parks commission of late, which has led to a good deal of argument in the papers and to disagreements within that board; and in consequence one member of the commission has already resigned, and another has announced his intention of resigning at an early date.

Mr. Chas. Greenwood has been elected city forester and will have about 10,000 shade trees under his care. Mr. Greenwood has been judge of vegetables at the Horticultural Society for a number of years.

The fourth annual meeting of the Massachusetts Fruit Growers' Association will be held at Horticultural Hall in this city, March 9 and 10.

Trade is brisk and flowers are plentiful.

ALLENTOWN, PA.—J. F. Horn is about to move his store from 514 Hamilton street, to 20 North Sixth street.

Columbus, O.—The Columbus Floral Co, have gone out of business.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00.
Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Agate; $1.00 per iuch. Cash with Order.

No Special Position Guaranteed. Discounts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

The Advertising Department of the AMERICAN FLORIST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in wares pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted. Advertisements must reach us by Wednesday to se cure insertion in the issue for the following Saturday Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

A very interesting letter from our Paris correspondent will appear in the next

SUBSCRIBERS who have paid their subscription for the year 1808 will be allowed a commission of fifty cents on each new paid subscription to the AMERICAN FLORist which they may send in.

IT SOMETIMES happens that copies of the AMERICAN FLORIST are lost in the mails. Notify us at once if the paper does not reach you regularly. Missing numbers will be replaced, and the cause of the trouble will be found and corrected.

Diseased Geraniums.

ED. AM. PLORIST:-The plants sent herewith for your examination were grown in a mixed greenhouse where the average temperature is about 60, and although taken from clean healthy stock in the field, many of the cuttings showed the disease before ready to take from the land. Some plants last year which were affected in the same way were set out in the horder, but did not seem to recover.

ARTHUR SMITH.

If the writer had carefully described the disease, as it appeared to him in the greenhouse and in the field, he would have done a good service to other florists, and have stood a better chance of obtaining the information he desires. The cuttings sent with the inquiry, somewhat belated in the mail and not in the best condition, showed blackened spots of irregular size and extent, especially upon the forming leaves. They looked like rotten spots during the early stages of decay especially when put into water. Presumably these spots occurred upon any part of the stem or leaves, but more particularly the voungest parts, enlarging indefinitely. As these specimens reached me, the spots were rather hard, having dried out more than the well parts.

Thorough examination shows the entire absence of any fungus or insect. dead cells are, however, infested with bacteria. These may be the cause of the disease, or they may be ordinary decay bacteria. It would be rash to attempt an equines, and uninquired and ample mater ral can be e-an med

It it is a contagrous factorial disease, the diseased leaves and stems should be gathered and harned at frequent inter vids, and it the first opportunity the rouse short d be emptied and disintected notes since a be empired and distincted by the regular with burning sulphur, and the whole stock of germinums dis-arched and replenished from a distance. Burgura, due to cultural conditions,

Thick seer more prolande, only that it is and the persist of control doors, the lighting, whereing and ventilating should belowed to Andre penally watch for must be by viaging against. The trouble is reparent to standard and connected and the root [1] C. Vermer

A Border of Herbaceous Plants.

ED. AM. FLORIST: I have a border seventy-five feet long and irregular in width, varing from four to six feet, which I desire to put in hardy stuff, so as to keep up a continuous bloom from May to November. It is fully exposed to the sun all day, facing south. Do not want any shrubbery, but principally stuff of a low growing nature. Please give me a list of suitable kinds with the number of each required, and their positions in the bed.

It is presumed that L. has duly prepared his border for planting, that the soil has been well mixed with old manure and is loosened to a good depth, for the plants to be introduced are not expected to be disturbed for some years, therefore they need all the food that can be stored up for them in the ground. To give the exact number of plants to be used in planting when I do not know what proportion of the horder is narrow or wider is not possible. The planting has to be done by some experienced person who has a fair knowledge of the habit and growth of these plants, because many of the low and dwarf species require close planting while rank or spreading growers need more room. If all were planted at an equal distance apart we would find bare spots in one section of the border and overcrowded patches in another, so the man intrusted with the arrangement should necessarily be familiar with the various subjects and use his judgment accordingly. It is far more satisfactory to plant in groups or irregularly shaped patches, using from five to twelve or even more plants of the same variety in each plot, than to adhere to the old way of mixing up single plants all over the bed; most of the plants show their individual characteristics to better advantage under such arrangement and the display of bloom is surely more effective when planted in masses. I will mention now a simple arrangement in which each species is planted in a separate patch and the planting may be begun at either end of the border, using the odd or uneven numhers in the back part of the bed because they grow taller than the others. 1. Aster corymbosus. 2. Polemonium reptans. 3. Centranthus ruber. 4. Iris pumila. Polygonum euspidatum, 6, (Enothera glauca. 7. Helenium antumnale. 8. Phlox amorna. 9. Monarda didyma. 10. Dicentra eximea. 11. Phlox sufruticosa. 12. Campanula Carpathica. 13. Rudbeckia hirta. 14. Daphne encorum. 15. Spiraca ulmaria fl. pl. 16. Phlox subulata alba. 17. Aquilegia cœrulea. Henchera sanguinea. 19. Gaillardia grandiflora 20. Lychnis semperflorens fl. pl. 21. Centanrea montana. 22. Lrysimum pulchellum. 23. Iris Germanica. 24. Armeria maritima. 25. Anemone Japonica. 26. Alyssum saxatile. 27. Rudbeckia pinnata. 28. Arabis alpina. 29 Delphinium hybridum, 30 ms viscaria tl. pl. [31] Coreopsis laneco lata, 32. Viola corunta, 33. Spiraea palmata elegans, 34. Papaver muli-caule 35. Pyrethrum rosemu 36. Dianthus cassus.

Boston.

CARNALION EXHIBITION. SINTE OF TRADE PITTER FISHER WISS THREE CUTS. CITEMIETES. SORTON'S BOY ROBBED

Business is fair, considering the season, but the balary, lamb like weather which has come in with the month of March has some reased the production of flowers that the accumulation in wholesalers' hands has forced pages down somewhat, with ] prospects of a still heavier drop if present weather conditions should continue.

The competition for the cups offered at the exhibition of carnations held Saturday at the Florists' Market brought out an extensive display of novelties of 1898 which were greatly admired by a large number of carnationists from around Boston, and many visitors from a distance. Directly upon the center of the table in front of the door was a large vase of 100 blooms of Peter Fisher's scedling, Mrs. Thomas W. Lawson, and although there were many other handsome vases of the divine flower upon the other tables yet this certainly eclipsed them all, for the judges awarded this variety three of the four cups offered, the Breek cup for the best novelty, the Lawson cup for the best 100 blooms of any dark pink variety not yet disseminated and the Galvin cup for the best American seedling not yet disseminated. The Cottage Garden cup, presented by C. W. Ward for the best new scarlet carnation for commercial purposes, was awarded to F. A.

Blake, of Rochdale, for Bon Ton.

The growers of this vicinity were enabled to form a good idea of nearly all the novelties of the year, for the following were exhibited: Evelina, from Richard Witterstaetter, of Cincinnatti; Genesee, from D. B. Long, of Buffalo, and Argyle, from Stollery Bros., of Chicago. C. W. Ward made a fine display, showing White Cloud, John Young, Gold Nugget, Bon Ton, New York and Mrs. Jas. Dean. E. G Hill was on from Richmond, Ind., and staged vases of Arbutus, Scarlet Queen, Painted Lady, and some very handsome blooms of standard varieties. C. Besold, of Mineola, L. I., was also present with his beautiful pink seedling, Mrs. Frances Joost. 11. Grout, of Springfield, showed Conch Shell, and J. Tailby & Son made a fine display of their searlet novelty, Wellesley. H. Weber & Son, of Oakland, Wellesley. H. Weber & Son, of Oakland, Md., exhibited a handsome bunch of the new rose, Mrs. Robert Garrett. The earnations were judged by the scale of points adopted by the American Carnation Society. Wm. Nicholson, H. Weber and M. H. Norton acted as the judges.

One of the boys employed at Norton Bros.' was "held up" on Saturday evening by a man who had left an order, purporting to be from Mrs. J. L. Gardner, for a lot of violets to be sent to her residence with money sufficient to make change for a ten dollar bill. The boy started with the violets and money, and the fellow, who had accompanied him, pulled a revolver as they passed through an unfrequented place and demanded the money. The boy gave it up and returned in terror to the store. The police were at once notified but failed to eateh the highwayman, although it was afterwards learned that he had successfully worked the same game on a messenger from Galvin's store and two other places.

and two other places.

Reports from many places out of town tell of greenhouses flooded during the heavy rain storm of a week ago and more or less damage resulting from the putting out of fires under the boilers. The temperature was fortunately not low enough to cause any very great inpury to plants from exposine.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club met on Tuesday evening and an audience of thirty two listened to a paper by Mr. Emil Mische, his subject being "The Emil Mische, his subject being "The Royal Gardens at Kew." The treasurer's report for 1897 was presented and accepted Visitors in town: E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind., C. Besold, Mincoln, N. V.; H. Weber, Onkland, Md., W. H. Moon, Morrisville,

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE,

Advertisementa under this head will be inserted at the rate of 10 centa a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accompany order. Plant advs. not admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the AMERICAN FLORIST for the year 1888 is entitled to a five-doe want adv. free to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED-By a tirst-class rose grower; 15 years' experience. Good references. Address D W, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By young man to learn the florist trade; moderate wages.

J. B., 307 E. King St., Lancaster, Pa.

SITUATION WANTED—By a competent store man, late with Fredman; reference given by Chicago wholesale florists.

R A, care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a good general green-house and cut flower worker: 7 years' experience. Address WILLING. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener and florist, Swede, to take charge of private place.

Address W. Nelson. 98 Sedgwick St., Chicago.

SITUATION WANTED—By retail cut flower worker and decorator. Best of reference; 15 years experience. Address BJ. care American Florist.

OlTUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener and florist, to take charge of private or commercial place; age 33, married. W 5, care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By A·I general cutflower grower; good decorator. Recommendations furnished; German American; 30 years old. Address V G, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By a competent fiorist, five years' experience, reliable in every respect, single; able to take charge; good wages expected. Address Y S, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By first-class cut flower grower: specialist in roses: 15 years' experience, married, age 32; state wages. Address  $F \ D \ C$ , care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman of a first-class cut flower growing establishment. In reply de-scribe place and name sa'ary. References. NIXON H. GANO, Richmond, Ind.

SITUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener and florist to take charge of private or commercial place; age 38 married. Best of references.

CHICAGO care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By young man to learn the florist trade; soher and reliable; state terms.

Address W. C. GREGORY.

Box 92. Markham P. O., Ontarlo, Canada.

SITUATION WANTED—By a florist and gardener; he can't do heavy work because he has had one leg broken, but is willing to do light work cheap. Address B, care Nissen, 201 W. 127th St., New York.

OITUATION WANTED — A competent seedsman wants situation with a reliable seed house; can speak Dutch, German or English; correspondence solicited. H. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By married man, as responding from the foreman; good grower of cut flowers and general greenhouse plants. First-class references; state wages. Address R. D. care Am. Floilst.

CITUATION WANTED—As foreman in first-class establishment; specialties, roses, 'mums, carmettons, orchids, etc.; life axperience; well up in other branches of the profession. C O, care Am Florist.

OITUATION WANTED—By practical florist, age 40, German, single; good grower of cut flowers and general bedding plauts; good wages expected. References. FLORIST, Cleveland State Hospital. Ohio.

NITUATION WANTED—By middle-aged gardener and florist with large experience in this country and Europe, especially in greenhouse culture of all kinds; private place preferred. Address

E. M. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—by gardener, Swede (23), as assistant; understands greenhouse work in general, good worker, honest, sober, etc. State particulars. Address G.P. care Mrs. Coughian.

803 East ith St., So. Boston, Mass.

SITUATION WANTED—By practical florist of 17 years' experience, good out flower grower, roses, carnations, etc. Competent to take charge; would work on shares. Retriable care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED -As foreman by practical florist and grower; specialty No. 1 roses, carnations, 'mums, violets, general stock, etc.; now disengaged; age 38. Best references. Address W 11. carc 164 E. Main St., Alliance, O

SITUATION WANTED—By practical, all-round flo-rist and gardener; 12 years' experience in eastern and western states. Al references from present and former employer; well op in Moral work. Address 11 T. 201 Creighton St., Ottawa, Canada.

SITUATION WANTED—By an experienced gardener and florist, to take charge of a private place; would like to go to California; Englishman, married, no family. Best of references. Address. JAS. CHEED, 724 Irving St., Syracuse, N. Y.

SITUATION WANTED—By an experienced grower of florists' stock, roses and carnations a specialty, as foreman; will invest $500 in place if a live one and near a good market. For particulars address

BUSINESS PARTNER, care American Florist

SITUATION WANTED—By a fiorist with life experience in growing out flowers and plants as working foreman: has been holding a similar position; Am. Beauty a specialty; age 30 and married. Al references.

E. Y. care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a landscape gardener and florist, married 40 years old, experienced in flowers, regetables, fruits; not affaid of work; has tended horses and cow. Best of recommendations. Address J K, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman with some refined party by a practical grower of roses carnatiora, violets, 'mums, palms, ferns and general stock, forcing of bulbs: a life experience: references OK. Address FOREMAN, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—As manager of park or private place; young German-American desires engagement: thoroughly experienced in all branches. Can lurnish best of references; maried, family of two. Address R S L, care American Fiorist.

SITUATION WANTED—By a well-experienced foreman, a hustler, good manager, first-class rose and cut flower grower. Best of references. Only first-class partles need apply; open for engagement to suit employer. Address FOREMAN, care Am. Florist.

SITUATION WANTED-By a thorough, practical florist; German, single: 20 years' experience in all branches and 5 years' experience in growing roses and armations. Competent to take charge, References A1. Address FLORIST, 113 8th St., Cincinnatl, O.

SITUATION WANTED—By practical florist and rose grower: No 1 on Beauties and Meteors, good propusator, life experience; competent to take charge as foreman; middle see, married, small family Address FLORIST, care Max Von Geyon, 1633 Belmont Ave., Chicago.

CITUATION WANTED—By a first-class grower of roses, 'moms, carnstions, violets, etc. and general greenhouse stock, as working foreman or assistant in large commercial pisce; 16 years' experience, age 30, single; state wages. Best of references. Address GS, care American Florist SITUATION WANTED—By young single man, gen-be al commercial place, 13 years' experience, all branches, England and America; specialities roses and carnations; sober and reliable. References. State particulars and wages. HARRY DINNELLY, 535 Pawincket Ave. Pawitocket, R. I.

SITUATION WANTED—By a laudscape gardener and flotlet. German. married, 25 years old; 20 years' experience in flowers, vegetables, fruits, care of pleas are grounds and bothouses; position in private park, cemetery or gentlemso's place in city or country. Best of recommendations. Address II SCHERWAT, care American Florist.

CITUATION WANTED—As foreman in cut flower setablishment, mostly roses and carnations: must be up to date in conveniences; by all-round man, single, American, nine years experience; don't use to-bacco or drink; west preferred gard wages expected. References. References.
2640 Cottage Grove Ave., Des Molnes, Ia.

SITUATION WANTED—By successful rose grower, who has devoted all his lifetime to rose culture; well posted in cut diower designs and bouquets; commercial place precipered; to suitable parties greatest satisfaction assured; satisfactory references. Address EMIL LEFEURE, 414 Hapkings St., Cincipnati, O.

SITUATION WANTED—As foreman or manager in large commercial place by a first-class grower of roses, carnations, 'mums and general stock; life experience, married, see 30; has been foremen in large establishments for the past ten years; only reliable parties who wish a first-class man need answer; best of reference. Address parties who wish is unserviewd of references. Address Rose Grower, care American Florist.

WANTED-The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amager. Address L. JENSEN, South Butte, Mont.

WANTED-A steady and reliable man for general greenhouse work. Address
H. MAENNER Maspeth, L. I., N. Y.

Wanted-Young man to take charge of florist business and take interest in business. Address New York, care American Florist:

WANTED-A man who thoroughly understands the growing of palms and ferns. Apply to VAUGHAN'S GREENHOUSES, Western Springs, Ill.

WANTED-From essterb Penna and northern Maryland, quotations on 300 cut carnations a week Lowest price on good stock. Address B. CARNATIONS, care Am. Florist.

W ANTED Rellable man with general knowledge of greenhouse stock and palms, principally beoding plants, to do propagating and look after two houses Address E. A. HOLTON, Morristown, N. J.

WANTED By the Greenville (Texas) Floral and Nursery Co., catalogues and wholesase price lists of reliable dealers in their line. They will buy a whole lot of stock and pay cash.

WANTED-Man, married or single, with general knowledge of horticulture, to work on airfcultural experiment station; wages $40; orchard, greenhouse, garden; new country, buc climate. Address J. A. Balmer, Pullman, Wush.

WANTED-Young man 16 to 18 years old; only one who wants to devote bls full time to the study of the business; no previous experience necessary, but brains and posh, found. Address MASSACHUSETTS, care Am. Florist.

WANTED-A competent man for cut flower department and making up floral designs and bouquet work; also one that understands decorating and general greenhouse work. Apply
CHARLESTON GREENHOUSES,
309 Meeting St., Charleston, S. C.

WANTED-Young man thoroughly experienced in the best class of retail florist business; must be first-class in window, table and wedding decorations, also design "ork Apply with references, ability, etc., stating wages expected. J H DUNLOP, 445 Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

TO RENT-14,000 feet of glass consisting of 7 even-span, north and south houses, cear Philadelphia, X, care American Florist.

FOR SALE-One Alaska refrigerator in first-class condition.

JOHN H. ORTH & CO., McKeesport, Pa.

FOR RENT-Seven greenbouses, stocked; dwelling and land, steem heat; convenient for Baltimore wholesale market, and fair local trade. Address MARYLAND, care American Florist.

FOR SALE OR FOR RENT-Three greenhouses and residence at Rogers Park. For particulars call or address

P. G. Room 6, 127 Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR RENT—Greenhouse. 6 (W) feet of glass on Main street; street care pass the door; store and dwell-lng house connected with same place S5 per month. P. N. SOETGA, 1692 Cedar Ave.. Cleveland, O.

POR SALE—Greenbouse plant of 5.000 feet of glass in Jamestown, N. D.; price $1.500; ½ cash, balance may be pald in cut flowers. Address W. W. SEEKINS, 221 E 3rd St., Duluth, Mind.

FOR SALE—AD old-established fiorist business. Greenbouses well stocked; residence, outbuildings. 30 acres of land, on the line of R. R.; would sell before Easter for benefit of Easter trade. Denth cause of selling A. M. care American Florist,

Two greenhouses with 21 acres of land, in town of about 10,000, between two good markets. Buffaio and Rochester: reason for selling, recent death of proprietor. Address

27 Pearl St., Batavia, N. Y.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the hest cities in Wisconsio. A good investment and a money maker for a huetler. Owner must retire on account of poor health.

For particulars write

A. LEHBNER, Wausau, Wis.

WANTED.

Situation as grower or salesman in commercial establishment. Can furnish excellent recommendations. Eight years with Fred C. Becker. ANDREW.

45 Hancock St., Cambridge, Mass

WANTED

A large quantity of Boston Fern. State size and lowest cash price per thousand. Address .

S J, care American Florist, Eastern Office, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good investment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health

For particulars ELLIS & POLLWORTH, write Milwaukee, Wis.

A Business Chance

FOR any one who wishes to buy at a reasonable rate, a flower store located on one of our busy streets; don't apply unless you mean business, address all communications to

Wm. F. Kasting, 495 Washington St., Buffalo, N.Y.

Situation Wanted.

A COMPETENT MANACER of thorough ability and over 20 years' practical experience desires a position to take eather charge of private cetate, purk or Brat-class commercial place; an experienced cuttivator or pathas, orehids, thorists' stock in general, shrubbery, truit and vegetables; a good floral decorator, Thoroughly reliable, married, with small family, Good wages required. Address

FLORIST, care S. J. Nelson, 206 E. 28th St., New York.

THE "OLO RELIABLE" FOR

WHOLESALE

Hunt's Flowers Go Everywhere

76 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

WHOLESALE CUT FLOWERS AND FLORISTS SUPPLIES. WIRE WORK 88 WABASHAVE CHICAGO

E. C. AMLING. WHOLESALE

51 WABASH AVENUE.

Consignments Solicited. CHICAGO. Prompt attention to shipping orders.

A. G. PRINCE & CO. Wholesale Gut AND FLORISTS' SUPPLIES

ROOTED GARNATION GUTTINGS

Albertini and Brolesmaid, $2,00 per 100; Daybreak, $1,50 per 100; Lizzie McGowan, Iyory Lizzie Gilbert, Fred Dorner and Rose Queen, $8,00 per 1000.

88 & 90 Webash Avenue,

Telephone Main 3208.

CHICAGO.

WINTER & GLOVER.

21 Randolph St., CHICAGO.

HIGH

PACKED RIGHT,

so they will reach you in just as good condition as they reach us.

PE DESIGNS: A Full Line. Write us for our Illustrated Catalogue.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson

FLORISTS SUPPLIES FLORISTS SEEDS SPRING BULBS

All the leading varieties in Carnation Rooted Cuttings

Best varieties of Young Roses in 2%-in, Pots.
Fine well cured Pearl Tuberose Bulbs, per 1000. $7.50
Extra fine inived Gladioli Bulbs, per 1000. 12.50
Fine mixed Gladioli Bulbs, per 1000. 7.50 SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson,

45-47-49 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Wholesale Flower Markets

|        | CHICAGO, March 4.                          |
|--------|--------------------------------------------|
| Roses  | . Beautles per doz. 1.50@4.00              |
|      | Brides 3 f0@ 5 00                          |
|      | Meteors, Bridesmaid, Kaiseriu., 3.00@ 5.00 |
|      | Perle. Goutiers 2.006 1.00                 |
| 44     | La France. Testout 3.400 6.00              |
| Carna  | tiona, common 1 00kg 2 0kg                 |
| •      | fancy 2.00@ 5.00                           |
| Vlolet | 1850@ 1.73                                 |
| Narch  | ssus, Romana 2 00@ 3 0                     |
| Callas | 8.00@10.00                                 |
| Harri  | all                                        |
| Valle  | y 2.00@ 3 0                                |
| Tulip  | s 1.00@ 5.00                               |
| Von 8  | Sion 2.00                                  |
| Hyaci  | Inths 4.00@10.00                           |
| Adlar  | itum 1.66                                  |
| Smila  | x10.00@12 ()                               |
| Aspar  | ragus50.00@75.0                            |

Consignments Solicited.

All Florists' Supplies.

19 & 21 RANDOLPH STREET, Fine Stock a Specialty. CHICAGO.

Wholesale Florist

DON'T FORGET that we are at the old number, 126 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Write for special quotations on large orders

N. Y. CUT FLOWER EXCHANGE

404-412 E. 34th St. Near Ferry Open for Cut Flower Sales at 6 o'clock Every Morning..... DESIRABLE WALL SPACE TO RENT

FOR ADVERTISING.

JOHN DONALDSON, Secretary.

**Wholesale Florists

111 West 30th Street, NEW YORK. Consignments Solicited. Telephone, 260 38th St.

Commission Dealer in

Good Money for your Flowers.

Good Flowers for your Money. 49 WEST 29TH ST . NEW YORK. TELEPHONE 1675 38th St.

THE NEW YORK CUT FLOWER CO.

119 and 121 West 23d Street, 112 and 114 West 24th Street,

Telephone 733-18th.

NEW YORK.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED. Special Attention Given to Shipping Orders.

ROGERS PARK FLORAL CO..

Wholesale Growers of

51 WABASH AVENUE,

CHICAGO. HEADQUARTERS FOR AMERICAN BEAUTIES.

BLADOLAR LERS

FOR AMERICAN

88 Wabash Ave. CHICAGO

t flowers at Wholesale

ALL FLORISTS SUPPLIES.

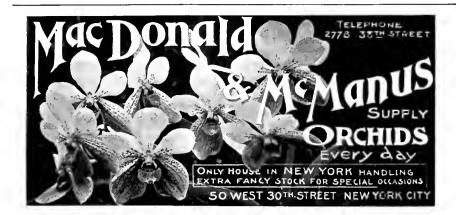

Greenhouses and Residence:

HINSDALE, ILLS.

tong Distance 'Phone No. 10.

STORE: 88 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Long Distance 'Phone, Main 223.

CONSIGN TO

BUY FROM

M. A. HART. Commission Dealer Cut Flowers.

44 WEST 29TH STREET. NEW YORK CITY.

THE BEST MARKET IN NEW YORK.

TRAENDLY & SCHENCK. Wholesale Florists.

Control the stock of many celehrated growers and are prepared to quote prices on Firsl Grade Cut Flowers. All varieties.

38 West 28th St., and Cut Flower Exchange, Tel. 961 18th Street. NEW YORK CITY.

FRED. EHRET.

No. 1403 Fairmount Avenue.

Telephone, Long Distance.

PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Flower Markets

| NEW YORK, March 2.                                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------|
| Roses, Beanty                                           |
| Br des. Bridesmaid 2 00% 6 00                           |
| " Testout, Carnot 3 00@ 8.00                            |
| " Morgan, Meteor                                        |
| Carnations                                              |
| fancy 1 50@ 3.00                                        |
| Valley                                                  |
| Mignonette 2 00/4 6,60                                  |
| Violeta                                                 |
| Harristi 4.00@ 6.00                                     |
| Tulips                                                  |
| Daffodils Jonquils                                      |
| BOSTON, March 2,                                        |
| Roses Beauties                                          |
| " Perie, Niphetos 2 00@ 4 00                            |
| " Bride, Bridesmald, Morgans 4 00@ 8.00                 |
| " Carnot Meteor 4.00@ 8 00                              |
| Carnations, ordinary 1.50 @ 2 50                        |
| " fancy 3 00@ 4.00                                      |
| Valley, Daffodils 2.00@ 3 00                            |
| Violets 35@ .75                                         |
| Freesia                                                 |
| Tuilps 2.00@ 3 00                                       |
| PHILADELPHIA March 2                                    |
| Roses, Beauties, per dezen 3 00@8.00                    |
| Teas, nists 1.000g 10 00                                |
| Be rect                                                 |
| Carnations                                              |
|                                                         |
| Vtolets                                                 |
| Hyacinths. 2,00@ 3,00                                   |
| Harrish 10.00@12 00                                     |
| D+ff-dils                                               |
| Tulips                                                  |
| A MILE POLICE 1 1111 11111 11111 11111 11111 11111 1111 |

LUDLOW ST. PHILADELPHIA, PA.

John I. Raynor,

49 WEST 28th STREET.

NEW YORK.

SPECIAL EXTRA STOCK OF AM. BEAUTY, METEOR. BRIDESMAID, BRIDE.

Record Breaking Carnations

Thos. Young, Jr.

* * Wholesale Florist

43 West 28th Street, New York.

WALTER F. SHERIDAN. WHOLESALE

FLORIST

39 West 28th Street, NEW YORK.

Roses shipped to all points. Price list on application.

Growers ose

Will find a good market and good returns for their stock at....

JULIUS LANG'S 53 W. 30th Street, -NEW YORK.

Edward C. Horan, 34 W. 29th Street, NEW YORK,

WHOLESALE • FLORIST.

Careful Shipping to all parts of the country.

Price list on application.

WM. C. SMITH, Wholesale Florist,

40 So. 16th St., PHILADELPHIA.

Consignments Solicited. Special attention given to shipping orders

Long Distance Telephone 5008 A.

FLOWER MARKET, 9 Chapman Place, 15 Province Street. BOSTON, MASS.

ed separate space in onr market. We gnarantee payment for all Flowers sold. Sales reported weekly; payments monthly, or oftener if required.

THE NEW ENGLAND HEADQUARTERS FOR THE BEST GRADE OF FLOWERS AT ALL SEASONS OF THE YEAR.

J. K. ALLEN, Wholesale Florist,

57 West 28th Street, NEW YORK, near 6th Ave. Elevated R. R. NEW YORK, BEAUTIES AND VIOLETS, SPECIALTIES. Consignments Sollcited.

GALVIN & CO. Wholesale Florists

AND DEALERS IN ALL

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES, 4 Ordway Place, BOSTON, MASS.

Cut Flower Consignments Solicited. Best market.

GEORGE A. SUTHERLAND, Cut Flowers & Florists' Supplies WHOLESALE.

67 Bromfield St.,

BOSTON, MASS.

JOBBERS IN Wholesale Florists

FLORISTS' VASES.

Harticultural Auctloneers. 84 HAWLEY STREET, . BOSTON.

JOHN YOUNG, ROSES, CARNATIONS, VALLEY

and all other choice cut flower stock.

51 W. 28th Street. NEW YORK. Price list on application.

FRANK MILLANG. CUT FLOWERS.

408 E. 34th Street,

ut Flower Exchange,

NF

Chicago.

BUSINESS FAIRLY GOOD. -- PRICES STEADY. --HENRY FRITZ ACCIDENTALLY KILLED .-DEATH OF A. H. SAXON.

Heretofore trade has been very dull during the first week or two in Lent; although not so good last week as it was the week before, still a fairly good business was done, both local and shipping. Many florists are agreeably surprised at the way business has kept up.

Harrisii lilies are coming in more plentifully, and are somewhat cheaper. are much improved in quality, and as the new crop is beginning to come in are more abundant.

Hein Bros., of Blue Island, are shipping to Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson Albertini carnations that are the equal of any pink variety in the market.
G. II. Pieser, of Kennicott Bros. Co., is back at his desk after a two weeks' sojourn in New Orleans.

Henry Fritz, who for several years was gardener to H. N. Higginbotham, was accidentally killed February 23 at Forty-seventh street and Ashland avenue; the accident was caused by a collision of a railroad train with an electric car of which he was the motorman, he having accepted a position on the electric road after leaving Mr. Higginbotham about a year ago. Mr. Fritz at the time of his death had about completed arrangements to start in the florist business this spring.

A. 11. Saxon, of Downer's Grove, died February 23 of consumption after a lingering illness, leaving a wife and five children—the youngest about 3 years of age—to mourn his loss. The family have the heartfelt sympathy of his many Chicago friends in this sad bereavement. Several Chicago florists attended the funeral, which was held last Sunday. Mr. Saxon was well and favorably known to many members of the Florists' Club, he having been a regular attendant at the club meetings a few years ago, when he lived in the city and was gardener for W. 11, Rand Fred Hill will read a paper on "How to Grow Roses for Profit" at the next meet-ing of the Florists' Club. J. T. A.

Asparagus Plumosus Nanus.

Strings 8 to 10 feet long. 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

ROSES OWN ROOTS.

FIELD GROWN

4 - 2 to 4 feet out back to 2 fee

Yellow Rambler (Aglaix), Hybrid Perpetuals, Mosses, Hardy Climbers and Madame Plantler. These plants are very strong and well shaped. Prices on applica-Address tion.

W. U. HEIKES, Manager, Care WESTERN COLD STORAGE CO., 39 North State St., CHICACO, ILL.

GERANIUMS that will please you and prices that will suit you

Hereniyatia #250 real part of the following section of the Mrs. Broads and a section of the manager of the section of the sectio

H. R. CARLTON, Willoughby, O.

INDIANAPOLIS.-Fire destroyed the pottery of the Vail Seed Co. of this city, on the night of March 1, and they will not be able to make pots for some time.

Wholesale Flower Markets

|         | Cincinnati, March 3.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Boses.  | Beant) select                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|         | " medium 15 W 25.10                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 46      | Brides 5 00@ : 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| *4      | Bridesmalds 5 00@ 7.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| **      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|       | Peries. 4 00@ 5 00tions 1 50@ 2.00                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Carna   | tions 1 50@ 2.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|         | fancy 3.00@ 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Valley  | Peries 4 00% 5 00 tions 1 50% 4 00% 5 00 fancy 3 00% 4 00 3 00 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Roma    | ns 2.00@ 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Narcis  | 3 00111s                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Daffor  | 1tle 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Vlolet  | 8 .51@ .75911                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Harrie  | 81110.0004 [2] 50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 81188   | 8.00@ 10.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Tunps   | 3.00 & 4.00x                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Smila:  | K10.00@12 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|         | 1 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Aspar   | agus 50.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|         | St. Louis, March 3.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Roses   | Besutles.   5 00@35.00   Meteors   5 00@7.00   Brides, Bridesmalds   5 00@7.00   Perles   4 00@5.00                                                                                                                                                  |
|         | Meteors 5.00 4 7.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|         | Brides, Bridesmaids 5.00@ 7.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|       | Perles 4.00@ 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|         | Wootton 3.00@ 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| * 1     | La France 2.00@10.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|         | Kaiserine 3.006 10.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|         | Peries 4.000 5.00 Wootton 3.000 5.00 La France 2.100 10.00 Kalserine 3.000 11.00 Carnot 4.00 a.00 0.00 S. California 2500 3.00 single 1500 25 12.50a 15.00 11.10 10.10 10.10 11.10 10.10 10.10 11.10 10.10 10.10 11.10 10.10 10.10 11.10 10.10 10.10 |
| Carna   | tlons 2.50@ 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Violet  | s. California                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|         | single                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Valley  | 3.00 a 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Harris  | sii                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Callas  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Tumpa   | 3 1 0 5.00seus, Romans 2 000 4.00K 90.00 42.50                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Narcis  | sus. Romans 2 1000 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Smila   | U.tu@12.30                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| rreesi  | a                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| D       | MILWAUKEE, March 4.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| noses.  | Beauty                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| +4      | Duelo Bullo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|       | Perle, Belle. 3 00@ 6.00Metoors 3 00@ 8 00                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Coma    | Metcors a ung a uu                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Violet  | tions                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Roma    | 8. 3165 1.00ns. 2 00 $ 3 003 00 $ 4 00                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Valler  | 2 00% 1 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| L'rocel | 0.000 9.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Tullne  | Hypolytha 9 100 4 100                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Yan S   | kans Tanantta 9 100 2 10                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Callag  | as. 2 (10.5 3 19) 1. Hyacinths 2 (10.5 4 10.0 10.0 10.1 10.1 10.1 10.1 10.1 10                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Smile   | 10 (0c. 19 60                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Smira.  | · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|         | BUFFALO, March 3.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Roses,  | Beauties 20.0kg in, 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|         | Brides, Bridesmaids, Meteors 6 05@ 10 00                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|         | Peries 4 (0)(a) 6 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|       | Niphetos 4 000 6.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Cono-   | Kaiserin, Mermets                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| carna   | Niphetos                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Valle-  | ordinary 1.50(a) 2.50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| vaney   | 3.00% 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Floret  | 8 I 00@ 2 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Lione'  | 18 2.00@ 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Ample:  | 41. 15 00/6/20 00c 12/50/6/15,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Adlan   | tum 1 2.50% 15.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

5,000 SMILAX...

From thats by mall the ner 100 #4 00 per 1000 From 2 linch pots #1 to per 100, #1 (00 per 100) From Their pots #3 (00 per 100) wend for samples Cash with the order.

FRED BOERNER.

Cape May City, N. J.

C. A. KUEHN. Wholesale Florist,

1122 PINE STREET.

ST. LOUIS. MO.

A complete line of Wire Designs.

MOUND CITY CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists.

CONSIGNMENTS SOLICITED Special attention given to shipping orders

FLOWERS .... wholesale.... ....ROSES, and a full line. Headquarters for the South West....

When writing mention American Floriat

ST. LOUIS CUT FLOWER CO.

Wholesale Florists

E. H. MICHEL

1620 Olive St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

OF SEASONABLE FLOWERS IN STOCK.

F. KASTING WHOLESALE COMMISSION FLORIST...

495 Washington St., Buffalo, N. Y. Also Dealer in Florists' Supplies and Wire Designs

W. A. MCFADDEN.

NEAVE BUILDING, CINCINNATI.

Producers and Shippers of every description of High Class Floral Supplies.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS. JARDINIERE FERNS.

Quotations issued weekly, forwarded on request.

HOLTON & HUNKEL CO.

The Wisconsin Flower Exchange. Fresh Cut Flowers, Florists' Supplies Manufacturers of WIRE DESIGNS

Constanments Solicited.

Phone Main 874.

457 Milwaukee St., MILWAUKEE.

Carnation Notes.

The season for good cuttings is quickly drawing to a close, and the percentage that will root decreases right along now. If the needs of next season have been figured up and the stock found short, it will be wise to get in all the cuttings that are required without delay, leaving a good margin for emergencies, as there are bound to be some rogues that will not be up to the standard when planting time comes. In the selection of cuttings at this time, one should be certain that they are ripe enough, for as the plants are making rapid growth, they form young shoots which are too sappy to root well unless allowed to become ripe.

The cutting benches will demand close watching in regard to shading and ven-tilation on dry days so as to keep the temperature even and cool; draughts should be avoided, and on warm days, when scarcely any fire heat is necessary, care must be exercised so as not to water the sand so freely as when firing hard to keep up the temperature. An intermediate condition of the rooting medium as to moisture suits the cuttings best.

The young plants which have been potted or boxed must not be neglected; they should be in a light airy place, and given enough artifical heat to prevent a damp atmosphere, at the same time not so much as to force the growth. A temperature of 50° at night, rising a few degrees in the daytime, with ample ventilation, is about right; and on close, warm nights a little ventilation will be found beneficial. Some growers transfer their young plants some growers transfer their young plants to frames, but I would not advise this course, especially in this locality, until all danger of very cold weather is past, for the covering, with consequent close atmosphere, which is necessary to keep out the cold, will cause a dampness which is detrimental to the well-being of carnations in any stage of their growth.

Young plants should be kept free from all weeds and the soil not allowed to become too dry or too wet. In the event of a scum forming, or the soil getting crusted, the surface should be loosened occasionally. С. W. Johnson.

Kennicott's Mongrel Carnation.

Mr. Flint Kennicott in his paper on carnations from the commission man's standpoint, read at the recent convention of the American Carnation Society, stated that variegated varieties are worthless commercially, except as novelties. Mr. Fred. Dorner now retorts by naming a new variegated, Kennicott's Mongrel. Some samples displayed at Kennicott's last Saturday show this to be an excellent variety in all respects but color, the larger part of the flower being a bright red, with a segment of the Mrs. Bradt

While Mr. Kennicott will stand by the plant as a novelty, he claims it is no mongrel. The term as he understands it means half of one color and half of another, but in this case the red of the flower is largely in excess of the variegated portion.

The flowers, with samples of Mrs. Bradt, Gold Nugget and others, were good examples of Mr. Dorner's high skill as a grower.

Greenhouse Building.

Frazer, Pa.-T. C. Morton, range of greenhouses.

York, Pa.—1. Curtis, one greenhouse. Milford, Mass.—A. J. Howard & Son. one greenhouse.

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

Belgian Strain, per 100... $2 00 English Strain, per 100... 4 00 The English Strain of Bego-nias are rich in color and large

LILIUM SPECIOSUM RUBRUM, $3.50 per 100 LILIUM SPECIOSUM ALBUM, $4.50 per 100

Fine Nursery Stock such as Rhododendrons, Azaleas, Clématis, H. P. and Tree Roses. L. C. BOBBINK, Rutherford, N. J. Branch of The Horticultural Co., Boskoop, Holland

The

READ WHAT THOSE THAT ARE GROWING IT HAVE TO SAY:

MOUNT GREENWOOD, ILL.

MR. FRED BREITMEYER,
Mt. Clemens, Mich..
DEAR Str:—In reply to yours for our experience of Cerise Queen, will say that under our treatment the color, form and substance is all that can be desired; we have also found it a very free and continuous bloomer and have never found a bursted calyx the whole season; it is a little weak in the stem, but we lay that to the poor place in which it is growing, also we think one should be careful and not overfeed it, as it does not need it, but produces a fine flower under ordinary care.

Yours truly, C. W. JOHNSON.

H. DALE, Cut Flower Grower, Brampton, Ontario.

MESSRS, J. BREITMEYER & SONS,
Mt. Clemens, Mich.,
Gents:—The plants of Cerise Queen which you sent me last spring for trial have done well; the flower is of very pleasing color, stem medium length, 15 to 18 inches; habit of plant good. I shall plant it again next year.
Your truly, H. DALE.

DAILLEDOUZE BROS.

DAILLEDOUZE BROS., FATRUCK, BROKEYN, N. Y. JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS.
Mt. Clemens, Mich..
Gents: —We have a few plants of your No. 16, Cerise Queen, on trial; the flower is medium size, but fine color, in fact the only fault we flud is its dwarf habit; we should like to grow some for side benches, as we believe it far superior to Tidal Wave for that purpose, and should make a commercial variety, but not high priced. Please give us your best price on 1000 rooted cuttings.

Very Iruly yours,
DAILLEDOUZE BROS.

GEO, A. RACKHAM, Wholesale Grower, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.

J. BREITMEYER & SONS,
Mt. Clemens, Mich.,
DEAR SUBS:-In reply to yours asking as to my success with your No. 16, Ceruse Queen, will say that I consider it the ideal Carnation of its type, very productive, continuous, stiff stem, of medium length, and holds its color longer on the plant than any Tidal Wave ever grown. I shall plant a house of it, if I am able to procure the stock.

Yours., GEO, A, RACKHAM.

We predict CERISE QUEEN is the coming Dark Pink Commercial Carnation. Orders booked and filled in rotation. Price, $2 per doz.; $10 per 100; $75 per 1000. Maxor Pingree—the best of all yellows. Buy your stock from the Originators. Our stock is in excellent condition; $5 per 100; $40 per 1000, R. C.

JOHN BREITMEYER & SONS, Cor. Gratiot and Miami Aves DETROIT, MICH.

Flora Hill CARNATION It sells because there is nothing in sight to at all equal

ARNATION ***
It sells because there is thing in sight to at all equal. It speaks for itself wherebloom. It puts all others it. We have four thouson't allow them to bloom.

Oper 100; $40.03 per 1000.

ded one send for it. ever grown. It is fragrant. It is the largest bloom. It puts all others in the shade. Nothing past or present to equal it. We have four thousand plants exclusively for propagating from; don't allow them to bloom. Send at once and get the best stock ever offered. $5.00 per 100; $40.00 per 1000.

Our trade list is issued. If you have not received one send for it.

E. G. HILL & CO., Richmond, Ind.

For Spring of '98 Now Ready

EVELINA, per 1000 $80. MRS. S. A. NORTHWAY.

WHITE CLOUD. ARGYLE.

GOLD NUGGET. BON TON.

Price for strong, well-rooted cuttings, per doz., $2.00; per 100, $10,00; per 1000, $75.00.

VARIETIES OF 1897

FLORA HILL.
JUBILEE...
MAYOR PINGREE...
MRS. C. H. DUHME...
MORELLO...
VICTOR VICTOR

Strong, rooted cuttings from flats, per doz., 75c; per 100, $5; per 1000.

ALASKA.... DAYBREAK LIZZIE McGOWAN MINNIE COOK. WILLIAM SCOTT EMMA WOCHER.

Transplanted plants from flats, per doz., 30c; per 100. $2; per 1000. $15.

CALADIUMS, Fancy Leaved, choice bulbs in named sorts, per doz., 75c; per 100 $12.00.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE,

NEW YORK, 14 Barclay St.

84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO

STANDARD VARIETIES

Cleveland.

No features of local florticultural affairs call for special mention at this time. Business since Lent began (at least during the first week) has been satisfactory Socially, of course, business has suffered, but there has been a great deal of funeral work which served to keep the surplus from piling up seriously. The funeral of Robert Blu, who served a term as mayor, as well as having been a very prominent business man, used up a lot of stock. Nearly all the florists had a good deal of work for this occasion.

The regular club meeting of February 28th was devoted mostly to short discussions looking to proposed legislation regarding the control of diseases and insects troubling nursery stock, but no action was taken, as the matter did not appear to apply to stock in which florists are interested. Some carnation seedlings that have been grown by Carl Hagen-burger for the past three years, were shown by him and received much attention by reason of their attractiveness in color and general excellence. The most noteworthy were a white, a light pink, much resembling Daybreak in shade and a darker pink, of a very soft, pearly tint that was peculiarly interesting. Its only defect seemed to be a slight tendency toward weakness of stem, probably caused by the unfavorable quarters occupied by the plants. Even as shown, however, the tendency was but slightly noticeable and did not seriously detract from the merits of the bloom. All the seedlings were of excellent quality and showed careful attention on the part of the grower. After the adjournment the balance of the time was spent at ten-pins.

"Garden Making."

We have received through A. C. Mc-Clurg & Co., of Chicago, a copy of this new work by Prof. L. H. Bailey, the latest addition to the author's garden-craft series. There are some four hundred pages in the book, which pertains to landscape gardening and the making and equipment of vegetable, fruit and flower gardens. It is fully illustrated.

BRILLIANT GREEN AND BRONZE

GALAX LEAVES.

For Decorating and all Florists Designs.

CHES H RICKSECKER Linvilla Mitchell Co. N. C.

LEUGOTHE of all shokes of the state of the s at sholesale florists or e the listroducer for free SPRAYS ... HARLAN P. KELSEY.

BOSTON, MASS.

DAGGER

L. B. BRAGUE, Hinsdale, Mass.

Palmer's Hot Bed Mats

Indestructible, Cheap and Warm

WILL not harbor mice or vermin. Easily handled. Dry out quickly after rain. Have now been in practical use three years. Cost less than old-fashioned straw mats and entirely take their place.

MADE IN FOLLOWING GRADES:

No 1-Burlap Cloth, fifled with combination wood and quilted, seams 3 inches apart and edges firmly bound.

Size 40×76 inches, 50 cents each.

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 12 cents per running foot.

No. 2- Duck Cloth outside, filled and quilted same as No. 1. Size 40\(^26\) inches, \(^80.75\) each,

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 16 cents per running foot.

No. 3—Waterproof, made of oil duck, filled and quilted same as Nos. 1 and 2.

Size 40×76 inches, $1.00 each.

'76×76' $1.25 to $1.50 each.

Made any length, 76 inches wide, at 20 cents per running foot.

That these mats are a much needed improvement over anything heretofore used for the same purpose, is demonstrated by the large demand and many testimonials from prominent men in the trade. Everyone using Hot Bed Mats should give them a trial.

æ

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

WE ALSO MAKE OUILTED HORSE BLANKETS the Cheapest. Warmest and Strongest in the World ...

The R. T. Palmer Co.

Or New London, Conn.

113 Worth Street, NEW YORK

Address all correspondence to The R. T. Palmer Co., New London, Conn. Agents wanted -pay good commission.

H. BAYERSDORFER & CO.'S

Seasonable Specialties: CYCAS WREATHS. MOSS WREATHS.

FERNERIES AND JARDINIERES:

Norman Style in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Tuscan, in Sprays, Tinted and Delft. Milan, in Sprays.

OUR LEADING NOVELTY:

LACE VIOLET HANDKERCHIEFS.

Wheat Sheaves and Immortelles.

The largest and best stock in America.

New Catalogue of all FLORISTS' SUPPLIES on application. IF For the trade only.

H. BAYERSDORFER & GO.,

50, 52, 54 and 56 N. 4th St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

DIRFCTORY

SIXTH EDITION

Completely revised and greatly enlarged. 4.4.4.4.4PRICE $2.00

of for after head at once, if you wish to get

American Florist Gompany,

324 Dearborn Street.

GHIGAGO, ILL.

Arrangement of Benches and Piping.

Replying to the request of "Subscriber" for information as to the best arrangement of benches and piping for the range of houses described on page 750, issue of February 12, I would suggest that for the houses for carnations and violets, solid beds be used. These should be seven feet wide and two feet high. The sides can be formed of plank or of grout, and all but eight or ten inches should be filled with broken brick, or similar material, to provide drainage. The center walk should be about two feet wide and the side walks about one and one-half. In the rose house a similar plan may be used, but the results will probably be more satisfactory if three raised beds each four feet wide are built. There will then be space for two walks of two feet each, and two along the sides of the house of one and one-half feet. In the show house and one of the others it will probably be best to have two benches along the sides of the house about three and one-half feet wide and a center bench of seven feet. propagating house there should be a bench along the north wall from three to three and one-half feet wide.

The writer has little choice between steam and hot water for a range of this size, but if anything would prefer hot water for heating it. In case the heater can be placed well below the level of the houses all of the pipes may be under the benches, although the circulation will be best in any case if the flow pipes are carried upon the iron posts that support the roofs, about one foot below the glass. For the rose house I would recommend three 2-inch flows and twelve 1½-inch returns; for the carnation house three flows and nine returns, and for the violet house two flows and eight returns. In the show room the piping should be the same as in the rose house, or the number of returns may be increased or diminished slightly. It would, perhaps, be as well to have twelve returns in this house and to use fourteen in the remaining 20-foot house.

The main supply pipe can be carried along the end of the houses upon the south wall of the work-room and propagating house. It will require a 5-inch pipe from the boiler and this can be reduced one-half inch after the pipes for each of the houses have been taken off. Two 4-inch pipes may be used if preferred. For the bottom heat in the propagating house four or five 2-inch pipes will be required in addition to the main supply pipe.

L. R. TAFT.

Louisiana, Mo.-W. L. Gatewood, for many years foreman of the Stark Nurseries, died February 23, from the effects of an operation performed for appendicitis.

TELEGRAPH CODE

AM. SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION $2.00,

in either stiff or flexible cover.

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

AMERICAN FLORIST CO., CHICAGO.

...THE...

"Lyon=Horticole" is an interesting review of French horticulture, Issued semi-monthly, 20 8-vo. pages illustrated. Subscriptions to the United States, 1 year, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00. Address

DIRECTEUR LYON-HORTICOLE, Lyon-Villeurbanne, France.

Stems, small size, $12 50 per 100 lbs. Stems, larger " 10.00 per 100 lbs.

J. L. SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., NEW YORK.

Single separate colors....$3.00 Double " " .... 7.50

J. L. SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., NEW YORK. Sole Agent for LOUIS V. DRIESSCHE, Ghent

J. L. SCHILLER,

404 E. 34th St.,

NEW YORK CITY.

NAS NEW AMERICAN Finest in the World Our Novelies for 1898

| DUKE OF MARLBORO, darkest crimson         |         |
|-------------------------------------------|---------|
| DUCHESS OF MARLBORO, only pure pink       | 30.00   |
| TOPAZ, only absolutely large pure yellow. | 50 00   |
| LORRAINE, pink, edged white, fine         | 30 00   |
| MAIDENS BLUSH, delicate flesh color       | 15.00   |
| GOLDEN PEARL, yellow, nearly double       | 30.00   |
| CUB4, finest and largest gilt edged       |         |
| GLORIOSA, very dwarf, March delivery      | 12 50   |
| PHILADELPHIA, glowing crimson             | 15 00   |
| CHAMPION, largest, glowing searlet $5    | 00 each |
| KLONDIKE, only large pure orange *2       | .50 😬   |
| Send for complete list of 50 novelties    | and 200 |
| standard varieties at lowest prices.      |         |

OUR CANNAS IN FRANCE.

To Mesers A Blanc & Co.

Your new cannas of last year gave me much satisfaction. Please se d me a complete set or your reveitles for ISBN as seen as ready. Also 12 Glant Cilmson, etc.

Signed CH MOLIN.

Lyon France, Jan. 3, 1888.

ASPARAGUS SPRENGERI

Fine plants in 6-inch pots, ready for 8-inch $5 per 12.

AMARYLLIS....

Veltch's Hybrids $4 per 12; Equestrs, $4 per 10); Formosissima, $5 per 100.

CALLAS

Spotted Leaf, $3; Black, $5; Yellow, $30; all per 100. Golden, $2 each.

DAHLIAS

Il prizes out of 22 at the last Dahlia exhibition First prize Dahlia. GillT EDGE. Sloperilly Send for special list.

A. BLANC & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

IMPORTERS

JAPANESE PLANTS,

BULBS, ETC.

At lowest prices. Small orders filled from experimental garden Columbia Road Dorchester, Mass. Wholesale catalogue, 1898 free to the trade.

JAPANESE NURSERY,

Office: 272 Boylston St., -ROSTON, MASS. A SET OF 🥦

Long's Florists' Photographs

Will please you in your business and bring you profits. & Sets, $1.75 up.

CATALOGUE FREE.

DAN'L B. LONG. -Publisher. BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE Regan Printing House NURSERY SEED FLORISTS

> 87-91 Plymouth Place, ***CHICAGO***

GEO. E. COLE & CO. Blank Book Makers. Stationers and Printers

> 86 and 88 Dearborn Street. CHICAGO.

AN ENGRAVING

$\mathsf{CHICAGC}$

IS A CUARANTEE OF SATISFACTORY QUALITY....

Manz makes illustrations for this paper.

FLORISTS' MUTUAL

Application Blanks and Prospectus Ready....
Write now, Delays are dangerous,

W. J. VESEY, Sec'y, - Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE WABASH R. R. COMPANY

The Short and Quick Line between the East and West connecting Buffalo. Detroit and Toledo with Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

The Wabash is the Only Line running sleeping cars and chair cars (free) between Buffalo and St. Louis and Kansas City.

Through sleeping cars between New York and Boston and St. Louis and Chicago run every day.

For further information apply to the nearest Railroad Ticket Agent, or to

H. B. McCLELLAN, G. E. A.,

3B7 Broadway, New York City,

J. D. McBEATH, N. E. P. A., 5 State Street, Boston, Mass.

C. S. CRANE, Gen. Pass. & Tkl. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

Do the American Florist a small favor. Mention the paper when writing to advertisers.

THE SEED TRADE.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

JEROME B. RICE, Pres.; E. B. CLARK, 1st Vice-res.; S. F. Willard, Wethersfield, Coun., Sec'y Pres.; S. F

VISITED CHICAGO:—E. M. Parmelee, president John H. Allan Seed Co.; Frank T. Emerson, Mr. Roach.

MR II. II. HARRIES, of the Goodwin Harries Co., will make a business trip to the Pagific coast.

J. A. Salzer Seed Co., LaCrosse, Wis., claim 33% heavier sales over the corresponding period of last year.

I. L. CHILDS, Floral Park, N. Y., says the mail trade for February is 25% better than in 1897.

JAMES VICK'S SONS, Rochester, N. Y., report quite an improvement in their mail trade for the first half of February.

R. Ulrich, the well known landscape gardener, is in Omaha in connection with work on the Trans-Mississippi Exposi-

California reports large shipment of onion seed to Australia—very limited raintall renders outlook unpromising for onion seed crops.

DINGEE & CONARD COMPANY, of West Grove, Pa., report a heavy increase of mail trade sales as compared with February 1897.

W. ATLEE BURDEE & Co., Philadelphia, report that on the whole they have found the mail trade for February better than a year ago.

HENRY A. DREER, Philadelphia, reports a marked improvement in trade since the first of the year, both in mail department and locally.

IN THE WEST unseasonable snowy weather prevails, but the mail trade is reported ahead of 1897. In the northwest severe weather has hurt trade con-

F. Barteldes & Co., Lawrence, Kan., say they have received about 20% more mail orders up to this date, than during the same period in '97. The good crops in Kansas and the warm weather so early has caused this; the orders are about of the same size as usual. Below is a communication from one of their customers in Idaho, it shows where a good many people get their seeds nowadays.

"We are the only people here who buy seeds. The other people get them from the government

Melons and Cucumbers in Adjoining Fields.

Your letter asking my views as to grow ing cucumbers and inclons in adjoining helds is received. This, perhaps, is a subject that the seed grower will naturally wish to avoid discussing publicly, but as it is of vital importance to the market gardener is well as to the private gar-dener it should be carefully considered by the growers. The generally accepted idea has been that encumbers and muskn clous will not miss or cross. The agri-cultural experiment stations have conducted experiments along this line, and I have yet to see a report where an actual cross or labrid has been produced, and yet are acceptable private individuals who can they have produced such invaris.

Myoweverse region lead metabelieve that they was not be lardize. If this was possible we would have to-day a considerable line of types half melon and half cucumber, whereas we have but three types that appear to stand midway between the two fruits—Vine Peach or Vegetable Orange, the little ornamental Pomegranate, and the Snake cucumbers. Any one of these will cross readily with muskmelons, while two at least will cross with cucumbers. 1 am strongly of the opinion that the isolated cases we read of, where it is said that a cross has been produced between a cucumber and a melon, can be traced to a little blood appearing from one or the other of the above varieties. I do not know the correct history or origin of these varieties, but do not think they are hybrids of either encumbers or muskmelons.

The matter of quality is different. For some six years I have watched closely to see what results, if any, would accrue from growing melons beside cucumbers. My advice now is, "Don't do it." While I question their actually mixing, yet, the delicate flavor of a melon is easily injured, and every effort should be made to retain all its spicy, aromatic qualities. Outside conditions may influence where they cannot control; eucumbers may influence quality where they cannot influence type. J. C. Robinson.

A Disclaimer from Bloomington, Ill.

In your last week's item from here, by your correspondent"Homo, "I am charged with attributing to the New England contingent malice and petty jealousies. I deny the charge, and know of no reason why such a charge should be made by anyone. Andrew Washburn, anyone.

Cut Flower Price Lists Received.

Kennicott Bros. Company, Chicago, III.; Bassett & Washburn, Chicago; W. A. McFadden, Cincinnati; Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee: A. G. Prince & Co., Chicago.

THE ALBERT DICKINSON CO. GRASS SEEDS

Parks, Tennis Courts, Lawns, &c. In fancy 1 and 2 pound packages and bulk SPECIAL PRICES TO THE TRADE. CHICAGO, ILL.

"BEST OF ALL" TOMATO
"ENGLISH" MELONS

FLOWER SEEDS FOR FLORISTS Catalogues on application

WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchants and Growers, 113 Chambers St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON CO.

Importers and Exporters of

Seeds, Bulbs 🔊 Plants,

501 TO 503 W. 13TH ST., NEW YORK CITY. Send for quotations on all Florists, Bulb Stock

Say "saw your ad in the Florist" when you write advertisers.

BURPEE'S SEEDS PHILADELPHIA.

Wholesale Price List for Florists and Market Gardeners.

FOR THE TRADE ONLY.

MARK.

WE import all kinds of Japanese Bulbs. Plants and Seed, and have our own Nurseries and Farms in Japan. We expect large shipments of Lilium auratum, L. spec. album, rubrum, Melpomene Cycas stems and Maples. Prices on application.

SUZUKI & IIDA.

No. 15 Broadway, NEW YORK.

No. 3 Nakamura. YOKOHAMA, JAPAN

1878 1898

NEW Price List for If you have not re-Will mail you list illustrated descrip-

SPRING and SUMMER ceived, send Postal, and beautifully tive Catalogue.....

H. H. BERGER & CO., 22 J Broadway, NEW YORK.
ESTABLISHED 1878.

(Branch for Pacific Coast, San Francisco, Cal.) rticulturat Imports and Exports from Europe, China, Japan, Australia, Mexico, etc.

NEW . GIANT . ESCHSCHOLTZIAS, "THE GOLDEN WEST."

New Giant Fancy Cosmos, six splendid varieties, separate, $1 oz.; Giant Cosmos, splendid nived, 65c oz.; Calliopsis "California Sunbemas." $1 oz. Special rates given on Cosmos in quantity; Apple Geranium, fresh. $1 per 1000 seeds; New Large Flowering Zonale Geranium, $2.50 oz.; Ipomaca, "Heavenly Blue," $1 oz., $12 lb.; Laurustinus grandillora, $1 oz.; Zinnias, "New Curled and Crested," 50c oz.; $5 lb.; Nasturtium Good Venture Mixture, 60c lb.; $8 per 15 lbs.; Sen forthin elegans (Palm) 40c per 100 seeds, $3 per 1000 seeds. Send for trade list of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs and Caeti.

MRS. THEODOSIA B. SHEPHERD. Ventura-by-the-Sea, Cal.

SHARPE'S "STANDARD" SEEDS

Bear a Century's Reputation for Uniform Good Quality.....

Introducers of....

SHARPE'S QUEEN PEA SHARPE'S TRIUMPH PEA SHARPE'S VICTOR POTATO Earliest of all earlies and best for forcing

CHARLES SHARPE & CO., Limited, are prepared to make Special Offers of their Celebrated Stocks of Farm and Garden Seeds.

Sharpe's "Standard" MANGOLD Seed. Sharpe's "Standard" RUTA-BAGA or Swede Seed.

Sharpe's "Slandard" TURNIP Seed. Sharpe's "Standard" GARDEN PEAS

Sharpe's "Standard" GARDEN PEAS.
Sharpe's "Standard" GARDEN SEEDS....

New seeds, well cleaned; carefully selected skillfully packed in the most approved method, and delivered free to Shipping Ports

CHARLES SHARPE & CO., Limited,

Seed Growers and Merchants (for Expurt), SLEAFORD, ENGLAND.

The Michigan Nursery Law.

I have learned that some of the transportation companies, and especially the express companies, have placed a wrong construction upon the recently enacted Michigan pursues law and the state of the contract of th to receive for shipment greenhouse plants and cut flowers that are not accompanied by a certificate of inspection. The law was only designed to cover the shipment of nursery stock, and several times it limits the operations of the law to "trees, shrubs, vines and plants, com-monly known as nursery stock." Realizing that, if the instructions that have been sent to local express agents from the headquarters of the companies are not changed, it will lead to a practical embargo upon the shipment of greenhouse plants to Michigan points, I have secured the following construction of the law, and statements as to its intentions, copies of which have been placed before the express companies.

tion of the law places greenhouse plants entirely outside its restrictions, and it is hoped that the express companies will at

The originators of the bill are much L. R. Taft.

Agricultural College, Mich.

Michigan nursery law and have refused

It will be observed that this construconce modify their instructions.

surprised at the action taken by the express companies, as a careful reading of the bill would have shown that it places shoping of plants of any kind, the only requirement being that, if they handled "trees, shrubs, etc., commonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," that were not accommonly known as nursery stock, "that were not accommonly known as nursery stock," the stock is not a stock that we have not accommon to the stock that we have not accommon to the stock that we have not accommon that the stock that we have not accommon to the stock that the sto panied by a proper certificate, they should inform the state inspector, giving the names of the consignor and consignee. It in no way interferes with their receiving stock without a certificate nor does it require them to hold it until it has been inspected.

OFFICIAL INTERPRETATION OF THE LAW. As there seems to be some misunderstanding regarding Act 137, Michigan laws of 1897, known as the San Jose scale law, in relation to the shipment of plants from without the state, the construction placed upon it by the undersigned, in whose hands the enforcement of the law has been placed by the State Board of Agriculture, is hereby given:

The intention of the framers of the law was that it should apply only to nursery stock, and except in one section the operation is expressly limited; although the section of the law relating to the duties of transportation companies does not contain the limiting phrase, we shall consider that the receiving and delivering of such greenhouse plants and cut flowers by transportation companies is in no way affected by this law.

In the enforcement of the law we shall not regard the shipment of greenhouse plants and cut flowers by transportation companies as coming within the operation of the law, and will only hold them responsible for failing to carry out the provisions of the law relating to the shipment of "trees, shrubs and plants, commonly known as nursery stock."

1. H. BUTTERFIELD, Sec'y State Board of Agriculture.
D. W. TRINE,

State Inspector of Nurseries and Orchards.

The undersigned hereby certify to the above intention of the law, and approve of the foregoing construction:

C. J. Monroe, Member and Vice-Pres. of the State Board of Agriculture.

CHAS. W. GARFIELD, Member of the State Board of Agriculture.

R. D. GRAHAM. Member of Michigan Legislature of 1897, introducer of the Michigan nursery law, and member of the legislative com-mittee of the State Horticultural Society.

ROLAND MORRILL, President of the State Horticultural Society and chairman of the legislative committee of the same.

FLOWER SEEDS FOR PRESENT SOWING

See our "BOOK FOR FLORISTS."

Write for copy if not received.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

14 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

84-86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Seed Stores and Flower Stores

Can profitably handle our Packages of Plant Food. Attractive, take little & & shelf room. Valuable & booklet free. Good profits.

The WALKER FERTILIZER CO. Clifton Springs, N. Y.

E. F. C. YOUNG, Pres.

Jos. D. Bedle, Sec'y.

S. M. Pease Gen'l Mgr.

The Cleveland Seed Co.

Contract Growers of

Peas Beans

JOBBERS IN SEEDS.

Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Dreer's Offer Herbaceous Plants.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Per                                                                                          | 100                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Antherleum Lillastrum (St. Bruno's Lilly)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 8                                                                                            | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Achilles, The Pearl                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | 5 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Adonis Vernalis.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                              | $\frac{5}{2} \frac{00}{00}$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Pyrenalca.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 3                                                                                            | $\tilde{0}.\tilde{0}0$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Anthemis tinctoria                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | • • • •                                                                                      | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Fyrenaica. Anthemis tinctoria.  Kelwayi Anemone Japonica Alba, 2 <sup>1</sup> / <sub>4</sub> in pots.  Elegans, 2 <sup>1</sup> / <sub>4</sub> in pots.  Whirlwind, 2 <sup>1</sup> / <sub>4</sub> in. pots.  Pennsylvanica, 2 <sup>1</sup> / <sub>4</sub> in. pots.  Aquilegia Ceruica, 3 in. pots.  Cary-antia, 3 in. pots.  Canadensis 3 in. pots.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| " Elegans, 214-in, pots Whirlwing 21in, nots                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | • • • • •                                                                                    | 5 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Pennsylvanics, 24 in. pots                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                              | $\frac{3}{4}.00$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Aquilegia Crerules. 3-in pots. Chry-antha. 3-in. p ts. Canadensis 3-in. pots. Californian Hybrids. 3-in. pots. Californian Hybrids. 3-in. pots.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                              | 6.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| " Canadensis 3-in. pots                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                              | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Californian Hybrids, 3 in. pota                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                              | $\frac{500}{8.00}$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Boltonia Asteroides                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Latisquama. Bocconis cordata                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                              | 6.005.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Caltha Palustris (March Marigold)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                              | 6 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Casala Marllandics (American Senna)Campanula Alliariæf, lia, strong clumps,Carpathics, blue and white.Grossecki clumps,Persictfolia Albs.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 1                                                                                            | 2.008.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Campanula Alliarlæf. lin. strong clumps                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                              | 6.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| " Grosseckli clumps                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Persicifolia Alba "flore pleno                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                              | 6.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Pyramidalis.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | i                                                                                            | $\frac{2}{2} \frac{00}{00}$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Coreopsia Lanceolata, strong clumps                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | 6.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Ciematis Davidiana, str ng clumps                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                              | 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Delphinium Formosum, I year old plants                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | {                                                                                            | 5 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Dictamnua Fraxinella Alba, strong                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | . 1                                                                                          | 2.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Pyramidalls. Coreopsia Lanceolota, strong clumps Chrysanthemum Maximum Clematis Dayldiana, str ng climps Delptinium Formosum. I year old plants. Dianthus Plumarius Stanislaua. I year clumps Dictamnua Fraxinella Alba, strong.  Ruora Dielytra Speciabilis, strong.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 1                                                                                            | u. 006, 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Digitalia (Foxglove).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 9                                                                                            | 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| " Chucesteum                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 1                                                                                            | $\frac{5}{2.00}$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Dielytra Spectabilla strongDigitalia (Foxglove)Doronieum ExcelanmExcelanmKuonymus Andlenna Variegata, I year old                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                              | 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Funkia Corulea, acrong.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                              | 1 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | }                                                                                            | 8,003,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Gypsophila Paniculata, I year old                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | (                                                                                            | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Variegata, Gypsophils Paniculata, 1 year old Galliardia Grandiflora, 24-in. pots. Etong clumpa Hibbers "Crimeon Eve                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                              | $\frac{4.00}{5.00}$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Trodecia Citibani 1276                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                              | 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Heuchera Sanguinea, 24-in, pots                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | }                                                                                            | 5 (M)5 (M)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Hellanthus Multiforns ti pl                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 1                                                                                            | J 005.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | (                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| " Mollis."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | t                                                                                            | 5 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hemerocallia Dumortieri                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                              | 00.6100                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| FulvaFlavaKwanso, tlore pleno                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                              | 1.ԱՍ                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| " Kwanso, flore pleno " Anrantisca Major (new)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 3                                                                                            | 5.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Aurantiaca Major (new).  Helentum Grandicephalum Striatum Hollybocks in superpeta colors. Appunt seedling                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 21                                                                                           | 1.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                           | 000                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Hollybocks in separate colors, August seedlingHypericum Moserianum, strong one year old                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 78                                                                                           | ,005,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  "tricolorum, strong 1 yr. o tricolorum, strong 1 yr. o                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 78old ,2                                                                                 | 5,005,005,005,005,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year oldtricolorum, strong 1 yr. cIris Germanica. 12 distinct varieties                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | sid ,2                                                                                       | 5,001 005 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year oldtricolorum, strong 1 yr. cIris Germanica. 12 distinct varieties                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | sid ,2                                                                                       | 5,001 005 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year oldtricolorum, strong 1 yr. cIris Germanica. 12 distinct varieties                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | sid ,2                                                                                       | 5,001 005 005 00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  choice mixture.  Kæmpfert, 25 fine named sorts.  choice mixture.  choice mixture.  Venetialis.  Lychnis Sempertiorene Plenissima.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 2 bid 2 c                                                                                    | 5,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  choice mixture.  Kæmpfert, 25 fine named sorts.  choice mixture.  choice mixture.  Venetialis.  Lychnis Sempertiorene Plenissima.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 2 bid 2 c                                                                                    | 5,005,005,006,005,006,006,006,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  choice mixture.  Kæmpfert, 25 fine named sorts.  choice mixture.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperitorens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens.  Lobella Cardinalis.  Lysimnebla Ciethroides.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 2 bid 2 c                                                                                    | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irls Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  Cholee mixtare.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperiforens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens  Lychins Cardinalis.  Lyshum Cosems Superhum, 3-in, nota                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 16 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10 (10                                                   | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hyperleum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irlocorum, atrong lyr. of I | 1616                                                                                         | 5,005,005,006,005,005,006,006,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  Cholee mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperiforens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens Lyshmebia Ciethroides Lythrum Rosenm Superbum, 3-in. pota.  Monarda Didyma  Rosea.  Enothera Fraseri (Evening Primrose)  Splendens                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1                                                     | 5,005,005,005,005,005,005,005,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Moserianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  Cholee mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperiforens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens Lyshmebia Ciethroides Lythrum Rosenm Superbum, 3-in. pota.  Monarda Didyma  Rosea.  Enothera Fraseri (Evening Primrose)  Splendens                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1                                                     | 5,005,005,005,005,005,005,005,00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Hypericum Monerianum, etrong one year old.  Irls Germanica, 12 distinct varieties.  choice mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  choice mixture.  Orientalls.  Lychnis Semperiforens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens  Lythrum Rosenm Superbum, 3-In. pota.  Monarda Didyma  Kosea.  Enothera Fraseri (Evening Primrose  Splendens  Missouriensis.  Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Lily).  Pinks, bardy Scotch, 5 varieties, clumps.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 16161610101010101010101010101010 | 5,00J 00J 00 |
| Hyperleum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum atrong lyr. of the  | 6                                                                                            | 5,00J 40J 40J 60J 70J 70 |
| Hyperleum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum atrong lyr. of the  | 6                                                                                            | 5,00J 40J 40J 60J 70J 70 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholce mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperitorens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens.  Lobelia Cardinalis.  Lyshmicola Cichroides.  Lythrum Roseum Superbum, 3-in. pota.  Monarda Didyma.  (Enothera Fraserl (Evening Primrose.  Splendensis.  Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Illy).  Platycodon Grandiflorum strong clumps.  Mariesi, strong clumps.  Paeoniaa. Tapanese tree vyrieties, 12 fine sorts.  Herbaccoun, 12 distinct colors.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,000,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholce mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperitorens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens.  Lobelia Cardinalis.  Lyshmicola Cichroides.  Lythrum Roseum Superbum, 3-in. pota.  Monarda Didyma.  (Enothera Fraserl (Evening Primrose.  Splendensis.  Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Illy).  Platycodon Grandiflorum strong clumps.  Mariesi, strong clumps.  Paeoniaa. Tapanese tree vyrieties, 12 fine sorts.  Herbaccoun, 12 distinct colors.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,000,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old.  Irle Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholce mixture.  Kæmpferl, 25 fine named sorts.  Orientalis.  Lychnis Semperitorens Plenissima.  Viscaria Alba Plena.  Splendens.  Lobelia Cardinalis.  Lyshmicola Cichroides.  Lythrum Roseum Superbum, 3-in. pota.  Monarda Didyma.  (Enothera Fraserl (Evening Primrose.  Splendensis.  Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Illy).  Platycodon Grandiflorum strong clumps.  Mariesi, strong clumps.  Paeoniaa. Tapanese tree vyrieties, 12 fine sorts.  Herbaccoun, 12 distinct colors.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,000,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,001,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old. Irloclorum, atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the colorum, at the colorum atrong lyr. of the c | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5,005,005,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,006,00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old Irloctorum, atrong lyr. o Orientalla. Delee mixture.  Orientalla. Orientalla. Lychnis Semperitorum Flenissima.  Viscarla Albu Plena.  Spiendens Lobella Cardinalla. Lysinnebla Ciethroides Lysinnebla Ciethroides Lysthrum Roseum Superbum, 3-in. pota. Monarda Didyma. Rosea. (Enothera Freseri Levening Primrose)  Spiendens Missouriensis  Missouriensis Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Lily) Pinka, bardy Scotch, 5 varieties, clumps.  Marlest, strong clumps Paonias, Iapanese tree varieties, 2 fine sorts Ilerbaceous, 12 distinct colors.  Tenuifolis  Tenuifolis  Tenuifolis  Juntal Canadensis, 24-in. pots.  Officinalla, double white Phiox, 25 varieties, 22-in. pots.  Officinalla, double white Phiox, 25 varieties, 21-in. pots.  Orientalla, 3-in. pots.  Orientalla, 3-in. pots.  Orientalla, 3-in. pots.  Popples, Iceland, 21-in. pots.  Orientalla, 3-in. pots.  Popples Iceland, 21-in. pots.  Popples Iceland, 21-in. pots.  Popples Iceland, 21-in. pots.  Orientalla, 3-in. pots.  Purpusago Larpenie strong clumps Potentillas, in choice mixture, strong Putmuta Vulgaris. English Primrose, clumps.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5:003:406:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old Irloctorum, atrong lyr. o Irloctorum, atrong lyr. o Irloctorum, atrong lyr. o Irloctorum, atrong lyr. o Orientalla. 12 distinct varieties.  Choice mixture.  Orientalla. oblice mixture.  Usearla Alba Plena.  Spiendens Lobella Cardinalla. Lysinnebla Ciethroides Lystinum Roseum Superbum, 3-in. pota. Monarda Didyma. Roses.  Enothera Freseri Ewening Primrose  Spiendens  Missouriensis.  Pardanthus Sinensis (Blackberry Lily). Pinka, bardy Scotch, 5 varieties, clumps.  Marlest, strong clumps  Paonias, Iapanese tree varieties, 2 fine sorts.  Herbaceous, 12 distinct colors.  Tenuifolis  Tenuifolis  Tenuifolis  Tenuifolis  Officinalls, double white. Phiox, 25 varieties. 2½-in. pots.  Officinalls, double white. Phiox, 25 varieties. 2½-in. pots.  Officinalls, double white. Phiox, 25 varieties. 2½-in. pots.  Officinalls, 3-in. pots.  Orientalls, 3-in. pots.  Orientalls, 3-in. pots.  Popples, Iceland, 2½-in. pots.  Orientalls, 3-in. pots.  Popples, Iceland, 2½-in. pots.  Orientalls, 3-in. pots.  Pumbagoo, Larpenie strong clumps Potentallas, in choice mixture, strong Primuta Vulgaris. English Primrose, clumps.  Rosen.  Pentstemon Gentlanoldes, 3-in. pots.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1                                                     | 5:003:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:006:00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old Irlocorum, atrong lyr. of Ir | 110                                                                                          | 5,0005,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,0006,                                                                                               |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monerianum, strong one year old Irls Germanica. 12 distinct varieties.  cholee mixture.  Lyshina Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee mixture.  Splendens.  Cholee mixture.  Cholee | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |
| Hypericum Monertanum, strong one year old Irlocorum, atrong lyr. of Ir | 100                                                                                          | 5.005.005.005.005.005.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.006.00 |

HENKY A. DREEK, 714 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA.

Ever Blooming Climbing Roses.

ED. AM. FLORIST:-Do you know of a hardy actual ever-blooming climbing rose? J. S. Benner. Reading, Pa.

It seems to me that the terms "hardy" and "ever-blooming" when coupled together and applied to the rose, are misnomers, and can be accepted only in a relative sense. It is true that varieties of roses are catalogued and spoken of generally as "ever-blooming," but I think a term which would very much better describe this class would be "continuous bloomer. We have these in many of the teas, and still more among the hybrid teas, such as Kaiserin, Testout, Carnot, etc., and in this class we have the nearest approach to a "continuous blooming" "positively hardy" rose; still none of them are hardy in the strictest sense under all conditions and in all sections of the country. I do not know of one solitary climbing rose which blooms continuously through the summer that could be considered hardy in the latitude of Reading, Pa.; if there is such an one in existence perhaps some of the readers of the Florist will be kind enough to name it.

ROBT. SIMPSON.

FIRST-CLASS GOODS and CORRECT PRICES

have forced us to the front and today we are the largest manufact-urers of. ...

IRON RESERVOIR

and Lawn Settees in America. . . A 40-page catalogue for the asking

McDonald Bros.

108-114 Liberty St., COLUMBUS, O.

John Conley & Son,

rin hoj

2 AND 4 DOMINICK STREET,

_New York.

Boston Florist Letter Co.

This wooden box nicely stained nished, 18x30x12 made in two sect for each size tetler, given away order of 500 letters.

Block Letters 1 % or 2 inch size per lin f2.00 script Letters H. Faste er with meh hetter or word. Fasch by leading florists every whe re and for sale by all wholesale florists and apply dealers.

N. F. McCARTHY, Treas, and Manager, 84 Hawley St., BOSTON, MASS.

WOODEN LABELS for FLORISTS and NURSERYMEN

Being located at the head center of this country for White Pine Lumber we are able to buy our stock right and turnish our customers with goods of the best quality and at prices which will put them at your station lower than the lowest. Our factory is thoroughly equipped and turning out promptly the most uniform, smooth and best painted goods made in this country, put up in neat packages, guaranteed full count and nicely crated. SEND FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES.

WOODEN GOODS COMPANY, 83 Western Ave., MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

folding Boxes and Wax Paper

The Aull Bros. Paper & Box Go.

ALANDAYTON, OHIO.

Doves

The largest and finest stock of white doves on earth. 🛰

S. J. RUSSELL,

203 Summit Ave., JERSEY CITY, N. J.

See that my agnature is stamped on every dove.

For Insurance against damage by hail, Address

C. S. LODER, Sec'y, 271 Broadway, New York,

THE NATIONAL Florists Board of Trade

Benches for Forcing Roses.

Mr. John N. May will, I hope, pardon me for presuming to fortify his memory on the bench question, for it seems to me he was far from the first to use benches for forcing roses in this country.

came here twenty six years ago (1872) and one of the first things I noted was Louis Baumann, of Germantown, doing that very thing on a bench several years old and containing but four inches deep of soil.

During the next season (1873) I built a range of four houses for Senator "Don" Cameron, fitted on one side of the paths with benches, and on the other with solid beds. These were used for cucumbers, tomatoes, roses, bouvardias and several other things; they are still in good condi-tion. Among the rest 1 remember a lot of pot vines, Golden and Black Hamburgh, which John Paget, my successor turned into encumber or some other benches during spring, at my suggestion, and he subsequently informed me they produced splendid crops. This was an old British trick, and reminds me that benches have been used there for cucumbers and melons (shallow too) for at least fifty years.

I am under the impression, too, that the late "Billy" Wilson, of Astoria, imported the first Perle roses, and failing to realize their value, sold his whole stock to the late John Henderson of Flushing, who it may be remembered found them a "bonanza." James MacPherson.

Trenton, N. J.

ROSE HILL NURSERIES.

JUST ARRIVED, ANOTHER SHIPMENT OF ----

Cocos Weddeliana SEEDS— $5.75 per 1000 5000 lots, $25.00.

SIEBRECHT & SON, New Rochelle, N. Y.

The most showy semi-climber of recent introduction, strong 3 irch plants now ready. Also Little Cem Callas, 2½ inches Logan Berries, Strawberry Raspberries, Mayberries. Write for list and prices.

The Conard & Jones Co. WEST GROVE,

|                         | 100.   | 1000,   |
|-------------------------|--------|---------|
| Single, separate colors | $3.00 | $25.00 |
| Double, "               | 7.50   | 65.00   |
| Gloxinas, mixed         | , 4 00 | 35 00   |
|                         |        |         |

J. L. SCHILLER, 404 E. 34th St., New York. Sole Agent for Louis van Driessche, Ghent,

DWARF PAPAYAS

M<sup>OST</sup> magnificent bedding and decorative plant known. Equal to a palm in beauty and manner of growth; grows with the case of the Ricinus and endures drought with impunity. Plants from 4-in, pots set out June 1st attained a height of 10 feet and though not watered once, remained fresh and vigorous throughout the extreme drought. Also produces a delicious fruit; as easily grown as a tomato. Our plants are propagated from a tree which has produced this winter 192 lbs. of fruit, the largest weighing 12 lbs. Send for half-tone illustration from photo showing bed of these plants. Every florist needs it. Price $2.25 per 12 for 3-in, pots, ready May 1st. We are headquarters for tropical plants. Send for list.

Martin Benson, DONGOLA, ILLINOIS.

San Jose, Cal.—The residence of D. D. Brooks, manager of the Santa Clara Valley Fruit Company, was totally destroyed by fire February 19. The loss was $3,500, about half covered by insur-

Nephrolepis Exaltata Bostoniensis. Strong plants. 6-inch pots, $1.00 each: $12.00 per doz.; also three varieties of PTERIS, bushy plants, 5-inch pots, 20c each: $2.40 per doz.

JOHN WELSH YOUNG.

....CERMANTOWN, PA.

ORCHIDS

Our Specially. Correspondence Solicited.

LAGER & HURRELL, - Summit. N. J. Mention American Florist.

HARDY

Herbaceous Perennials

THE MOST COMPLETE STOCK IN AMERICA. PÆONIES, PHLOX, IRIS, DELPHINIUMS, ETC., ETC.

JACOB W. MANNING The Reading Nursery, READING, MASS. ESTABLISHED 1854.

When writing mention the American Florist.

ROBERT CRAIG

ROSC.

Market and 49th Street, PHILAD

CERRERERERERERERERER

THY S ROBERT CRAIG Roses, Palms

and Novelties in Decorative Plants.

Market and 49th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

LARGE HEALTHY STOCK,

All measurements are from top of pot....

Latania Borbonica

************************************

Per 100 Per 1000

2 1-2 inch pot, 3 to 4 leaves, $4.00 $35.00 3-inch pot, 4 to 5 leaves, 8.00 70.00 4-inch pot, 4 to 5 leaves, 20.00

6-inch pot, 5 to 6 leaves, 18 to 20 inches

****************

high and wide, 75 cents each.

JOSEPH HEACOCK,

......WYNCOTE, near PHILADELPHIA, PA.

····

EVERGREENS AND

FLORISTS AS WELL AS NURSERYMEN HANDLE MY NURSERY-GROWN EVERGREENS AT A BIG PROFIT

Leaders for this season. 300,000 transplanted Hemlocks Over 1,000,000 of the beautiful Rocky Mountain Evergreens. 200,000 Red Cedar from northern seed and millions of the old standard sorts, such as Spruces, Pines, Balsams and Arbor Vitæs. My trade list costs you nothing but a postal card.

D. HILL, Evergreen Specialist, = Dundee, III.

The. Wm H. Moon Co., MORRISVILLE, PENNA.

Roses Grafted on Manetti Stock.

On page 763 of the February 12 number of the American Florist, I notice an article on "Roses grafted on Manetti stock versus own root stock." As Mr. May has given his experience, I think it only right that I should give mine.

For several years past, I have been in the habit of importing budded and grafted roses on the Manetti. I have not offered these for sale, but kept them for stock purposes only, to change the stock of my plants where they were weak, and also to renew the stock. noticed that these plants when they became established in the beds, were much stronger and produced apparently more bloom than the own root stock, and at that time I was a firm believer in own root stock for all purposes. Three years ago 1 imported some winter forcing roses, dormant eyes, from the same source, and found that they would not stand the journey satisfactorily. I then determined to import the stock and graft my own. Last year was the first regu-lar planting that I made of Bride, Bridesmaid, Kaiserin, American Beauty and a few Souvenir du President Carnot. While I knew that the best results from grafted roses are obtained from solid beds, I had no solid beds to plant the roses in, and I planted them on benches along with the balance of my stock. During the months of August, September, October and November, the Kaiserins were very much stronger grafted on Manetti than on own roots, producing over double the quantity of bloom, and having much stronger stems. American Beauty made canes seven feet high by the first of September, to five feet canes on their own roots, while Brides and Brides-

NATHAN SMITH & SON

Wholesale Florists

Specialties & ADRIAN, MICH.

CHRYSANTEMUMS CARNATIONS .*.*.* AND VIOLETS

· · · CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED · ·

maids were very much stronger than own root plants. As we do not grow our stock for cut flowers, but merely for wood to supply florists with young plants, we cannot make a comparative trial as regards bloom, but our experience has been that they are uniformly better for winterforcing than own root plants. Some of the prominent growers who grow them for cut flowers have been exceptionally successful. While we are very firm believers in the future usefulness of this class of plants, we would advise every one planting them for the first time to order fifty or 100 plants of each, in comparison with own root plants even on the benches; care, however, should be taken to plant roses that have been properly grafted upon good stocks.

For three years 1 have been watching closely and carefully winter forcing roses grafted on Manetti stock, and I can state without a moment's hesitation that they more bloom and of better produce quality than roses on their own roots. also know that several of the leading florists in Philadelphia will agree with ALEXANDER B. SCOTT.

| Rooted Carnation Cuttings | Pure, Healthy, No Rust. |
|---------------------------|-------------------------|
| Alaska                    | 1.00                    |
| Lizzie McGowan            | 1 00                    |
| Albertini                 | " 1.50                  |
| Jubliee                   | " 1.50                  |
| Della Fox                 |                         |
| lvory                     |                         |
| Trlumph                   |                         |
| Well packed and delivered | at American Express     |
| Office Coch with order    |                         |

Office. Cash with order.

LE MARS CREENHOUSES,
W. F. Will, Manager.

Le Mars. Iowa.

| DAYBREAK        | 5 per 100; $10.00 per 1000 |
|-----------------|-----------------------------|
| TIDAL WAVE 1.25 |                             |
| McGOWAN 1.08    | per 100; 9.00 per 1000      |
| WM. SCOTT 75e   | per 100; 7.50 per 1000      |

CASH WITH ORDER.

LAKE GENEVA FLORAL CO., - Lake Geneva, Wis.

BAKER'S NEW CARNATIONS.

Grown and tested five years.

ONEIDA—Pure pink, healthy; no rust; continuous producer: largest size bloom.

RED JACKET—Bright red. fine stem and calyx; continuous cropper. $10.00 per 100.

Orders booked now to be filled in rotation as fast as rooted.

C. F. BAKRIH, Utica, N. Y.

Price $1.50 per 12; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

HOPP & LEMKE,

Paul P. O., E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Premium-5 Red Wave with every 100

A RUST PROOF CARNATION FOR BUSINESS.

IS a much more substantial flower than Daybreak; color a shade or two darker and entirely rust proof. Can be seen at Vaughan, McKeller & Winterson's every Wednesday and Saturday.

Bright searlet and POSITIVELY RUST PROOF. As productive as Scott. Rooted Cuttings Feb. 15th. $10 per 100, $75 per 1000. Send for descriptive list of Firefly and fifteen other novelties of '98, lifteen varieties of '97 and older standard sorts.

GEO. HANCOCK & SON. GRAND MAYEN. MICH.

SIOO REWARD will be oaid for any RUST found in our Carnations.
All Pure and Healthy. Throw out that old RUSTY
Stock, begin anew with clean stock.

WE HAVE NICE ROOTED CUTTINGS, A NO. 1.

Stoart.

Stoar

McDONALD & STEELE, 109 S. Washington St., Crawfordsville, Ind.

New Carnation

ARGYLE

Wins Certificate at Chicago. delay your orders and get left.....

Cuttings from sand, $2.00 per doz.; $10 per 100; $75 per 1000.

Ewenty five ($25) dollars will be offered for the best 50 blooms at November Show held in Chicago.

STOLLERY BROS., ARGYLE PARK, Chicago, III.

This is the second of the seco

Is the grandest mid-winter carnation extant. This is the unanimous opinion of all who have seen it growing and predict for it a grand future. W Surpasses Wm. Scott.

R. WITTERSTAETTER, Sedamsville, O.

Stocks for Easter.

ED. Am. FLORIST: -At what stage should Ed, Am. Florist. — Accused stocks be to flower for Easter.

W. Dunman.

The flower buds on stocks-some of the Matthiolas are meant, I presume—that are intended for Easter should be well forward by the time this appears in your columns. They are easier controlled if forward than if late, for this class of plant will not stand much heavy forcing. If the buds show well above the foliage at this time and are kept well up to the glass in a bright and airy greenhouse, and in a night temperature of from 52° to 56°, they should be in good shape for

Forcing Steam Through the Soil.

J. A. D., Cincinnati, O., writes: "I remember seeing somewhere a description of an arrangement for cooking soil in which no steam was returned to the boiler, but it was all forced through the soil. What is the objection to this? Has Mr. May noticed any bad effects on the soil by steaming?"

There is no objection to forcing all the steam through the soil except that it would take a continuous supply of fresh water to furnish the steam, and a good deal more fuel to supply the given amount of steam necessary; other than this, which is a considerable item of expense, I know of no objection whatever.

J. N. MAY.

<sub>#</sub>$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$ THE BEST OF THE NEW PINK CARNATIONS Mrs. Frances Joost. A WINNER EVERYWHERE. $2.00 per dozen; $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000 Cash with order. C. BESOLD, Mineola, L. I., N. Y.

Experiences ... WITH ... CARNATIONS The next number ready March I, will be cultural as well as descriptive, and sent free to all applicants. I Guarantee all cuttings sent out and offer a Special Guarantee to all buyers of Flora Hill and Iriumph. ALBERT M. HERR, .... LANCASTER, PA.

Carnations Chrysanthemums

NEW AND STANDARD VARIETIES

Our new Trade List will embrace the leading novelties of 1898 and 1897 as well as the best standard sorts. Address

H. WEBER & SONS.

Oakland, Md.

NEW GARNATION "Mrs.S.A. Northway"

A soft shell pink, developing to nearly pure white.

OUR MASTERPIECE.

We shall commence shipping soon.

Orders booked now and filled in rotation. . .

PRICE: PER 100. $10.00.

Newer Geraniums.

GENERAL LIST OF GERANIUMS.

A superb stock in quality and variety of all the finest sorts, from 21/2-in. pots, named. ROOTED CUTTING, $12.50 per 1000. Net cash. & & & &

A grand lot of summered-over stock in small pots that will make early blooming plants, $3 per 100. A. A. A.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO.

Make the following statement to the readers of the American Florist & & & & &

> As originators and introducers of "Silver Spray," "Tidal Wave,"

"Daybreak," and "Rose Queen,"

each of which has, we believe, proven even better than we claimed for them. We NOW say for 1898 that possesses all the good points that go to make up a first-class and profitable cut flower sort, and that we introduce it with even more confidence than we did the others.

"Mrs. S. A. Northway"

It is an extra strong grower. It is free from rust or disease.

It is a profuse bloomer. It has excedingly strong stiff stems.

It is of exquisite form full and double.

The flower is high built. petals serrated.

The calyx does not burst.

It is delightfully fragrant (a quality lacking in many new ones.)

> SEND FOR

OUR PRICE LIST now ready, contains prices on many other plants.

W. P. SIMMONS & CO., Geneva, Ohio.

PRICE LIST of rooted cuttings of New Carnation

GENESEE

| t doze | en or | up, prepaid | l by ma | il or ex | press 1 35 |     |     |
|--------|-------|-------------|---------|----------|------------|-----|-----|
| 25 (   | or up | (to t00) "  | - 11    |          | t0 00      | per | t00 |
| 100    | и.    | purchaser   | paying  | charges  | S.00       | per | 100 |
| 250    | 44    |           |      |        | 7.00       | per | t00 |
| 500    |     | i i         | 6.6     | 11       | 6 75       | per | 100 |
| 1,000  | 6.6   | 4.4         | 4.4     |          |            |     |     |

Descriptive illustrated and priced circular free.

DAN'L B. LONG. Sales Agent, Buffalo, N. Y.

SOUTH PARK FLORAL CO., New Castle, Ind.

AT THE MEETING OF-

American Carnation Society

WE GOT FIRST PRIZES ON .... ALBERTINI HELEN KELLER! AND ALASKA

NOT SO NEW & & & &

as some, but the flowers were so fine they attracted a great deal of attention. We have very fine rooted cuttings of the above for sale. Write for prices on them and other varieties.

The Omaha Exposition.

The building in which the horticultural display is to be made is well under way and all of the other buildings are practically completed.

About a dozen of the Trans-Mississippi and other states have already decided to participate in the horticultural exhibit and from the present outlook it will be better and larger than anything that has ever been held in this territory.

About a dozen of the very strongest firms in the United States have agreed to assist in the supplying of plants for the decorating of lawns, and probably no other exposition of similar size has ever been so well equipped in that regard as is this one.

F. W. TAYLOR.

MARINETTE, WIS.—Geo. Vatter, the wellknown florist, has purchased the old Eggner property on State street, and will erect large greenhouses there. The main building will be 20x140 feet with two smaller ones on each side, parallel with it, 20x80 feet.

Ready Feb. 1st and Later

Including Morello, Flora Hill, Daybreak, Wm. Scott, Lizzie McGowan, Ivory, Silver Spray, Emily Pierson, Goldfinch, Eldorado, and others. Send me a list of what you want and get prices before you buy. We also have a fine lot of Carnation and Violet blooms for sale. Write for prices, Address.

CHAS. CHADWICK.

Lock Box II.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

CARNATIONS.

WHITE CLOUD—White.
GOLD NUGGET—Yellow.
NEW YORK (Ward)—Bright cerise pink.
MRS. JAMES DEAN (Ward)—Clear silvery pink.
JOHN YOUNG (Ward)—White.
BON TON (Ward)—Scarlet.
Price's for above varieties: $2.00 per doz., $10.00
per 100, $75.00 per 1000.

We will also have Cerise Queen (Breitmeyer),
Argyle (Stollery). Jack Frost (Swayne), Empress (Swayne), Evelina (Witterstaetter), Firefly (Hancock), Psyche (Hill), Painted Lady (Hill), and Mrs. S. A. Northway (Simmons).

All good 1897 novelties and other standard varieties at reasonable prices.

New Chrysanthemums.

MRS. C. H. PEIRCE—Yellow.

3ic each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

SNOW QUEEN—White

5ic each, $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

MERRY CHRIST MAS—Late White

35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100.

Send for Descriptive Price List. Ready January, 1898

F. DORNER & SONS CO. LAFAYETTE, IND.

NEW CARNATION ....

Empress

Send for price list of above. New and Standard Sorts....

WM. SWAYNE, Box 226, Kennett Square, Pa.

ROOTED CARNATIONS

v. t, and a final W. Carriedge of the 43 to per 100

ROSES, from Bench or Pots.

W. H. GULLETT & SONS, Lincoln, III.

ONINE BROTHERS. Boston Demans 8 18,8

Jos Faithy + Sons Hellesley Mass Gentlemen.

We have handled the Wellesley carnation for the past signion the and can temp say it is the best scarletcamation in the market We find it very salable, as our flown reports one fy We recommend it to all florests as a leader

Hive Dotalim

"WELLESLEY

Scored 90 points at the recent Boston Exhibition.

RECOGNIZED AS THE BEST ALL-ROUND CARNATION OF ITS COLOR YET PRODUCED.

Rooted Cuttings

$2 00 per dozen $10 00 per hundred $75 00 per thousand

& SON, Wellesley,

IN REST VARIETIES.

ROSES, from 3-inch pots.

CARNATIONS, for fall delivery. CHRYSANTHEMUMS. SMILAX.

VIOLETS. Prices low. Bend for Hat. WOOD BROTHERS, FISHKILL, N.Y.

50,000 Flat-Grown GARNATIONS

| STRO              | ONO  | . 8 | T | ·C | ) ( | 0 | ĸ  |      |      | 1 | ю | r 1  | DO.  | рег | HAVE |
|-------------------|------|-----|---|----|-----|---|----|------|------|---|---|------|------|-----|------|
| Imylitenk         |      |     |   | ,  |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | 83   | 381  | E1  | 5.00 |
| Montt             |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | 2    | 00   | 1   | 5 00 |
| Rose Odern        |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |  |      |   |   | 2    | 181  | 1   | 5.00 |
| Tidal Wave        |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |  |  |   |   | -1   | 341  | . 1 | 2.00 |
| Portin.           |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | -1   | 30   | 1   | 2.00 |
| Rob Roy (pew)     |      |     |   |    |     |   | Ċ  |      |      |   |   | Ш    | (A)  |     |      |
| Jubilion          |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |  |      |   |   | 31   | UH   | 1   |      |
| Show Oneen        |      |     |   |    | Ü   |   |    |      |      |   |   | 10   | DH.  |     |      |
| bliver sprny .    |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | 1    | 30   | - 1 | 2.00 |
| L McGuwan         |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | i    | .50  | 1   | 2.00 |
| Elderado, Moteer  |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | - 2  | .00  | )   |      |
| Floris IIIII      |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | - fi | ()() | 1   |      |
| Trhumph, Armazir  | rds. |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   | 3    | 00   |     |      |
| Ploto, new, and l |      |     |   |    |     |   |    |      |      |   |   |      |      |     |      |
| varieties         |      |     |   |    |     | • |    |      |      |   |   | 10   | 100  | )   |      |
| Cash with order.  |      |     |   |    |     |   | ٠. |  |      |   |   |      |      |     |      |

MARCH OFFER.

| 1'                                   | er 100 |
|--------------------------------------|--------|
| Alternanthera, Yellow, $1.50: Red$ | 2.00   |
| English Ivy                          | 3.00   |
| Bagonias, 5 var                      | 3.00   |
| Oxalis Floribunda                    | 2.50   |
| Ceraniums, 16 Var., 2-in. pots       | 2.50   |
| Pansy Plants                         | 1.00   |
|                                      |        |

JOS. H. CUNNINCHAM, Delaware, O.

40,000

STRONG HEALTHY PLANTS.
Daybreak, Se ti. Rose Queen, H. Keller, Harrison's White, $1.75 per 100 or $15.00 per 1000; Thomas Cartledge, Llyzle McGrowan, $1.25 per 100, $10.00 per 1000.
CHRYSANTHEMUMS, 24g-inch pots. Major Committon, $2.00 per 100 or $15.00 per 1000. President Smith, Eda Prasa, $2.00 per 100 or $1.00 per 1000.
VIOLETS, Marle Loube, 75c per 100 or $5 per 1000.
CERANIUMS, mixed varieties, good strong plants 20g in, pots, showing flowers, $2.00 per 100 or $2.00 per 100.
Cash with order or satisfactory reference.

PAXTON GREENHOUSES,

C. E. Taube, Prop.

Harrisburg, Pa.

New Haven, Conn.

Two days of sunshine last week promise in a degree to relieve the dearth of carnations from which dealers hereabouts are suffering of late.

Tulips and hyacinths in seed pans seem to have driven out the demand in this city for azaleas and cinerarias.

The success of Carl Rosein with violets and especially the California violet, has led him to plan the erection of a new greenhouse, 20x200 feet, to be devoted entirely to roses.

J. E. Killen, representing C. H. Joosten and J. McHutchinson, with August Rhotert, of New York, made their semiannual visit during the past week.

The leading event of the week was the annual banquet of the Sons of the Revolution at Music Hall, Tuesday. Governors of three states were among the noted gnests. The decorations in cut flowers were by J. N. Champion & Co., and consisted chiefly of the spring flowers.

J. A. P.

Harrisburg, Pa.

Business in general is improving. A number of entertainments and weddings have called for decorations and cut flowers, the carnation being more in demand this winter than ever before. The great number of dark days during the last month has greatly retarded the blooming plants.

Joseph Schmidt, one of our oldest florists, is very busy with funeral designs and wedding decorations.

The establishment of J. D. Brenneman was sold to-day by sheriff sale; it was bought by his brother—stock, horse, wagon and household furniture.

Mr. Paget, the florist of the State Asylum, has everything in first-class order; his greenhouses and plants are looking clean and bright. He is now laying out a long road, which work keeps him occupied every minute of his time. The asylum authorities are about to enlarge the institution, thereby giving Mr. Paget plenty to do and keeping him in good CARL E. TAUBE. spirits.

| :                                      | Per | 100  |
|----------------------------------------|-----|------|
| SMILAX, 3-inch pots                    |     |      |
| GERANIUM, S. A. Nutt, rooted cuttings. |     | 1.50 |
| CARNATIONS, rooted cuttings, Freedom,  |     | 4.00 |
| Jahn's Scarlet, " "                    |     | 3.00 |
| Daybreak (and others)                  |     | 2.00 |
| ECHEVERIA secunda glauca               |     | 4.00 |
| W. G. KRABER                           |     |      |

125 Florence St., New Bedford, Mass.

5000 GARDENIA FLORIDA

(CAPE JASMINE.)

3-inch pots, 810 inches high, $8 per 100; $70 per 1000. 25 000 Cannas, dormant roots, in 20 best sorts, $20 per 1000.

Laraola Borbonica, 4-inch pots, I-2 choice leaves, 12-15 in., $15 per 100.

Latenia Borbonica, 4-inch pota, 2-3 choice leaves, 15-18 in., $20 per 100.

Phornix Reclinata, 4 Inch pots, 12-15 in., $15 per 100, Phoenix Reclinata, 4-inch pots, 15-18 in., $25 per 100. Oranges, best sorts, grafted, 4-inch pots, 10-12 in., $20 per 100; 5-inch pots, 18-20 in., $30 per 100

P. J. BERCKMANS, Augusta, Ga.

To Glose Out at Once.

1000 Paul Marquant, 400 Duchess de Montmort & $2.00; 300 Alphonse Bouvier, 800 Sarah Hill, 800 Mme. Crozy @ $2.75; 300 Flamingo @ $4.00. Cash with order.

C. E. UTLEY, Warsaw, Ind.

100,000 VERBENAS. THE CHOICEST VARIETIES IN CULTIVATION

Fine pot plants, $2.50 per 100; $20 per 1000. Rooted Cuttings, 75c per 100; $6.00 per 1000; $50 per 10000. NO RUST OR MILDEW.

PACKED LIGHT, AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. We are the Largest Growers of Verbenas in the country. Our placts cannot be surpassed.

J. L. DILLON, Bloomsburg, Pa.

***VERBENAS.

The finest collection in America, 35 varieties, every one a gem-mammoth size, striking colors, green as grass. Strong rooted cuttings, 66c per hundred: $5.00 per thousand; $20.00. New Yellow Marguerite finest variety, strong 2-in. pot plants, 3c: rooted cuttings, 2c.

STRICTLY CASH WITH ORDER.

SOUTH SIDE FLORAL CO., Springfield, III.

ROOTED CUTTINGS. WELL ROOTED.

Crimson Bedder, Candidate Mrs. J. C. Vanghan, Fire e all, Lavender, Swayne's Beauty, Francis Peri, Pink Beauty, Aurora Borealts, Negro, Miss Arthur, Willie Hesmond, Mrs. Cleveland 15c per doz. 76c per 100; $16.00 per 1000. All nice clean stuff. Express paid.

S. T. DANLEY, Macomb, Ills.

|                                     | 100    | 1000    |
|-------------------------------------|--------|---------|
| CANNAS, Crozy, Brouvier, Marquant   | $2.75 | $25.00 |
| btolle Amarile                      | 4 (10) | 420.00  |
| Italia Austria                      | 4.00   |         |
| IVY English strong 2-year           | 5 00   | 45,00   |
| CREVILLEA, strong. 2-feet           | 10 00  |         |
| DAHLIA, long stemmed, white         | 5.00   |         |
| HELIANTHUS multiflorus, from open., | 5,00   |         |
| EULALIA Japonica zebrina, strong    | 5,100  |         |
| EULALIA Japonica variegata, atrong  | 5.00   |         |
| CASH WITH ORDER                     | _      |         |

WM. McROBERTS, Jr., Govanstown, Md.

GERANIUM*S*

BEGONIAS

and FUCHSIAS

SELECT NEW and good old standard sorts, the best to be found, up-to-date. 4 4 40 Varieties Geraniums, 4 25 Flowering Begonias, and a good assortment of Market Fuchsias. Let us know what you want and we will quote you prices low enough.

J. NICOL

Oak Street, & JERSEY CITY, N. J.

MAMMOTH VERBENAS

Fine selected stock in separate colors, Rooted cuttings, per 100, 75c; per 1000, $6.00. Cash with order.

FRANK S. PAYNE, Barnard Crossing, N. Y.

GLEMATIS Jackmanni, Henryii doz. 100 and others......$3.00 $20.00 H. P. ROSES Strong 2 and 3 years own roots. $1.50 $10.00 native red.

F. A. BALLER, Bloomington, III.

KLONDIKE.

Stock of the New COLEUS Klondike now ready.

William Scott says, "The finest thing I have seen for many a day." 2-in. 15c each; $1.20 per doz.; $6 per 100. TERMS CASH.

CARL HAGENBURGER, West Mentor, Ohio.

PLEASE mention the AMERICAN FLORIST every time you write to an advertiser.

| VERBENAS. Beauty of Oxford. Same in | Per 100 |
|-------------------------------------|---------|
| white                               | $2.00  |
| SMILAX PLANTS                       | 2.00    |
| B-GONIAS, flowering                 | 2.00    |
| SMILAX, cut string 21/2 yards long  |         |
|                                     |         |
| VIOLETS, cut blooms                 | 75      |
| (Marie Louise and Swaniey White.)   | . 1.7   |
| CHRYSANTHEMUMS, 212-inch            | 2.00    |
| Please write for list.              | ₹.00    |
| ALBERT OTTO, - Neenah, Wis          | ١.      |
| ALBERTUITO, - Neenah, Wis           | ١.      |

PELARGONIUMS

VERBENAS 25 of the best named tings. 60e per 100. Express prepaid. Cash with order.

S. D. BRANT THE CLAY CENTER FLORIST, CLAY CENTER, KAN.

Verbena King

ONE MILLION

to offer the following season in 55 of the latest and best mammath named varieties in cultivation, free from rust or mildew. Satisfaction and safe arrival guaranteed in every way to all parts of the U. S. and Canada (a 60c per 100; $5.50 per 1000; 5000 for $25; 10,000 for $45; 25,000 for $100. Express prepaid.

HELIOTROPES, rooted cuttings, 10 named vars.. $1 00 per 100; $8,00 per 1000. Express prepaid.

CASH PLEASE.

C. HUMFELD, - Clay Center, Kan.

AZALEA INDICA We have an immense stock of all the best varieties, extremely full budded, of the following large size: 12 to 15 inch, $6.00 per dozen: $45.00 per dozen. ClierarAlfaS, 5-inch, bud and bloom, $1.25 per dozen. Double Golden Marguerite Cuttings, by mail, $1.50 per 100.

WHITTON & SONS, Wholesale Florists, City and Green Sts., UTICA, N. Y.

******** WHY NOT....

Advertise and sell some rooted cuttings or other surplus stock.

********

THIS SIZE "AD." ONLY $1.00.

American Florist Co., Chicago,

LETTUCE AND OTHER ... VEGETABLE PLANTS

LETTUCE-Blk Boaton, Boston Market, Tennis Ball, Grand Rapids and Reichner's Foreing, 15 ets. per 100; $1,00 per 100)

per 100; $1.00 per 1000

TOMATO, CABBAGE and CELERY-Small plants for transplanting now ready. 15 cts. per 100; $1 00 per 1000. Pepper and Egg Plants-25 cts per 100; $2 00 per 1000. CAULIFLOWER, Snowball-35 cts per 100; $2.5 per 1000; $1 by mail add 10 cts, per 100 for small plants, and 50 cts, per 1000. Send for price list. Cash with order.

R. VINCENT, Jr. & SON, White Marsh, Md.

Buffalo.

As usual we are getting the "reflex action" of the carnation meeting. The boys who were fortunate enough to attend are full of the subject, and they talk glibly of the new varieties. The stay-at-homes have been putting in some pretty good work, too, and between them, the prices are dropping.

Mr. Wm. McMillan, late superintendent of parks in this city, leaves this week for New Jersey to take charge of the Essex county parks. His friends gave him a farewell dinner at the "Genesce" on Friday night.

The contract for the conservatories at the Botanic Garden has been signed and goes to Wurtz & Co. of this city. It is rumored that Illichings & Co., of New York, are interested in the contract. I understand that the contract calls for the completion of the range, with the exception of four medium sized houses, by August 1, 1898. If this is done there will be some of the tallest hustling on record.

More rumors of changes of location among the flower stores. This time it is Rebstock who is reported to have acquired a new store on the east side of Main street, not far from his present stand.

The following bill received here from a New York Custom House broker may be of interest to intending importers and will show how the government gets its war fund:

| Bull)S                           | 21.00  |
|----------------------------------|--------|
| Duty 25%                         |        |
| Dravage25                        |        |
| Appraisers storage31             |        |
| Freight and foreign charges 1.59 |        |
| Custom house entry1.00           | 241 1  |
| Total charges                    | $3,40 |
|                                  | C.     |

Cincinnati.

The first week of Lent has been usually noted as a quiet one, but the demand of last week has been good all along the line. Roses and carnations incline to better crops. Tulips, although quite abundant, have held up in prices better than in previous years. Violets are plenthan in previous years. Violets are plen-tiful. Market last Saturday was exceptionally dull for this time of the year, owing to disagreeable weather. At this writing, March 1, we are having a heavy fall of damp snow.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society will be held March 12. This will be a special earna-tion meeting, and all those having carnations to exhibit are requested to send them to the H. L. Sunderbruch Co., Fourth and Walnut streets, in care of Rich Witterstactter, who will see that they are staged correctly.

Wow' Bang" Bint"! Blim!"! and the life of Will Piciter was in danger with the last explosion. It all came about some-thing like this. Will has been hothered of late with carache. After arriving at the Sixth street market Saturday, he proceeded at once to a neighboring drug store, and to the clerk in charge related his tale of wor. He received a small hottle of liquid of which a few drops were supposed to be necessary to relieve Will of that terrible pain. Being cold and the Market house not the proper place to undergo such treatment, he made his way. over to lasher's wine house. The gas jet he thought was the proper place to warm that precious little bottle, which was to relieve his pain within five minutes, hardly had be held it over the blaze and the above Wow, Bang' Butt' Bum' could be heard as the bottle exploded. Mr Proterval, be more careful in the biture. with chemicals.

KLONDIKE

Cold Fields at Your Door.

Cold Fields at Your Door.

COLEUS—All kinds, all grades and all prices. Verschaffeitl and Queen. 75c per 100; $6.00 per 1000; 2\(\frac{1}{2}\)-time bots, $15.00 per 1000; $1.75 per 100 $6.00 per 1000; $1.50 per 1000. Coleus la variety, $5c per 100; $1.50 per 1000, $1.75 per 100 $1.00 per 1000; $1.50 per 1000. Accratum dwarf blue. 60c per 100; $1.50 per 100. Fuchsias, standard sorts $12.00 per 100; $1.50 per 100. Fuchsias, standard sorts $12.00 per 100; $1.50 per 100. Fuchsias, sevra fine strain for flats. $1.50 per 100; $12.00 per 1000. $12.00 per 1000; $12.00 per 100; $1.50 per 100. $1.50 per 100; $1.50 per 100. $1.50 per 100; $1.50 per 100. $1.50 per 100; $1.50 p

J. E. FELTHOUSEN, Schenectady, N. Y.

30,000 DAHLIAS

Before ordering your Dahila stock he sure and send for my catalogue noveltles and standards of the best quality and at the lowest prices. All stock guaranteed true to name.

W. W. WILMORE, 80x 382, DENVER, COLD.

PEACOCK'S PRIZE WINNING DAHLIAS

Did you know that in 1896 Peacock's Dahlias were awarded sixteen (16) first prizes Did you know that in 1896 Peacock's Dahhas were awarded sixteen (16) first prizes at Philadelphia out of seventeen entries? And at the American Institute, Madison Square Garden, New York, the seven first prizes (all that were offered) and two special diplomas for Clifford W. Bruton and Wm. Agnew? That last vear(1897) at New York, they were awarded six of the seven first prizes and The Medal of Superiority of the American Institute, the highest award ever given Dahlias in America? That at Philadelphia—well, we won't say anything, as they were not in competition; but, read what the Philadelphia. Record of Sept. 22, 1897, says:

"Prominent above all the other exhibits is that of the Dahlia Society itself, includes an almost perfect assortment of all the Dahlias known in this country grown by W. P. Peacock, of Atco. N. J., but it was not in competition for prizes

New Illustrated Descriptive Whotesale Catalogue now ready; send for it before placing order elsewhere.

W. P. PEACOCK, ATCO, N. J.

Mention American Fiorist.

Two Great Sports CHRYSANTHEMUM CARNATION PENNSYLVANIA

Undoubtedly the best Pink Carnution in commerce and certainly the most profile bloomer, perfectly healthy and of vigorous growth Rooted cuttins now ready, $4.00 per 100. Come and see this carnution growing.

poses ever produced. Plants ready March 15, $5.00 per doz.; $35.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000.

HUGH GRAHAM, 104 South 13th Street, PHILADELPHIA.

**BOSS** Chrysanthemums WM. H. CHADWICK—The grandest white novelty of the season. THE YELLOW FELLOW Winner of $100 Stearns bicycle prize, MADELINE PRATT—"As pretty as her picture."

Distributed March 1st by leading firms and the grower. .... Grove P. Rawson, Elmira, N. Y.

Jardinieres, Pots Pedestals

ADAPTED TO Florists' Use.

Artistic Shapes and Decorations.

านักรนักรนักรนักรนักรนัก

Write us for Illustrations

BURLEY & TYRRELL, 42=44 Lake St., CHICAGO...

Executive Committee Meeting of the S.A.F.

The Executive Committee of the Society of American Florists will hold a session at Washington on Tuesday, March 15. Suggestions will be in order as to matters that the society should take up for the benefit of the trade. All such communica-tions from whatever source will be wel-come and given careful consideration by the committee. Address the secretary, Wm. J. Stewart, 67 Bromfield street, Boston, Mass.

Fern Notes.

Referring to a recent article under this head, I wish Mr. Hemsley could have spent a few days with me in the northern part of Indiana on the swampy grounds of the Kankakee and Cedar Lake bottoms. The osmundas and struthiopteris in some places have complete control of territory acres and acres in extent. The Osmundas cinnamomea, gracilis and Claytoniana are colonized so positively as to exclude nearly every other plant except a few sedges and scirpuses. On little hummocks there may be seen a few Black Cap raspberries and occasionally the narrow leaved viburnum. With these exceptions there is no other shading. The struthiopterises are found in the shade of very tall elms, lindens and ash, with nothing else as a shading. Where these and the osmundas grow in the greatest luxuriance the whole of the surface is covered each spring with water six inches to two feet deep probably for a month, often longer. Osmundas and struthiopteris are to be found in all stages from the earliest prothalli to the mature plants perhaps a century old. The young plants have to go through a great many vicissitudes as a matter of course. I have seen young plants occasionally as thick together as I have known Nephrodium Molle as it appears in greenhouses. I shall be pleased to send Mr. H. spores in season.

J. THORPE.

PANSIES
The Jennings Strain of Finest Mixed Pansies....
Medium size, $5 per 1000 express; 75c per 100 by mail. Seed of above, $1 per packet; $6 per ounce. Aster Seed, Semple's pink, $1.50 per ounce. Large Pansies in bloom, ready March 20th. Cash with order.

E. B. JENNINGS, Southport, Conn.

Lock Box 254. Grower of the Finest Pansies.

FAXON'S "WHITE, PANSIES.

The best mixture in cultivation, flowers very tree, thick and velvety; of superb colors and tarkings. The perfection of form and texture. large, thic markings.

In Trade Packets at $1.00 each. M. B. FAXON,

Lock Box 1528. Boston, Mass.
Correspondence solicited.

WRITE

R. & J. FARQUHAR & CO.

**SEEDSMEN**

16 and 19 South Market Street,

BOSTON

FOR THE CHOICEST AND BEST NEW CROP

Neponset Paper Flower Pots, Pure Sheep Manure, and All Florists' Supplies.

Catalogues mailed free.

Gladiolus Bulbs FOR FLORISTS.

WE HAVE THEM! WE HAVE THEM!

> Columbian Medal. S. A. F. Certificate of Merit. First prizes wherever shown. Cushman's Celebrated Seedlings. A light mixture. No. 1, $1.25 per 100; $10.00 per 1000. No. 2, $1.00 per 100, $8 00 per 1000. Our No. 2 are fine bulbs, 11/2-in.

CUSHMAN GLADIOLUS CO.,

IMPORT ORDERS BOOKED

and placed with our growers, for summer and fall delivery of thorists' . . . . . .

Forcing Bulbs and Plants

in as fine and reliable a quality as will be brought to this market in the season's best growth: Lily of the Valley, Roman Hyacinth, Harrisii, Longiflorum, Candidum, Calla, Freesia, Spiræa, Paper Whites, Daffodils, Tulips, Hyacinths, etc., Bulbs.

August Rölker & Sons,

NEW YORK: 52 Dey Street.

...FINE..

DECORATIVE PLA

JOHN H. LEY, Good Hope, D. C.

Solicits early orders for following fine stock: NEPHROLEPIS, D. Furcans Very large, full of fronds, 3 feet over (i-lnch pots, fit for 8-lnch 1.00 9.00 NEPHROLEPIS, Bostoniensis

SEEDS LAWN GRASS $12.00 per 100 lbs. Finest Quality Ever Offered (Retails (# 30c. lb.)

J. CHAS. McCULLOUGH, SEEDSMAN, RECLEANER AND JOBBER GRASS SEEDS. North-East Second & Walnut Sts., Cincinnati, O.

Orders Please

| All the Leading Carnations Now Ready. Pe     | r 100  |
|----------------------------------------------|--------|
| Geraniums named, our selection only, 214-in. | $2.00 |
| Safvias, Clara Bedman, 234-in                | 2.00   |
| Little Gem Feverfew, 214-in                  | 2.00   |
| Coleus, 20 best hedders, 214-in              | 1.50   |
| Lycopodium Denticulatum, 21 <sub>1</sub> -in | 2.00   |
| Tradescantia Multicolor, 24-in               | 2,00   |
| Alternanthera Aurea Nana and P. Major,       |        |
| 204-in                                       | 2,00   |

SEEDS

Mammoth Verbenas, Asters and Pausies only......$1 00 per oz.

The Morris Floral Co. MORRIS, ILL.

SPRING BULBS.

LILIUM AURATUM. Per 100 Per 1000

7-9 inch.....$3.75 9-11 inch.....5.00 L. RUBRUM

(Speciosum)

7-9 inch. . . . 4.75 9-11 inch. . . . 6.75

LILIUM ALBUM (Speciosum) Per 100 Per 1000 55.00 65.00

BEGONIAS TUBEROUS ROOTED...
Single, separate colors..... 30.00

TUBEROSES....

True Excelsior Pearl.
"Hallock strain" First size. . 1.90 7.50

GLOXINIAS .... Per doz., 85c; per 100, $5,00 CALADIUMS....

Fancy leaved choice bulbs, per doz., $1.75; per 100, $12.00

CALADIUM ESCULENTUM

9 to 42 % 1 00 6 50 50c per 100 less on 7 9 inch and 9-12 inch sizes if shipped from New York.

GLADIOLUS XXX Florists Mixture
Per 1000 $1.75

$15.00

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

NEW YORK 14 Barclay St.

CHICAGO 84-86 Randolph St.

Rochester, N. Y.

Lent has not interfered with the flower trade so far; the demand continues about as good as before with a slight lowering in prices of some stock, but not in all cases. The market is tairly well supplied with the ordinary everyday stock, while but few shipments of select and fancy flowers arrive in town and these are eagerly taken up as soon as they come in; every body seems anxious to secure the best that is to be had. Roses are a little more plentiful, but not to excess by any means; prices have not changed. Carnations still hold their lown, although larger quantities come to market. Violets sell freely and are not at all scarce, but bring no fancy prices; those of goodquality can be bought at 60 to 75 cents; tulips are considerably cheaper excepting the large faucy pinks, which are not very plentiful. Double Von Sions sell in quantities, and have not seriously declined in price, though the singles are over abundant. Hyacinths do not move off as satisfactory as a week or two ago; valley is not overdone at present, but what is offered must be called A1; their scarcity has helped the treesias along.

The sales in plants have somewhat improved lately, though the demand is mostly confined to the cheaper class of stock, such as small genistas, cinerarias, the various bulbs and primroses; those fine azaleas, the well flowered lilacs, rhododendrons and metrosideros, which are offered in the stores do not move quite as promptly, but at any rate more freely than they did in the earlier part of the month.

The first two months of the year show a gratifying increase in the bulk of retail trade over corresponding months of last

NEW FORCING ROSE MRS. ROBT. GARRETT

Hybrid tea, rich soft pink, buds very long, flower extra large, delightfully fragrant, rivaling Bridesmaid in color, but larger and much more productive. A sturdy, vigorous grower, a money maker and a triumph of American skill. The best firms in the country are investing in it. It has won numerous prizes and has elicited the most favorable comment from critical judges. Price strong plants from 212-inch pots, $25.00 per 100 in lots less than 1000; $225.00 per 1000. Orders booked now, delivery March 15, 1898. Correspondence solicited. Address

H. WEBER & SONS, Oakland, Md.

ROSES

PERLES. METEORS BRIDESMAID

rots 100 Pots 21<sub>2</sub> $2 50 3

Guaranteed first-class. Stoc temperature. Stock grown in low

THE E. HIPPARD CO., Youngstown, Ohio.

year, and as prospects for the future are not altogether without encouragement, hopes are entertained in all quarters for a continuation of prosperity throughout the remainder of the season. J. B. K. J. B. K.

Rooted Cuttings...

Am. Beauties, Brides, Maids, V. Kaiserin, Perles, Belle Siebrecht, Meteors. Same in 2-in. pots ready Feb. 15th to 20th. Send 50c for samples and get prices.

GEO. A. KUHL, Pekin, III. Carnation Cuttings ready Feb. 1st.

New American Rose-

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT

As one of the syndicate bolding stock in this rose we offer first class plants, from 245-inch pots, to be delivered on and after March 15, 188, at the agreed price of $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

AMERICAN ROSE CO. WASHINGTON, D. C.

YOUNG ROSES 300,000 300.000

Ramblers, Climb. Malmaison, Climb. White Pet, Climb, Wootton, Pres. Carnot and 100 other leaders in Teas. H. Teas and Climbers.

Send for prices.

The National Plant Company, Dayton, Ohio.

FLORA HILL

NEW ROSE MRS. ROBT. CARRETT ..... $5.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100.

250 BOXES 16x24 CLASS FOR SALE.

One of a Hundred Similar Letters:

1210 Smlth St., Providence, R. L. Feb. 7, 38

H. F. LITTLEFIELD

Dear str. I must admit the Flora Hill cuttings were the cost I ever had from anyone; all well-rooted plps. If we could get such stock from everyone it would be a pleasure to try new ones.

Yours Italy, JOHN MACRAE

H. F. LITTLEFIELD, WORCESTER, MASS.

Mention American Florist

H

PRE

..ROOTED CUTTINGS

No scrub wood used. All stock thoroughly rooted and From 21/2-Inch Pots Per 100 Per 1000 Per 100 Per 1000 carefully packed when sent out. Send for samples ... ....$4.00 .... 2.25 ... 2.25 ... 2.25 ... 2.25 AMERICAN BEAUTIES, Rooted Cuttings, $2.50 BRIDES. 1.50 BRIDESMAID. 1.50 $35,00 20,00 20,00 20,00 $22.00... METEOR. KAISERIN PERLE. 12.50...1.50 12.50 1.50 12.50. Terms eash with order or goods sent C. O. D. Plants from 21/2-inch pots ready March 1.

STATION X. CHICAGO, ILL. J. A. BUDLONG.

New Rose lara atson

Clear flesh pink s...
roses of recent introduction.
PRESIDENT CARNOT. Thos.

10.00 per 100.
All the standard forcing kinds in A1 stock possible to produce really good stock for, Bridesman.
erine Mermet, Madame Hoste, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan, Peric, Bride, American Beauty, Madame Caroline Testout, Meteor ain.
de Wootton. Also Hybrids for forcing and summer bedding.

JOHN N. MAY, Summit, New Jersey.

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

CARNATIONS.

William Scott
Nancy Hanke.

All Wave.

S1.00 per 100.
S7.50 per 1000.

REINBERG BROS.

Growers of

500,000 FEET OF GLASS. We can fill all orders on short notice with all reading varieties of Roses and Carnations. We ARE Headquarters for Fige AMERICAN BEAUTIES. Give us a trial and convince yourself......

ROSE PLANTS

From 2.1.2 Inch Pots.

Ready for Shipment March Ist.

Psec 1000 325-00 25-00 22-56 22-56 22-56 22-50 22-50 22-50 METEOR METEOR PERLE BRIDE BRIDESMAID LA FRANCE EAISERIN 3 00 2 50 2 50 2 50 2 50 BELLE SIEBRECHT

Daybrenk....
Emma Wocher
Meteor
Coldfinch.
Lizzie Cilbert
Harrison'e White
Brideamaid $1.50 per 100. $12.50 per 1000

Nives .... $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000. ...$2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000. Flora Hill..$4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. No order for less than 100 of one variety accepted.

REINBERG BROS., 51 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

Catalogues Received. J. H. Hale, South Glastonbury, Conn., fruits; Geo. A. Sweet Nursery Co., Dansville, N. Y., fruits; Barteldes & Co., Denver, Colo., seeds; Winthrop Gardens, Holliston, Mass., trees, shrubs and fruits; J. E. Wilson, Chitwood, Oregon, trees and shrubs; Wm. C. Babcock, Bridgman, Mich., fruits and plants; A. Lingham, Mich., fruits and plants; A. Lingham, Dungeness, Washington, seeds; John R. Childres, South Carrollton, Ky., fruits: Maud M. Briggs, El Paso, Texas, cacti; C. Jagd, Valley City, N. D., trees, shrubs and fruits; H. R. Cotta, Freeport Ill., fruits; McGeehon Nursery, Atlantic, Iowa, Freits; J. Poldwin Server, Manager, 1988, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1989, 1 fruits; S. J. Baldwin, Seneca, Kan., trees, shrubs and fruits; J. M. Russell & Co., Wymore, Neb., fruits; Evergreen Nursery Wymore, Neb., fruits; Evergreen Nursery Co., Evergreen, Wis., trees and shrubs; F. H. Ebeling, Syracuse, N. Y., seeds; Nathan Smith & Son, Adrian, Mich., plants; W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., seeds and plants; A. C. Anderson, Leigh, Neb., seeds and plants; J. M. T. Wright, Portland, Ind., fruits; Michigan Wild Flower Co. Rochester Wich, plants: Wild Flower Co., Rochester, Mich., plants; W. P. Peacock, Atco, N. J., plants; J. C. Plumb & Son, Milton, Wis., trees, shrubs and fruits; M. Keppler, Queens, N. Y., seeds; Geo. Pattington & Sons, Scipioville, N. Y., trees, shrubs and fruits; Horville, N. V., trees, shrubs and fruits; Horace Janney, Newton, Pa., trees, shrubs and fruits; S. C. DeCou, Moorestown, N. J., fruits; C. G. Nanz, Owensboro, K.v., plants; R. Johnston, Shortsville, N. Y., fruits; A. N. Jones, Newark, N. Y., seeds; Charles Black, Hightstown, N. J., fruits; H. Shroeder, Bloomington, Ill., fruits; E. V. Teas, Irvington, Ind., trees, shrubs and H. Shroeder, Bloomington, Ill., fruits; E. Y. Teas, Irvington, Ind., trees, shrubs and fruits; B. J. Wakeman, Chebanse, Ill., trees, shrubs and fruits; John W. Hall, Marion Station, Md., fruits; Frost & Co., Rochester, N. Y., trees and shrubs; Fred W. Kelsey, New York, trees, shrubs and fruits; Alton M. Shepherd, Minneapolis, Minn., fruits; Geo. A. Schultz, Jamesburg, N. J., fruits; G. R. Gause, & Co., Richmond, Ind., plants; Theo. Koss, Milwaukee, Wis., seeds; T. S. Hubbard Co, Fredonia, N. Y., fruits; D. Hill, Dundee, Ill., trees and shrubs; Thos. Meehan & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa., trees and shrubs; A. Ries, Carroll, Iowa, plants; H. C. Faust & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., seeds; S. C. Itall, Cherry Valley, Ill., trees, shrubs and fruits; Sunset Seed and Plant Co., San Francisco, Cal., plants; T. C. Thurlow, West Newbury, Mass., plants; Il. N. West Newbury, Mass., plants; II. N. Smith, South Sudbury, Mass., seeds; Harlan P. Kelsey, Boston, Mass., plants; M. Butterfield, Lee's Summit, Mo., trees, shrubs and fruits; Joseph Brown, Nash-ville, Tenn., plants; Elizabeth Nursery Co., Elizabeth, N. J., trees, shrubs and fruits; Charles Fremd, Rye, N. Y., trees and plants; F. H. Horsford, Charlotte, Vt., trees, shrubs and plants; Chas. B. Hornor & Son, Mount Holly, N. J., trees, shrubs and fruits; John R. & Wm. Parry, Parry, N. J., trees, shrubs and fruits; Chas. Wright, Seaford, Del., fruits; Phoenix Nursery Co., Bloomington, Ill., trees, mx Aursery Co., Bloomington, III., trees, shrubs and fruits; A. L. Mitchell, Denver, Colo., seeds; V. Lemoine, Nancy, France, plants; Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., Paris, France, plants; Wilhelm Muhle, Temesyar, Wilhelm Muhle, Temesyar, France, plants; Wilhelm Muhle, Temesvar, Hungary, seeds; Henry W. Gibbons, New York, N. Y., heating apparatus; Dingee & Conard Co., West Grove, Pa., plants, seeds and bulbs; Pinehurst Nurseries, Pinehurst, N. C., plants; Wood Bros., Fishkill, N. Y., plants; J. Chas. McCullough, Cincinnati, O., seeds, bulbs and plants; Geo. Hancock & Son, Grand Haven, Mich., plants; H. Weber & Sons, Oakland, Md., plants; Vick & Hill Co., Rochester, N. Y., plants; Dan'l B, Long, Buffalo, N. Y., plants; Wm. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y., florists' supplies.

Princeton, Ind.—Chas. Shannon is home again after paying a visit to Chicago, where he has been for the purpose of getting new ideas relative to the florist business.

F. & F. NURSERIES

New Fruits and rare Ornamentals. Shade Trees. Shrubbery, Private, Specialities. 100,000 Peach at lowest prices. Catalogue free. Agents wanted.

(Heather.) & Save 25 per cent. Duty and Ocean Freight. 3 3

|       |                                    |                |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------|----------------|
|       |                                               | Per 100        |
| FRICA | persoluta alba for growing on                 | 9 15.00 |
|       |                                               |                |
|     | Wilmoreana, pink trumpet, Christmas variety   | 20,00          |
|       | Persoluta rosea                               | 15.00          |
|       | 2-Year Old Fine Bushes from 5 and 6-inch Pots |                |
|     | Persoluta alba                                |                |
| 6.6   | Persoluta albarosea                           | 40 00          |
| ERICA | WILMOREANA, FINEST FOR XMAS, 2-year-old       | 40,00          |

ANTON SCHULTHEIS,

Telephone Call 51 F. P. O. Box 78.

....Florist.

College Point, L. I.

SPECIALTY

IT'S ENGLISH, YOU KNOW!

Drop a postal and get a leaflet "How to Grow Begonia Semperflorens from Seed." Vernon is a shining example of this type. Sutton's, the celebrated English Seed House, offer improved selection of Semperflorens, of which the following are of great merit: Crimson Gem. Coral Gem and Duchess of Edinburgh; the colors are red, rose and blush. We offer liberal trade packets of American saved seed at $1.00 each; one-half packets at 50 cents.

CASH WIFH ORDER.

A. H. LONSDALE CO., STATION H. Phila., Pa.

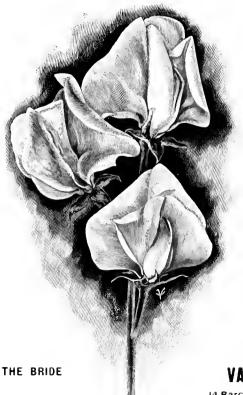

Put a dollar bill in an envelope and get u by trade packet of each of the above, or if you only want to experiment we will send you a mixed packet for a quarter, silver or one cent stamps. Our tests show the vitality much better than imported seed. These Begonias are great, either for bedding or pots—always in bloom—Semperflorens means everblooming. Seed sown now will make line plants for Spring sales.

Cash with the Order. Money Order P. O. Station H.

A. H. LONSDALE CO..

Specialists, Station H, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Originated by M. Eynch, Menlo Park, Calif.

M. Eynch, Menlo Park, Calif.

THE BRIDE This beautiful large, whateseeded variety is the best White Sweet Pea to date. It is a pure white selection from Mrs. Eckford and is the strongest germinator among all the whiteseeded varieties—so often poor growers.
Grown for the cut-flower market of San Francisco in competition with the other high class whites, it has brought the highest figtres over them all, taking first rank among all the whites. The flowers are pure white of line substance, large and of true grandiflora type. Beside this every seed will grow. Perfect flowers were cut as carly as April 16 last year. Price, per lb., $2.00; 1-4 lb., 60c; oz., 20c; 'pkt., 10c.

The Cornell Bulletin in naming the best Sweet Peas of each color, classes The Bride first as a white, with Emily Henderson second and Blanche Burpee tolid.

Frank Pelicano, a leading florist of San Fran-cisco, stated: "We can self more Bride Sweet Pea blooms than those of any other variety which we bave ever handled."

Prof. Tracy. In a recent review of some of the newer Sweet Peas says: "The especial merit of this variety (Tbe Bride) is in its length, strength and grace of flower stem, and the disposition of the blooms thereon, being one of our best sorts in these respects, and forming an exceedingly graceful banch."

Mr. Lynch has sent us his entire stock which we offer to the trade as above

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

14 Barclay St., NEW YORK. 84 & 86 Randolph St., CHICACO.

San Francisco.

TRADE DULL AND PRICES DOWN .- SUCCESS: FUL FLOWER SHOW .- PERSONAL MEN-TION .- BAD WEATHER FOR SEEDS.

Trade in this city has fallen off considerably during the past month, and as a consequence prices of nearly all classes of stuff have taken quite a drop. We have had an unusually cold, dry winter, which did much damage to all outside stuff, such as violets, etc. A little rain fell during the past week which helped the violets along considerably, but as yet the quality is not what it should be. Prices of Marie Louise and Californias are from 75 cents to 81 per dozen bunches; Princess of Wales brings a shade higher figure and is becoming very popular. The new Giant, or Golden Gate, as it is sometimes called, seems to have fallen from grace entirely, and the demand for it is dead. Swanley White is bringing about the same figure as Marie Louise. There is practically no demand whatever for the Czar. Some of the Chinese flower growers in San Matco county are bringing in large quantities of violets which they are willing to dispose of at any figure, and consequently the street fakirs are their largest customers.

Roses are hardly so good as they have been all winter but the prices on good stuff has held its own fairly well. Good Brides and Bridesmaid still bring $1 per dozen, while poor stock brings about 50 cents per dozen. Some extra fine Testouts can be had, also Perles. Beauties are not plentiful and are still holding up Carnations, like violets, have also taken quite a drop in price. The quality of blooms coming into this market is not so good as that of last month, on account of so many of the flowers bursting the calyx, probably caused by the cold, miserable weather. However, Scott is still the leader and holds its price accordingly. Portias are bringing 25 cents per dozen. Some nice Armazindy have brought 50 cents per dozen. In whites Uncle John is arriving in large quantities, and selling tairly well. Flora Hill, which is the best white ever put on this market is in good demand, but being a new thing the stock of it is naturally very small. Some extra fine Mayor Pingree have been brought into the market by Grallert & Lynch, Redondo, which was thoroughly tried for winter blooming under glass, has proved a failure.

Lilium Harrisii is of very poor quality; caused by diseased bulbs. Some growers will lose their entire crop of this flower this season. Laly of the valley is selling well. There is little if any demand for bulbous stock except for funeral work. similar and asparagus are scarce and bringing very good figures. The wedding of Murray Saunders and Miss Aluce Emberlin daughter of J. M. Emberlin the seed grower, took place ast week at the home of the bride's parents in Santa Clara

Mr. Ben Cothard, formerly with the storis & Harrison Co., of Pamesville, O., has a repted a position, with M. Lynch, at Men o Parl
— Mr. Chas C. Saveler was in the city during the past week
— Mr. M. Davidson, superintendent of a

Cypress Lawn Cemetery, was a welcome visitor last week.

Mr. Carroll Kruger, of John H. Sievers' spent several days this week visiting the different growers in this vicinity.

Mr. M. Lynch has just finished a new rose house to be devoted to American Beauties.

Mr. John Gilmonr is taking a vacation. The Flower Show which was given in Union Square during the Golden Jubilee was quite a successful affair and many creditable exhibits were made by the florists in and around this city. F. Pelicano & Co., of 343 Kearney street, were awarded first prize for the largest collection of cut flowers and decorative plants. McLellan Co., of Laurel Creek, received second prize and Chas. Abrahams third. The exhibits were all neatly and artistically arranged. Golden Gate Park had a very prettily arranged exhibit of palms and decorative plants for which they received special mention. Pelicano & Co. exhibited their two famous kentias, Bel-moreana, supposed to be the two finest specimen plants in the west, each having over thirty healthy leaves. These two Society assisted the Jubilee committee in making the show such a success.

This has been a very hard winter on the seed growers on account of the great searcity of rains. METEOR.

NEW & SECOND-HAND MATERIAL,

purchased from Sheriff, Receiver, and Assignee, sales at less than one-half prices. Pipe and Fittings Hose, Florists Wire, Hot Water fleaters, Greenhouse Bollers and Engines, Rope, Elcht Wrought Iron Pipe, Glass Sash, and thousands of other nrticles, for sale by CHICAGO HOUSE WRECKING CO. Largest Mail Order Depot for New and Second-Hand Material in the World.

W. 35TH & IRON STS., CHICACO.
Write for our free limitanted caulogues.

Boilers

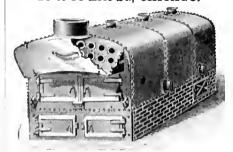

OF HIGH

For GREENHOUSES.

See our Catalogue.....

Steam and Giblin & Co., Utica. N. Y.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO. Greenhouse * Boiler,

Hollers made of the best of material, shell, firebox sheets and heads of steel, water space all around front, sides and backs. Write for letermation

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY HAVING ME

BUILD AND HEAT YOUR GREENHOUSES HENRY W. GIBBONS 134-136-138 LIBERTY STREET,

EXPERT ADVICE AND PLANS FURNISHED.

ESTIMATES FREE.

Established 1859....

THOS. W. WEATHERED'S SON

Horticultural Architect and Builder.

Greenhouse Wood-work. Greenhouse Iron-work.

Red Gulf Cypress free from Sap.

Get my prices on everything needful for the erection or repairing of Greenhouses.

O, I don't deal in masonry materials but in everything else entering into the heating, ventilating, building, or repairing of greenhouses.

RDERS are filled as promptly and with as much care in small lots as for large. No order is too small and none are too large.

URLINS of strong angle iron, of wrought iron pipe, or clear cypress, all styles, all kinds. Cast Iron Foundation Posts, made to last. Putty made especially tor greenhouse purposes. Pipe of our regular greenhouse kind, four inches outside diameter in nine feet lengths, or the smallest wrought iron for heating or ventilating purposes, ready to ship at a moments notice.

UESTION about everything regarding heating ventilating or building green-houses. Am always ready and willing to advise with you as to all the above.

AFTERS of wrought iron, welded at eave joint in one solid piece, or of wood strengthened at joints with a cast iron bracket or clear cypress and of any size or style desired.

TEAM PIPE, Fittings, etc., of all kinds as well as for Hot Water, cast or wrought iron "Standard Iron Construction" is the best, but if you will not have it let me figure on anything you may bll inc your wants relating to the heating, vent lating, building, or repairing of your greenhouses. I can help you.

THOS. W. WEATHERED'S SON

141 CENTER STREET,

NEW YORK.

Baltimore.

CLUB MEETING AND CARNATION EXHIBIT. EDWARD WOODFALL READS A PAPER.— THE QUESTION BOX; INTERESTING AN-SWERS.

As the club meeting was to be a little carnation exhibit, it seemed the proper thing to take a trip to one of the places prominent in the production of that flower first, and as much praise had been circulated of Messrs. Halliday Bros. houses, that was the place selected.

Surely no one ever saw a more pleasing sight than their carnation houses. The whole place is a model of neatness and systematic work, but in carnations it would be hard to equal it, and impossible to surpass it. Other varieties which the future has in store for us no doubt will be far superior to any grown now, but the varieties grown here are grown as well as one can imagine them.

A house 29x150 feet, divided across the middle by a glass partition, was planted in Scotts at one end and McGowans at the other, every plant a picture; and the appearance, when looking across the beds, was that of a mass of buds and half open flowers, very little of the grass or leaves showing at all.

The plants were receiving a top dressing, and it is to be hoped that the proprietors will at some future time give a few notes on their eminently successful methods, including the composition of this same top dressing. Plants are all grown in benches, and temperature is kept as near fifty as possible, a little ven-tilation being left on at night, except in very severe weather, to keep the air sweet. All plants are loosely tied up, either by means of two U shaped wires crossed at the top and forming four stakes around each plant, or sometimes by three stakes set in a triangle, a tie or two around the outsides of stakes or wires completing the support. The carnation meeting of the club was a marked success, whether we consider the number of members present or the spirit of good fellowship and interest that was such a feature of it.

Mr. Chas. M. Wagner had four new seedlings, two white from Silver Spray x Scott and two pink from Abundance x Scott. One of the whites a remarkably full, large, well built-up flower had the least touches of pink here and there in the petals, but was otherwise a very fine flower. The whole quartette were extra good and if vigorous and floriferous, will be hard to beat.

Messrs. Halliday Bros. showed a jar each of Lizzie McGowan, Tidal Wave, Victor, Scott, Daybreak and Albertini.

Mr. John Ridershowed Daybreak, Scott and Tidal Wave

Messrs. Cook Bros. showed Alaska, Scott, Daybreak and a pink seedling slightly paler than Tidal Wave, which is much more prolific than Tidal Wave with them.

Messrs, Woodfall Bros, showed Scott, Albertini and a massive seedling, deep pink, almost red, cross between Daybreak and Portia, also a seedling like a very pale Scott with petals almost plain in outline, only very slightly crenate.

Mr. I. H. Moss departed from the ranks in showing only roses and violets. The roses were huge buds of remarkable finish, of La France, Carnot and a dark sport from La France reminding one of Duchess of Albany. The violets were Farquhar and Marie Louise and in color.

stem and size were the finest possible.

Mr. Edward Woodfall read a paper on "Cross fertilization of carnations" in which after describing his own early experiments, and explaining in detail the "modus operandi" of fertilizing from "modus operandi" of fertilizing from clipping the petals and stamens, and applying the pollen to saving and sowing the seeds, he advised all who had patience and courage to keep at it, for the field of improvement is still great.

The committee on judging the exhibits, Messrs. Wm. McRoberts, Robt. Graham and Wm. Gray, reported awarding the certificate of merit to Messrs. Halliday Bros. for a jar of twenty-five Scotts.

The question box had a great lot of questions in it among which were:
"What is temperature for carnations?" Mr. Richmond answered 50° at night to 60° sometimes in daytime. "Best six Mr. Richmond answered 50° at night to 60° sometimes in daytime. "Best six azaleas for florist?" Mr. Seidewitz suggested Vervæneana, Van der Cruyzen, beutsche Perle, Empress of India, Apollo, Bernard Andrea alba. "Best white winter blooming carnation?" Flora Hill was named by Mr. Fischer. "Best ontside pink chrysanthemnm?" Glory of Pacific. "Does Spiræa Japonica require feeding?" President Pentland thought not. "What time should carnations be propagated to bloom by Christmas?" Mr. Fischer said as soon as strong enough wood could be as soon as strong enough wood could be "What time should violets be ed where they are to bloom?" Mr. planted where they are to bloom?" Mr. C. M. Wagner said May, Mr. F. Bauer said August, Mr. Ed. Kress said make your cuttings now, put in 2-inch pots in frames, removing sash except when freezing; in May shift into threes and plunge until August, when plant. Маск.

Mention American Florist.

(Copyrighted)

Kraft's Plant Tonic

For PLANTS, PALMS and FLOWERS

... A Wonderful Preparation for the Promotion of Plant Life, Destruction of Insects and Scale...

This is one of the greatest preparations for the use of Florists and Plant Growers ever compounded. It gives to the foliage of plants treated the bright, fresh color of healthy, growing vegetation. It destroys all insect life infecting the plant and eradicates scale.

Besides improving the color of the plant, it effects a general betterment of its condition, aiding nature in disseminating and retaining the sap and life of the plant. The Tonic makes the foliage of the plant soit and pliable, and a beautiful bright green.

Price per bottle, 25 cents.

84 & 86 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

14 BARCLAY STREET. NEW YORK.

Jadoo Fibre and Jadoo Liquid

are to-day being sold by the leading SEED HOUSES and are used by prominent GROWERS and FLORISTS.

You Cannot Afford to Grow

Plants Without Them

143333BBBBB

Send for particulars and be convinced

The ____ American Jadoo Co.

815 FAIRMOUNT AVE.

...PHILADELPHIA, PA.

DE BLANT SERIMALES

STEMS DUST

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE.

Chicago. New York.

NATIVE GUANO A COMPLETE AND NATURAL FETILIZER

FOR . . . . (Deslecated Night Soil)

Gardeners and Florists. SOLUBLE, OUICK TO ACT, PLEASANT TO HANDLE.

STANDARD FERTILIZER CO. Inc.

1822 Filbert Street, Philadelphia.

Scollay

Sprinkler....

INDISPENSABLE J. A. Scollav, Maker,

74 Myrtle Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Gen'l Western Agents. 84 Randolph St., CHICACO.

Helpful Reminders.

It is now time to move your amaryllis from where you set them last October, to keep them resting in a partially dry condition. They have lost most of their folloage, and the soil is "cracked" and in some eases hard and lumpy. Before touching the plants provide a place for them with bottom heat, a bench over heating pipes; have it quite close to the pipes, and it should be well lighted. Becautious about breaking roots; they will not endure much of it. If a pot contains one good bulb and a couple of off-shoots, say a 4 or 5-inch pot. shift it carefully into one a size larger; break off as much of the old ball as you can without breaking roots; pack firmly into the new pot; use fresh, sweet soil, well fertilized, a little decayed sod at bot-If the pot is 6 or 7-inch, bulb with number of off-shoots, moisten the ball carefully and separate. You will find the roots so interlaced that this is difficult to do properly; put each shoot in a separate pot, about half or two-thirds above ground; be careful not to have pot too large, as they easily sour before the roots penetrate the soil. Where the off-shoots do not number over eight, it is best to leave the number undisturbed; simply add a top dressing after removing as much of the old ball as contains no roots. From 55 to 60 is warm enough—heated from below; they will bloom during April, May and June.

I have found some growers who have failed with the Belladonna, while being fairly successful with other varieties, and have given it up in disgust. This is quite distinct in its character, blooming in fall, making its leaf growth in winter and spring. It is not a success generally as a pot plant, but if you can plant a few bulbs in the edge of a permanent bed where they will be well drained, warm and wet, constantly wet, they will do well. Plant eight inches deep. After the second year they will bloom and multiply, giving you profitable crops of the most delicate white and pink flowers, when choice flowers are searce in the fall; but you must not disturb them.

If you have a few feet of bench room to spare, strong bulbs of gladiolus can be started now. Unless you are an expert, with time and conveniences at hand, it hardly pays to force them in pots; but by 1st of March it is safe to start them on a bench-just a few for early bloom, and allow them to develop slowly.

You should now arrange your stock of dahlias, sort them over and see that your varieties are desirable. Start them all in flats. After the eyes show clearly, take a strong knife and divide them carefully, putting each eye into a pot and label so you can fill your spring orders properly. A new shoots that grow long at first may be made into cuttings for your own planting C. B. W.

(ake Your Own

Pots the Cox Manure Pot

The cow Manure Potes the best for vooing cuts for bedding on plant and ending of plant and ending occurrence. The pet the roots are discovered in the pet the roots are discovered for and of the pot the roots are discovered for the pet and so that is a discovered for per fally if you have to 1 perfectly was range of the pet and so the roots of the pet and the paint of the pet and mingle Machine CircleDits 81 41 femble 2 and Inchibits 5.00

GURNEY HEATER MFG. CO

163 FRANKLIN ST BOSTON. MASS. NEW YORK CITY BRANCH COR. CONGRESS, 48 CENTRE STREET.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO. Flower Pots,

Bulb Pans, Hanging Baskets and Saucers

OUR FLOWER POTS are standard measure and all first-class and we assure you they will give good satisfaction. We call your attention to our new pots, 6, 7, 8 and 9-inch, called the "Poro Pot." They are more Porous than any pots, smoother inside and outside, perfect drainage, and are easily washed and cleaned, Give them a trial and you will not want any other. Remember these Pots are as cheap as any other Pot on the market. Write for price list.

SYRACUSE POTTERY CO.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Send for our new price list, with extra discounts. All of our Pots from 7-inch and upwards have our Patent Excelsior Bottom, which is a great advantage as it insures perfect drainage. A FULL LINE OF BULB PANS.

THE WHILLDIN POTTERY COMPANY, 713 to 719 Wharton Street, Philadelphia, Pa. BRANCH WAREHOUSES: { Kearney and Westside Aves., Jersey City, N. J. Jackson Ave. and Peurson St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Pots... Standard Flower

OUR POTS ARE OF THE BEST QUALITY.

We ship all goods from Cincinnati, guaranteeing lowest freight rates and prompt delivery.

TWWrite us before plucing your orders elsewhere......

CAMBRIDGE TILE MFG. CO., Covington, Ky.

FLOWER.... STANDARD

We Manufacture a full line of Standard Flower Pols, Hanging Vases Lawn Vases, Seed Pans and Cylinders, glazed and with handles.

SEND for our price list before ordering else-where and save 25 per cent. ADDRESS

Hilfinger Bros. Pottery, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

FLOWER POTS

A SPECIALTY

List and SAMPLES FREE.

J. G. SWAHN'S SONS, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Jute Fibre Flower

Pots...

The Finest Thing on Earth for Shipping Plants. 4 4

Very Strong, Light, Neat and Attractive damps for samples and

Alire HARALO ELIZHOLIZ, Central Valley, N.Y. J. B. WOODIN, - OWOSSO, Mich.

Pots Made by

Good Railrond Facilities KELLER BROS. For shipping.
Special Attention Given to
Mail Orders, and Special
Sizes Made to Order.

NORRISTOWN, PA.

Price Lists Furnished on Application.

GEO. KELLER & SON. MANUFACTURERS OF

Flower Pots. Before buying write for prices.

361-363 Herndon Street, near Wrightwood Ave., CHICACO. ILL.

Mention American Floriat.

"STANDARDS"

FULL SIZE AND WIDE BOTTOMS. BULB PANS AND AZALEA POTS

DETROIT FLOWER POT M'F'Y, HARRY BALSLEY,

Rep.

DETROIT, MICH., 490 HOWARD ST.

Standard 🦗 🥓 FLOWER

If your greenbouses are within 500 miles of the Capitol, write us; we can save you money.

W. H. ERNEST

WASHINGTON, D. C

Omaha.

February's business was very satisfactory, much better than was expected. The demand for cut flowers on St. Valentine's Day was very heavy, everything going out clean. The quality of stock has been exceptionally good, and prices have been steady.

Since the organization of the florists' club a more neighborly feeling has sprung up, and very little cutting has been done. Arrangements for the next chrysanthemum show are about completed, also the premium list. A bowling and gun club is being talked of strongly among the members. Some of the old time bowlers, as well as the new ones, meet regularly Monday evenings and spend a couple of hours on the alley. Some promising records are made by the new men which we do not care to mention, as it might cause some of our eastern brothers and old time bowlers to be envious.

Geo. Swoboda spent a few days in Chicago last week. G. R. H.

San Jose, Cal.

This has been a very poor month among the florists in this place. There is practically nothing doing whatever. There is plenty of stock but prices are away down. Violets are to be had in large quantities, also carnations, but as stated above, the prices are very low. Roses are a little better in price, but the call is very limited. Potted plants are selling slowly.

Mr. E. II. Bourguignon has an immense crop of cucumbers all in fine shape in his new greenhouses.

Mr. Smike Parker was in town during the week.

Mr. Chas. Navlet has just returned from Sacramento and is about to move his store there, to the principal street in the city. Mr. Navlet says business in Sacramento is very excellent and gives promise of continuing so. Mr. Gus Navlet is in charge of the store in that city.

Mr. Emil Serveau, of San Francisco. was a visitor last week. METEOR.

"You can not get a GOOD THING for nothing. But the price of this apparatus is next to nothing. Send for price and description to

J. D. CARMODY, Evansville, Ind.

Write for Estimates.

Clear Cypress Greenhouse Material.

This with us means the best growth of Cypress Lumber and the best grade of that growth; and from this grade all the sap—bright sap, which only experts can detect—as well as stained sap, knots and other defects cut out. Others do not equal our quality if they do beat our prices. It is not hard to see the reason: You can not buy gold dollars at fifty cents each. Experienced growers know that the best is not too good and cheapest in the long run.

Write for Circulars or Estimates.

Lockland Lumber Co., LOCKLAND, O.

STANDARD

VENTILATING

MACHINE.

NONE

EQUAL IT

Strength Durability

Send for Catalogue.

NOTHING Flimsy Complicated about it.

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO,

NEVER DECAYS.

A. DIETSCH & CO., 619 Sheffield Ave.,

MFR'S OF RED CEDAR AND CYPRESS
GREENH JUSE MATERIAL.

Vheeler-Stenzel Co.

1499999999BBBBBBBB

Make your contracts for next season now. We can deliver to any part of the country and Save You Money .....

394·南南南南南南南南南南南南南66

Greenhouse G

72 Sudbury St., BOSTON, MASS.

FOR SALE CHEAP.
GLASS for Greenhouses, Conservatories, Hotbeds, etc. Also Hotbed Sashes and Mats. Paiuts, Oils, etc. THE REED GLASS &
PAINT CO., 456 W. Broadway, NEW YORK.

Everybody is more pleased if you say "saw your ad. in the American Florist" when writing

Advertising Rates | 32 | Lockland Lum Co. | 53 |
American Jados Co. | 53 |
American Rose Co. | 54 |
Amilian E C. | 54 |
Auli Bros Paper and Box Co. | 52 |
Baker C F. | 54 |
Barler F A. | 54 |
Barretti Gee S. | 54 |
Barretti Gee S. | 54 |
Barretti H & Co. | 55 |
Berson Martin | 56 |
Berekmans P J. | 56 |
Berekmans P J. | 56 |
Boerner Fred | 56 |
Bobbink L C. | 56 |
Borner Fred | 56 |
Bobbink L C. | 56 | Index to Advertisers. N Y Cut Flower Ex. Sid N Y Cut Flower Co. Sid N Y Cut Flower Flow ariton H R So hadwick Chas Micago House Wreck Ing Co Cleveland Seed Co. 50
Clucas & Boddington
Co. 80
Cole Geo E & Co. 80
Conard & Jones Co. 80
Conard & Jones Co. 80
Conard & Jones Co. 80
Conley John & Son. 82
Cottage Gardens 87
Canningham J H. 86
Canningham Gladiolus Cosp.
Usanies T W Pot Mis St
Dictrib Flow Pot Mis St
Dictrib Flow Pot Mis St
Dictrib Flow Pot Mis St
Canningham Abert Co. 86
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Clinto L. 87
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Clinto L. 87
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Clinto L. 87
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Clinto L. 87
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Corner Fred & Sons Co. 86
Corner Fred C lail Assn. lancock & Sons lart M.A. leacock Jos letkes W.F. Blkes W.F. orr Albert M.: ltinger Bros. lt.D.: lt.E.G.&.Co.: ppard E... ippard E | $70 itchings & Co dton & Hunkel Co order H M Co opp & Lensku oran Edw ( imfeld ( eller Geo A Nona annicott Broa Co, ing J M A Co, rater W G rafta Plant Tonic reschell Broa Co, uehn C A a J.B. wom 980 A Lager & Hurrell Lake Geneva Fi-Lary Julian Lary Julian Young Jno ....... Voung Thon Jr Young John Welsh

OT BED SASH

of Red Cedar, Cypress and Pine. A. DIETSCH & CO.

Manufacturers of Greenhouse Material,

615-621 SHEFFIELD AVE, CHICAGO, ILL.

When writing mention American Florist

Las John H Littleffeld H. F

GOOD PRESERVES IT BEAUTIFIES WILL CATCH THE

Hitchings & Co.

ESTABLISHED 50 YEARS.

HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS

GREENHOUSE HEATING AND VENTILATING APPARATUS.

THE HIGHEST AWARDS RECEIVED AT THE WORLD'S FAIR FOR HORTICULTURAL ARCHITECTURE GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION AND HEATING APPARATUS.

Conservatories, Greenhouses, Palm Houses, etc., erected complete, with our patent Iron Frame Construction. Send four cents postage for illustrated catalogue.

233 Mercer Street. NEW YORK.

LORD & BURNHAM CO. Horticultural Architects and Builders

STEAM AND HOT WATER HEATING ENGINEERS.

Plans and estimates furnished on application for Greenhouses, Conservatories, etc., erected complete with our patent iron construction; or for materini only ready for erection. Estimates furnished also for Cypress Greenhouse Material.

LARGEST BUILDERS OF GREENHOUSE STRUCTURES. PLANS AND CONSTRUCTION EMBRACE LATEST IMPROVEMENTS. SIX HIGHEST AWARDS AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

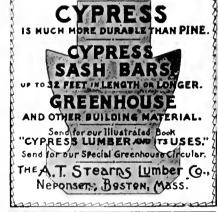

Send 4 cents postage to New York office for latest catalogue.

Send 5 cents postage for Creenhouse Heating and Ventilating Catalogue.

NEW YORK OFFICE. 160 FIFTH AVE , cor. 21st St. GENERAL OFFICE AND WORKS, IRVINGTON-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.

When writing me ition American Florist

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

America is "the Prow of the Vessel; there may be more comfort Amidships, but we are the first to touch Unknown Seas."

Vol. XIII.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK, MARCH 12, 1808.

No. 510.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Copyright 1898, by American Florist Company. Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, 324 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Eastern Office: 67 Bromfield St., Boston.

Subscription, $1.00 a year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from the trade.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURISTS.

OFFICERS-WM. F. GUDE, Washington, D. C., preddent; A. DONAGHUE, Omaha, Neb., vice-predicit; W. J. STEWART, G. Bromield St., Boston, Mass., secretary: H. B. BEATTY, Oll City, Pa., treasurer, The fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Omaha, Neb., August, 1888.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Annual Convention at Philadelphia, February, 1899. ALBERT M. HERR, Lancaster Pa., Secretary.

CONTENTS.

| Cyclamens (2 illus.)                                                                                                                   |      |   |   |   |   |   | 877   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|---|---|---|---|---|-------|
| Violet culture                                                                                                                         |      |   |   |   |   |   | 575   |
| Violet culture                                                                                                                         |      |   |   |   |   |   | 878   |
| Paris (2 illus.)                                                                                                                       |      |   |   |   |   |   | 579   |
| Paris (2 illus.)                                                                                                                       | us.  | ) |   |   |   |   | 880   |
| Sub-irregation for chrysanthemi                                                                                                        | 1111 | ` |   |   |   |   | 881   |
| The fily disease (filus.) Carnations in Chicago Up-to-date wholesaling (filus.)                                                        |      |   |   |   |   |   | 882   |
| Carnations in Chicago                                                                                                                  |      |   |   |   |   |   | 882   |
| Up-to-date wholesaling (illus.) .                                                                                                      |      |   |   |   |   |   | 554   |
| Hoston,                                                                                                                                |      |   |   | Ċ |   | Ċ | 884   |
| Boston,Birthday of W. K. Harris                                                                                                    |      |   |   |   |   |   | 884   |
| A great Enropeun rose show                                                                                                             |      |   |   |   |   |   | 884   |
| Special Easter number New York Philadelphia                                                                                            | •    |   |   | Ċ |   |   | 885   |
| New York                                                                                                                               |      |   |   | Ċ | Ĺ | • | 885   |
| Philadelphia                                                                                                                           |      |   | • | • | • | : | -     |
| Chicago                                                                                                                                | •    | • | • | ٠ | • | : | 556   |
| Chiengo                                                                                                                                |      |   | • | • | • | • |       |
| Buffulo                                                                                                                                |      |   | ٠ | • | • | • | 890   |
| New Orleans                                                                                                                            |      |   | • | • | • | • | 590   |
| Worcester Mass                                                                                                                         | •    |   | • | ٠ | • | • | 890   |
| Helpful samindage                                                                                                                      |      |   | • | • | • | • | 891   |
| Crafted versus own root room                                                                                                           |      |   | • | • |   | * | 892   |
| Buffalo. New Orleans Worcester, Mass Helpful reminders. Grafted versus own root roses beath of Charles Hamilton The seed trade.        | •    |   |   |   | • | • | 893   |
| The ened trade                                                                                                                         |      |   | • | • | • | • | 894   |
| Cutabornes rominal                                                                                                                     |      |   | • | • | ٠ | • | 201   |
| Catalogues received                                                                                                                    |      |   | • | • | • | • | 2014  |
| Monthonal Con-                                                                                                                         | • •  | * | • |   | ٠ | , | 591   |
| Portland, Ore Chicago horticultural society                                                                                            |      |   | • | ٠ |   |   | -311  |
| Chicago normeniumi society                                                                                                             |      |   | • | ٠ | ٠ |   | 2011  |
| Carnations A visit to Rogers Park Tree cutting in Boston parks                                                                         | • •  |   | ٠ | ٠ | * |   | 7517  |
| A VISIT to Rogers Park                                                                                                                 |      |   |   | ٠ |   |   | -919  |
| Tree cutting in Boston parks                                                                                                           |      |   | - | • |   | , | 900   |
| Crevening                                                                                                                              |      |   |   |   |   |   | 2011  |
| St. 1500                                                                                                                               |      |   |   |   |   |   | 2002  |
| Cincinnati.                                                                                                                            |      |   |   |   |   | , | (4)-1 |
| St. FaulCincinnati.Plant shipments to MichiganLos AugelesPalm notesRochester, N. Y.The nurserymen's convention |      |   |   |   |   |   | 241:1 |
| Los Augeles                                                                                                                            |      |   |   |   |   |   | 305   |
| Palm notes                                                                                                                             |      |   |   |   |   |   | 5006  |
| Rochester, N. Y.                                                                                                                       |      |   |   |   |   |   | 502   |
| The nurserymen's convention                                                                                                            |      |   |   |   |   |   | 907   |
| SyracuseCredit conditionsSportsButted glass versus lapped glass.                                                           |      |   |   |   |   |   | 1412  |
| Credit conditions                                                                                                                      |      |   |   |   |   |   | 000   |
| Sports                                                                                                                                 |      |   |   |   |   |   | 9]0   |
| Butted glass versus lapped glass.                                                                                                      |      |   |   |   |   |   | 911   |

Denver, Colo.—The Colorado Florists' Exchange Company, which has been in existence for two years, suspended at noon March 2. Mr. Lewis who has had it in charge takes a position in a large department store.

Cyclamens.

The authorities tell us that all the varieties of cyclamen now incommon cultivation have come from one species, C. Persicum. Considering the number of recognized species and the similarity that exists in them, this statement seems strange, especially when we examine the great range in form and color to be seen in any good collection. Be that as it may, it is certain that we now have several distinct strains in cultivation, and very few growers would now be satisfied with the type of C. Persicum common in our greenhouses twenty years ago.

twenty years ago.

Taking foliage and flower, form and habit into consideration, probably some of the white varieties, Mont Blanc, for instance, are the most perfect evelamens grown at the present day. Following the white very closely come the white with crimson eye—always a good seller—the new rose colors, and the purple and magenta tints. For freedom of bloom none surpass the dark red varieties of which Blood Red and Brilliant may be taken as types. But these varieties are not up to the standard in size of flower, nor is the foliage as good as in the lighter colored forms. The color, however, is like charity, and the plants always sell well here.

Cyclamen seed can now be bought in at least fifteen distinct varieties, not including the double, fringed and crested sorts,

To grow good eyelamens is not a difficult matter. There is no secret about it. One must simply do the proper thing at the proper time. Cyclamens will not stand checks very well at any stage of their existence, and must be kept growing from start to finish—a plant once stunted might as well be dumped.

It is a mistake to start with anything but fresh plump seed—the larger the bettler for the larger the seed the more food there is, and the more rapid is its germination and subsequent development. The plant from the largest seed will maintain its superiority throughout the season. All varieties do not produce seeds of the same size, there being a marked difference in this respect between different colors and strains. Get the heaviest seed possible and sow it in flats of carefully prepared soil, placing the seeds an inch apart, and covering a quarter of an inch deep. The best soil for them to germinate in is one composed of at least one half leaf mould, and when I say leaf mould I do not mean swamp mud or lrish peat, but partly rotted leaves rubbed through a sieve with a quarter-inch mesh. Such a soil will retain moisture without becoming too wet, is not liable to get covered with fungi, and will furnish excellent conditions for the young roots. Remember that it may be three months before your seedlings will be potted off. Water carefully and do not let the seeds get dry at any time. As soon as the seeds begin to germinate place your seed pans near the glass and in an even temperature. About 65 is the proper figure, but 70 will not hurt them if they have all the light there is.

If wanted in flower for the holidays, the seed should be sown about October 1. If sown at that time they will be fit to pot off early in January; or if desired they may be pricked off into flats. I prefer the former method, however, using 1½ or 2-inch pots. Even in these small pots we find it advantageous to use finely broken crocks for drainage. Use about the same soil as in the seed paus, except that a little bone meal may be added. Place near the glass again and maintain a temperature of from 65 to 70°. If they have been properly handled they will need no shade, in this latitude, and should be syringed several times a day on bright days.

From this time on they will need a shift about every two months, increasing the strength of the compost every time. A bottom heat after every shift is advantageous to stimulate root action. Expose to full sun and keep the foliage cool by frequent syringings.

About the middle of May, when they should be in 3 or 31-inch pots, place them outside on a very mild hot-bed. These frames will need no sides, but some arrangement should be made to carry shades of plant bed cloth, which will be needed at night during May, and for a tew hours during the hottest summer days, and in case of heavy rain.

By August you can begin shifting into 5-inch pots and by September buds will begin to show. When the dewy nights come on the plants will grow very rapidly, and will need no cover either night or day until there is danger of frost.

Expose to the full sun as much as possible—if the foliage begins to feel hot, syringe. The sun will do them good; it will ripen up the corms, encourage the formation of flower buds and keep the plants short and sturdy. As soon as the 5-inch pots fill with roots, shift into flowering nots and remove to a light airy house. Be very careful now that water does not accumulate on the crowns or the flower buds will "damp off." If wanted for the November shows, give them plenty of room and a temperature of 70. Before placing on the bench the plants may be dipped in a good strong solution of tobacco, one part of tobacco extract to tifty of water. By Christmas plants treated as above should be in prime condition for selling, though of course they will not show as many open flowers as they will a few weeks later, but they will he more satisfactory to the buyer if he sees that there are a plenty of buds to conne.

For Easter sales the seed may be sown in February or March, as the spring sun brings the young seedlings on much faster than in the late fall.

There are other ways of growing eyelamens, ways followed by very successful growers, but we grow ours as above, and so of course think it the best.

some growers use a great deal more shade than we do, and probably give a much higher night temperature in early fall. They get immense foliage, but, think sacrifice flower. Neither do I think leaves five or more inches across desirable especially as these gigantic leaves are usually followed by a crop of much smaller ones, which come with the flowers and destroy the symmetry essential to a well grown specimen.

The Hustrations which appear herewith will show plants which have had from 75. 15.450 open blooms at one time.

T. F. COWELL

Partie / Botanic Garder

Violet Culture.

ment soms to be arousing so of go once interest among the craft

 a 1 i = 3 at yearth while to give a few i = 5 type certaing it the true of the violet naturally II de redriger two parts, the system arched come and tran turing the plants to a right of the benches, and that of the right size process where they are to

The second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of th on the control to doing so we never run will sometimes happen when the cuttings are placed in sand, for under such circumstances they will have to be handled at once, when they are rooted, otherwise the new growth will be made at the expense of the vascular structure of the plants, the leaves assume a transparent vellowish color, and all after care will never remedy the harm done.

As soon in April as the ground is in proper condition for the plow, have it plowed, if it has not been done in the fall or open winter weather. Then cover it evenly with a coat of rotted manure and let it lay for a week or ten days, and the warm spring weather will soon germinate millions of seeds of troublesome weeds which are easily destroyed by a good working with a spring-tooth cultivator or harrow; at the same time mix and incorporate the manure with the soil, and the feet of the horses will firm it.

The first week in May our plants are just in the right shape and condition to be planted in the field, and we aim to do it at that time, if the weather is at all suitable. Before we go to planting we give the plot another good harrowing. This will not only put the land in a good mechanical condition, but will at the same time kill some more weeds just germinating, and form an earth mulch of two or three inches that will preserve the moisture by stopping evaporation.

We set our plants fourteen inches apart each way by marks made with a marker. This gives the plants plenty of room, and is the most convenient distance for working the plot with a wheelhoe.

As the surface of the ground will have become packed and crusted during the planting operation, thus establishing capillary motion to the air again, it is absolutely necessary, in order to preserve the moisture in the ground, that this crusted and packed surface should be broken.

To have good violets of a paying number for sale next winter requires good plants, and to raise good plants requires good culture, and the soil to be in a high state of cultivation, mechanical and in plant food. The violet plant throughout its season of growth is a gross feeder. During the summer months is the time when the foundations for its blooming capabilities are laid, and if neglected at that time no amount of care and attention during the blooming months can make up for it. The fundamental princi-ples of culture are light, heat, air and moisture, but in my thirty-seven years of practical experience I have found out that it takes eternal vigilance in applying the same, and especially in the culture of violets, the most fastidious of all flowers. To lay down a thumb-rule for the modus operandi and expect that like results will follow in every instance, will surely lead to disappointment. I have learned that it is better to "know" a lot of things that are not so, than to think I know it all. The violets keep me guessing all the time and wondering what they are going to do next, and at their best they are a fickle

But I am transgressing, I did not start out to write a romance, I intend to state tacts, plain facts, as I have learned them by hard knocks, and as they appeared to my understanding.

If it is intended to make a record next winter for the largest number of flowers to the plant, keep all the runners from the plants as soon as they appear, and do not allow any summer flowers to go to seed, thereby retaining all the energy to the plants, and encourage the stooling has at, for upon the number of crowns to the plant depends the number of flowers per plant next winter. Afterreading this, go into the violet house, cut a crown from the plants and count the flowers picked therefrom; it will be found that the plant has kept a record thereof that is just as reliable as the stubs in a check-book, which will tell the number of checks that have been made out. If the crown has been a good one, and is through blooming, it will be found that fifteen flowers have been picked therefrom, consequently a plant with five crowns is capable of producing seventy-five flowers, but it takes the best of culture and the best of land to grow plants with five erowns that will produce fifteen flowers each; three is the average.

As the season advances keep close watch on the plants, and do not miss the time when they should be benched, for in my experience there is only one week when it is the right time to do this work, that is sometimes as early as the middle of August, and sometimes not before the middle of September; it depends upon the season, the location and the texture of the soil.

The right time to bench violets is when the crowns are ripe and every leaf is matured, that is, when the plants seem to have stopped growing. Neglect this time to do the work and the plants will throw out a new set of runners, and the crowns will commence producing flowers in the field, all of which will be lost by having failed to do the right thing at the right We bench our plants in five inches of clay loam, at a distance of 8x9 inches, and we find that by this mode of culture we can grow with less work fully as many and in every way as good flowers as by growing the plants where they are to bloom. CHAUTAUQUA.

Clematis Indivisa.

Although introduced into Europe from New Zealand fifty years ago, yet this beautiful climber is comparatively little known here, and notwithstanding it has been grown at Wellesley for over thirty years, it is only within the past few years that it has been appreciated as a decorative plant, blooming profusely at a season when flowers are scarce. Some years ago I called the attention of one of my neighbors (a florist) to it, and advised him to devote a house to it. He could not see at that time that there was any money in it; to-day, however, he thinks differently,

A northwestern aspect, 1 find, answers it admirably, for it thrives best in a cool house, and where the smi's rays strike it obliquely. Having purchased a strong plant grow it in a 12-inch pot, giving plenty of water during the growing sea son, and when autumn arrives you will find the pot well filled with roots, or the plant pot bound, so called. Having prepared your border as you would do for grape vines four feet in length, two and one-half fect in width and two feet deep, plant your clematis without disturbing the roots; give a good soaking of water and let it remain until it begins to show signs of growth, which will be early in lanuary. Train on wire suspended eighteen inches from the glass and lay in every shoot; this is done the first year so you can have a chance to prune as you would a grape vine on the spur system in September of the succeeding year.

It is necessary to syringe thoroughly for it is rather subject to scale and mealy bug. A temperature of 10 hat hight is ample. T. L. HARRIS, Wellesley, Mass.

CLEMATIS INDIVISA.

Paris.

Foreigners who during the last few weeks have walked along our leading thoroughfares and noticed the abundance of flowers can searcely have believed that we were in the height of the winter, or at about the coldest time of the year. Flowers were present everywhere. Anemones and other flowering bulbs, violets, mignonette, pinks, yellow and white marguerites, open air roses, etc., were to be had in quantity.

Our florists'shops, always dressed with the most refined taste, were more than everablaze with the most brilliant flowers, as abundant as in spring. It can not be denied that our florists are real artists in the disposition of the flowers, in the combination and contrasting of the colors. Their floral arrangements are always very light and neat. The floral receptacles are selected with the utmost care to agree with the colors of the flowers, and this is to a large extent what makes their shops so attractive. Peeping through the windows of some of the swell florists of our boulevards we may just now see some very fine and tasteful floral decorations. The beautiful and fautastic orchids are loosely and charmingly mounted on easels, in slender baskets, or in pieces of hollowed bamboo provided with immense handles to which the flowers, intermixed with asparagus leaves, are attached so as to leave the fastenings invisible.

Small baskets with very large tall handles adorned with ribbons matching the flowers seem to be in fashion. In some of the baskets a small Cocos Weddeliana surrounded by lilies of the valley, or a fine Amaryllis vittata (searlet-red) with adiantums, are very effective. In others the adiantums keep company with the lily of the valley.

Azaleas are very showy by themselves and need no companion except sometimes a few ferns or some lilies of the valley finished off with the ever present big ribbon, which is usually of the same color as the flowers. Lilies are great favorites and the proceeds of their sale in Paris is said to amount to $160,000 a year.

But our big florists can not alone boast of taste and talent. Even our street vendors know how to give a pleasant aspect to their hand-earts in combining the vivid hues and in disposing the flowers to the best advantage in order to attract the passers by.

Those persons who are not well posted on floriculture wonder where these flowers can come from; they seem to be too cheap to have been forced or grown under glass, and look too neat and fresh to have come from warm southern countries. And yet the latter guess is the right one. Most of the flowers sold from December to March are grown in that delightful region called the Riviera, where the sky is always bright and the warm sun never missing.

The floral gardens of Grasse and Cannes have an area of about 60,000 acres, producing 83,000,000 worth of flowers every year. This region, supplying during winter the leading flower markets of Europe, is by fast train only twenty hours distant from Paris. Flowers gathered in the morning and shipped before 11 a, m. reach Paris the next day at noon as fresh as if they had just been picked, though only wrapped in paper and packed in light reedbaskets. The freight is 17 cents per basket of ten pounds. For a longer journey, as for instance that to St. Petersburgh. Russia, taking three days from Paris, or four days from Nizza, the flowers (with long stems) are tightly packed in boxes on a layer of cotton and the whole box covered with a thick felt canvas, made of coarse hemp cloth and old rags, to keep off the icy air. This cover alone costs 20 cents for a box weighing eleven pounds. The city of St. Petersbugh receives about four tons of flowers a year, valued at $600,000. The price of a ten-pound box of roses and lilaes was $14 in the Russian city in the beginning of December last.

Among the most popular floral products coming from Southern France in January and February is the Acacia dealbata, which, as Mr. Henry de Vilmorin said before the Royal Horticultural Society in London, is the sweetest and most graceful, the most feathery and the linest foliaged of all the winter acaciast grows to be a large tree and develops its yellow flowers, which look like stringed beads of the finest silk, as soon as it is three or four years old. A large tree of this species all ablaze with the sunshine on its golden fleece is indeed a beautiful sight. The blooming season of Acacia dealbata lasts from the middle of January to the cudot I obruary. Immense quantities of it are then distributed all over Lurope, and the price is a amtained at a pretty high figure (about $10 per hundred weight on the spot) owing to the limited area over which the tree will thrive very well.

Only in the listerels and on the Guers hills around Cannes is the proper soil for Acacia dealbata to be found in combination with a suitable climate. On all them with a suitable climate. On all the sickens, turns yellow and dies off rapidly. An artificial process has been in the for a few years in order to anticipate the blooming season of minos), as this acacia is connounly called. The wring branches are cut a vice or so before they would bloom in the open air and are submitted, with their butt ends steeped in water, to the action of moderately heated steam. The flowers expand in ten to twenty hours and last as long afterwards as if cut direct from the tree. Large tin vats are prepared for the purpose and the process is a very profitable one, as the first consignments of mimosa fetch a high price at the opening of the season.

But according to Mr. G. Vrav all the flowering branches of a tree should not be treated in the above way on the same day; their selection constitutes the most important feature of the operation. When the branches are cut too soon the buds blacken and do not expand. The branches which have not been exposed to the direct influence of the sun and those growing in the center of the tree, which are somewhat weaker through lack of light, should be forced first. The branches are in suitable condition to undergo the process of forcing when, on rolling a few buds in the palm of the hand, they are easily turned to a kind of flour. Failing this, or should they resist the pressure, the forcing must be postponed to a later date.

The foreing takes place, as already intimated, either in tin vats made for the purpose, in old wine butts or in low greenhouses. In the first case the branches, set up in bunches, are placed in the vats containing four inches of water. The aperture is closed with several old blankets and a small stove put under the vat maintains the heat of the water at a temperature of 86° Fahr. This process, athough very old fashioned, succeeds perfectly when the branches have been selected with care.

When old wine butts are used the budded branches, equalized at the base, are placed in them on floors having many holes, the stories being distant enough to prevent a sharp bending of the branches. The base of the wine butt is provided with an aperture which admits the heating pipe conveying the necessary steam, and the latter, passing through the holes in the floors, keeps up a temperature of 86°. Fahr. The butt is covered with blankets maintained by hoards, as in the above case.

When forced in low greenhouses the flowering branches are placed in flower vases, four to eight inches in diameter, filled with water, which are buried close together in the benches. The greenhouses remaining always covered, and the sun heat helping, it is very easy with a small heating apparatus to provide the required temperature. The last method is the most rational, as the work is easily done and does not require much experience. Unless in very mild, favored spots the forcing is seldom practiced before the first part of January. The flowers sold before that date are those of A. longitolia, which is far from being as popular as A. dealbata.

However, a fourth method brings the latter species in bloom in the beginning of December. This method consists in growing A, deadbata in tubs. Let the plants suffer moderately for lack of water from the moment the buds are well set until August, and then place them in a shady situation, supplying water freely and syringing morning and evening. Towards the end of November the plants are placed in low greenhouses heated to so. I ahr, syringed frequently and kept well supplied with water. Eight days of this treatment alfords a magnificent blossoming which lasts two or three days and pernats of a close succession by replacing the worm out plants. This latter process the most onerons of all, can only be employed for the first crop, which pays the best. As already stated the A. dealbata does not thrive on calcareous soils, but a few years ago a nurseryman succeeded in grafting it on A. floribunda, which is a hardier kind, growing in almost any kind of soil. A. dealbata is easily propagated by seeds

At the last meeting of the National

At the last meeting of the National Horticultural Society Mr. Baltet, Troyes, showed a twig of a very interesting horse chestnut tree, which always unfolds its leaves several weeks before any other such tree. The young trees grown from cuttings taken from the old, show the same earliness

In the last number of the Revue Horticole mention is made of a pale mauve blue Roman hyacinth which is said to bloom in the open ground forty-five days before the old white variety is much hardier, more vigorous, giving as many as twelve spikes to each bulb, and requires less heat to be forced. If only one-half of what is claimed for it is true, it will be a valuable acquisition.

The weather continues abnormally mild. At the beginning of the present month wheat in the center of France was fifteen inches high. Our farmers would greet with pleasure a good frost keeping in cheek the weeds and insect pests, which begin to get troublesome. A hard frost, on the other hand, with the advanced state of a good many plants, would prove nothing short of a great calamity.

ACACIA RETINOIDES FLORIBUNDA

Parisian.

The Use of Orchids in France.

The accompanying illustration, reproduced from a photo received from our Paris correspondent, shows to what good purpose orchids may be employed in floral decorations when arranged with taste and skill. This bronze vase was one among many prepared for the eclebration of the seventy-first anniversary of the birth of Baron Alphonse de Rothehild, February 1, and contained flowers of Oriedum splendidum, Phalamopsis annabilis, P. Schilleriana, Laha anceps alba and Cattleya Trianae, with leaves of Coros Weddeliana.

Sub-Irrigation for Chrysanthemums.

At the recent meeting of the American Carnation Society, at Chicago, the paper of Prof. Arthur treated of sub-irrigation, or sub-watering as he called it, for carnations. We have used this method of watering various greenhouse crops for several years, and throughout the season our results agree with the claims he made for the method of applying water. Pleased as we were with the results dur-ing the winter, it was in March and April that the most marked results were obtained with the carnation. At that time a much larger amount of water was required than during the winter, and we not only found sub-irrigating the beds a great saving of labor, as compared with surface watering, but the cut of flowers, of which a careful record was kept, was twice as great from the sub-irrigated as from the surface watered plants. two beds used for the test were thirty feet long and three and one-half feet wide.

With such a marked benefit during the early spring months, it can readily be seen that with a crop like chrysanthemums, which are grown upon greenhouse benches for four or five summer months, even greater results can be looked for. regret that I have no comparative data to give, but for two years I have used sub-irrigation for chrysanthemums upon a bed thirty-five feet long and six feet wide with the best results, and a description of the methods employed may interest your readers. One of the objections to the general use of this method of watering, as mentioned in the paper of Prof. Arthur, was the cost of preparing the beds, but this does not hold with our construction, as we use ordinary bench lumber, and would only insist that the supports be sufficiently close to prevent the sagging of the bottom boards. We have best results by using legs and cross-bearers every six feet, upon which 2x4 stringers running lengthwise of the beds are placed. The bottom boards, which are twelve inches wide, and of a fair grade of hemlock lumber, rest upon the stringers. They are placed closely together and nailed to the stringers to prevent warping. The front and back boards are eight inches wide and are nailed to the stringers so as to form a bed five inches deep. If there are loose knots in the boards, shingles or or bits of thin boards are nailed over them and laths are nailed over any large cracks, and over the ends of the boards, the boards are then wet down and given a wash of cement, prepared by mixing Louisville cement with water enough to make a paste as thick as can be applied with a broom, and scrubbing it over the bottom and sides, thus filling any small cracks and helping to preserve the boards. After a few hours the beds should be filled with soil. We generally place an inch or so of a mixture of partially decomposed cow and horse manure in the bottom and over this a compost of sods and manure. To distribute the water we use two and one-half inch drain tile, placed lengthwise the beds, one row being suffieient for four foot beds and two for those seven or eight feet wide. For houses up to fifty feet in length they can be placed level, with a slight fall in longer houses. Care should be taken to have the openings between the tiles as nearly even in size as possible. As the tiles are more or less curved, if they are arranged with the convex side up, the openings will be at the bottom, and by turning the tile slightly the size of the cracks can be adjusted. Once in twenty or thirty feet it is desirable to have openings into the tile, in order that the distribution of the water can be observed. In case it should be found that water was required by one part of the bed, while the remainder did not need watering, water can be turned in through these openings and confined to the dry portion by inserting bits of tin between the joints of the tile on either side.

A PARISIAN VASE OF ORCHIDS.

After planting the beds we wet the soil to compact it about the plants, but after that rely upon sub-irrigation for the water supply, although we use water freely in syringing the plants on bright mornings. The amount that must be through the tile will soon be learned by experience, but, as a rule, we find it well to apply enough to cover the bed one-half inch deep at each watering while the plants are small, and may increase this to one inch when they are nearly grown. This is better than to apply a smaller amount at more frequent intervals. The necessity for watering can be determined by examining the condition of the soil at the bottom of the bed. Instead of using the hands as suggested by Prof. Arthur, a small tin cylinder can be used for sampling it, without disturbing the plants. While the tiles are distributing the water, the time can be occupied in stirring the soil, staking, tying or disbudding the plants, and thus the actual labor of watering is greatly reduced. Unless the beds are very carefully built it may be stated that they will not be actually water-tight, as there will probably be a few small leaks along the sides. We find this desirable, as if a surplus of water should be given, it would escape through these openings. We use these leaks also to indicate when the water should be shut off, as when the water drips from the openings along the sides of the beds, it indicates that the soil has been fairly well moistened.

After the plants have become established, the application of liquid manure every four or five days is necessary. Whether this is a solution of chemicals in water, or is made from animal manures, it can be readily applied through the tiles and with no extra labor. Nearly every one has seen or heard of the Kinney pump, and with one of them attached to the hydrant, and with the liquid manure ready prepared in a barrel, it will take up any desired amount, mingle it with the water and distribute it through the tiles to all parts of the beds, where it can be taken up by the plants. By applying the liquid manure in this way, we do away with one of the most laborious and disagreeable features of chrysanthemuni growing.

Although we have used sub-irrigation for all kinds of greenhouse crops, both flowers and vegetables, in none of them have we been better satisfied with the results than with the chrysanthemum.

L. R. Taft.

A DISEASED LILY Indicating small size at date given

The Lilv Disease.

In response to the request of the editor AMERICAN FLORIST for an article upon the lily disease, it may be said at the outset that there are many diseases of the lilies. There is, however, a certain sense in which one may speak of the lily disease, and by it is meant the trouble that has affected the lilies, chiefly those known as Easter lilies, and that come to our markets as bulbs from the Bermudas.

While the writer has had some acquaintance with this disease for some years past, he has not made an exhaustive study of the trouble, and in this article will draw largely upon the information set forth by Mr. A. F. Woods in his recent pamphlet (The Bermuda Lily Disease, Bulletin 14, Division of Vegetable Physiology and Pathology, U. S. Department of Agriculture) upon this subject published about six months ago.

First as to the general appearance of the prevalent trouble Mr. Woods states that it is characterized by spotting of the leaves and flowers, and of the scales of the bulbs accompanied by a failure of the plant to thrive and to produce a full num her or blooms. In short, the flowers are few, small and spotted, if the plant blooms at all, and the leaves upon the short stem are streaked with brown, remain small, become twisted and turn brown.

The disease affects several species of the genus lilium, but most frequently and destructively the L. longiflorum and L. Harrish It is met with in Lurope, and Japan lilies are likewise susceptible. writer has seen whole houses when the bulbs were forced for Easter decorations where not a single plant among thousands was in a healthy condition, and when examined with a good magin her a small nate could be found associated with the brown streaks upon the dwarf leaves and stems. Such worthless plants when p moved from the earth, and the scales of the bulb examined showed the same mite in great numbers between the decaying scales.

Mr. Woods has found this bulb mite to be Rhizoglyphus echinops, and figures it in his bulletin and states its size to be that of a mustard seed, and that it bores into the healthy tissue at the base of the bulb and almost completely destroys it.

As these depredations are below ground, and at the point of union of roots with stem, they are doubly serious; first, because of the great importance of keeping this portion of a lily plant in health; and secondly, because of the opportunity the burrows offer of fungi of various kinds effecting an entrance. Anything that opens up the interior tissue of the bulb will provide the way for decay, and the work of the mites will be followed up by bacteria and the various molds that finally end the life of the plant and bring dismay to the propagator.

A diseased plant is shown in the illustration made from a photograph of a sample taken from a greenhouse near by.

Lying back of all the different insect and fungous troubles it is claimed that the lily plants are not properly grown and handled, and that the bulbs come to our country in a weak condition that renders them more liable to fall victims to their enemies than healthy plants. Thus the Bermuda growers, according to Mr. Woods, have been in the habit of cutting the flowers with long stems and thus weakening the plants. Again, and perhaps one of the worst practices, has been the forcing of the bulbs for the Christmas trade, which forcing has induced unhealthy plants.

Carelessness is at the bottom of much of the trouble and the first requisite is healthy stock. It goes without saying that so long as the law of "like producing like" holds, it will be hopeless to expect good plants from unsound bulbs. The work should begin with the Bermuda propagators and they should be made to feel that their only hope of retaining their place as lily bulb growers rests upon the basis of sound and vigorous bulbs. They need to practice a rotation of crops, and not attempt to produce bulbs upon old land already infested with the diseases of the lily, and not send bulbs into market until they are mature.

It remains for the florist to note the condition of his bulbs as they come to him. If diseased they should be disearded and destroyed. Mr. Woods recommends the soaking of the bulbs in sulphur solution, and is also confident that much good may be done by fumigating with hydrocyanie acid gas. A liberal use of tobacco stems around the pots is likewise a wise precaution.

Byros D. Halsted.

Carnations at Chicago.

[Paper read by W. P. Craig before the Philadel-phia Florists' Club ]

Thave been requested to make a report on what I saw of interest at the recent meeting of the American Carnation Society. This I will endeavor to do, and will also, hoping to make what I say more interesting, venture to give some suggestions and reflections along the different lines, and draw some comparisons between those varieties which may be grown with profit and the kinds which must, from their lack of good qualities, fall by the way. Let us then for sake of convenience, take up first the most important color, white, and follow on with the pinks, reds, yellows and the fancies.

Among the whites the leading claim ants for our attention are Lizzie MeGowan, Flora Hill, Alba Superba, Evelina, White Cloud, Harrison's White, John Young and Genesee; there may be other valuable whites with which I am unacquainted.

Of Lizzie McGowan it may be said that it has been the most profitable white car-nation for general culture of recent years; but some of the newer varieties are so decidedly superior in form, or size, or stiffness of stem or in a combination of all these qualities, that I do not hesitate to say that although McGowan when in good health is a marvelous bloomer, and that I am almost certain none of the new ones will equal it in number of flowers produced, on account of its defect of form and stem, it is so placed at great disadvantage, and many growers will drop it in favor of the newer varieties.

Evelina appears to be the best, all things considered. It is a pure white, of good size, fine form, perfect calyx, an excellent grower, free bloomer on long stiff stems; its only defect is, as I found it, a lack of fragrance.

Of Flora Hill much good has been justly said, and I cannot at this time, refrain from adding a few additional words of praise. It is a remarkably strong grower and an abundant and continuous bloomer, It is true that earlier in the season its stem lacked stiffness, but to-day, as it grows with us the stems have improved wonderfully, and are I consider quite stiff enough for any ordinary purpose; in form it is lacking a triffe, but is still in this respect much in advance of many varieties that are extensively grown. As this variety has already been widely distributed, and its value so well known, I venture to say that more of it will be brought into market next winter than of any other white.

The other notable and much talked of introduction of last year in this color, Harrison's White, has been, and still remains a grevious disappointment. It was introduced as a sport of Wm. Scott, and for that reason was largely planted; it shows, however, none of the characteristics of that popular variety; it has flowered searcely any during this winter, and has every appearance of being of the type known as "spring blooming," which are of no value commercially for cut flowers. The carnation, to be profitable, should commence blooming in November and flower abundantly all winter and spring.

Alba Superba is a variety of decided merit, chiefly on account of its grand stiff stem which admits of its being used to advantage in bold decorative effects; it is also a healthy grower and continuous bloomer. The flowers cannot be said to be equal in size to some other varieties. I saw one plant being tested at Mr. Hill's on which was one developed flower, that was fully one-third larger in size than any other flower Lever saw of this variety.

White Cloud is a seedling from Daybreak, and in growth and free blooming habits greatly resembles that well known kind; it also is a valuable sort.

John Young is a flower of good form, quite fragrant, with good stem, but Genesce is a pure whiteon strong stems, somewhat resembling Alba Superba in form of flower. I had not an opportunity to see this variety growing in the greenhouse, but judging the habit of it from the plant on exhibition Lamled to believe it very free; it is, however, as is Alba-Superba, undersized.

In pink, the next color of importance to the whites, we have for our consideration Wm. Scott, Daybreak, Albertini, Victor, Mrs. McBurney, Painted Lady, Mrs. Thos. Lawson, Mrs. James Dean, Triumph, Mrs. Frances Joost, Argyle and Cerise Queen; there are some pink varieties well known that need not be mentioned here; also some others of this color being introduced this year that were not at the Chicago exhibition, and which I have had no opportunity of seeing; this also applies to varieties I have not seen in the other colors.

Wm. Scott is the most widely known of all the pink carnations; it has been the most popular, because the most profitable during the past three years, but to-day with such varieties in the field as Victor, Triumph and possibly other kinds which, while perhaps not quite so free, have length of stem and size of flower in their favor, it is certain that the number grown next season will be greatly reduced.

In regard to Victor, Scott's foremost rival at this time, I want to say that it has much the same habit as Daybreak, of which it is a sport; but is much darker in color and stronger in growth; it is remarkably free in bloom, of large size, fine stiff stem, and it must be recognized as one of the most valuable carnations in cultivation to-day. I am inclined to accord it first place among the pinks.

Triumph is another good one of fine form, with excellent stem and color, and very free blooming qualities. It has been uncommerce for several years and it is remarkable that it has not been more generally grown.

I may mention here that Mrs. Thos. Lawson is a grand new pink variety whose introduction will be awaited with much interest by all who have had an opportunity to see it.

Mrs. James Dean is much the same in color as Mr. Heacock's pink, Elizabeth, with which many of you are familiar, but seems to be inferior to the latter in strength of stem and in form. Elizabeth will be given another year's test.

Argyle is a variety of considerable merit, and is surely worthy of a trial on account of its pleasing color, vigorous growth and good stem; it is, however, somewhat deficient in form.

Painted Lady is of excellent form and a very pleasing color. As I saw it growing at Mr. Hill's it was very free in bloom, but the long stems were weak; this is probably due to some error in culture, as I saw it with much stiffer stems at his place a year ago.

Cerise Queen is much the same in color and form as Tidal Wave; its stem lacked stiffness.

Mrs. McBurney is a fit companion for Daybreak in color; it is, however, of a different form. The flower, although larger is not so full, and as I saw it growing at Mr. Rudd's in Chicago, was certainly very fine; the flowers were uniformily large on long stems, and it is a very free bloomer. By the way, Daybreak is still among the very best in some places; in others, complaint is made that it does not do so well as formerly.

Mrs. Frances Joost is another of the very promising pink carnations of this year's introduction; it is a well formed flower of a very pleasing shade on a good stem, and is said to be possessed of very free blooming qualities.

Oneida as being sent out this year is a good shade of pink, but in my judgment lacks size, stem and form.

Queen of the West and Kathleen Pantlind I do not consider improvements over existing well-known sorts; there are also a number in this color that I have had no opportunity to see and of which I can say nothing.

In the next color, red, we have Jubilee, Portia, Bon Ton, Red Jacket, Firefly, Wellesley, America, G. H. Crane, Scarlet Queen, Dazzle and Fort Wayne.

Jubilee is a superb flower, as is now well known; the color is rich and the form fine; its stem among the very best. This variety is quite subject to rust. I have found, however, that the rust may be readily kept in check by the frequent and liberal application of air slaked lime. I use for this purpose a patent gun, which is a very useful machine.

Portia certainly produces quantity, but is not up to the size required in these latter days, when the demand for good large flowers must be met. Among the other reds I have named there are perhaps better ones than these. G. H. Crane, America and Scarlet Queen are all promising; I consider the first named most likely the best. It is a very large full flower, much fuller than Jubilee, and is possessed of good color and stem. Bon Ton is also a very handsome thing; its color is grand, and its odor sweet, but as I saw it grown was led to believe it not free enough. America and Scarlet Queen are also good things, but of these I can say very little at present.

Fort Wayne is of good form and a large flower, perhaps a trifle light in color.

Wellesley was, as I saw it, too badly used up for me to form any opinion of it except that it was weak in color and size. Red Jacket, weak in stem and size, is of good color.

Firefly is claimed to be, by the introducers, entirely rust proof and free to bloom; its flower is in my judgment too small, and what we really want in reds is one with the productive character of Portia, only with larger flowers, in form like G. II. Crane, Bon Ton or America. My limited knowledge will not enable me to "pick the winners" in these last named.

The next in order are the yellow variegated, and under this head we must consider Buttereup, Eldorado, Mayor Pingree and Mr. Dorner's superb new variety, Gold Nugget.

Buttercup is well known and is still in some sections grown in considerable quantity.

Mayor Pingree, one of last year's introductions which I have seen growing in several places, and grown in quantity myself, is a flower of first size and has the finest stem of any carnation I know of. It cannot be expected that a variety of this type will produce as many blooms as such varieties as Flora IIill, Victor or Gold Nugget, but its extra quality will command a sufficiently larger price to make it a profitable one to grow.

Eldorado is very productive when in good health, but is very subject to rust and inferior in size to Gold Nuggett, which is, on the whole, I think the best thing in sight in yellow; of this latter variety it may be said that it is of fine form, and in color several shades darker than Mayor Pingree; it is about the same color as Buttercup, but is not so heavily penciled as that variety. I did not get to see Gold Nugget growing, but some of the most careful and conservative experts who have had the opportunity pronounce its growing and blooming qualities all that can be desired.

And now for the white variegated ones. In this class we have among others Helen Keller, Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt, Lily Dean and Armazindy. Helen Keller was once a promising variety but unfortunately developed a habit of producing imperfect flowers, which was the cause of its being largely dropped from cultivation, but il it could be grown generally as I saw it exhibited by the South Park Floral Co. of Newcastle, Ind., at the Chicago meeting, it would still claim a place in the front ranks.

Mrs. Geo. M. Bradt, one of the best of last year's introductions is doing well everywhere and may be now put down as a standard sort; it is a beautiful thing, its only defect is a weakness of stem; it is possible to strengthen the stem by growing it at a temperature never exceeding 50°. This temperature is also suitable for Lily Dean, another of last year's introductions and a most beautiful variety; it is a very free bloomer, with long stems and I consider it the best white penciled variety on account of its general make up and freedom of bloom.

Armazindy is one that has been grown somewhat, but is still comparatively unknown or not generally grown; it is a finely penciled kind and has among its good qualities freedom of bloom, good stem and fine form.

Of Psyche all I can say is that it is about as heavily penciled as Helen Keller, is of better form and size and appears very free; I have also seen this variety much better than I saw it this year.

Empress is a variety with which I have been very favorably impressed; its color I would call a rich crimson, extraordinarily fine stem and Irom all indications should think it will, in its class, prove of much value; it must be kept in mind, however, that this is one of those varieties whose immense stems take a long time to develop, and they must bring a good price in order to pay the grower.

Maud Dean is a charming thing, deliciously fragrant, but may be dismissed from consideration as a commercial variety on account of its lateness and shyness in bloom; for the amateur who is willing to dispense with quantity for the sake of quality it is not without interest.

It has come to pass in these latter days that any grower investing his money in a new variety is unwise to do so unless that variety is superior to all existing varieties in its class. If, for instance, there are three pinks offered of the same shade of color and general quality it will be necessary to make a close study of each to determine which of the three has the most points of excellence; in the close competition which now exists the weak kinds must be dropped and the better ones given their places. The rose grow-ers have carried out this "boiling down" process until there are practically only three varieties now largely grown, viz., Bride, Meteor and Bridesmaid, with the peerless American Beauty in a class by itself; Mme. Cusin, Wootton, Gontier, Hoste, Watteville, and many others once largely grown are now seldom seen; even Perle des Jardins, once the most popular rose of all, is now grown in a limited way.

In conclusion I will say that the exhibition in Chicago this year was an intensely interesting and encouraging one; the general opinion was that it even exceeded the very attractive one of a year ago in Cincinnati. The society is certainly doing a very good work, and as it has selected this city for its meeting place next year I bespeak for it your hearty co-operation, and hope that next year will show a large increase in its membership.

Ashtabula, Ohio.—The M. E. Fassett greenhouse property has been re-appraised and the assignee, W. G. McCartney, has been ordered to sell it at private sale

Up-to-Date Wholesaling.

When a retail florist in Philadelphia runs out of any of this or that kind of stock he tells his buyer to run over to "Sam's" and get it, or if a large quantity of any special flower is wanted "Sam" is seen, and the dealer feels sure of the necessary stock to fill the order.
"Sam" is short for S. S. Pennock of 1612 Ludlow street, where he conducts a wholesale cut flower commission business. Mr. Pennock's business is exclusively cut flowers, he leaving thorists' supplies severely alone. His aim is to keep high grade stock, and the large and everincreasing list of both customers and consignors bear testimony to his success. Succeeding in 1887 to the business established by his brother at 3800 Sixteenth street, he was obliged soon to move to larger quarters, which in turn became too small. In 1895 he moved to his present location, erecting a building to suit his purpose. This in turn was enlarged by an addition the past season, which gave him greatly increased facilities. His location is an ideal one, being between the two principal streets and but two blocks from the center of the city. Adams Express freight office is but half a block away. Orders by long distance 'phone have been received, packed and delivered on train in twenty minutes.

With the recent additions to his establishment his main floor space now comprises over 2200 square feet, with a cellar of same capacity beneath; the ice storage rooms or refrigerators contain 2000 cubic feet of space, and are of modern design. Over one hundred growers, representing about 700,000 feet of glass consign their stock to him, many of them being daily shippers.

His out of town trade is rapidly increasing and extends in area from north New England to Florida, regular shipments being made to Jacksonville, which are two nights and a day enroute, and arrive in good condition.

His system of handling stock gives almost perfect satisfaction, the growers of inferior flowers being the only ones to grumble. Everything received is graded, and in this way the stock is sold entirely on its merits, and each grower receives his proportion on the quantity sold. long as there is any business doing the best flowers go first, and growers whose stock gets into the upper classes fare well, while poorer grades have sometimes to be almost given away. His grading of stock entails considerable expense, but the satisfaction to all parties concerned is worth the trouble. Mr. Pennock believes that this system has done much to improve the quality of flowers and makes growers more careful of their stock than formerly. It used to be put in a box anyhow, just so it got to town. Any old hox was thought good enough, shoe box, soap box spice box, etc., but now things are different, and much more intelligent methods are used, although there is even now plenty of room for improvement.

Carnations are still not handled as they ought to be, most growers leaving them on the plants too long, seess to get into first grades on account of their size. They should always be picked a little under size rather than full open, and would bring better returns to the grower Thousands of carnations are handled here every day, and as many as 90,000 have been sold for a holiday. Personally, Mr. Pennock schools a young man, being still on the sunny side of thirty, is wellliked by all those who come in contact with him, and when he and his twelvehustling clerks get together a wonderful amount of business can be turned out in a day. a day.

STORE OF S. S. PENNOCK, PHILADELPHIA.

Boston.

The market is very quiet, and prices are going very low for the season, being flooded with violets and all bulbous flowers, especially lilies and callas are overstocked and unsalable at $4. Smilax is very scarce, and the market is practically cleaned out of hardy ferns.

Last Saturday the horticultural society met, and the president was authorized to receive proposals and plans for a more desirable building and accommodations on the present site.

Manager Kennedy, of the Cut Flower Market, has resigned and there are innumerable applicants for the position.

George Mullen has closed his store on Park street.

George Sutherland is receiving a quantity of fine acacia.

A party of gentlemen from Boston visited the extensive establishment of J. Reuter at Westerly, R. I., on Thursday, March 10.

Visiting Boston: H. J. Goemaus, representing K. J. Kuyk, Holland and Beleium.

Birthday of W. K. Harris.

Wm. K. Harris passed the sixtieth milestone of his life last Thursday, March 10, and the event was most fittingly celebrated by the employes of his establishment presenting him as a mark of their esteem-with a handsome oak roll-top office desk and chair. The presentation was a great surprise to Mr. Harris. Mr. George Sampson made an appropriate address, which was responded to by Mr. Harris in his characteristic way, and in such a feeling manner that all could not but see that he greatly appreciated the honor paid him. That his seventieth year will find him still at the head of his important business and the greatest commercial floral poet laureate in the country is the wish of his many friends. Philadelphia.

A Great European Rose Show.

A rose exhibition of an unusually extensive character will be held during the coming summer at Frankfort-on-Main. Germany. Opening early in June it will continue to September, and if the weather proves tayorable the time may be extended to October.

CLIFTON, N. J.--Mr. Robert Simpson has bought the W. H. Young greenhouses at this place and will grow American Beauties principally, with a moderate mumber of other varieties. He will plant American Beauties on their own roots, but will grow all other varieties grafted on Manetti stock. [Mr. Simpson is wellknown to our readers by his many excellent articles on rose culture which have appeared in these columns | En. ]

FRANKLORT, Ky .-- E. Power, of this city, claims to have cut some violets March 4 with stems 10 inches long.

THE AMERICAN FLORIST

Subscription $1.00 a Year. To Europe, $2.00. Subscriptions accepted only from those in the trade.

Advertisements, 10 Cents a Line, Ag $1.00 per inch. Cash with Order. No Special Position Guaranteed.

Discounts, 6 times, 5 per cent; 13 times, 10 per cent; 26 times, 20 per cent; 52 times, 30 per cent.

The Advertising Department of the AMERICAN FLORIST is for Florists, Seedsmen, and dealers in wares pertaining to those lines ONLY.

Orders for less than one-half inch space not accepted. Advertisements must reach us by Wednesday to secure insertion in the issue for the following Saturday. Address THE AMERICAN FLORIST CO., Chicago.

Special Easter Number.

The issue of the American Florist for April 2 will be the annual Easter or spring number, and will be sent to all the new names obtained for the 1898 Directory. Advertisers will see the value of this at once, as it will give them an opportunity of placing their stock before a large number of new florist buyers whose names are on no other lists. Copy for advertise-ments should be sent in at once. We can give much better setting and display when ample time is given than when copy reaches the office late.

MR. D. B. Long, of Buffalo, is certainly an artist in the advertising line. His circular of the Genesee carnation unique in style, and the most completely illustrated thing of the kind which has been seen recently. The floral monogram on his catalogue of rooted cuttings just received is very neat in design and execution.

New York.

FLOWER RECEIPTS HEAVY AND PRICES
TENDING RAPIDLY DOWNWARD. — SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF THE MARKET FORISTS' ASSOCIATION. - EASTER PLANTS ALREADY ABUNDANT. WHITE FLOWERS LEADING .- FRITZ DRESSEL'S GOOD FOR-TUNE.-LECTURE BY PROF. J. B. SMITH FOR MARCH 15.—AMERICAN INSTITUTE MEETING.

The receipts of flowers are very heavy this week, owing to the favorable weather, and the unavoidable demolishing of prices is in progress. The great bulk of the flowers in some lines goes now to the Greeks, who have fairly swarmed about the wholesale districts since spring weather set in, and these chaps are adepts in the science of price breaking. Every day now sees a further drop, and this is likely to be the story without material variation until Easter. The usual protests from the growers are coming in from all sides, but there is no possible remedy. The better class of retailers pay fair rates for a little selected stock, but this advantage is swallowed up in the "lump" prices at which the greater part of the flowers must be disposed of.

On Tuesday evening, March 1, the usual monthly meeting of the New York Market Florists' Association was held. John Birnie presided with his usual ability and much enthusiasm was developed, a goodly number of new members being admitted and fifteen or sixteen additional stands engaged. An interesting report was made by Messrs. O'Mara and Steinhoff on the hearing before the New Jersey legislature in reference to the exemption of florists' stock from the terms of the bill relative to insect pests. A special meeting for the allottment of stands will be held on March 15, and it is expected that the market will be open for business about March 26.

The retailers' windows are bright with azaleas, lilies, genistas and boxes of hyacinths, and a very decided Easter appearance is noted. The effect of this on Easter business is a question. The element of novelty being eliminated from the Easter offerings, is it not possible that Easter trade may suffer? The millinery people take a different course; their goods are kept well out of sight until the desired moment, and the sensational effect which the fashionable public crave is thus assured. Another disquieting symptom just now is very low prices at which plants, hyacinths in boxes especially, are offered, in some cases actually less than the original cost of the bulbs.

A disposition to favor light colored flowers in preference to the red and pink which have held the lead all through the season is manifest. Meteors and American Beauties move slowly and Bride out-classes Bridesmaid. J. K. Allen is receiving white violets in excellent quality and finds a gratifying increase in the call for them.

Fritz Dressel announces with becoming pride the arrival of a little Fritz at his home on the 8th inst. His friends have kept the telephone hot ever since with their congratulations.

Prof. John B. Smith will address the New York Florists' Club on Monday evening, March 14, on "Greenhouse Pests." Prof. Smith is a most entertaining talker, and should have a crowded

The American Institute held a successful meeting and exhibition on Wednesday, 9th inst., in which carnations were the leading feature.

The Park Board have made John De Wolf landscape architect at a salary of $4000. He was selected from thirteen candidates, and will not be compelled to undergo a civil service examination.

The Florists' Board of Trade has been incorporated with a capital stock of $5000.

C. Christianson will move from Broadway to Tenth street about May 1.

Fitzgerald & Hammond have taken the store at 113 West Thirtieth street vacated by M. A. Hart.

M. A. Hart talks of having an "Easter ppening" as soon as the decorations of his new store are completed.

J. K. Allen has made some desirable improvements in his store, including repainting and change in location of office. Geo. Field has been dazzling the eyes of local orchid fanciers with a handsome white Dendrobium Wardianum.

J. M. Logan, vice-president of the New York Florists' Club, returned from England on the Umbria, March 6.

Philadelphia.

BUSINESS QUIET. - PRICES A LITTLE LOWER.—BULIOUS STOCK ABUNDANT.-ATTEMPTED BURGLARY AT D. D. L. FAR-SON'S.

The past week has been the quietest since Lent set in; there seem to be no orders to use large quantities of any one kind of flower, and as a consequence stock of all kinds is plentiful and a shade

Prices have held up bravely, but there comes a time when after hawking their stock about from store to store half the day without sales, the grower tumbles, and then so do the prices. The dealers will keep some for show, if the figures are tempting, as it is generally understood that a good display of stock increases business. Be this true or not the chief mission of the retail stores is to relieve the growers and commission men of their various consignments, and stocks of plants and flowers, and to do so in as equitable a manner as is consistent with their dignity and the appreciation with which they are held by the flower buying public.

Prices are about as follows: Beauties $6, $5, $4, $3, $2, and $1 per dozen, the six dollar kindhaving stems four feet long and the one dollar grade about twelve inches. Brunners are now more plentiful and better than at any time this season, and sell from 1.50 to 4 perdozen. Teas are plentiful at from $4 to $8 per hundred. Carnations commence at $1, move quickest at $1.50, quality considered; the $2 kind have quite a following and the aristocrats must be quoted at $3 to $4. Of these latter Wm. J. Baker, a huge red striped white ground variety is a conspicuous example. We doubt if any one ever took Wm. J. to be an aristocrat. He doesn't seem to be built that way, but his namesake finds a resting place in the houses of the rich exclusively, as none of them leave his fostering care unless the $4 is forthcoming, and it is worth recording that he never has any left over, having customers for each consignment.

Bulbous stock, particularly daffodils, is abundant; $3 to $4 is the prevailing price. Lily of the valley same; for tulips $3 is high; a little freesia is still about at $1.50 to $4. Violets are commencing to feel the effects of the warmer weather, and while the bunches are larger the prices are lower; 75 cents is now high for the best doubles, and single varieties are from 20 to 35 cents per hundred. It is bothering the growers hereabouts to name a price for their lilies for Easter delivery; $10 per hundred flowers and buds has been the prevailing price for good stock the past few years, and not a few were satisfied with 50 cents per pot of five flowers or more to one plant. But things are differ-ent this season; most growers have thrown out half their stock and say the balance must be made to pay for those that failed. One grower says that he does not believe that he can be made to pay full prices for his bulbs, as while they were not guaranteed to be free from disease, they were found to be so badly infected that he will scarcely get enough out of the stock left to pay the original bill, and he proposes to make the dealer bear some of the loss. Another grower has turned up who declares that his stock bought from several dealers is as good this season as any he ever had, there being very little disease apparent. He thinks culture has much to do with the health of the plant.

Dutch hyacinths are quite plentiful and sell at $10 per hundred in 4-inch pots. When asked if $8 was not enough, a grower said "No, we have to get $10 straight this year on account of the tariff." We wonder who paid the tariff on all the other dutiable articles this season, as there has been no perceptible increase in the prices of azaleas and bulbous stock. It would be too bad if the growers and dealers who seemed to want it had to pay it themselves.

Although he is not boasting about it. the good business done by D. D. L. Farson at his Fifteenth street store the past season has gotten out, and this, combined with the general air of prosperity about the place, tempted some of the "gentlemen of the jimmy" to pay him a visit a short time ago. He suffered no loss, however, beyond a few marks of their jimmy on the jamb of his front door, they being frightened away before effecting an

Chicago.

BUSINESS DULL. - WHOLESALE DEMORALIZED .- POT PLANTS SCARCE .-

The warm bright weather experienced during the past week has caused a marked change in the cut flower business. The retail store trade which until the weather became fine was fairly good, is now quite the reverse; very few flowers are at present being sold except for funerals, and those to be sent as presents where they are required to be put in a more attractive form than when they are sold by the Greek fakirs, extraordinary large hordes of whom are now on the streets. To these fakirs the store men attribute the cause of the depression in their business

In the wholesale market, except for first quality American Beauties and the better quality of earnations, there is no staple price for stock, only when one whole-saler wishes to buy from another, then the price is fixed sure enough.

Inquiries are beginning to be made for pot plants for Easter; some large orders have already been placed. The prospect is that there will not be enough first-class plants to supply the demand.

The Florists' Club met Thursday even-Two new members were elected. P. J. Hauswirth, chairman of the committee on the entertainment of the carnation society, at their meeting here last month, made his final report. Mr. Hauswirth reported that all the accounts had been settled up, and 25% of the funds placed at the disposal of the committee had already been returned to the subscribers leaving a balance still in the hands of the committee of $5.40, which was turned over to the club.

Mr. Hill, of Maywood, read a entertaining paper on "Growing Roses After the reading of the paper a very lively discussion followed on rose and violet growing. Mr. Hill exhibited a vase of remarkably fine Brides and Bridesaids. Mr. J. Swenson exhibited a bunch of phenomenally fine violets. Mr. Geo. Baldwin exhibited a fine collection of

At the next meeting of the club Mr. E. Buettner is to read a paper on the Harrisii lily disease. Mr. Buettner has studied this subject for several years, and is capable of handling the matter in a way that will be both entertaining and instructive.

John B. Sherman has been elected president of the South Park Board of Commissioners, A.F. Foster was reappointed superintendent, Frederick Kanst gar-dener and Edw. Kanst, asst. gardener.

Vaughan, McKellar & Winterson have a fine lot of emerarias

The Blimois Cut Flower Co-have a nice lot of small palms

W. Lynch has added ice boxes to his supply department.

I'mt Kennicott, who was at home sick for a week is again janek at his desk.

Manney Pasci has gone to West Baden tor a vacation of a week or two.

More Osen thirds of trying the Keeley care to take the blush out of his checks.

Mr. John Thorpe lett Tuesday for Hudson, O., to loos after some changes to be made at tile hals corth homestead. W. W. Barnard & Co. have opened a branch, tore for market gardeners at 191 West Fandolph street, (Haymarket Square)

W. L. Morris, of Des Moines, Iowa was the cit. Wedne day

SITUATIONS, WANTS, FOR SALE.

Advertisements under this head will be inserted at the rate of 10 cents a line (seven words) each insertion. Cash must accompany order. Plant adva. not admitted under this head.

Every paid subscriber to the AMERICAN FLORIST for the year INS is entitled to a five-bine want adv. free to be used at any time during the year.

SITUATION WANTED-By a first-class all-round florist; specialty, cut flowers.

F 10, eare American Florist.

OJTUATION WANTED-By the 1st or middle of April by an experienced gardener and florist, to take charge of private place. Address Box 342, Highland Park, Ill.

SiTUATION WANTED—By a gardener, slogle.

German: Is years' experience: thoroughly able to take charge of private place. Best references.

F S, care American Floriat.

OITUATION WANTED—By young man, German, to commercial place: it years experience, abber and reliable: with chance of buying. E B, 26 State St., New York.

SITUATION WANTED—A No. 1 grower of roses, carnations, mums, etc.; sober and steady, competent to take charge; prefer the west. Address N N, care American Florist.

OITUATION WANTED—By young married man, one who understands the growing of roses and general stock. First-class references.

F F C, care Trenton Floral Co , Trenton, N. J.

O'ITUATION WANTED By a first class all-round forlst. 16 years experience; German, single; good grower of roses, carnations, mums and general stock. Good references. S, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By middle-seed gardener and florist with large experience in this country and Europe, especially in greenhouse culture of all kinds; private place preferred. Address E M, care Americao Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By gardener and florist in commercial or private place; 15 years' experience, German, slugle man, age 30. Address E. Hofen, care Wm. Frith & Co.. 114 N. Market St., Nashville, Tenn.

SITUATION WANTED—By practical all-round florist, German, age 36, slogic; 20 years' experience in propagating and growing roses, caractions, mums, violets and pot plants. Best of references.

FLORIST, 713 West 8th St., Cincinnati, O.

CITUATION WANTED-By young man of good character on commercial or private place: 7 years' experience under first-class growers; age 24, German. Good references. Please state particulars. Address R. R. 33 Hague St., Jersey City fieldsts, N. Y.

OlTUATION WANTED—By an experienced grower of florists' stock, roses and carnations a specialty, as foreman; will invest $500 in place if a live one and near a good market. For particulars address BUSINESS PARTNER, care American Florist.

SITUATION WANTED—By German, age 27, speaks Singlish; 13 years' experience in paims, propaga-tion and all kinds of pot plants; commercial place pre-ferred; state terms. Address A L. 185 Clarkson St. Flatbosh, Brooklyn, N. Y.

SITUATION WANTED—By a florist and landacape gardener. German, married, 40 years old; grows orchids, roses, carnations, mums; capable to take charge of commercial or private place. References, Address FRANK A. GOECKE, Kalamazoo, Mich.

OTTUATION WANTED By a well-experienced fore-man, a hustler, good manager, first-class rose and ent flower grower. Bestof references. Only first-class parties need apply: open for engagement to suit em-ployer. Address FOREMAN, care Am. Florist.

STTTATION WANTED By young single man gen-bern commercial place, 15 years experience, all branches, England and America; specialities roses and carmations; sober and reliable. References. State particulars and wages. HARRY DONNELLY, 395 Pawtucket Ave., Pawtucket, R. I.

WANTED The address of Carl Jorgensen, Dane, Amager. Address
L.JENSEN, South Buffe, Mont.

POR ILENT Klondlke here! 8000 feet glass, stocked with roses and earmations $25 per month; immediate possession. 1011 N. 5th St., Reading, Pa.

WANTED One or two tirst-class young workmen; good, all round greenhouse men. Address CROWN THEE GREENHOUSE. 3003 Senate Ave., indiamapolls, Ind.

WANTED Samples and best prices on 4000 to 2000 American Boardy roses for planting out in fleid. Quote prices delivered in Duilus TEAAS SEED A FLORAL CO., Dallas, Tex.

WANTED Young man wanted as assistant foreman to grow mostly roses carnations, bedding staff, energetic, sober, no tolucco. Must be a finite state wages. S.J. Long, Petoskey, Mich.

WANTED A young man necessioned to growing reder), ontous and asparagus, and who is willing and capable of making binself useful around green-lenases. Good place, with chance for promotion. If A LEYSBAY, Birmbajham, Ala.

WANTED To buy from growers when throwing out act of 200 roses, Am Beauty, La France, Kalserin Bridges, Meteor, Albany, Slebrecht, Maids, etc. state price same must be cheap. Weglern and southern growers preferred. Stock, care Am. Florist

WANTED—Competent and practical florist to take charge of loog-established business to western city; married mon preferred. State salary expected, For full particulars address B. S. Mills. 65 McLean Ave., Yookera, N. Y.

WANTED-Reliable, sober man of good babits, to take charge of 25,000 palms and ficus, and grow 50,000 ferus for dishes. $30 per month and board; chance to be foreman if earnest and capable, with interest in the firm.

A. F., care Am. Florist.

WANTED-A competent grower of cucumbers and tomatoes under glass; a single American preferred, who must come well recommended as to character and ability. State wages expected.

EDGAR A. LAMPREY,
Mgr. Nelson Farm, Marshield Hills, Mass.

 $F^{
m OR~SALE=600}$  feet 4-loch cast lron pipe; 38 boxes 10x12 double A glass. 175, care Am. Florist.

FOR SALE OR RENT-Seven greenhouses on West Foster Avenue, Chicago. Apply to Jobo Leluan or next door.

FOR SALE—Cheap for cash, an old-established florist and seed store drawing good business; owner has two places. 174, care American Florist.

FOR SALE OR FOR RENT-Three greenhouses and residence at Rogers Park. For particulars call or address
P. G. Room 6, 127 Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE OR RENT-Flourishing florist business, including stock of plants and all implements, with our without grounds. Terms to sult. For particular address M, care American Florist.

FOR SALE.

One dwelling house, two greenhouses 17xLO, newly built, well located and good home trade, on street car line, near city of 300,000 population. For particulars address H S. care American Florist.

FOR SALE.

Greenhouses in one of the best cities in Wisconsin. A good lovestment and a money maker for a hustler. Owner must retire on account of poor health. For particulars write

A. LEUINER, Wausau. Wis.

SITUATION WANTED.

Place where a good man is wanted and fair wages will be paid, between March and May. No objection to destination. Married, no children; age 35.

Post Office Box 2. Dunellen. N. 1. Post Office Box 2, Dunellen, N. J.

WANTED.

A sober and industrious married man, one capable of growing good roses and other plants on commercial place. Permanent situation for a good man. Wages $12 per week

CHAS. FREMD,

RYE NURSERIES, - - - RYE, N. Y.

Situation Wanted.

A COMPETENT MANACER of thorough ablily and over 20 years' practical experience desires a postition to take entire charge of private estate, park or ilratchiss commercial place; an expetienced cultivator or paims, orchids, librists' stock in general, shrubbory, iruit and vegetables; a good libral decorptor. Thoroughly reliable, married, with small family. Good wages required. Address

FLORIST, care S. J. Nelson, 206 E. 28th St., New York.

WANTED

A large quantity of Boston Fern. State size and lowest cash price per thousand. Address . . .

S J. care American Florist, Eastern Office, 67 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

Here is a Rare piete flower store, including stock, chalorate flytures, a well stocked conservation, in a city

Opportunity antory, etc., in a city of half a million intablighted stand. Speak quick it interested. For

S, care American Florist.

Mention the American Florist when writing to advertisers on this page.

St. Louis.

TRADE SLOWER.-STOCK COMING IN FREELY. -PREPARATIONS FOR EASTER TRADE.-WHOLESALE COMMISSION FIRM ASSIGNS

Trade for the week just closed has been slower than at any time since the opening of Lent; so far Lent has not had such a depressing effect as one usually expects, but if it continues to be as dull as it has been for the past day or two the much talked of Lenten dullness will have arrived in full force. With the glass standing at about 60° at night, stock has commenced to come in more freely, and roses are the first thing to show any indications of an over-stock. We hear, however, that carnations are quoted by out of town commission men at $5 per 1000; the supply must be excessive somewhere; it is but just to say this is on a 5000 order.

Although Easter is more than a month away, growers and dealers are all making preparations for that time. From present indications plants will be the principal thing handled. The trade in these is following the eastern example and is growing larger and larger each season.

Especial run has been made since Lent commenced by Ellison & Tesson on violet plants in bloom, and a pot cover made in violet shades from crepe paper. The idea has taken immensely as the combinations are appropriate to the Lenten season.

The wholesale commission firm doing business under the name of Mound City Cut Flower Co. has made an assignment naming Mr. Barr, of the Barr & Widen Commercial Agency, as assignee.

Mr. J. M. Jordan is still very seriously ill. R. F. T.

REINBERG BROS. WHOLESALE GROWERS OF CUT FLOWERS.

500,000 FEET OF CLASS.

We can fill all orders on short notice with all leading varieties of Roses and Carnations.

We AR Headquarters for fine AMERICAN BEAUTIES Give us a trial and convince yourself.

Salesroom, 51 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

Asparagus

Strings 8 to 10 feet long. 50 CENTS.

W. H. ELLIOTT, Brighton, Mass.

CONSIGNMENTS CINCINNATI, O. SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO SHIPPING ORDERS

Everybody is more pleased if you say "saw your ad in the American Florist" when writing.

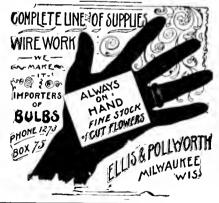

Oswego, N. Y.—Mr. Gco. B. Jarrell died on the morning of February 25, he having received a stroke of apoplexy the previous evening. Mr. Jarrell was born in Watertown fifty-six years ago, and had been in the flower business in Oswego for the past fifteen years.

Wholesale Flower Markets

|                                                                                            | ••                                                      | medinm                                 | .15 00 a 25.00                                                                                                                                                                            |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                              | Brides                                                  |                                        | 5.00@ 7.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                            | Brides                                                  | maids                                  | 5 00@ 7.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                            | Meteor                                                  | ъ                                      | 6.00@ 8.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 44                                                                                           | Perles.                                                 |  *             | 1 000 5 00                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Carnat                                                                                       | lons                                                    | ******                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                                                                            | far                                                     | ncy                                    | 3.00@ 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Valley                                                                                       | .                                                |                                        | 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Romar                                                                                        | 38                                                      | •••••                                  | 2.00@ 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Narcis                                                                                       | sus                                                     |  *                   | 3.00                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Daffod                                                                                       | 118                                                     |                                        | 3 00                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| v ioieta                                                                                     | 3                                                       |                                        | .50@ .75                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Harria                                                                                       | 11                                                      |                                        | 10 00(z)12 50                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 1 allas.                                                                                     |                                                         |                                        | 8 00@ 10 00                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Tullps                                                                                       |                                                         |                                        | 3.00% 4.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Smilax                                                                                       |                                                         |                                        | 10 00(a:12.50                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Adiani                                                                                       | um                                                      |                                        | 1 00                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Aspara                                                                                       | gus                                                     |                                        | 50.00                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                              |                                                         | St. Louis, March 10.                   |                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Roses                                                                                        | Resutt                                                  | es                                     | 5 00@35.00                                                                                                                                                                                |
